Pecarovich Hands Out Bouquets, Board Sets Limit on Independents

Some say that the mark of the true gentleman is the development of the ability to take it on the chin and come up smiling. If this is so, Handsome Mike Pecarovich, Gonzaga football's headman, qualifies for the coveted title.

The genial Bulldog mentor surely took it on the nose from Prink Callison and his Oregon Webfoots Saturday afternoon, and he not only came up smiling, but he brought a bouquet along for his conquerors. As quoted in "Bill" Gregory's "colyum" in the Oregonian yesterday, Handsome Mike had this to say of the triumphant Webfoots:

"It was the toughest ball game my linemen have ever played. . . . That Oregon line is pulling together immeasurably better than in the game we played at Eugene last year. . . . The Oregon backs, especially Temple and Gee, impressed me with the way they followed their interference. . . . Mikulak backed up the line powerfully and tackled very hard. . . . I consider him (Mikulak) the best back on the coast."

All of this sounds very nice to Webfoot ears, but don't get stuck up, because in the very same breath Pecarovich stated that he thought the Oregon team could have been in much better condition than that which they displayed at Spokane. This should be a warning to the Oregon squad, and a lot of waistlines are due for a big change before Prink sends his proteges against Washington in the annual classic at Seattle ten days hence.

Nothing but football means much to local sports gossip slingers nowadays, but even the most ardent gridiron followers won't be able to get along without knowing the inside dope from baseball's annual big show which gets under way today in the Polo grounds in New York City when the New York Giants and the Washington Senators begin their week-long battle to determine who is world's champion in America's national sport.

All right, baseball fans, your last bit of bliss before you are smothered over by gridiron worshippers.

The supply of crutches at the igloo is diminishing daily with all the pulled tendons, cracked knees, charley horses, etc., that are creeping around and fastening themselves on the Webfoots' gridiron hopefuls. Among those who are now wielding the wooden batons are Mark Temple, varsity half, and Bob Konopka and Freddy Hunt, freshman footballers.

The intramural board did a fine thing yesterday in limiting the membership of the independent campus group known as the Yeomen. This will go a long way in bringing back a keen sense of esprit de corps among the members in the big race.

The flu and cold epidemic that annually hits Eugene is apparently no respecter of persons, as Dr. H. R. Crosland of the psychology department has been able to instruct only his elementary classes lately.

Stellar Webfoot Half May Be Out for Washington Game

Mark Temple On Crutches With Injury

Co-captain Crippled as Result of Game

Lacerated Muscle in Calf May Keep Ace Ball Carrier Out of Big Fracas

The ever-present bugaboo of injury hung its first bit of crepe at the door of Prink Callison yesterday when his storied half back and co-captain of the Webfoot varsity, Mark Temple, was declared definitely on the sidelines for a week or longer with a lacerated muscle in the calf of one leg. Temple received his injury in the Gonzaga game at Spokane Saturday and is forced to use crutches to favor the wounded limb.

The blond ball-carrying star will not be able to play in the Columbia tussle which is billed for next Saturday, and grave doubt is held as to whether he will be in condition to be in uniform against the Washington Huskies at Seattle, October 14.

In case Temple is not able to play in the Husky game, his place will be filled either by Frank Michak, fast stepping sophomore, or Stew Milligan, accurate kicking newcomer to the varsity ranks. At any rate one of these sophomores will start in place of Temple in the Columbia fracas.

Colonel Bill Hayward, for many years head trainer for Oregon's footballers, hopes to have the Webfoot star in shape for the Husky tilt. A week of rest with no practice of any kind is expected to put the Oregon leader back on his feet, but even in the case he is able to do without his crutches before the Seattle classic, it is doubtful if he will be able to start. Granting that he starts against the Phelan outfit, he may not be able to last the entire game. It takes a lot of practice and use of an injured arm or leg to put it back in playing shape after a week of idleness.

With Temple out of the picture, the backfield which Prink will run out against Columbia next Saturday will probably be made up of Parke or Terjeson at quarter, Gee at left half, Milligan or Michak at right half, and Mikulak at full.

Former Student Will Work, Study in Holland

A former University of Oregon student who is going to study in Holland this year is Edward Burke, who received his master's degree last year in architecture and interior decorating. Burke plans to continue his work while abroad.

Portland Enrollment Large
The Portland extension center enrollment is exceptionally heavy, because many students lack money and the fees are low.

Professor A. E. Stillman of the school of business administration left yesterday for the University of Washington.

Anyone Interested in Campus Sports Asked To Sign Up at Gym

Any person interested in all-campus golf, handball, tennis, or horseshoes are urged to sign up on the intramural bulletin board in the north end of the men's gym immediately. Leave name, telephone number and class.

Frosh Squad Has 74 Men Out Daily As Season Nears

Although there are six less candidates on the freshman football squad, 74 yearlings remain and the 1933 squad is still the largest ever known. Eight of the men come from Portland, including Penn and Helfrich of the championship Jefferson eleven.

From out of the state the most promising candidate is Alan Wilson, Spokane, Washington. Alan's brother, Billy, was an all-coast end for Gonzaga last year. Another brother also plays end.

Coaches Bill Reinhart and Irv Schulz will send the first frosh team into a game on October 13, when they meet Southern Oregon Normal school. The Rooks will be played here October 23 and at Corvallis November 18.

The complete roster: Blaine Ballah, Jerry Calhoun, Alan Davis, Percy F. Freeman, Jack Helfrich, Wally MacGregor, Phil Penn, John Holloway, all of Portland; Andy Anderson, Elmore Borden, Carroll Auld, Bob Beal, Ad Brogdon, Dick Bishop, Milan Boniface, Ken Belieu, Charles Christensen, Ralph Clark, Ben Grant, Russ Humphreys, Bill McKenzie, Elton Owen, Alvin Overgard, Vernon Sprague, Fred Smith, Oscar Slack, Bill Van Nuy, Dick Sims, all of Eugene; Howard Adams, Barney Barnes, Chuck Reed, John Deizell, Salem; Chandler Berry, Dick Currin, Bill Estes, Rex Hamaker, Klamath Falls; Ed Jacobs, Tommy Jacobs, Maurice Ward, Reedsport, Ore. Halls Have Baby Son

Mr. and Mrs. Vinton H. Hall, former students here, are the parents of a son born September 15. Mrs. Hall was Janet Thacher and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher, members of the University faculty. Hall was editor of the Emerald three years ago and is now employed on the Portland Oregonian.

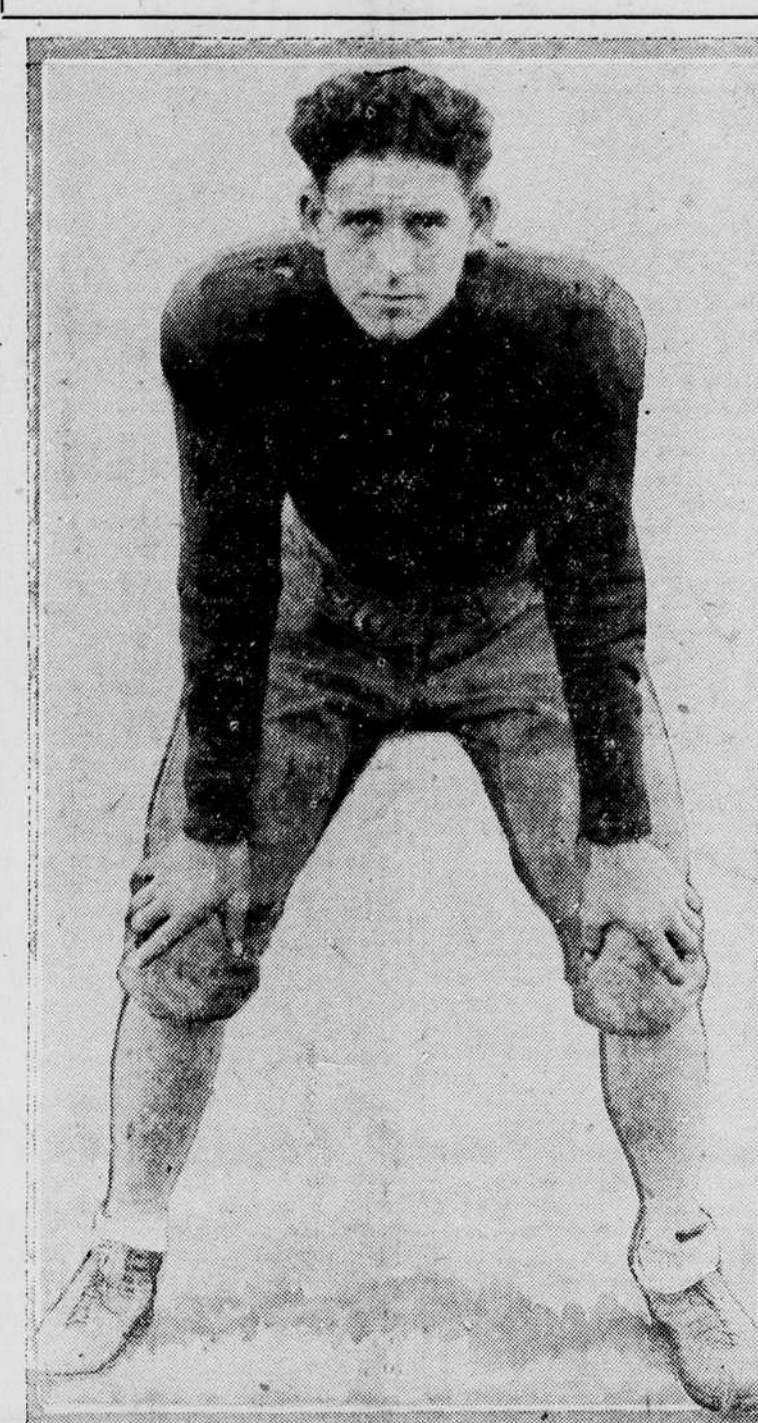

Law School Sends Invitation

The Oregon Bar association has accepted the invitation of the University of Oregon law school and the Lane County Bar association to hold its next meeting in Eugene concurrently with that of the Pacific Coast Institute of Law and Justice.

More Paint Promised

"If this sunshine holds out, more buildings will get paint jobs," said D. L. Lewis, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Irish Triple-Threater

Here is Merle Nehl, left half on Gene Murphy's Columbia football eleven, who will bear the brunt of the offensive of his team when they tangle with Oregon's Webfoots on Hayward field next Saturday afternoon.

Few Upsets Feature First Week of Country's Football

The leading colleges throughout the country opened gridiron festivities officially Saturday, the top-notch teams of the United States came through with one exception, Iowa defeated Northwestern university by a score of 7-0.

Along the Pacific coast there were no major upsets, that is in the conference schedule. Oregon beat Gonzaga 14-0. Washington defeated Idaho by a score of 32 to 6. Washington State 56, College of Puget Sound 0. Oregon State won over Montana 20-0, but they looked rather ineffective. Bill Ingram's team won over the California Aggies 30-0. Tiny Thornhill, newly appointed football coach at Stanford university, had some time defeating UCLA, the "baby" member of the Pacific coast conference; it took the educated toe of all-American Bill Corbus to win the ball game for Stanford.

In the Rocky mountain section, Colorado university 19, Chadron 0, Montana State, 0, Brigham Young 25, Western State 0, Utah State 28, Aggies 7, Wyoming university 0.

Along the eastern coast, the Pittsburgh Panthers started out in Grand style by winning over the strong Washington and Jefferson team with a 9 to 0 score. Fordham university scored 52 points against Albright of New York, who were held scoreless. Holy Cross where John McEwan, former Oregon coach used to be won over St. Michaels 50-0.

In the midwest, Dick Hanley's famous Northwestern university football team took one on the chin. The defeat was inflicted by Iowa university, the score was 7-0. This was the only major football upset last Saturday.

All the favorite teams of the southern states won their initial contests. Florida 28, Stetson 0, Alabama 34, Oglethorpe 0, Georgia Tech 39, Clemson 0.

Donut Heads Cut Yeoman Ranks to 40

Reduction Expected to Help Competition

Petition Signed by Fraternity and Hall Managers Brings Action

At a meeting of the administrative board of intramural athletics of the University of Oregon which has charge of all intramural athletics yesterday afternoon, it was decided that the independent organization known as the Yeomen be limited to 40 men who may participate in intramural athletics.

A list of these men must be compiled and turned into the office of the intramural director before the Yeomen engage in any donut athletic contest. Only the 40 men whose names are contained on this list may play throughout the entire year and any change in this list must be adjusted only by the intramural administrative board.

A petition signed by practically all of the fraternity and hall athletic managers requesting the intramural board to limit the inexact eligibility list of the group known as the Yeomen, so that organization would compete on the same plane as other living organizations brought about the board's action.

The main arguments against the reduction of men in the Yeomen ranks were that they did not have a monopoly on independent teams or men, and that their organization was bound up in a loose form.

It was with the intention to merely alleviate the conditions of donut athletics by bringing all living organizations to a more or less equal level that the above action was taken.

Intestinal Flu Invades Campus at University

At present there is a small epidemic of intestinal flu on the campus. To avoid intestinal flu, which really isn't flu at all, but enterocolitis. "Wash your hands before each meal with soap and water, and at other times keep your hands away from your mouth," says Dr. Fred Miller. As many times as this advice has been given, it is still very important and vital to the health question.

Interior Design Class Will Add Flower Study

The course in the Elements of Interior Design will include the art of flower arrangement this year which is being given by Instructor Brownell Frazier. This work will enable the students to learn the adequate arrangement of flowers to blend in with the art scheme of homes such as the modernistic design or the informal plan.

Washington Senators Favorites as Series Commences Today

With betting odds in their favor the Washington Senators will trot out onto the Polo grounds in New York City a 10 to 7 favorite to take their National league, rivals, the New York Giants, into camp, in the world series which starts this afternoon at 1:30. Carl Hubbell, Giant ace twirler, is slated to start the first game for the New Yorkers. Manager Joe Cronin refused to divulge the Senators' starting pitcher late last night. The broadcast will start at 10:15, Pacific coast time over N.B.C.

Irish Will Send Good Lightweight Team to Eugene

Gene Murphy's Outfit Made Up of Small But Experienced Material

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY, Portland, Ore., Oct. 2.—Coach Gene Murphy of Columbia university, will have a good lightweight team when they meet the University of Oregon next Saturday. His schedule requires more weight but as yet it has not been available.

Lack of hefty tackles seems to be the main obstacle in the path of a victorious season for the "Fighting Irish." Only one of the lads who take care of the heavy duty berth tip the beam over the 190-pound mark. The guards will be the best fortified position on the eleven with Tony Rogers and Frank Doherty slated for the opening bid. Four sets of the lads who pull out and lead the interference are available but the above mentioned are the most capable. Ends are plentiful but most of them are too light for college football. Phils, Morrison and Piskol are sure of the first call with Marv Crawford and Ray Kasper ready to replace them at any stage of the game.

Kicking will be the main offensive of the Irish as they have two exceptional booters in the personages of Merle Nehl and Harry Clayton. The Columbia ball toters will be led by Bill McCarthy, the lad who played the part of drum-major in the majority of Columbia's triumphant marches of last season. Injuries have haunted the anticipated rosy path of the Irish mentor as two of the mainstays of last year are out permanently due to injuries.

Webfoots Win From Bulldog Outfit 14 to 0

Callison's Eleven Held Thrice at Goal

Second Half Rally Too Much for Gonzaga Team; Mikulak, Bobbitt Score

Scoring touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters, Oregon's Webfoot grid machine last Saturday eked out a hard fought victory over the Bulldogs of Gonzaga university. The final score was 14 to 0.

The score does not give an accurate aspect on the game, for the Ducks knocked at the scoring gates continually during the first half without being able to lift the tallying latch. The game had hardly begun when the Webfoot took possession of the ball near midfield and immediately started on a drive for the Bulldog goal line. Temple, Gee, and Mikulak made first downs almost at will until they had reached the Gonzaga 5-yard line, when they were held for downs. This same performance was repeated—with a few variations—three more times during the first two periods, and with the same lack of success. The only time Gonzaga made any yardage at all was near the end of the second quarter. Both teams used passes to little avail.

The third quarter opened with a repetition of the first, the only difference being in the fact that the Webfoot "produced" when they got in scoring position, and big Mike Mikulak pushed over the first score. "Stew" Milligan successfully converted the extra point. One of the most peculiar and exciting plays of the game took place soon after this, when Peterson, Bulldog halfback, was tackled so hard that the ball flew out of his arms into the waiting hands of Gardner Frye, stellar Oregon guard, who then returned it 19 yards before being downed by a swarm of Gonzaga tacklers.

Once again in the fourth canto, the Ducks marched down the field for their second tally. This time Bobbitt bucked his way to the "promised land," and once again Milligan successfully added the extra point. With one minute to go, the Bulldogs broke through the Oregon line to block a punt, which they also recovered on the Webfoot 9-yard line. Three plays netted them only two yards, and the gun sounded before they could begin another play. This was the only time during the entire game that the Gonzagans were inside the Webfoot 30-yard stripe.
