

Plans Pushed Further Ahead For Infirmary

Part of Project Will Be Given by Government

LOCATION PROPOSED

New Library Plans Are Considered By Members of Oregon Board in Meeting

Plans for the proposed $100,000 University infirmary were pushed along by action of the state advisory board of the public works administration in forwarding the project to Washington for approval, according to C. C. Hockley, engineer of the board.

The project provides for a loan of $100,000, 30 per cent of which will be considered a gift by the government and need not be repaid. Of the remaining $70,000 which must be repaid, $50,000 will be provided by the state under a legislative act of two years ago. This will leave only $20,000 to be paid by the A. S. U. O., which will amount to $23,000 with interest charges added. This sum will be taken care of with the A. S. U. O. building fund.

Action Not Final

The action of the state advisory board is not final, nor is information available as to whether or not action was favorable. Under orders from Washington, the board is allowed to reveal that some action has been taken on certain projects but is not allowed to tell what the decision is.

Plans for the new library are still before the board and no information is available as to when action will be taken on them. There are 165 projects involving $91,000,000 before the board. Each job must be considered separately, and action on any one project may be very slow. As originally planned the library is to cost $350,000.

Locations Proposed

Two locations proposed for the library are: Thirteenth avenue in the lot between Johnson and Condon halls and on Kincaid street between Condon hall and Fifteenth avenue. The infirmary probably will be located at the northeast corner of Fourteenth avenue and University street.

Members of the Oregon board are Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the school of social science; Bert E. Haney, Portland; and R. N. Stanfield, Baker.

Second Concert To Be Given Soon

The University of Oregon band will offer its second concert at the music auditorium next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., according to John Stehn, director.

The concert will form a part of the many campus activities in celebration of Homecoming week.

About 30 members of the second group will make up the band.

With an overproduction of flute players in the first group, two have been placed in the second.

Landscape Architect Grads Of 1933 Have Appointments

Each of the eight graduates from the class of '33 in the school of landscape architecture found appointments in park work, professional landscape offices, nurseries, or landscape contracting upon graduation, except two who are engaged in graduate study.

The Oregon department is one of the two schools offering landscape work west of the Mississippi to have gained national recognition in competition with the leading schools of the East. According to Professor F. A. Cuthbert, the essential equipment here is as excellent as that of any school in the country, and has been well developed to aid the students in their work.

Two years ago the curricula in landscape architecture was expanded from a four year to a five year course leading to the degrees of bachelor of landscape architecture or bachelor of arts in landscape architecture. The first two years and last two years of work are taught at the University and the third year at Corvallis.

The first two years are similar in subject matter to that required of the major students in other branches of the fine arts. The

Saturday Noon Latest Date for Last Payment On Registration Fees

Noon Saturday is the last possible opportunity the students will have to pay their third installment on the registration fee.

All non-resident students who have not paid their fees are compelled to pay the 25-cent last payment fee.

Slides Made Up as Aid For Visual Instruction

Dr. L. S. Cressman, aided by Howard S. Stafford, has been making up a large number of slides which will be used in the anthropology department.

Dr. Warren D. Smith, who has a collection of slides, lends them to the different departments to fill vacancies in the University collection.

U of O Future To Be Theme of Alumni Lunch

Meeting Will Be in Men's Dorm Saturday

COMMITTEES NAMED

Registration Friday and Saturday; Tickets for Luncheon on Sale at Johnson Hall

"Where is the University headed?" will be the theme of addresses given at the alumni luncheon, Saturday noon, November 4, at John Straub memorial hall, announced Robert K. Hall, alumni secretary, last night. It is planned to have representatives of the state board of higher education, the University of Oregon federation, the student body, and others express their views on the subject.

Music for the luncheon, which is limited to alumni only, is being arranged for, according to Ann-Reed Burns, alumni luncheon chairman. The luncheon will succeed the alumni meeting scheduled for Saturday morning.

Appointments Announced

The following committees were announced by Ann-Reed Burns last night: Committee for arrangements, Betty Ohlemiller, chairman; Betty Church, Eleanor French, and Jean Burnett. Ticket committee, Eleanor Norblad, chairman; Elma Giles, Doris Bird, and Cynthia Cornell.

Arrangements are being made for prizes to be awarded the houses having the largest percentage of returning alumni, according to Elizabeth Bendstrup, reception chairman.

Alumni Must Register

The registration committee will handle alumni registration from 1 to 5 Friday afternoon, November 3, and 9 to 12:30 Saturday morning, November 4. Alumni may register from 12:30 to 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the alumni secretary's office in Friendly hall.

All registration must be at the hours designated in order that it count towards the trophy competition.

Committees announced by Elizabeth Bendstrup.

Faculty Will Help Pick Candidates

The University faculty has been asked in the faculty bulletin to cooperate in every way possible in getting out desirable candidates for the Rhodes scholarship.

The applicants must have the following qualities: (1) literary and scholastic ability and attainments; (2) qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship; (3) exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his school; mates (4) physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Dr. Warren D. Smith, who has a collection of slides, lends them to the different departments to fill vacancies in the University collection.

Tonqueds to Entertain Eugene Girls Tonight

Tonqueds, Eugene women's organization, will hold a party tonight at 7:15 in Westminster house. All town girls are invited.

Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women will speak and the council will be introduced. Dancing and refreshments will complete the evening's program.

Odd Jobs Needed for Many Students to Help Pay Third Installment

Odd jobs, such as raking leaves, cutting lawns, putting in wood, or anything that will net a little cash, are urgently needed by many students of the University, said Miss Janet M. Smith, employment secretary, yesterday. Some students are short a dollar or two on the installment of fees now due, and unless work can be found, many will be forced to drop out of school.

Anyone needing work done is asked to call Miss Smith at the University, telephone 3300. Qualifications of all students applying for work are kept on file and employers are assured competent workers, Miss Smith States.

German Picture Will Show Here Thursday Night

"Picture Not Propaganda," States Dr. E. A. Pollard of German Department Here

"We Meet in Germany" is the title of a five-reel film to be shown in 105 Commerce, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The picture will be offered in connection with a lecture by Paul Naef of Seattle, who has recently returned from Germany. The picture will open the activities of Der Deutsche Verein, campus German club.

The film has been shown in several universities in the United States. It depicts the historical and cultural centers of Germany as well as the present transportation methods now used by the Germans.

"This picture is not a propaganda picture," stated Dr. E. A. Pollard of the German department, "and is not being shown in the interest of the new Hitler government."

Campus Faculty Will Offer Talks At Lane Institute

Sessions to Be Held in Junior High School Thursday and Friday Of Present Week

Members of the University faculty make up a large part of the group of speakers who will participate in the Lane county teachers' institute to be held in the Woodruff Wilson junior high school building Thursday and Friday of this week.

Alfred Powers, dean of the extension division, will address a general assembly Thursday morning on "Aids from State System of Higher Education." Thursday afternoon Miss Elinora Thompson, director of nursing at the medical school in Portland, will speak to the entire group and Friday morning Calvin Crumbaker, associate professor of economics, will speak on "The N.R.A. as It Affects Salaried People."

Faculty members who will speak to special groups in the course of the institute are Mrs. Ann Landis, Victor P. Morris, "Some Interpretations of Present Day Economic Trends"; C. L. Huffaker, mathematics; O. F. Stafford, science; L. C. Ball, problems in junior business training, commercial law, and economic geography; Anna M. Thompson, "Language Objectives."

Miss E. Lenore Casford, upper grade literature; John F. Bovard, program of physical education; S. Stephenson Smith, "Reorganization of English Course to Meet the Changing Conditions of Modern Life"; S. H. Jameson, "Obsolete Democracy"; R. U. Moore, mathematics; B. W. DeBusk, standard tests, measurements, and remedial work.

The executive committee is Henriette Horak, chairman; Ebba Wicks and Adele Sheehy, assistant chairmen; Marygolde Hardison, adviser. Girls in charge of acts are Betty Allen, Roberta Moody, Louise Labbe, and Valborg Anderson. Other committee chairmen are Virginia Younie and Evelyn Hays, refreshments; Betty Ohlemiller, room arrangement; Mary Jane Jenkins, decorations; Eleanor Elde, posters; Helen Dadds and Ruth Mae Chilcote, invitations; Ann-Reed Burns, publicity.

Dr. L. S. Cressman of the anthropology department recently received a request from Robert Ripley, author of "Believe It or Not," for information in regard to a substance which he called "sandstone," which he said is very light and floats when placed in water.

As a matter of fact, this substance is not "sandstone" at all, but a volcanic ash formed from the froth of lava. It is full of holes made by gas bubbles, will float, and is so light that a large piece may be lifted with ease.

The second appearance of the Guild hall players in their one-act farce, as part of the entertainment program of the C.C.C., was given last night at the Erice Creek camp at Rajada.

Gertrude Winslow, Ethan Newman, and Lieut. Roy Craft, an alumnus of Oregon, participated in the dramatic presentation. Marion Bass entertained with some "blues."

The troupe was given a dinner by Lieut. Florentin P. Wencker, U. S. N., who is in charge of the camp.

Living Quarters For International Students Closed

Committee Hopes to Reopen House Next Term; Recognition Won Nationally by Group

Lack of students from foreign countries on the campus has caused the International house, which has operated successfully for many years, to be closed temporarily. The organization, which is sponsored by a board consisting of faculty members and others interested, will continue the work, however, and it is hoped that the house may be reopened next term.

Mrs. H. S. Tuttle, who has served as house chaperon for the group, is leaving in a few days to join her husband in New York, where he is now attending Columbia university. She will return when the house is reestablished.

The international house has won national acclaim for the work it has done in furthering good-will among students here. Since it was founded students of many countries and many races have carried on an effective campaign for better international relations and a better understanding among peoples of the earth.

Final Rehearsal Held Monday for 'Get-Wise' Party

Skits to Be Presented to Acquaint Women Students With Life on Oregon Campus

Amid a bustle of voices, shifting scenery, costumes, and scrapping chairs last night was held the final dress rehearsal of the skits for the "get-wise" party for new students, to be held from 7 to 10 tomorrow night in Gerlinger hall.

About 100 women, from sophomores to Dean Hazel P. Schwering, take part in the skits, which are intended to acquaint new students with campus life through a "television idea." Four acts deal with different phases of college: honoraries, publications, hobbies and sports, manners and clothes.

A world-celebrated blues singer, whose name cannot yet be revealed, will give a few numbers, as one of the special features between acts. Cider and doughnuts will be served.

Kwama, women's sophomore service honorary, is financing the party, which is annual event, formerly being financed by the A. W. S. This year frosh councillors and Kwama are taking it as their project.

The executive committee is Henriette Horak, chairman; Ebba Wicks and Adele Sheehy, assistant chairmen; Marygolde Hardison, adviser. Girls in charge of acts are Betty Allen, Roberta Moody, Louise Labbe, and Valborg Anderson. Peggy Sweeney Will Give Recital

Peggy Sweeney will be presented in recital tonight at 8 p. m. in the school of music auditorium. She has studied four years under Rex Underwood of the University music department, and for several years under Frank Eichenlaub of the University Symphony orchestra, playing first violin.

The program follows: Sonata in C minor (Allegro) Grieg; Concerto in D minor (First movement) Bruch; Spango, Wright; Nigun (Improvisation) Block; The Zephyr, Hubay; Rondo Capriccioso, Saint-Saens.

Students Hear DuPre Organ Recital Sunday

Miss Janet Smith, secretary of the employment agency, made a short trip to Portland yesterday to hear an organ recital presented by Marcel DuPre, concert organist and teacher from Paris. DuPre is one of the most famous of the living organists.

Accompanying Miss Smith were Phyllis McCarthy, Cecilia Werth and Howard Backlund, music students.

Campus Calendar

All house representatives in charge of accommodations for Homecoming will meet in 110 Johnson at 4 this afternoon.

Meeting of 'mum sale representatives at 4 upstairs in the College Side today. Very important.

Important meeting of Thespians this evening at 6:45, sunrooms at Gerlinger.

Stoddard Tells Procedure for Portland Trip

Women to Trade Student Cards for Tickets

CO-EDS GET SERVICE

Men to Take Identification Cards Along; Good for Trip and Admission to Game

Reserved tickets for the Oregon State football game, November 11, selling regularly for $2.50 will be granted free to women students on presentation of their student body cards, Tom Stoddard, assistant graduate manager, announced yesterday. Cards may be exchanged for tickets Monday, Nov. 6, at the Co-op.

Each student body card will be surrendered temporarily and a game ticket will be given in exchange. Women may secure free train tickets on presentation of their tickets to the game. Round trip tickets will be distributed on the train to Portland.

Women Have Privilege

Women wishing to obtain seats together must go in a body to secure tickets, as there will be no revision in seating order to accommodate those changing their minds later. All women's tickets must be secured before Friday noon, Nov. 10. No women may obtain tickets in Portland the day of the game, Stoddard stressed.

Men students, on the other hand, may not exchange student body cards for tickets in Eugene. They will show their cards on the train to Portland for free round trip transportation and will obtain free general admission tickets at Multnomah stadium on again presenting their student body cards.

Train Leaves Saturday

The outgoing train to Portland will leave Eugene at 7:30 Saturday morning and reach Portland at 11:00. Students will attend a rally downtown and lunch. Men must be in their seats at 1 p. m.; women at 2:00, when the game is called.

Those who do not possess student body cards will be charged $2.00 for round trip train fare to Portland, $2.20 for reserved seats, and $1.50 for a limited number of reserved seat tickets to be sold at the game. Any infraction of student body card use will deprive the offending student of his card, Stoddard said.

Dr. Philip A. Parsons, professor of sociology, who is in charge of the arrangements for Schafer's Wednesday night talk, emphasized yesterday "that Schafer's talk will not be Red Cross propaganda or a plea for the subscription of funds to that organization, but rather a purely educational talk describing the method in which these great social undertakings are managed and carried out."

Parsons further stated that the talk will be of special interest to students in various social science classes.

Following Schafer's speech which will last until 8:30, those interested may remain for a round table discussion with Schafer and other member of the Red Cross staff.

Superstitious People Shy Clear of Ladders

Superstitious girls are finding a good many ladders to dodge, over by Gerlinger hall.

The Women's building is going to be all dressed up in a new coat of paint for the co-ed party Wednesday night. Painters are busy painting the outside woodwork—the first paint it has had in five or six years.

Ripley Requests Data About Volcanic Rock

Dr. L. S. Cressman of the anthropology department recently received a request from Robert Ripley, author of "Believe It or Not," for information in regard to a substance which he called "sandstone," which he said is very light and floats when placed in water.

Guild Hall Players Act At CCC Entertainment

The second appearance of the Guild hall players in their one-act farce, as part of the entertainment program of the C.C.C., was given last night at the Erice Creek camp at Rajada.

Avoid the Graveyard! Students Warned, for 'Tis All Hallow's Eve

Shades of old Oregon. Nine ghosts for each cat who has given up all his lives for science in old Deady. Spectres playing football on Kincaid field. Shadowy figures flitting from the senior bench to the old libe steps.

The campus should be an eerie place indeed at midnight tonight, and woe be unto the student who must pass the graveyard—for 'tis All Hallow's eve!

Schafer Will Give Talk Concerning Red Cross Relief

Educational Talk Will Describe Methods by Which Plans Are Carried Out

"The Biggest Relief Job in the World" is the subject of a talk to be given Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Villard hall by A. L. Schafer, manager of the Pacific division of the Red Cross, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dean Karl W. Onthank, who made arrangements for the talk in behalf of the University.

Last year Schafer was an active member of the organization that distributed the flour given to charity by the United States grain commission and that also attended to the manufacture and distribution of the surplus cotton which was also donated to the Red Cross by the grain commission. In addition, his society, through its council secretaries, was responsible for administering a great part of the funds provided by the national government for direct relief purposes. His speech will concern a description of these activities, which are considered by many authorities to have been the greatest undertaking in the field of social work in history, not excluding wartime social service activities.

Dr. Philip A. Parsons, professor of sociology, who is in charge of the arrangements for Schafer's Wednesday night talk, emphasized yesterday "that Schafer's talk will not be Red Cross propaganda or a plea for the subscription of funds to that organization, but rather a purely educational talk describing the method in which these great social undertakings are managed and carried out."

Manville, Thomas Will Speak Tonight at Meet

Dr. Ira Manville of the University of Oregon medical school at Portland and Prof. C. E. Thomas of Oregon State college will speak in Gerlinger hall at 7:30 tonight in the first business meeting of Sigma Xi.

Manville will speak on "The Vitamin Content of Fears," and Thomas will lecture on "The Micro-Structure of Some Nonferrous Alloys." Both lectures will be illustrated.

Guests will be invited to a dinner to be given at 6:15 before the meeting. Reservations for the dinner should be made by telephoning Miss Milligan, local 26, before noon today. The business meeting will be between 7:15 and 7:30, and will be followed immediately by the program.

Former 'School Boy' Here Member of Powerful Family

Four years ago an energetic, always smiling Japanese "school boy" studied on the campus, became well known for his activities in promoting interest in international relations. Later this "school boy" went to work for a time in a local cannery, went from here to Indianapolis, where he obtained a job with the Columbia Preserving company, lived with a colored family while working for Proctor and Gamble in Cincinnati, had some experiences working in the Ford Motor company organization, and then attended Columbia and Chicago universities.

Many people on the campus knew Yoshi Otsuka, encouraged him in his work, were delighted with his quaint but sincere English. Few knew that he was a member of a family in Japan which owns and operates a corporation capitalized at 30,000,000 yen, which produces one-third of all the soya bean sauce—an important food item in the orient, that is made in Japan. This business has been in the family since before the time of Columbus.

When Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism at the University here, and H. V. Hoyt, dean of the school of business administration, were in the orient last summer, they were met by the smiling "school boy" and for four days were royally entertained in and around Tokyo.

No longer just a "school boy" is Yoshi Otsuka. His "studies" in this country are important investigations of social conditions, particularly of workers, and to what extent his observations will influence the attitude of his company toward employees is not known.

Whatever he noted of labor conditions the visitor was deeply impressed by the treatment he received from Americans wherever he happened to be. So hospitable was this that the warm-hearted Japanese decided when he returned home to do all he could to reciprocate. He organized the Overseas People's Educational institute, with the purpose of furnishing hospitality and facilities for foreign scholars and students visiting and studying in Japan, to make evident to these guests the genuine warmth and good will that really underlies the somewhat formal Japanese attitude.

'Pigger's Guide' On Sale Today At Co-op, Igloo

Student Directory Costs Twenty-five Cents

ACCURACY ASSURED

Nearly 2500 Student, 300 Faculty Names Listed; Rechecking Causes Delay

The "pigger's guide" is out today. The indispensable student directory, listing every student and faculty member, his address, telephone number and major department, may be had at the Co-op or the A. S. U. O. office for 25 cents.

Unprecedented accuracy of the information compiled in the publication has been assured since the book was completely checked and rechecked three different times by the A. S. U. O. secretaries, the registrar's office and the printers.

Organizations and departments may requisition for copies through Charles D. Byrne, director of information, at his office in the administration building. Organizations failing to get in orders early must obtain copies from the multi-graph department next to the University press, since Byrne has only a hundred copies.

This year's issue of the "pigger's guide" includes an alphabetical list of University employees and officers, faculty committees for 1933-34, associated students, administration personnel, a classified business and professional directory and an alphabetical list of all students and faculty members. The directory includes approximately 2500 students and 300 faculty names. The information given includes home as well as Eugene addresses.

The delay in publication this year was due to the care taken to insure absolute accuracy in every detail. The A. S. U. O. office and the printers checked the proofs for correct addresses and the registrar's office made a recheck of each student's major subject and class standing.

Dr. Ira Manville of the University of Oregon medical school at Portland and Prof. C. E. Thomas of Oregon State college will speak in Gerlinger hall at 7:30 tonight in the first business meeting of Sigma Xi.
