Large Squad Of Ducks Will Invade North

Callison Names Twenty-Eight Men for Trip

Webfoots to Be Without Services Of "Biff" Nilsson; Many Players Injured

After a tough workout session last night Prince Callison, head football coach, announced a list of the Webfoots who will leave this afternoon on the 5:30 train for Seattle where they will battle the Washington Huskies Saturday.

Callison is carrying a large squad of 28 men, and it is probable that most of them will see action due to the number of injuries on the squad. Two boys who did not make the Spokane trip when the Webfoots went north to play Gonzaga will make the trip. These two additional men will be Morry "Red" Van Vliet, the surprise hero of the Columbia game who should go great against the Huskies and Whit Arey, third string quarterback, who Callison is carrying along to use in case Bob Parkes' injured leg does not hold out.

The team will leave here without the services of "Biff" Nilsson, star tackle, whose leg was injured in the Columbia conflict. Nilsson is in Portland under the care of Dr. Richard Dillehunt, dean of the University of Oregon Medical school. This is the first time in three years that "Biff" has failed to make a trip.

The following men will make the trip to the Washington metropolis:

- Centers: Hughes, Swanson, and Furry.
- Guards: Cuppoletti, Clark, McCredie, Gagnon.
- Tackles: Frye, Eagle, Nielson, Bishop.
- Ends: Wishard, Jones, Morse, Pozo, Simpson.
- Quarterbacks: Parke, Terjeson, Arey.
- Halfbacks: Temple, Gee, Van Vliet, Milligan, Mitcheh, Peplien-jack.
- Fullbacks: Mikulak, Bobbitt, Rushlow.

The squad will arrive in Seattle at 8 o'clock the following day.

Notre Dame Has Tough Schedule Again This Year

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (Special)—Coach Heartley Anderson, who guides the destinies of Notre Dame on the football field, looks none too optimistically upon the 1933 season.

Although held to a scoreless tie last week by the powerful Kansas grid eleven, Notre Dame still looms up as one of the outstanding contenders for the national grid title. "There is no one game that I think we'll lose," remarked Anderson. "But somewhere along the line, judging on the law of averages, we ought to lose at least one, perhaps two."

Before hanging up their football togs, the Ramblers will play Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, Navy, Purdue, Northwestern and U.S.C.

Women's Athletics

By BETTY SHOEMAKER

Amphibian exhibition this afternoon at 4:30 in the women's swimming pool. Racing, form swimming and diving will be shown. All women are invited to attend.

Amphibian meeting tonight at 7:30 in the woman's swimming pool.

Hockey practice this afternoon at 4 o'clock and volleyball practice at 5 p. m. Houses who have not yet scheduled a team to play please call Mildred Marks at Hendricks hall.

Bookplates on Exhibit Are Part of Collection

Bookplates exhibited on the third floor of the library were placed there by M. H. Douglass, librarian. The specimens shown are part of a large collection owned by the library.

Several years ago the library wrote to colleges and universities all over the country offering to exchange bookplates with them. In this way the collection was started and has since been added to by contributions from individuals as well as book plates taken from old books given to the library.

Club Will Meet

The Social Science club will hold its October meeting Monday, October 16, 6:15 p. m. at the Faculty club. Dr. R. W. Leighton will read a paper on "Comprehensive Examinations."

Husky Fans Rely on Smith And Ahonen

Stellar Half and End Are Outstanding Men

Washington Babes Running Duck Plays Against Purple Varsity

According to reports from the Washington campus, Paul "Sockeye" Sulkosky, star Husky fullback, will not play in the oncoming Oregon game due to a wrenched knee received in scrimmage Tuesday night. Coach Jimmy Phelan has announced that he will start Ralph Smalling, brother of the famous "Chuck" Smalling of Stanford fame, in place of Sulkosky. Many fans are looking forward to seeing "Sockeye" in the conflict, thinking that foxy Jimmy is trying to pull a fast one on the Webfoots.

If you should wander up around Seattle way about this time of the year and listen in on the Sunday morning quarterbacks you would undoubtedly hear two magic names of the gridiron dominate above all others. The two men whom the Washington fans are banking on to take Oregon in their oncoming conflict are none other than Art Ahonen and Bill Smith.

On these two versatile performers Jimmy Phelan, Husky mentor, will pin his hopes. Ahonen is the triple threat ace of the squad. He runs like a scared rabbit, passes with speed and accuracy, and his kicking reminds one of the late Johnny Casanova, once famous kicker for the Santa Clara Broncos. Defensively, Ahonen is about the best back Phelan has. This lad who hails from Ironwood, Michigan, may cause the Webfoots plenty of worry unless he is closely watched.

Smith Outstanding
 Just try and tell Jimmy Phelan that there is a better end on the Pacific coast than Bill Smith if you want to get yourself into a real argument. The Seattle babes are already mentioning Smith as the all-American representative of the University of Washington.

This highly touted wing man is probably the outstanding man on Washington's enormous line. He is rated as the best pass catcher west of the Tehachepe, his blocking is way above par, and his defensive play is outstanding. Smith will probably cause "Prink" Callison's squad plenty of trouble.

The right flank of the Husky line with Ted Issacson, 265-pound behemoth, guard on defense and tackle on offense; Joe Wiatrack, guard on offense and tackle on defense, and Dan Lazarevich at end is an experiment of Phelan's. It seemed to work well against Idaho.

Issacson Two-Year Vet
 "King Kong" Issacson is a two-year veteran at both positions, but Wiatrack is inexperienced at guard. Lazarevich started his first game when the Huskies defeated Idaho, and it looks like this sophomore is going places at the hole left vacant by Dave Nesbit, all-American.

At the center position Glenn Boyle is gradually winning the starting job from Hurley DeRoin, made over back. If De Roin took his football seriously he might turn out to be a real pivot man, but the husky youth from Chicago seems to care little for the game.

Frosh Scrimmage Varsity
 For the past two weeks "Pest" Welch, chief scout and frosh mentor, has been teaching the men of '37 some of Callison's plays. The frosh have mastered them and are using them in scrimmages against the varsity. Last Saturday the frosh played a full game against their big brothers using Oregon plays throughout the conflict.

Our Side of It...

By MALCOLM BAUER

WITH the Washington game drawing near, and football interest at its highest pitch on the campus, little note has been taken of the annual intramural race which got away with a splash last Monday. Each day, promptly at 4 o'clock, two opposing mermen hit the water in the pool at the men's gym and the afternoon's program is on. So far the tilts have been one sided, but as soon as the squads swing into the final rounds of the tournament, competition always grows keen.

The donut competition this year, as it was last season, is under the supervision of an intramural board, appointed for that special purpose, and made up of Paul Washke, professor of physical education and director of the men's gym, and Earl Boushey, Russ Cutler, and H. S. Hoyman, instructors in physical education.

Much credit is due these men for the way they have handled the intramural slate in the past. It is no bed of roses (ask the board) to run off the schedules in nine or ten different sports, some of them coming at the same time of the year, with nearly twenty different groups competing. . . . listen to the grievances of teams which think they have been wronged. . . . keep close check up-

Dean Describes Meeting Oregon Alumnus on Trip

"It would be impossible to repay all the courtesies shown us by V. C. Genn, '14, whom we met by chance in Korea," said Dean H. V. Hoyt, of the school of business administration, in discussing his chance meeting with the Oregon graduate.

"Our party mistook Genn for a Kentucky professor for whom we were looking. We were glad to meet anyone who spoke the English language, but it was even more pleasant to discover that he was from Oregon."

Genn is sales manager and export director for General Motors company, covering the territory including Japan, Korea, China, Manchuria, Siam, Philippine Islands, and about half of Siberia and Russia. He has been with the company now for five years.

"He is constantly traveling all over his territory and speaks Japanese as fluently as English," remarked his mother, Mrs. John T. Genn, who lives in Eugene.

While the party from the University of Oregon was in Korea, they were supplied with a car and chauffeur by Genn, were invited to his home, and otherwise treated royally.

"However," laughed Dean Hoyt, "the chauffeur was sick one day, due probably to the night before, and Dean Allen enjoyed himself driving the car. This was no easy task because in Korea they drive on the left side of the street."

Genn is married and has three sons, who attend a Canadian school in Osa'ta, Japan. His mother said that it costs more to send each of the sons to this school for a year than to the University of Oregon. Genn is planning to spend the Christmas vacation with his parents here.

New Volume Added
 Among the additions to the University of Oregon law school library this fall is a volume, "The Constitution," written by Guy Shirk Claire, associate professor of law here last year, in collaboration with Professor Frank Abbott Magruder of the political science department at Oregon State college. Claire is at present practicing law in Pennsylvania.

Bouquets for Donut Administrators; Many Soldiers to Go North

on the eligibility of the more than 500 competitors. . . . and see to the successful administration of the thousands of other minute details which all go to make up the successful intramural season.

Last year a new all-time record was set with nearly 600 men competing during the three terms. This year, with interest already at a high pitch in the swimming tournament, promises to witness even a greater number of participants than last season.

EXTRA! Latest figures just released from the R. O. T. C. department by Sergeant Blythe show that Oregon's underclassmen will storm Seattle in a body this weekend. If all freshmen and sophomores who have declared their intentions of being out of town during the Friday military drill were allowed in the stadium at Seattle, there would be no room for the players.

Should make a good cheering section, Mickey.

The latest news from around Puget Sound informs us that the great "Sockeye" Sulkosky, Husky All-American candidate, will be out of Saturday's Webfoot game with an injured leg. Nice story, Mr. Phelan, now we can all have a good cry together.

Girls Who Would Land Jobs Must Have High Marks

Nowadays, when teaching jobs are scarce, the girl who looks forward to ensuring one would better cultivate high marks in college and a humble spirit so far as salary is concerned. Thus the experience of 278 recent graduates of the college of education at the University of Kentucky would seem to point.

An analysis of their relative success just completed by Leo M. Chamberlain and L. E. Meece, shows that in their case at least "the student with the highest scholarship record is favored by employing officials." Even during the past four difficult years, about 88 per cent of the graduates with top academic ratings "landed jobs" the first year after college. Moreover, among last year's graduates, 71 per cent of the women as against only 26 per cent of the men obtained positions, largely, it is thought, because the women's ideas of salary were more modest.

Former teaching experience also proved itself a tremendous asset in convincing hesitant schoolboard members of a candidate's competence. And the home town or the home country was revealed as offering far and away the most receptive market for the would-be teachers' services. In fact, the makers of the survey are inclined to the opinion that a local boy or girl was sometimes permitted to "make good" to the detriment of the best interests of the school.

Yeomen Lose Swim Contest To Beta Team

Kappa Sigma, SAE and Phi Kappa Psi Win

Beta Relay Team Cracks Donut Record in 120-Yard Medley Event

Today's Swimming Schedule
 4:00—Alpha Tau Omega vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon.
 4:30—Phi Gamma Delta vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
 5:00—Kappa Sigma vs. Phi Kappa Psi.

Beta Theta Pi continued its undefeated march to the donut swimming crown yesterday afternoon with a one-sided victory over the highly touted Yeomen combination. When the big Beta guns had finally silenced, the independents were on the short end of a 33-to-8 score.

In the initial match of the day the strong Kappa Sigma swimming combination trounced the Chi Psi splashers by a 32-to-9 count. The boys from the race looked like one of the strongest teams in the circuit.

In the other two matches held yesterday afternoon Sigma Alpha Epsilon nosed out Pi Kappa Alpha 26 to 10, and Phi Kappa Psi decisively defeated Phi Delta Theta, 33 to 9.

Jim Reed, Chuck Reed, and Ken Meir established a new donut record in the 120-yard medley, when they ploughed through the water in 1:13.4. This is the second record the Betas have broken this week, as Jim Reed smashed the mark in the backstroke in last Tuesday's event.

Hall Nominated for Post

William O. Hall has been nominated for manager of oratory, according to Professor John L. Casteel, men's debate coach. Following the sanction of his appointment by the University forensic committee, Hall will take over the management of the W. F. Jewett speaking contest.

Hubbell Voted Best Player in National League

Carl Hubbell, effective twirler of the New York Giants, received one of baseball's highest honors when he was voted the most valuable player in the National league.

The Giant pitcher received a total of 77 out of a possible 80 votes. His closest opposition came from two hard hitting outfielders, Chuck Klein of the Phillies and Wally Berger of the Braves.

Hubbell established an enviable record this past season and made an even greater name for himself in defeating the Washington Senators twice in the recent series.

 Clapp also announced that Walter Swanson had been named chairman of the sign committee. He will be assisted by Dick Bowe, Frank Howland, Emmet Onslow, and Ed Stipe.

George Godfrey, manager of the Colonial theater, stated yesterday that dads would be admitted free to the theater Saturday and Sunday of Dads' Day week-end, when accompanied by one student paid admission.

Moek Game Slated
 A mock football game between halves of the Oregon-Idaho gridiron feud, Friday night, October 20, has been planned with one team representing the dads and the other the students.

The dean of men's office yesterday announced that Clifford Constance, assistant registrar, would audit the computations of the registration committee and determine the prize winning houses in the Dads' Day attendance competition, contrary to the announcement which appeared in yesterday morning's Emerald that Paul W. Ager, comptroller, would have charge of the computations. Ager left the University last year.

Oregon State Rooks Have Strong Team

Konopa and Hunt to Be Out for Season

Orange Yearlings Will Have Many Promising Ex-prep Men in Lineup

Bear stories to the contrary, Coaches Bill Reinhart and Irv Schulz of the Oregon freshmen should send a strong eleven against Slat's Gill's Oregon State rooks here Friday night. Although scrimmages this week have added a few injuries, only two men are definitely out of the game. Bob Konopa, fullback, and Fred Hunt, guard, will probably not appear in a game this season.

Reports from Corvallis indicate that the rooks will have the edge in experience. In addition to scrimmages against the Beaver varsity, Gill has sent up a few trial footballs against Albany and Oregon State alums.

The rook backfield is reported to be speedy. The line of the Orange yearlings was reported weak at the first of the year, but later reports tell of improvement in that department. Ray Woodman, Zell trophyist and backfield ace, has not appeared in the early rook trial workouts, an injury variously reported as a pulled muscle, in his arch, turned ankle and pulled muscle in his leg, keeping him benched. He will undoubtedly play Friday night, however.

Dick Joslin is also outstanding in the Beaver babe backfield. The most promising line man is Hub Tuttle, end. (Where have we heard those two names before?)

Perhaps the sunshine has been a bit deceiving, or we still think it's "the good ole summer time," but anyway, red flannels ought to be given an airing. The patients in the infirmary are Elise Oehler, Paulleon Rosete, Fred Fisher, Lysle Smith, Barbara Fraights and Bud Fowler.
