

Oregana Drive Prizes Won by Tri Delt, Pi Kapp

Winners Show Record Time, Says Cross

500 SIGN FOR COPIES

Sale Expected to Exceed Former Records; Still Chance to Earn Free Book

The subscription drive for the 1934 Oregana reached its peak of interest last night with the announcement of the winners of the silver loving cups awarded for the first fraternity and first sorority to reach the 100 per cent mark. Delta Delta Delta gained possession of the sorority trophy, while the men's cup goes to Pi Kappa Alpha.

The two winners reached the 100 per cent mark in record time, according to Ed Cross, business manager of the yearbook, who was in charge of the contest. Delta Delta Delta reported a perfect list at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, while Pi Kappa Alpha phoned in their claim to the trophy several minutes later. The announcement of these winners was withheld from the press until last night, so that a check-up could be made.

Other groups that have a complete list of subscribers are Theta Chi, which announced its accomplishment right upon the heels of the winning Pi Kaps, and Delta Zeta. The cups will be awarded to the winners Saturday.

"From all indications," states Cross, "the drive will be the most successful staged in the past three years. Approximately 500 students have already signed for copies. This is over half of the total number of subscriptions sold last year."

Students who wish to obtain copies of the annual are urged to sign up with their representatives immediately, as the campaign is scheduled to come to an end Saturday noon. The end of the contest does not mean the finish of the drive for subscribers, however, and representatives still have a chance to earn a free Oregana with a complete sign-up of their respective groups.

Milk Ousts Beer as German National Drink, Says Consul

By ROSABELLE HIMELSTEIN

Who could picture Germany not drinking its beer and crunching pretzels, but drinking milk? Yes, milk. Perhaps the 3.2 in America just hasn't the kick and the incentive for a song, but just the same it's much cheaper than the German beer. No longer will the university students get together, and sway their steins in the air, and sing the good old German drinking songs. Milk will now be the drink. It's the cows that will be working over time, instead of the jolly fat bartender.

It was Dr. W. L. Reinhart, German consul, who said that Hitler neither drinks nor smokes and has given an order to raise the price on beer, now making it rather difficult for the beer gurgling indi-

Joyce Eusembark is general chairman of the Y. W. C. A. doughnut sales this year. Peggy Chessman will manage Friday night's sale. The doughnuts are the familiar Mayflower brand made by the Korn baking company of Eugene.

Emerald Obtains Superior Rating For Year 1932-33

All-American Honor Certificate Is Presented Campus Daily By N. S. P. A.

The Emerald yesterday received a certificate presented by the National Scholastic Press association signifying that the campus daily had received an all-American honor rating, the highest obtainable by college newspapers.

Five classifications of ratings are given by the association. They are all-American, or superior; first class, or excellent; second class, or good; third class, or high average; and fourth class, or no honors.

The Emerald was notified last spring that it had won the coveted all-American laurels but did not get the certificate at that time.

The campus daily is now a member of the association, the purpose of which is to make possible co-operative effort on the part of scholastic editors for the continual improvement of school publications so that they may better serve the cause of education and the individual institutions they represent.

The ratings are based on news values and sources, news writing and editing, editorials and entertaining matter, and headlines, typography, and makeup. The Emerald was given a total of 910 points out of a possible 1000.

Dean Wayne L. Morse, of the school, was elected representative for the University of Oregon at the summer conference of the Social Science Research Council of America in Franconia, New Hampshire. University Band To Give Concert For Oregon Dads

Director Stehn Has Three Groups Of Graded Ability; New Players Added

Beginning the A. S. U. O. concerts for this year, the University band, under the direction of John Stehn, will play in honor of the Oregon Dads next Sunday at 5 o'clock in the auditorium of the music building.

Five numbers, varied in type and tempo, comprise the program. Vessella's "Pasadena Day March" begins the program, with "Bridal Rose Overture," by Lavalles, selections from Victor Herbert's "Mademoiselle Modiste," Borowski's "Adoration," and Luigi's "Ballet Gypsy" following.

Five new clarinet players, George Jones, Bruce Centers, Kenneth Asbury, Ronald Drew, and Phoebe Breyman; and Mildred Sanford, oboe player, swell the ranks of the first division of the band which will play Sunday.

Experts, not so expert, and beginners all have a place in the band. There are three definite musical groups, number one consisting of about forty pieces, all experienced players. Number two has over thirty-two pieces, and group three about fifteen. Each group practices twice a week.

Director Stehn believes that by this arrangement a continual supply of musicians will be forthcoming, and the poorer players will be given a chance to improve and move up a notch each year.

Tongue Requests Group to Discuss Student Problems

Football Season Profitable Though Slightly Ahead of Budget, Says Rosson

Suggesting that the executive council become less of a rubber stamp body and place an end to simply passing upon recommendations of student committees, Thomas H. Tongue, president of the Associated Students, at a meeting of the executive council yesterday, asked that the council bring up and discuss arising student difficulties, and refer them to their respective committees.

Tongue also recommended that Hugh Rosson, graduate manager of the A. S. U. O. prepare an informal report of all A. S. U. O. activities to be given at each meeting of the executive council.

In answer to Tongue's request, Rosson reported that he was very optimistic over the present situation of the Associated Students. Rosson said that at present, the football season so far has been slightly ahead of its budget, but more profitable than anticipated.

This year, more than ever before, according to Rosson, students are taking a greater interest in campus activities. He said that the general outlook on the campus is much better than it has been during the last two years.

As the only official business of the meeting yesterday, the council approved the action of the publications committee in awarding the photography contract for the Oregana to Kennell-Ellis studios.

Prices this year will be 35 cents for proofs, 25 cents for retakes, and 10 cents for additional prints for publication in the year book.

Music Programs To Be Given by Y

A weekly half hour of music, featuring Oregon students, will be sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. every Thursday afternoon at 4:45, beginning today. This new idea will take the place of the meditation that has been featured in the weekly vesper.

The change in program was effected when a number of requests were received, asking the Y. W. C. A. to arrange some program of music that would in part take the place of the Sunday organ recitals.

Alma Herman, chairman of the weekly musicale, has planned a calendar in which piano, vocal, and violin music will be alternated.

On the program today Marjorie Scobert will play familiar classical music. Helen Wilson, Eva Burkhalter, and Marion Patullo are assisting Miss Herman with the arrangement.

Independents Will Organize For 1933-34

Election of Officers Is Planned

ATTENDANCE URGED

Temporary Chairman Contacts Unaffiliated Women for Support

University of Oregon unaffiliated women, those living neither in sororities nor dormitories, will meet tonight at 9 o'clock at the home of Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, corner of 20th and Potter, to organize the group and formulate plans for the year. Independent girls are urged to attend, and take part in election of officers, appointment of committees, and discussion of possible future of the group.

It has been impossible, according to Margery Thayer, temporary chairman, to contact every independent woman attending the University, and issue a verbal or written invitation to attend, but all independent women are asked to pledge their support to the move by attending the first meeting.

The proposed organization has been pledged support by the University personnel administration, and favorable comment on the move has been made by campus leaders.

It has been pointed out that the purpose in organizing the group is not for political pull or complications, neither does the club propose to take the place of a sorority in influencing the life of a college girl. The purpose is to provide for the independent girl a definite anchor, through which she can "find" herself on the campus, and take a more active part in student body affairs, both social and scholastic.

There is at present no organization through which the independent women can become acquainted with each other, or contacted as a group. The proposed organization will facilitate the contact problem, and assure the various campus organizations of an easier method of reaching the independent girls.

Oregon ROTC Question Rises To Life Despite War Rumor

The campus R. O. T. C. question has come to life again! In spite of the fact that during the last few weeks and days "there have been wars and rumors of wars" and armament conferences and agreements have gone "the way of all flesh," a committee for the purpose of attempting to change the compulsory R. O. T. C. military requirements to optional has been organized on the campus. At present all men, unless excused for "conscientious objections," or because they have a job, are required to take military training for six terms as a graduation requirement.

The committee, headed by Wallace Campbell, feels that at present there is a stigma placed on the man who attempts to be excused

Dispute Rages Over Working Hours for University Janitors

Dr. Pallett Says Long Hours Have Been Policy at Oregon for Years; Opinion Favors Change in System

Administrative authorities yesterday had taken no steps to alleviate the 9½-hour working day regulations instituted in the janitorial service this fall on the University of Oregon campus.

Interest in the case of the janitors' working hours was brought to a high pitch following publication by the Emerald of an editorial pointing out that janitors start work at 6 a. m. and quit at 6 p. m., taking a 2½-hour "lunch" period from 11 until 1:30. This situation persists, the Emerald declared, in spite of state legislation limiting the hours of state employees to eight hours a day and 48 hours a week.

Campus and faculty opinion was obviously in favor of a rearrangement of the janitors' hours, either by cutting the hours to a more humane schedule or by rearranging them so that more opportunity is given for rest.

Pallett Comments

A fresh consideration was brought into the case when it was learned from Earl M. Pallett, executive secretary, that limiting the length of the working day might have the effect of placing the janitors upon an hourly salary basis, instead of the monthly basis upon which they now operate. He further pointed out that for 20 years the janitorial force has been operating on the basis of 10 hours a day. The staff has not, however, been working on the present schedule of 5 hours in the early morning and 4½ hours in the late afternoon.

No refutation was made of the Emerald's charge that the present janitorial set-up is contrary to state laws.

Statement Follows

Pallett's prepared statement follows:

"According to Mr. L. H. Johnson, comptroller emeritus, the janitorial force for the past twenty years has been employed during the school year on the basis of ten hours of duty a day. The work assigned to each man has been the equivalent of the amount of work that could ordinarily be done in eight consecutive hours. The impossibility of working eight consecutive hours due to classroom occupancy led to the above arrangement.

"This year an attempt was made to reduce the number of hours the men were expected to be on duty, and a preliminary reduction to nine and one-half hours was made. The arrangement was discussed with the janitorial force by Mr. Foote, head janitor, and was reported to be satisfactory. It was the intention then, and still is the intention to continue to reduce the hours on duty until they conform to the hours of work assigned. This could be done very easily if the janitorial force were employed on an hourly instead of a monthly basis. This solution was considered, but was temporarily abandoned because of the desire to protect the janitorial force, many of whom have been with us for a number of years.

"The total janitorial salary and wage budget for the present year, after adjustment for salary decreases imposed by the state legislature, shows a reduction of exactly one hundred dollars compared to last year—a reduction of one-half of one per cent compared to last year.
