The Oregon Daily Emerald, official student publication of the University of Oregon, Eugene, published daily during the college year, except Sundays, Mondays, holidays, examination periods, all of December and all of March except the first three days. Entered in the postoffice at Eugene, Oregon, as second-class matter. Subscription rates, $2.50 a year. Was not allowed entrance. (Authorities tell us the whole affair smacked of race discrimination.) Enraged, the young rebel renounced the halls of learning and set forth for new and better fields.

A CALL FOR ACTION

A DMINISTRATORS of the National Recovery act have sharpened their axes against employers who attempt to evade the maximum-hours men to work for stretches of two or three hours at intervals during the day, thus getting the benefit of their services throughout an illegally long day, though the total number of hours actually spent at machines does not total more than the lawful eight.
