

Our Side of It

By MALCOLM BAUER

Prink and Ike Weep; Bill Ingram Will Find Uclans a Worthy Foe

THE air is damp with weeping this morning as both Prink Callison and Ike Armstrong, in trembling voices, explain to their followers just why it is that neither of their teams is going to win today's inter-sectional classic at Hayward field. Even to the most unpracticed observer it seems a little too much to fathom just how more than one team is going to lose the Oregon-Utah struggle, but if you will go and talk to Prink a while and then turn around and trade cracks with the Utes' headman, this is just the conclusion that you will come to . . . both elevens are going to lose today.

The reasons . . . that's easy. Both mentors will painstakingly explain that all of his real stars are on the bench with injuries, and that he has been forced to run in a bunch of high school boys to fill out the squad. That's the big cry. Injury! Injury!

Now, just how much of this crepe hanging is real, and how much is just so many more bear stories. One thing we can tell you is that you will not see either Bobby Parke or Mark Temple with their hands on the pigskin today. Parke is definitely on the bench with a knee injury, while Co-captain Temple is nursing a pair of bruised shoulders. Other Duck gridders who have seen lots of action this year, but may not perform today are Dutch Clark, guard; Alec Eagle, tackle; and Leighton Gee, cut-back artist; not to mention "Biff" Nilsson, who is still on the sidelines.

Armstrong matches Callison's grief with stories about Crutchfield's broken wrist and 212-pound Croft's bad leg.

So that the set-up, fans. They're both going to lose today. It's never been done before, but then there's always a first time.

Coast conference grid fans get a little "breather" themselves today with the only league game on the slate, that being between California and U.C.L.A. at Los Angeles. As neither the Bears nor their little brothers, the Bruins, have broken into the win column in conference play this year, no-

Bruins Are on Short End Of Betting Odds

Coach Bill Spaulding's Team in Fine Condition; Clark May Replace Livesay

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Los Angeles, Nov. 3.—(Special)—Although the Uclans came out on the short end of the score in the Oregon contest, they are not going into the Bear contest tomorrow in the Olympic stadium with the idea of being beaten. The players still believe that given the proper amount of breaks, they would have defeated the northerners. The Bruin passing attack functioned for the first time this season, and several long gains came from passes, one resulting in a touchdown that was ruled out. The Westwooders expect to have better luck this time, and are out for the Bear scalp.

The line which gave a great exhibition in stopping Oregon's best is intact, except for the weakness at center. Captain Lee Coates may play, but Spaulding, who does not want to risk injuring him again, is grooming Cotter, 200-pound sophomore guard for the position, as Nordli, regular substitute center, is still on the sick list. The rest of the line is in fine condition, with plenty of reserve material at any time.

Clark, Bruin halfback, who played a greater part of the game against Oregon may break into the starting lineup, replacing Livesay. Livesay did not fare so well against the Webfoots, hence the change. Cheshire, sophomore flash, lived up to expectations, not only in carrying the ball, but in his long accurate passes. "Jumping Joe" Keeble will be in the lineup, and is expecting to go places after his great exhibition last Saturday.

The Bruins are on the short end of the betting, but are not particularly worried over the outcome. Their wary cry is "Bring on the Bears."

body (that is, nobody north, west, south, or east of California) cares much who wins.

The tilt has one feature in that it is the first time the Golden Bears have met an eleven from their younger brother institution in the South. They're pretty cocky in Berkeley about how easy it will be to roll over the "little" Bruins. You're due for a big surprise, Bill Ingram, and take that straight from Oregon's Webfoots, who met the Uclans only a week ago.

Only two other conference elevens will see action. Stanford meets a tough one in the Olympic club, and Washington State goes north to Spokane where they meet the ever-dangerous Gonzaga Bulldog.

 Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the school of social science, was in Portland yesterday attending a meeting of the state advisory board of the public works administration.

"On the Sidelines Today!"

This fine-looking chap is none other than Mark Temple, co-captain and stellar halfback of the Oregon varsity football team. Mark will be forced to view the game with Ike Armstrong's invading "Utes" from the sidelines today, as he is out with an injured shoulder.

Sigma Delta Psi Tests to Be Given Throughout Year

Any University Student Eligible For Competition; Official Records Released

Sigma Delta Psi, national honorary fraternity, tests are still being given, according to R. K. Cutler who has charge of the various events.

Any student enrolled in the University of Oregon is eligible to take the required tests, and it is not necessary that he be enrolled in the regular class. Owing to the bad weather which is about to set in, concentration will be given to inside events during the remainder of the term.

Ben Hargreaves, Bill Bowerman, and Arne Lindgren have been working hard lately and have passed all but several of the events.

Official Sigma Delta Psi records are as follows:

- 100-yd. dash, 10.3, Hal Lewis.
- 120-yd. low hurdles, 15 seconds, Voegtly.
- High jump, 6 ft., Bill Palmer.
- Broad jump, 22 ft. 8 inches, Bill Palmer.
- Shot put, 35 ft. 10 inches, Paul Lafferty.
- Baseball throw, 297 ft. 8 inches, Ladd Sherman.
- Football punt, 60 yds. 2 ft., 4 in., Clarence Nye.
- 100-yd. swim, 1:02 4-5 sec., Paul Lafferty.
- 1-mile run, 5 min. 26 sec., Tallant Greenough and Ladd Sherman.
- Handstand, 37 sec., Robert Van Nice.
- Fence Vault, 5 ft. 11 in., R. K. Cutler.
- Rope climb, 9 1-10 sec., Voegtly.

16 Unbeaten Gridiron Teams To Swing into Action Today

The referee's whistle again beckons hundreds of thousands of football fans to the gridiron today as leading college teams swing into action against traditional rivals. Eighteen major unbeaten teams are left and 16 of them take the field this afternoon in crucial tilts.

Most of the games on the Pacific coast this weekend are in the nature of breathers after the strenuous schedule of last week. The spotlight centers on Olympic stadium in Los Angeles where U. C. L. A. entertains the Golden Bears from Berkeley. Coach Bill Ingram's boys came through their games with Southern California in good shape and should win this one from the stubborn Bruins. This is the only conference game scheduled for today.

Up at Spokane Gonzaga plays host to W. S. C. The crippled Cougars are favored to win this one after a battle. The Stanford versus Olympic club game at San Francisco should result in a victory for the Cardinals. Oregon meets Utah at Eugene and is favored to trounce Coach Armstrong's Rocky Mountain conference champions. The Webfoots are undefeated and untied.

Games scheduled in the Rocky Mountain region find the Colorado Aggies playing Colorado School of Mines at Fort Collins; University of Colorado vs. Colorado College at Boulder; Utah State vs. Wyoming at Logan; University of Denver vs. Brigham Young university at Denver; and Montana State vs. Western State at Bozeman. Favored in these tilts are Colorado Aggies, University of Colorado, Utah State, University of Denver, and Montana State respectively.

Here are the big games in the East, Middle West and South and the way they're being picked by the "railbirds":

- George vs. Florida—The Bulldogs will win.
- Notre Dame vs. Navy—The Sailors to take it on the chin.
- Michigan vs. Illinois—The Wolverines by a howl. A close one.
- Minnesota vs. Northwestern—Minnesota in a walk.
- Wisconsin at Chicago—"Doc" Spears due to win one.
- Ohio Staters vs. Indiana—The staters.
- Iowa vs. Iowa State—We'll pick the "U."
- Carnegie Tech at Purdue—Undefeated teams. Tech's passing ineffective against Kizer's team.
- Purdue.
- Kentucky vs. Alabama—The Crimson Tide!
- Princeton at Brown—The Tigers if they're lucky!
- Yale vs. Dartmouth—The sons of Eli should score here.

Columbia vs. Cornell—Coach Little's men should win this one.

Harvard vs. Lehigh—There'll be no stopping the Crimson today.

St. Mary's at Fordham—A chance that the Saints will turn back the unbeaten Rams.

Texas vs. Southern Methodist—A toss-up. The Longhorns!

Colgate vs. Tulane—The latter should take this.

Holy Cross vs. Detroit—Can the Purple make it six straight? We'll stake our bottom dollar they do!

Rice vs. Santa Clara—Clipper Smith records a victory.

Army vs. Coe—A chance for the soldier reserves.

Pittsburgh vs. Centre—A breather for Pitt.

Pennsylvania vs. Lafayette—Penn. May be a scrap!

Centenary vs. Texas A. & M.—Toss-up. Ennee-meenie-mo. Centenary on the short end.

Nebraska vs. Missouri—The Cornhuskers should hardly work up a sweat.

Oklahoma vs. Kansas—Kansas due to win one.

Duke vs. Auburn—Duke to chalk up their sixth straight!

Vanderbilt vs. Georgia Tech—No excuse for Tech losing this.
