Donut Sport Program Will Start Shortly

16 Events on Schedule For This Year

Yeomen Won Crown Last Year; Swimming First on Mural Slate

A meeting of the fraternity, hall and independent athletic managers will be held in the men's gym Thursday, September 28, at 4:30 p. m. It is urged that each living organization send a representative.

The intramural sports program under the direction of Mr. Paul R. Washke and the supervision of Mr. Earl Boushey is ready to begin a new year. Tomorrow marks the opening step with a meeting of the managers of the men's living organizations at the men's gym. At this meeting the managers will receive all necessary instructions on donut rules and competition.

This year's intramural calendar will be made up with sixteen different sports with tournaments held in each sport. Competition will be held in basketball, soft ball, wrestling, golf, volleyball, tennis, track, handball, water polo, horse-shoes, cross country, swimming, and relays.

Houses Cooperate
 The success of last year's intramural program was due to the splendid cooperation received from the different living organizations, and it is hoped that this same sort of cooperation will make this year an even more successful one.

The participation in last year's events showed a decided increase of 12 per cent over the previous year. Eight hundred men which represented 62 per cent of the men on the campus took part in 15 different sports. Mickey Vail and Bill George were the outstanding participants with each man taking part in eight sports, while approximately 50 men participated in five or more events.

Yeomen Win
 The Yeomen capped their second consecutive donut crown last year by amassing a total of 903 points. Phi Delta Theta took second place with 740 points, while Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi finished third and fourth respectively.

Competition for the fall term will be held in swimming, water polo, and "A" and "B" basketball. Swimming will start October 9 and water polo will immediately follow swimming. "A" basketball is scheduled to begin on or about Monday, October 30, and will be followed by "B" basketball.

Women's Athletics
 By BETTY SHOEMAKER

Girls' intramural volleyball begins this afternoon at the women's gym. Practice will be held every day, except Friday at 5 o'clock, with Miss Duncan as coach. All houses are asked to enter teams for the inter-house games which will be played off immediately. Interclass games will be played off later in the term. Girls turning out for two practices a week are eligible for class teams and W.A.A. points.

Women's intramural hockey opens this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Practices are scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon. Two practices a week are required for eligibility on class teams and for W.A.A. points. Mildred Ringo, hockey manager, asks that all girls interested please turn out for class teams.

Extension Given Brown
 Elyer Brown, assistant professor in architecture who is now doing advance work in etching in Belgium for over a year has been granted an extension of time, and plans to return to the campus next March.

Professor Brown's award was an unusual honor, as only six fellowships were granted in this country, and it enables the student to study any particular phase of art.

The above hodge-podge might not make sense to some people, but to nine out of ten Americans at this time of year, it is the greatest sport on earth—Football! And it's not just around the corner. It's here, and the above performers might be from any high school, college, or athletic club in the country from the University of Maine to Southern California, from Washington to Tulane.

St. Mary's Loses Hard Driving Full

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Sept. 26.—Santo Garbo, hard-driving fullback from Los Angeles who was injured at the start of last season, definitely will not play this year, announces the athletic office of Saint Mary's college.

The sophomore fullback of last year who looked so promising until he was injured in the West Coast Army game, will stay out to favor his back, which has not yet completely healed. The injury, dislocated vertebrae, is much the same as the one which forced Orv Mohler, tricky Trojan back of last season, to abandon the game. Doctors who conducted the X-rays advised against taking any chances of playing now.

Many Students Found In Reference Library

Studying has begun in earnest, exceptionally early this year, according to Miss E. Lenore Casford, reference librarian. Many students are found in the reference department hard at work, poring over thick volumes as they commonly do when deadlines for term papers are nearing.

Much of the accustomed gloom of the "lib" has disappeared during the summer, for the building has been redecorated inside and out. Light, kalsomined walls do much to make the atmosphere cheerful and conducive to study. Some of the vines which formerly covered the library have been removed, improving its appearance a great deal.

The reference desk has been enlarged and the circulation desk rearranged, so that the interior plan of the library's first floor presents a considerably changed appearance.

Freshman Enrollment In German Decreases

Dr. F. G. Schmidt, head of the German language department, stated that the entire enrollment in the German classes had dropped off slightly, but that the freshmen classes had decreased the most.

Members of the department have spent a large portion of the summer traveling throughout the country. Dr. Schmidt taught at the Portland summer school, and visited in California, going through San Francisco and the Redwoods, then continued up the Pacific coast. Dr. E. P. Kremer recently returned from a trip to Europe where he visited relatives. Dr. E. A. Pollard also visited relatives in Salt Lake City during the summer.

Squad Showing Pleases Callison

"I was well pleased with the showing the Oregon team made against Linfield last Friday night," said "Pink" Callison, youthful Oregon grid mentor, who is beginning his second year as commander-in-chief of Oregon football teams, in an interview yesterday.

Callison revealed that he was greatly pleased with the blocking and tackling of his men although he readily admitted that the team from McMinnville was no test for his cohorts.

Callison stated that he was satisfied with the work of Bobby Parke, tow-headed reserve halfback on last year's team, who has been made over into a blocking back to replace Bill Bowerman who was lost through graduation. Parke is a deceptive runner, a good blocker and a real punter. He should prove to be a valuable man to the Oregon eleven.

Callison also expressed joy at the work of Ralph Terjeson, who subbed for Bowerman last year. Terjeson, who is some 15 pounds heavier than the boy from the earthquake country is fighting hard to win the starting position from young Parke.

When asked what he thought of the team's pass defense against the Linfield team he refused to say much but seemed to give the hint that the boys could stand more drilling in that particular part of the game.

Callison expressed satisfaction with the work of his three star ends, "Butch" Morse, who beat out the veteran "Red" Bailey for the left wing position last year, which was his sophomore year, "Bud" Pozzo, 185 pound Los Angeles youth who saw a great deal of action last year subbing for "Chuck" Wishard, and Wishard, veteran right end who until last Friday night has been in a slump. The Webfoot grid tutor seemed pleased to see the lanky boy from the Dakotas back in last season's form. Callison stated that he was satisfied with the way Al Eagles, 225-pound reserve tackle last year, filled in at Morgan's hole.

Aspirants for Junior And Soph Managers Meet in Igloo at 2:30

All sophomores and juniors interested in becoming sophomore or junior football manager are asked to meet in the Igloo today at 2:30. Jim Ferguson, football manager, will have charge of the meeting and will take applications for the appointments.

Our Side of It...
 By MALCOLM BAUER

JUST about the time the ordinary students were scratching their heads and wondering when they would register last Friday the forty-odd huskies who will represent the Webfoots on the gridiron this year were swinging into their season after a week of practice.

The result . . . a 53-10-0 victory over the scrappy little Linfield college eleven. Of course, the experts argue that this was no test of the local gridsters, but 53 points is 53 points, and there were times when Callison's line plays looked pretty good.

The real test comes next Saturday, however, against Handsome Mike Pecarovich's Gonzaga Bulldogs. The Spokane outfit, always a tough one to turn back, is at its best this year with a letterman for every position (right up to the Webfoot standard here) and a much longer training period in which to round into shape. Last weekend Mike and his boys gave Jimmy Phelan a good scare, putting up a stubborn battle to lose by 13 points . . . mostly due to the brilliant kicking of the Washington backs.

Coast conference members are having a tough time of it all around this year in their openers. Their hands tied by the iron-clad law that no practice was to start until September 16, the elite of the Far Western gridiron brotherhood are having a hard time holding their own with smaller, but more seasoned teams. California's Golden Bears were the first to bow to a team in better condition when they went down before Santa Clara for the second straight year in their season's opener. The Broncos' 7 to 0 victory was hailed as an "upset," but what else could be expected from a squad that just stepped into its moleskins after a summer "on the farm."

Just another red flag for Pink's boys when they meet the well-trained and much-practiced Bulldogs.

Things are looking up again for Oregon's Duckling footballers. If quantity and first appearance have anything to do with winning football games, this year's yearlings will certainly equal the record made by the class of '35 team two years ago. Eighty big, rough, tough, enthusiastic freshmen are now turning out daily to Billy Reinhart and Irv Schultz, who are in charge of the first year ball toters. Bill will be glad to rent some of his giants out for transfer service.

It's the thing this year for

basketball coaches to prove themselves on the gridiron. Billy's showing his stuff with the Ducklings, and would you believe it? . . . our good old pal Slat Gill is directing Oregon State's Rooks . . . and, by the way, he is looking forward to a good year, too.

Who is the state of Oregon's champion fisherman? A question like this would naturally cause a bloody revolution in this sport-loving country, but old timers in the Willamette valley would be pretty unanimous in backing Colonel Bill Hayward for the gold studded fish hook. Just to show that a champ he really is, Colonel Bill strolled out last Sunday and bagged a 10-pound steelhead trout in the Rogue river. This is the biggest steelhead exhibited in this part of the country for many years, and congratulations are due the veteran Oregon track coach. Just to make things look good, Bill hooked four more big fellows to go with his monster.

Freshman YWCA Activities Slated For Early Start

Discussion groups and get-togethers for all freshmen women are starting this week in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow. Eight groups of freshmen will meet with campus upperclass women during the year to share ideas and experiences and to discuss current interests and problems.

All Eugene freshmen, uncontacted as yet, are invited to participate in these groups, and may sign up at the bungalow any time this week.

The group held every Monday at 4 o'clock will be led by Rosalind Grey, with Portia Booth as assistant. At 1 o'clock on Tuesday's, Peggy Davidson will lead discussions, and will be assisted by Helen Tillman; at 4 on Tuesdays, Mary Lou Dodds will be leader and Doris Amador and Velma MacIntyre will aid; Eleanor Wharton and Geneva Stafford will be in charge of the meetings held every Wednesday at 4 o'clock. Bernice Baynard and Ruth Mae Chlicote will conduct groups on Thursdays at 1; Jean Simes and Janet McMichen at 4 on Thursdays; Marygolde Hardison and Mary Jane Jenkins at 3 on Thursdays; and Margaret Pollitt and Jane Bishop at 4 on Fridays.

Frosh Football Turnout Large; Prospects Good

Duckling Grid Material Is Best In Years; Many Prep School Stars

The largest turnout of frosh grid aspirants to answer the first call in several years went to work under the coaching of Bill Reinhart and Irv Schultz last Monday. Eighty men are fighting for po-mer.

Ducks Expect Tough Game From Gonzaga

Pecarovich May Upset Webfoots in Tilt

Callison Says Bulldogs Holding Back Against Huskies Last Saturday

"It looked to me as if Gonzaga was holding back," remarked Prince Callison, Oregon football coach after the Washington-Gonzaga football game. "The wet ball undoubtedly handicapped Gonzaga's passing, but even so, only five pass attempts were made. Pecarovich was undoubtedly holding back to shove everything at us before a home crowd in Spokane Saturday. I expect a very hard game."

Gonzaga is tough in any kind of football company. Previous to the Washington game they had scored at least one touchdown in 16 consecutive football games, this record is over a two-year period.

Last fall the Oregon Webfoots needed the services of Stan Kostka, who had not played since the Santa Clara game, and the help of "Iron" Mike Mikulak, who had been on the bench since the Washington game, with an injured knee, to stop Gonzaga's brilliant fourth-quarter rally. This year it looks very much like that Pecarovich might turn the tables on Callison and his football warriors.

sitions on the yearling eleven and possibilities of a formidable outfit are more than promising. Many of the throng have already hung up laurels in the old home town. Phil Penn, last year's luminary from Jefferson high, Portland city champs, offers possibilities in the blocking back position while Elton Owens, Eugene star back should bolster the running attack. Bill Estes of Klamath Falls and Ken De Lieu from Roosevelt high, Portland, are valuable end prospects.

However, with practice only having been under way for three days there is ample time for many of the former stars from high schools up and down the coast to strut their stuff and garner a first string position before the first game against the Rooks in a night game on Hayward field October 13.

Other games on the night schedule include Ashland normal, October 28 at Klamath Falls and a return night game with the Oregon State rooks, there, November 3.
