Phelan's 1933 Football Machine Said To Be 'World-Beater'

Huskies Have Strong Line And Backfield

Seattle Fans Optimistic As Spring Workouts End

Matt Muczynski and Byrl Bufkin To Provide Nucleus for Promising Squad

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, May 17.—(Special). "Here come the Huskies!"

That's what they're saying in Seattle. The team that held U. S. C. 9 to 6, and deluged U. C. L. A., 19 to 0, in last season's final games is ready to go. So is Coach Irish Jimmy Phelan.

So is a horde of lettermen, including two great backfield men in Mathew Muczynski, 189, and Byrl Bufkin, 183, back from last autumn.

Washington is at last expected to fight back to its former football glory. Although several stars have been lost by graduation and last year's freshmen were rather impotent, there are enough experienced and rugged men on hand to make Irish Jimmys prospects unusually good. In fact, this town is talking football already.

13 Lettermen Lost

A powerful line and great offensive backfield reported for spring practice, but faced with the loss of 13 lettermen by graduation, and with a weak frosh team reporting from last fall, Phelan spent six weeks of spring practice trying to uncover new material, but without a great deal of success.

Bill Smith, all-Coast end last fall, and Woody Ullin, junior tackle, are cinches for the first string left-end and left-tackle positions. Smith was the outstanding lineman of the spring practice and will make a great bid for all-American honors. Besides serving at end, he will do the place-kicking for the Huskies.

Line Center Strong

Five lettermen guards will help to make the center of the line of the strongest on the coast. Frank Windust is the outstanding man with Chuck Mucha, Elmer Lorentson, and Negley England playing strong second fiddles. Adney Smith, letterman, and Paul Radke form good reserve strength.

Hurley DeRoin, a letterman half-back last fall, seems to be the logical man at center, although Glenn Boyle, also a letterman, will be a strong second-string replacement. Joe Wistrak and Ted Isaacson are the two lettermen scrapping it out for the right-tackle position. Abe Shper, a freshman, will come in for attention at this post.

Matt Muczynski Back

To replace Dave Nisbet, all-American end last fall, Phelan has Trig Hansen and Dan Lazarevich as his outstanding candidates. Ted Markov and Buck Flaherty, freshman ends, will be groomed for reserve posts, and with a little seasoning should see plenty of service.

The great Husky backfield, Jay Hornbeak at quarter, Matt Muczynski and Byrl Bufkin at halves, and Paul Sukosky at full, will be back for its second year of competition. The bright spot of the spring practice was Muczynski's improved kicking and passing, and unless handicapped by injuries this fall, he will be one of the outstanding triple-threat men of the coast. Bufkin's running and Sukosky's plunging won them Coast mention last fall and they should repeat this year.

Smalling All Set

Art Ahonen, Muczynski's understudy, will also put in a bid for high honors. He is a good kicker and exceptional passer, and one of the best runners on the squad. He will team up with Ole Hanson, the spark-plug halfback of the spring session, Ralph Smalling, full, and either Kermit Wasmuth or Si Boulton, quarter.

Hopes that a strong freshman team may be built up this fall to provide replacements for the 13 lettermen who will graduate in Washington's brightest outlook for the 1934 season.

Bill in His Younger Days

The guest of honor at the Order of the "O" banquet Friday night Colonel Bill Hayward will send his crew of cinder artists against their traditional foe—the Beavers—that afternoon, on the anniversary of his 30th year as track mentor at Oregon. This picture shows Bill in his younger days.

Adams To Speak To Education Club At Gerlinger Hall

Tonight at 8 o'clock in Gerlinger hall Omega Delta Pi, education club, will present Mr. O. D. Adams, state director of vocational education, who will address the club on various phases of his work. Mr. Adams was at one time assistant superintendent of schools in Seattle, where he had charge of probationary schools of the city. He has brought nation-wide fame to the state of Oregon for his work in organizing classes for firemen in the various cities of the state. Mr. Adams was one of President Hoover's appointees on the national Wilbur committee in 1929 and is at present president of the State Directors of Vocational Education. Twice he has been called to an official position at Washington, but has chosen instead to remain in Oregon.

OLD EXECUTIVE BODY HOLDS LAST MEETING

All interested students and faculty members are invited to the talk, which is followed by refreshments and dancing.

Budgets to Board?

The members of the council also discussed at length the proposal by the Emerald this morning that copies of the budgets of the A. S. U. O. be filed with the state board of higher education through the chancellor's office. Dick Neuberger sent a letter to the council urging action to this effect, pointing out that the board members should be given every incentive and urge to look over A. S. U. O. budgets.

Considerable discussion followed on this. Mr. Pallett said not one budget change would be made unless recommended by the chancellor, and that the associated students already sent copies of the budget to his office. Neuberger pointed out, however, that this was not sending the budgets to the board and reiterated his contention that this be done. Dr. Gilbert also seemed to be of the opinion that sending a copy of the budget to the board would be a wise move.

Gale's Letter Heard

The result was that the council voted to refer the matter to the finance committee on the grounds that budgets come under that group's jurisdiction. A motion introduced by Mr. Bowerman approximately two

Prep Meet To Have Color Of Olympics

Almost 75 Officials To Aid In Prep Meet

Maryline New To Present Medals To Winners of Event From Platform

Oregon state's prep track and field athletes will perform amid all the splendor and colorfulness of a miniature Olympic games, next Saturday afternoon when they meet at Hayward field. In addition to a corps of white-garbed officials, numbering nearly 75, the winners in the various events will receive their medals from an honest-to-goodness queen.

Maryline New, charming University sophomore, will act as donor of the awards and will make the presentations from an elevated platform in front of the grandstand in true Olympic style. Each place winner will climb to the top of the platform to receive his award and be announced to the spectators.

Frosh Golfers To Meet High School In Second Match

Duckling golfers tangle this afternoon with the Eugene high team in the second encounter between the two squads. The high school won the first match 8 points to 4.

The frosh team will consist of the same men who played last week. They are Johnny Boyd, John Hanley, Ed Labbe, and Al Luhrs. The Eugene team will probably consist of the following: Near, Milligan, Goodwin, and Rickabaugh.

The yearlings have a match coming up this week-end with the O. S. C. Rooks that is sure to give them all the competition that they can handle. Challenging is still going on, and there may be some changes in the lineup Saturday.

The matches this afternoon begin at 1:30 p. m.

Kellog Talks

In discussing the constitution the delegates learned that most traditions are written in the constitutions of most campuses. At U. S. C. a constitutional committee interprets the constitution. Bill Bowerman explained the function of the judiciary committee at Oregon. At Oregon State college the executive committee interprets the laws. It was also suggested that laws should be codified, thus eliminating all useless and undesired clauses and laws.

In the afternoon Phil Kellog, of U. C. L. A., president of the organization, presided over the discussion. Assemblies were discussed, as well as ways of getting students to attend. The status of the editor of the school paper on the executive council was also discussed. The delegates were in favor of having the editor represented on the body.

Jupe Pluvius Robs Oregon Of Ball Game

Webfoots To Play Beavers Here on Friday

Only Sixteen Days Are Left for Ducks To Complete Schedule

It's getting to be a habit—these postponed baseball games, so far as the Webfoot baseball crew is concerned. First comes the Month series, then the Willamette games—all called on account of rain.

Now with a crucial two-game series with the Oregon State Beavers scheduled for the coming week-end, the Ducks and their skipper, Commodore Reinhart, are standing by, hoping, but somewhat doubtful.

Speaking of Commodore Reinhart it is brought to mind that Bill has always been a tough luck baseball coach. It was because of the prevailing weather conditions last season that Reinhart was dubbed "Commodore" and the name sticks. For years now Webfoot ball teams have been hampered by disagreeable weather conditions.

O. K. Elsewhere

The peculiar thing about the whole matter is that other teams in the state do not seem to run up against such a degree of hard luck. The O. S. C. Beavers are well on their way towards a state championship with over half of their games played. It must be that Carl Lodell, graduate manager at the State college, consulted the weather prophet before signing his 1933 schedule.

There are but 16 days left to the Webfoot season, and if the postponed games are all made up between now and the closing time, considering the games yet left to play, Reinhart's ball club will have to be composed of nine Iron Men.

Six Games With O.S.C.

A few of them were snapped up, together with six contests against Oregon State. These games with the Orangemen are of far more consequence than the rest, and it Jupiter X. Pluvius will be kind enough to allow these contests to be run off in regular order the Ducks and their mentor will be more than thankful.

The first of these games will be played (weather permitting) on Reihhart field Friday afternoon. Saturday the Webfoots will journey to the Corvallis campus for a return contest. Then the last four games on the Oregon schedule call for home and home tilts with the Beavers.

MANY ACCEPT BIDS FOR HAYWARD CELEBRATION

Other speakers will be announced later.

All those who have announced their intentions of being present have stressed the fact that they have plenty of good yarns to tell about Hayward. Each has a pet story that will be heard Friday evening.

The banquet will start at 6:30 Friday night and will be a stag affair. Paul Starr, chairman, is

Trackmen Have Final Workout Before OSC Meet

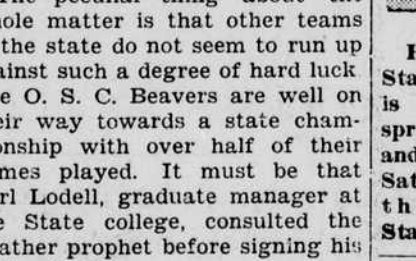

Bill Hayward Silent Concerning Outcome; Holman's Knee O.K.

Colonel Bill Hayward tapered off his Webfoot track and field athletes last night in their final workout before they match spikes with Oregon State's Beavers in the annual dual meet at Hayward field tomorrow. The colonel is determined to even scores with the Beavers following the recent Duck setback at the hands of the Orange relay squad.

The odds all favor the Webfoots. Hayward's athletes are conceded a lion's share of the firsts with enough seconds and thirds thrown in to make a comfortable margin of victory. The "Old Fox" is making no predictions, however, and has no intentions of having his Friday night banquet spoiled by an upset defeat such as the Corvallis squad handed the Ducks last year.

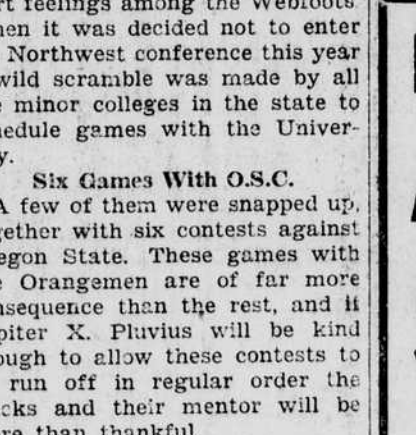

The Webfoots were all in good shape last night, and gave promise of being in winning form Friday. Art Holman, jumper and hurdler, who wrenched his leg in his first race at Seattle last Saturday, was clearing the low sticks in his usual form. Stan Kostka's knee is still bothering some, but he will be on hand in both the shot and discus events.

Here's Oregon's Captain Paul Starr as he looks in action. He is still king of the Northwest sprinters, winning both the 100 and 220-yard dashes at Seattle, Saturday. Tomorrow he will lead the Webfoots against Oregon State in their annual dual meet.
