

Many Accept For Hayward Dinner Friday

Quota of Eugene Tickets Practically Sold

MESSAGES RECEIVED

Kerr Heads List of Speakers; All Talks Limited to Two Minutes; Hillman Wires

Acceptances coming in from all over the United States assure the success of Bill Hayward's 30-year banquet to be held Friday night at the Eugene hotel. More than 100 out-of-town reservations have been filled and members of the Order of the "O" have practically sold their quota of tickets in the Eugene business district.

Telegrams of acceptance have been received from all over the northwest; other messages expressing regret at being unable to attend have been received from the East, South, Middle West—all over the country. Harry Hillman, coach of the University of New Hampshire, wired Paul Starr, banquet chairman, that he was sorry he couldn't be present for he had some fine stories about Hayward—particularly some about their experiences in Paris. Ernest Hjertberg, former Webfoot star of years ago, wired from Houston, Texas.

Three members of the state board of higher education, Edward C. Pease, Charles A. Brand and Herman Oliver, wired that they would be present. With Chancellor William J. Kerr, they will represent the state system of higher education.

Kerr will head the list of speakers for the banquet. While more than a dozen are expected to speak, all talks have been limited to two minutes, thus eliminating any chances of dragging. Other speakers on the program are Alton Coates, coach at Albany college, who brought Hayward there in 1903; Virgil D. Earl, student manager of the 1903 Oregon team, who secured Hayward for the University; George Hug, now superintendent of schools in Salem and captain of Hayward's first Webfoot track team; Vere Windnagle, track coach at Washington high school in Portland and a former pupil of Hayward's; Hank Foster, one of Hayward's greatest sprinters; and Bob Hunter, president of the Order of the "O."

'The Winter's Tale' Cast Has Successful Dress Rehearsal

By CAROLINE ROGERS
Those who were present last night at the dress rehearsal of the Guild theatre's spring play, "The Winter's Tale," were carried back to the sixteenth century with its courtly atmosphere and quaint distinctive style of dress.

The costumes, recently completed, after many long and tedious hours of work, under the supervision of Mrs. Ottilie Turnbull Seybolt are excellent reproductions of the clothes of that period, and produce a colorful and spectacular effect.

Charles Shoemaker, as Leontes, king of Sicily, and Hagan Moore as Polixenes, king of Bohemia, portray their parts with the necessary dignity and grandeur. In the first act, when they are brought together for the first time, their costumes present a pleasing contrast. Polixenes is wearing a striped robe, of many brilliant colors, affording a great contrast to Leontes, who appears in a long grey tunic with only a slight bit of color around the sleeves and edges of the skirt.

Queen Hermione, as portrayed by Daisy Swanson, was indeed a very excellent choice of Mrs. Sey-

To Be Honored at Banquet Friday

Colonel William L. Hayward, veteran Oregon track coach, who will be honored tomorrow night at a mammoth banquet in honor of his 30th year of service here. It will be held at the Eugene hotel.

'Different Time' Promise of Beaux Arts Directorate

Do you need something new in your night life? Are you getting bored and need a new thrill? Then come to the Beaux Arts Ball, the all-campus dance, sponsored by the Art League, Friday, May 19, is the advice of those in charge.

It promises to be the most elaborate ball ever sponsored by the league. The decorations, carried out in sizzling East Indian motifs, with dark sirens and fantastic gods mingled in a bold and colorful style, are nearing completion. Rumor has it that they are being painted on asbestos.

Fred Peterson and his Rhythm Club will furnish the music, and exclusive oriental musical features will be something new and different in the history of the campus.

Costumes are necessary for admittance, and though anything is in order, the more original the better. Balloons, confetti and gay serpentine will add to the fun and informality. Refreshments have been planned for, also.

Tickets for the ball may be purchased at the Co-op, and also at living organizations. They are 75 cents, and since there is a limited number, purchases should be made

320 Rest in Infirmary
Three hundred and twenty careworn students took advantage of the infirmary to get in a little much needed rest this year, according to the records kept by the nurses. Of this group, six are still under treatment. They are Jane Bishop, Nell Halstead, Bill Davis, Arne Lindgren, Robert Leedy, and George Proctor.

Dr. Edmondson is on his way to the Pan-Pacific Scientific congress, which meets early in June in Vancouver, B. C. He has recently returned from New Zealand and Australia, having stopped at many of the South Sea islands to investigate certain marine organisms growing about the coral reefs.

He now has in the press a book on the marine shore fauna of the Hawaiian islands.

Don Confrey and Louise Marvin, as the prince and princess, Florizel and Perdita, make a charming couple, with their dark coloring and splendid ability.

The large group scenes, which include the ladies of the court, the long trains of richly dressed courtiers and ladies-in-waiting, and the hearty group of shepherds and shepherdesses, present an excellent opportunity for efficient make-up of the actors.

The scenery has been recently completed, after numerous weeks of working under George Andreini's theatre workshop classes, and both scenery and costumes show the effect of many days of hard work and display the talent of the members.

With the constant practices and continual readjustments that are being made, the best performance of the year is indicated. Announcement of the ticket sale will be made later.

By ED STANLEY
Enforcement of freshman lids and traditions are gradually being abolished or dying out in 10 of 11 colleges and universities represented at the Pacific Student Presidents' association meeting held last night in the men's lounge of Gerlinger hall. Oregon State college seemed to be the only institution upholding the enforcement of traditions.

At Washington State college the sophomore class enforcement is gradually dying out, and the gray "W" group is not taking as much pains to aid in the enforcement. California has abolished the tradition, and at Willamette traditions cannot be enforced after the first few weeks. At U. C. L. A. fresh traditions have been abolished, Oregon has abolished hazing, and at San Diego students are working to eliminate it entirely, resulting in traditions being dead in the constitution. At U. S. C. traditions are getting weaker year by year and the campus sentiment has crystallized against enforcement.

Whitman Delegate Speaks
The Whitman delegate stated that the tradition was rapidly dying out, and at the College of Puget Sound the traditions have been eliminated from the constitution and no enforcement will be made next year. At Occidental the enforcement may be abolished next fall. Only the Oregon State delegates stated that their school

Palmer To Speak On Peace Efforts At Club Tonight

Local Minister Will Analyze Arms Proposals of Roosevelt, MacDonald, Hitler

"Present Day Movements Toward Peace" will be discussed by Rev. Clay Palmer, pastor of the Congregational church, at the meeting of the International Relations club tonight at 7:45, Jack Bellinger, president, announced yesterday. The meeting will take place at the International House.

In his talk, Mr. Palmer will analyze the MacDonald Arms Plan, the Roosevelt proposal for disarmament, and Hitler's latest demand for arms equality. There will be an opportunity for questions and discussion following his talk.

Nominations for next year's officers of the club will also be made at this meeting, Bellinger said. The election will take place the following week. Plans for the concluding events of the year will be announced. All students and faculty members are invited to attend this meeting.

Former Member Of Faculty Visits

Dr. Charles H. Edmondson, professor of zoology at the University of Hawaii, and Mrs. Edmondson are visiting at the home of Dr. Warren D. Smith this week and next week. Dr. Edmondson will spend a few days with Dr. E. L. Packard in Corvallis this week-end. He was a member of the University of Oregon faculty for seven years.

Dr. Edmondson is on his way to the Pan-Pacific Scientific congress, which meets early in June in Vancouver, B. C. He has recently returned from New Zealand and Australia, having stopped at many of the South Sea islands to investigate certain marine organisms growing about the coral reefs.

He now has in the press a book on the marine shore fauna of the Hawaiian islands.

Condon Club To Hear Cressman Talk Today

The Condon club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the women's lounge, Gerlinger hall. Dr. L. S. Cressman will speak on "Some Aspects of the Influence of Environment upon Human Types and Culture."

The discussion will deal primarily with primitive society and certain aspects of the life of primates. It will be in the main an effort to call attention to some of the various theories on the subject, with a discussion of their strong points and limitations.

Packard Speaks on Geology
E. L. Packard of Oregon State college, dean of sciences for the whole Oregon system, talked to the general geology class Wednesday on the subject of "Adaptive Radiation of the Reptiles of the Mesozoic Era."

Painter Attacked as Radical

Diego Rivera, world-renowned muralist, who was recently made the butt of severe criticism by churches and capitalists because of the two murals above. The one on the left, part of the work which drew his discharge as decorator for the new Rockefeller center, is a portrait of Lenin surrounded by admiring workers. The other, a mural of a vaccination, done on the walls of a Detroit museum, drew considerable fire as a satire on the holy family.

Seniors To Hold Last Meet Tonight In Villard at 7:30

Albert Cup Winner To Be Named; Commencement Plans Announced

All seniors are urged to attend the last and most important class meeting of the year this evening in room 108, Villard hall, at 7:30 p. m., it was announced yesterday by Cecil Espy, president of the class.

At the meeting one senior, either man or woman, will be elected from a group of three, selected by a faculty committee, as winner of the Albert prize cup, which is awarded annually to the outstanding senior in character, service, wholesome influence and development. Names of candidates, Espy said, will not be made public until the secretary of the class makes known the candidates at the meeting tonight. Wally Baker, senior in economics, was awarded the cup last year.

The Albert award is the gift of Joseph H. Albert, a Salem banker interested in education. The gift was first given in 1920 as a cash prize of $25. It was later changed to cup award. Mr. Albert presents similar awards in other institutions of higher education in the state.

Announcement will be made of the John Straub Memorial building dedication exercises and the commencement program, Espy stated. Every senior should attend the meeting.

Lawyers Shuffle At Annual Dance Held Last Evening

The law student body's annual spring dance, sometimes better known as the Barristers' Brawl, was held last night at Willamette Park from 7:30 until 11 o'clock.

Numerous features were given throughout the evening, but the old-time folk dancing exhibition by Otto Frohmayer, Preston Gunther, Otto Bohnman, and John Yerkovitch failed to materialize on account of the unwillingness on the part of Bill Dashney, caller, to go through with the performance.

The date committee, composed of P. K. Hammond and Bill Whitely, functioned to perfection, with the result that every member of the law student body had dates of the very highest type. Some girls were disappointed, however, because the supply exceeded the demand, and only those who filed early yesterday morning could be accommodated.

Patrons and patronesses for the dance included: Dean and Mrs. Wayne L. Morse, Professor and Mrs. Charles G. Howard, Professor and Mrs. Guy S. Claire, Professor and Mrs. Carlton E. Spencer, and Professor Orlando John Hollis.

Gus Elbow, Jr., was in charge of arrangements for the dance.

Classes Excused For ASUO Meet

All students will be excused from their 10 o'clock classes this morning to attend the Associated Student body assembly in Gerlinger hall, it was announced yesterday by Karl Onthank, dean of the personnel department.

At the meeting all newly-elected student body officers for the year 1933-34 will take the oath and be installed to their respective offices. Short talks will probably be made by Tom Tongue, president-elect and several other students. Bob Hall, retiring president of the Associated Students, will preside over the installation of officers, and will give a short talk.

Dr. Victor P. Morris of the economics department will be one of the principal faculty speakers. For his topic which he will speak on Dr. Morris has selected "The Emergence of a So Called Brain Trust."

Campus Calendar

Old Executive Council Holds Last Meeting

1933-34 Members Will Carry On

BOWERMAN IN CHAIR

Motion on Rewards for Emerald Works Offered to Finance Committee

The 1932-33 executive council held its last official meeting yesterday in the Administration building. The next time the council convenes the personnel will be of the 1933-34 vintage, under the chairmanship of Tom Tongue. Bob Hall, student body president, was in Portland yesterday so he could not preside at the meeting. Bill Bowerman wielded the gavel in Hall's absence.

A motion from the publications committee that all members of the Emerald staff who work three years, or are recommended by the editor or business manager, receive complimentary subscriptions for a period of five years following graduation, was referred to the finance committee on the motion of Mr. Pallett. Those recommended for this award by Dick Neuberger, editor of the Emerald, were:

Ed Stanley, Elinor Henry, Thornton Gale, Jack Bellinger, Robert Patterson, Robert Guild, Maximo Pulido, Oscar Mungar, Julian Prescott, Jessie Steele, and Esther Hayden.

Vall Yell Leader
From the business staff Harry Schenk named Mahr Reymers. All these students will receive their awards if the finance committee approves the publications committee's action. The suggestion that this be done was made a week ago by Dick Neuberger, when the council voted to award graduating athletes five-year sports passes.

The council yesterday also voted to appoint Mickey Vail as yelling for the 1933-34 school year, succeeding Eddie Wells. One of the requirements for this post is that the candidate shall have served on the yell staff for two years, and the council moved to construe this as including freshman service, thereby making Vail

Nominations for Officers of Class Of '34 To Be Held

JUNIOR class members will nominate class officers and barber for the year 1934 at a meeting this evening at 7 o'clock, to be held in Villard hall, it was announced yesterday by Neal Bush, president of the class.

Students making nominations will be limited to three minute speeches, and candidates for president will be allowed five minute talks. All juniors are urged to attend this meeting.

Lowly Lawyers, Business Ad Boys Trade Documents

By BILL BELTON
At a late hour last night the following document was delivered to the business administration school from the law school to further add to the bitter rivalry and intense excitement between the two schools.

MOTION TO STRIKE ANSWER
Law School Student Body, Plaintiff; vs. Business Administration Student Body, defendant.

Comes now the plaintiff in the above entitled action and moves that the answer of the defendant herein be stricken from the file on the ground that it is sham, frivolous, and irrelevant in that it fails to accept the plaintiff's challenge for a game of indoor baseball to be played on the 20th day of May, 1933, and fails to assign any sufficient reason or any reason whatever why the said game should not be played on the said 20th day of May, 1933.

Law School Student Body, Plaintiff.

This motion is explained by members of the law school student body on the grounds that the business administration students have tried to change the date of the game from 1:15 p. m. May 20 to
