

Grad Council Plans to Unify State System

Group Will Supervise Advanced Work

Coordination at Eugene, Corvallis, and Medical School; Rebec Named Chairman

Complete coordination of all academic work in the state system of higher education was effected here this week through the appointment by Chancellor W. J. Kerr of a graduate council composed of representatives of the University, state college, and medical school.

The graduate council is the governing body of the graduate division which was created at the last meeting of the board of higher education. Coordination was recommended more than a year ago, but the administrative setup was not completed in time for the opening of school last year.

Rebec at Head

The graduate division will embrace all work beyond the baccalaureate degrees except that leading to strictly professional degrees. The newly appointed graduate council, with Dr. George E. Rebec as dean and chairman, will administer graduate work wherever it is offered in the system, framing uniform regulations and standards and enforcing the board's allocation of graduate offerings.

The graduate council is composed of one representative of each major academic division at the University and college and one representative from the medical school. The council appointments for the coming year thus far announced are:

List Announced

University—Dr. C. V. Boyer, arts and letters; Dr. J. H. Gilbert, social science; Dr. J. J. Landsbury, fine arts; Dr. J. R. Jewell, education; Dean E. W. Allen, journalism; Dr. H. V. Hoyt, business administration; Dr. J. F. Bovard, physical education.

College—Professor P. M. Brandt, agriculture; Professor S. H. Graf, engineering; Dr. J. R. Jewell, education; Professor E. G. Mason, forestry; Professor Florence Blazier, home economics; Dr. F. A. Gilfillan, pharmacy; and Dr. W. Weniger, science.

Medical school—Dr. Olof Larsell. System at O. S. C.

Details of graduate work on the college campus will be administered by a committee composed of members of the graduate council on that campus with Dr. W. Weniger acting as chairman and representative of Dean Rebec.

In addition to the graduate council, each major school or college has a graduate committee of three members which formulates the programs of work for graduate students in its own school or college. The chairman of the committee is the school's representative on the interinstitutional graduate council.

RECOGNITION WON BY DEANS FROM OREGON

around Tokyo, the party proceeded down the tip of the island and across the Japan sea to Fuzan, Korea. From there they went through Kaioj, the capital of Korea, then by boat to Peiping. Here Dean Hoyt left the rest of the party and went past the Great Wall to Shanhaikwan and from there to Mukden, Manchuria. He visited Kusan, which has the largest open cut coal mine in the world. It has a vein 130 feet thick and is 130 feet from the surface. It is covered by oil shale from which oil is obtained for the Japanese fleet. From here he returned through Korea to Japan and spent seven days touring Japan.

"The Japanese customs officials were particularly impressed by a party of three deans," continued Dean Hoyt, "and were constantly inspecting our books and passports thinking we were investigating something. It was probably the first time that they had ever seen a party with so many deans. They were particularly on the lookout for communistic propaganda, having been troubled consistently by communists. The party has 20,000 right-wing members in Japan, and 7,500 have been arrested in one year. Recently a gang of communists, including several girls, robbed a bank to obtain money for their cause, obtaining 32,000 yen, or about $15,000."

Dean Landsbury and Dean Hoyt each made short talks to the Kyoto Rotary club, and Dean Hoyt talked to the Mukden Rotary club. In both cases the secretaries took down the speeches in English to translate and read them at the next meeting.

Tokyo is essentially a modern city, according to Dean Hoyt, reminding one of Paris or Philadelphia. After the earthquake and fire of 1923, it was rebuilt along modern lines. However, it is unique in this respect as the other cities are quaint and old-fashioned.

"Business conditions are good along tourist lines, but underneath the surface things are no better than here. This is demonstrated by the fact that the foreign exchange on the yen is so low," stated Hoyt, who could not help noticing business conditions even though he was on a vacation "for pleasure only."

The party returned also on the General Sherman to San Francisco and proceeded to Eugene by rail, where they arrived for the opening of school. Dean Allen remained in San Francisco for a few days.

New Instructors Appear at Initial Faculty Meeting

78 Recommendations for Degrees Are Made; Irving Mather To Get Ph.D.

Introduction of new faculty members and recommendations for degrees marked the first faculty meeting of the year, held last week in Guild hall.

Seventy-eight students who have finished their college courses since commencement last June were recommended to the board of higher education for degrees.

Irving Mather, an Oregon graduate who completed his work in the school of education this summer, was recommended to receive a degree of doctor of philosophy. Mather is at present a teacher and athletic coach in the Carpinteria high school in the California city of that name.

New faculty members include John C. McClosky, instructor in English; Dr. D. R. French, associate professor of economics; W. R. Varner, instructor in physics; and Frederick A. Cuthbert, assistant professor of landscape architecture. All were transferred from Oregon State.

Transferred part time from Oregon State were Paul X. Knoll, assistant professor of English; and Paul Petri, who will head voice instruction on both the Oregon and Oregon State campuses.

Others were Leslie L. Lewis, assistant professor of English; Horace Robinson, instructor in English in the drama department; Herman Kehrl, director of municipal research and service; Howard Halbert, instructor in violin; R. W. Warrington, professor of religion; Paul E. Raymond, instructor in law; and Captain W. A. Wappenstein, military science.

Hart Mountain to Be Paradise for Those Interested in Botany

A botanist's paradise was found on Hart mountain this summer by Louis F. Henderson, curator of herbarium, and Lincoln Constance, graduate of Oregon University, who is now professor of geology at Berkeley. They discovered enough plants in a day to use all the equipment they had with them.

Mr. Constance has been studying plants from many of the western states and is working for his doctor's degree.

While in the game reserve on Hart mountain they saw many deer and antelope. This reserve is noted as the largest of its kind in the world.

School Must Lose Fine Student if No Work is Offered

The University of Oregon will lose its brightest freshman, a girl with an excellent high school record, unless a job of some sort turns up within a few days.

This exceptional student had hoped that some kind of position that would give her part-time employment would be available to her by the time she had entered school here. She has taken the psychological and other preliminary examinations and received high honors. She not only passed the "A. C. E." test with the highest grade in the class, but she made the second highest score ever made by an entering student, it was acknowledged by Dr. H. R. Taylor, who is in charge of examinations.

Miss Janet Smith, secretary of the employment bureau, asks anyone who has a job open, or who knows of a position that might be open, to call the employment secretary at the University. The office will get in touch with the student at once.

Course in Scholarship Announced by Onthank

A new course for house scholarship chairmen has been introduced on the campus this year, Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration, announced. The course was started at the request of the 1932-33 heads of women's houses and the Interfraternity council.

The course is in charge of Dean Onthank, but will include instruction from two groups of faculty members. The first group will include Dr. B. W. DeBusk, Dr. E. S. Taylor, and Dr. H. Taylor, who will instruct the class members in scholarship work.

The second group will include professors representing large freshman courses, who will explain these courses to the class members.

Three Graduates Pay Campus Visit

Three history instructors, formerly graduate assistants in the history department of the University of Oregon, were summer visitors on the Eugene campus.

Among them was Carrol Amundson, instructor of English history at the University of Pittsburgh, who acted as graduate assistant here in 1927 and 1928, receiving his M. A. degree in '28 at Oregon. During the last school year Amundson was granted his Ph.D. at the University of Pittsburgh.

This summer he married Maxine Coon, prominent Oregon alumna and instructor in English at the University of Oregon.

dent and is not granted the power by the state legislature, the question will be submitted to the students of the University, whether or not they wish to pledge one-half of their building fee for the next 15 years for a new library building.

Raymond New in Law School; Claire Resigns

Professor Raymond, new instructor in the school of law, is taking the place of Professor Guy S. Claire, the latter having resigned.

Raymond has degrees from various colleges and universities; they are as follows: B.S. from Coe college, LL.B. from University of Iowa, LL.N. from Harvard and S.J.D. from Harvard. He has been teaching at John B. Stetson in Florida.

"Raymond comes to the University of Oregon School of Law with exceptional recommendations and credentials, and will teach the courses in torts, agencies, titles, and business law," declared Dean Wayne L. Morse, of the school of law.

Another visitor was La Wanda Feniason, fellow of history at Smith college, where she received her M.A. degree in 1932. In 1932-1933 she acted as research assistant to Prof. M. E. Curti, instructor in history at Smith college. This year Miss Feniason will serve in the history department at Briarcliff, a preparatory school and junior college on the Hugson river.

A graduate assistant in history during the school year 1931-32 at Oregon, Jesse Douglas was also a summer visitor on the Oregon campus. In 1932 he acted as assistant teacher at the University of Minnesota. He has been reappointed for the year of 1933-34, one of five out of seventeen assistants to retain their positions at Minnesota.

"WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND"

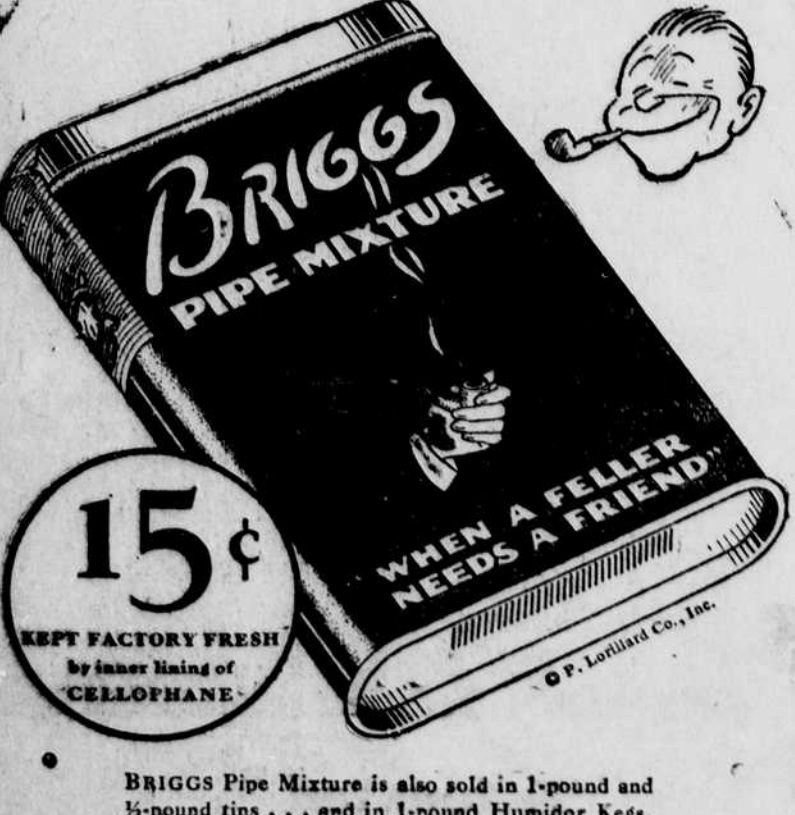

THE PIPE TOBACCO THAT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Named in honor of Clare Briggs, America's most lovable cartoonist, BRIGGS Pipe Mixture appeared quietly on the market a few months ago.

It seemed to inherit the qualities of the man himself! Kindly, gentle and extra winning.

Without ballyhoo, without blare of trumpets . . . BRIGGS began to sell like sixty! Each smoker told another smoker, and he told still another.

BRIGGS will need no selling talk to sell you. Just try a tin and let it speak for itself!

Our Responsibility to Oregon Students Who Really Own the "Co-Op"

INTERESTING FACTS EVERY OWNER SHOULD KNOW

- The Co-op was established in 1920 by action of the EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of the A. S. U. O.
- Every Oregon student who has paid University fees is a member of the Co-operation Association and part owner of the store.
- All text books are sold at publisher's list price and all Co-op book prices can be checked with library catalogues.
- The Co-op office is always ready and willing to cooperate with managers of campus functions by handling ticket sales without charge.
- An up-to-the-minute rent library will furnish you with the new and worth while books for a very small daily fee.
- A fine stock of personal stationery—boxed paper—at lowest possible prices. Fountain pens and pen repair department—magazine subscription agency—portable typewriters for rent or for sale.

A VERY STRONG BOND OF RELATIONSHIP and co-operation exists between this store and the members of the student body. Each is supplemented by the other and for this reason we feel deeply our responsibility to each and every Oregon student.

Those students who, thirteen years ago, founded and incorporated the Co-op had in mind service to succeeding generations of Oregon students and "SERVICE" is now and ever shall be the motto of the store.

The store is operated by a competent staff of University graduates and students, all of whom are striving to serve you—as a student—and as an owner.

A careful study has been made of student requirements in each University department. Supplies bought at the Co-op are guaranteed to be CORRECT in both price and quality.
