Weddings, Dinners Features in Society

Vying for first place with the numerous weddings and engagements that have taken place during the past week and those that are to take place, are the many exchange dinners and desserts. However, cupid has decreed that "dame society" shall not push into oblivion his attempts with his bow and arrow.

Miss Thacher to Wed

As a pleasant surprise to friends came the announcement of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Goodwin Thacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher of Eugene, to Eric Johann Forsta, son of Mr. Wilhelm Forsta of Astoria.

The announcement was made at an informal tea given Sunday afternoon, October 15, at 4 o'clock at the Thacher home. Forty friends of the family were present. Both Miss Thacher and Mr. Forsta are graduates of the University of Oregon.

Miss Thacher is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority, as well as of Phi Beta and Master Dance honorary groups. She was in advertising work in San Francisco for some time, and is an associate member of Gamma Alpha Chi honorary.

Mr. Forsta was affiliated with Sigma Nu, and was well known in campus athletics, being a member of the Order of the O. He was an honor student on the campus, received his degree in 1932, and his master of arts degree in 1933.

The wedding is to be an event of the early winter season.

National Officer Honored

Mrs. Margaret Daigh Van Aalst of Kirkland, Washington, editor of the Beta Phi Alpha national magazine, is to be the guest of honor at dinner Thursday evening, October 19, at the chapter house. Other guests will include Eugene alumnae.

Mrs. Van Aalst recently returned from the national Pan-Hellenic conference held in Chicago.

She was an instructor on the campus from 1927 to 1930. While here she was connected with the household arts department. She was also on the advisory council of the Mortar Board one year.

New Co-education Plan in Georgia Proving Popular

Girls' College Will be Connected With University; 400 Are Now Enrolled

Southern girls whose parents balked at giving them university training because of the boggy of co-education, now have a new way out.

Down at the University of Georgia the old ivy-covered buildings of the former Georgia State Teachers college are being painted and furnished anew to serve as special lecture halls and dormitories for women in the university's newly created Co-ordinate college.

Thus, beginning this fall the girls at Georgia will have a campus, classrooms, library, athletic fields, and infirmary of their own, with full use of the university's facilities as well. The same professors will give the same courses on their campus as on the men's and they will have a part in the general undergraduate activities, including the dramatic and glee clubs, the campus newspaper and year book.

The new college's relationship with the university will therefore be similar to, though somewhat closer than that between Radcliffe and Harvard or Barnard and Columbia.

So popular is the new plan even before its start that every place in the dormitories has already been taken, and two cottages nearby have been secured by the college to take care of the overflow. All 400 girls of the college will take their meals together in a common dining hall.

At a bridge party, Wednesday evening, October 11, given at the home of Miss Roma Whisnant, the wedding date of Miss Mildred Vaughn, and Leroy Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Smith, was announced. Both families are of Portland.

The announcements were deftly concealed in tiny nosegays which marked the places at the supper table.

The wedding is to take place October 26, at 11 o'clock in the chapel of St. Stephen's cathedral with Dean Horace M. Ramsey officiating.

Both Miss Vaughn and her fiancé are graduates of the University of Oregon, where she was affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi, and he with Theta Chi.

Two-Gun Frazier Descends Upon Startled University

WANTED: DEAD OR ALIVE, REWARD FOR TWO-GUN FRAZIER, GUILTY OF STEALING THE HONORS DURING EPIC DRAMA OF THE WEST, THE PENDLETON ROUND-UP.

And then the story went that shortly after the escape of several lunatics from the Salem asylum, another, and far fiercer menace, descended upon the University—Jean Frazier, queen of the Pendleton round-up.

"What do you think of this quaint University after your freedom on the prairies?" Miss Frazier was stopped long enough to be asked.

"Hi yu skooklum," (very good, to you), Pardon me, my Indian is getting to be a habit with me." It seems that Jean was offered a contract opposite Tom Mix in his next thriller but she heroically held to her dream of dreams by saying, "Clark Gable or nothing."

Being a Pendleton girl, Jean is a true daughter of the golden west. The first day she rode majestically into the arena in her regal white buckskin. Although she is reputed to be an excellent equestrienne it is rumored she rode a bit stiffly.

Asked about her ideas on matrimony, "I am making no statements to the press," she replied "frozen-facedly."

What do you think of Neuberger and his article in the Nation? "Don't know anything about it. Who is he, anyway?"

"After being to Seattle my favorite colors are black and tan," she called back gayly while walking away to the tune of "Heading For the Last Round-Up."

Informal Talk on Religions Today

The third of a series of talks on religion will be given by Dr. E. W. Warrington at the Westminster house at 9 o'clock. These discussions are informal in procedure, as the objective of these talks is to have the students exchange opinions and conceptions of religion and the church.

At the last meeting, the discussion centered on the relationship between the institution of the church and religion. Apparently, the expression of religion doesn't change and man today faces the same problem of finding himself in the universe as the primitive man. It is obvious, however, that the institution of religion hasn't adequately kept pace with the conditions of today. The problem that remains unsolved, as yet, is to reorganize and to rethink its methods with the new point that is emerging.

"GOLD Diggers leaves the Colonial tonight, and tomorrow night you'd be surprised what Mr. Godfrey has cooked up for us college children. A complete bill of cartoon comedies. More fun.
There'll be a colored silly symphony, a Mickey Mouse, Looney Tune, Betty Boop, Flip the Frog, Oswald the Lucky Rabbit, and more. Metropolitan stuff. Show starts at 6:30. Admission one dime.
Dick Powell, the male lead in "Gold Diggers," used to be a master of ceremonies in a Philadelphia theater. He sings and plays a flock of instruments, and directs a band besides. Studio officials liked his smile and voice and gave him a try in pictures. The boy made good.
Ned Sparks is a kick as the producer with no dough.

"Three Cornered Moon" is the story about a wealthy family which lost all its money, and what the three sons and one daughter do about it. Mary Boland is a scream as the dumb-sweet-impertinent mamma of a gang of very well kids indeed. The swellest being, to my notion, Miss Claudette Colbert. A very good comedy.
