Great Things Hinge on Beaver-Duck Battle; Reinhart Still in Bed

Big things will be at stake when the pigskinners of Oregon and Oregon State go at each other in Multnomah stadium next Saturday. In the two score years that these two rivals have been meeting on the gridiron, the annual "Civil war" has always caused feelings to be at a high pitch on Bill Reinhart the two campuses and among the alumni, but never before has this great battle carried so much significance. . . . never before has its local and national importance earned for it the title of "Battle of the Century." That is exactly what the Beaver-Webfoot go is this year. . . . the Battle of the Century. Not only will the outcome be of vital importance to the 40,000 students and fans who are expected to witness the game in the Rose City, but up and down the Pacific coast throughout the nation grid followers will wait anxiously for the word of who will be the Pacific Northwest's standard bearer this year.

The winner of this epic will be due for national honors. Possible participation in the annual Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, and a likely invitation to represent the West in the lately planned "national championship" battle in Chicago, December 9, are among the glories that await the winner.

Negotiations have already been opened with the University by the group styling themselves the "National Football Championship Committee" to see if Oregon would be willing to send its football team to Chicago for a post season game with an eleven chosen from the East or the South. This game would be publicized as determining the national grid titlist for 1933, and the communication addressed to the Emerald from the committee made it clear that an invitation for Oregon eleven to play would hinge upon whether the Webfoots "come through their schedule without any defeats."

The invitation, if sent, would include ten per cent of the net proceeds of the game for the Webfoot athletic fund plus all expenses of the team and the bands to Chicago and return.

But this is only one of the rosy paths which lie ahead of the Ducks if they can take the Staters into camp. To the winner will go the leadership of the Pacific coast conference with the Trojans as a running mate. If the Lemon-Yellow gridmen win, they will go into the Southern California game a week later with an unspotted record. This Webfoot-Trojan go would undoubtedly decide the West's representative in the annual New Year's game in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

While Oregon's sport fans turn their attention to the Portland epic, one of the University's greatest sport figures lies ill in his bed. Commodore Billy Reinhart has been confined to his home for more than a week with a severe case of neuritis in his left shoulder. The ailment is blamed to an old football injury that Billy received

Webfoot Squad to Be Outweighed; Practice Sessions Are Not Heavy This Week

With his entire squad in great shape "Prink" Callison led the championship headed Oregon Webfoots through a light scrimmage session last night on Hayward field in preparation for the "big game" with the Oregon Aggies this Saturday at Portland.

Webfoot backers were cheered up by the news that Mark Temple, dashing halfback who has been out since the UCLA game with a bad shoulder; Bobby Parke, great punting quarterback on the coast, who injured his knee in the Bruin tilt; and Oregon's "old iron-sides" Biff Nilsson, veteran tackle who has been out of the Duck lineup for a month due to a knee injury sustained in the Columbia game, will all be back in harness for the "battle of the century."

Webfoot Hopes Gain
The return of these veterans to the lineup will greatly strengthen the Webfoots' hopes of beating the highly rated "ironmen" from the farm.

Last night's drill consisted of the third stringers running Stiner plays against the first two Oregon elevens.

The Ducks may take to the air to score against the Staters if the powerful Callison offense should fail to gain through the massive Oregon State forward wall. San Francisco university has been the lone team to score against the Orangemen. The Webfoots showed two real passing combinations during the Utah game in Milligan to Gee and Van Vliet to Pepljenjak. If "old Sol" is shining Saturday these two combinations may see plenty of action.

Orange Is Heavier
The Beavers will outweigh the Callison men by several pounds. The Orange line will total 1387 pounds for an average of 193 pounds per man, while the Duck forwards will tip the Fairbanks at 1302 pounds for an average of 186 pounds per man. The Beaver backfield will average 181 pounds and will total 725 pounds, whereas the lemon and emerald backs will total 692 pounds, averaging 173 pounds per man. If the day is a wet one this additional weight will be of a great advantage to the plow pushers.

Feature Story Contest Prize to Be Free Pass

The writer of the best feature story in the Emerald this week will see Virgil, world famous illusionist, on a free pass Friday night. The Emerald has contests for the writers of the most heads, the most stories, and the most tips, but this is the first time this year that a prize has been offered for the writing of the best feature story.

Elinor Henry, features editor and sponsor of the contest, said the contest is intended particularly for beat reporters, though any student (except herself, of course) is eligible. In case of a tie, each person will receive a pass. The contest will include Friday morning's Emerald, and the pass will be presented to the winner in time for the performance Friday night.

Veteran Guards and Centers Slated to Do Battle Next Saturday

By DON OLDS
The Webfoot-Beaver clash Saturday should take on some of the aspects of a cyclone, with one very significant difference. The center of a cyclone is an area of calm, but the core of the annual battle will be anything but peaceful.

While both teams will offer guards and centers averaging well over 190 pounds, it is not so much weight that will count as the individual ability of the linesmen. With Cuppoletti, Hughes and Clark matched against Wedin, Devine, and Tomscheck there shouldn't be many idle moments.

It is at the guard position that Lon Stiner will probably have to rely upon reserve strength, and while the regulars are evenly matched, Callison's reserves size up better than the bench-bound starters. As regulars Prink has two veterans, Bree Cuppoletti and Howard "Dutch" Clark. Close on their heels are Con Fury, candidate for Clark's position at right guard, and Rosy Gagnon, reserve left guard. And in listing the Oregon guards, Gardner Frye, who has been filling Nilsson's place at tackle, should certainly not be omitted. McCredie, a sophomore, is another potentiality for right guard.

Beaver Star Hurt
The importance of the Beaver guard reserves centers around Tomscheck's injury, sustained in the W. S. C. game. William Henry Tomscheck is reported to be out of the game and it is a fact that his place was taken by Stanley McClurg in the last part of the Cougar fight. Tomscheck has won one letter, weighs 195 pounds and is 24 years old. McClurg, his understudy for left guard, is a sophomore, and weighs the same as Tomscheck. Vernon Wedin, the other Beaver guard, is a transfer from Monmouth. Like Cuppoletti of Oregon, he moves back into the secondary on defense. Besides McClurg, the outstanding reserve guard is John Filipoff, a 200-pound sophomore. Stiner can also count on Wilfred Kenna, who has won one letter in two years of experience. John Pitts and Stanley Rolfness, neither of whom has had previous experience.

Ducks Best at Center
At center the Webfoots have a decided edge. Bernie Hughes, co-captain and all-coast center, will face Clyde Devine, promoted this year from the 1932 third string. Devine, however, is not to be taken lightly. He weighs 200 pounds (Hughes weighs 185 or so) and has 240 minutes of playing to his credit against Gonzaga, S. F. U., U. S. C. and W. S. C.

Chuck Swanson is the capable gentleman who takes Hughes' place when the occasion arises. The Orange eleven also have a good man in reserve for center.

Library Handles Mail-Order Calls
Mail-order circulation is by no means negligible among the functions of the University library, according to figures obtained recently from M. H. Douglass, librarian. During the year 1932 the library loaned 2318 items—books, magazines, pamphlets, etc.—and borrowed 567 items through the mail. Most of the mailing is done to other libraries. Individual borrowers are served through libraries in their own towns or the state library. When these do not have a book that is needed, patrons may request that the book be borrowed from the University.

Libraries of the other schools in the state system of higher education frequently borrow from and lend to the University by mail. Correspondence and extension students may in some cases borrow books by mail directly from this library without making application through other organizations, Douglass said.

Inquiries for books received and mailing is handled in the librarian's office.

Finals in Two of All-Campus Sport Events Completed

With an unexpected burst of speed two of the all-campus tournaments wound up yesterday. The handball combination of Caldwell and Gearhart upset Donin and Whitely to walk off with the handball doubles title, while Harold Hull won the golf championship by dropping Ken Be Lieu 5 and 3.

Caldwell and Gearhart took two straight games from Whitely and Donin, who were rated as the outstanding doubles team at the start of the tourney.

The finals for the handball singles will be played today at 4:20, with Chatterton scheduled to play Caldwell. The horseshoe finals between Elliott and Nye have not yet been played.

The tennis games are still behind schedule as neither doubles nor singles have advanced to the finals. Tyson will be one of the finalists in the singles event, while the team of Newton and Hutchinson will be represented in the finals of the doubles.

4:40 Alpha Tau Omega vs. International house.
4:40 Beta Theta Pi vs. Sherry Ross hall.
5:20 Sigma hall vs. Phi Gamma Delta.

Led by "Bouncing Ivan" Elliott who tossed in eight points yesterday afternoon, the S.P.E.'s defeated Sigma Alpha Epsilon by the decisive score of 17 to 2. The game started out like a low scoring contest with no baskets being scored in the first quarter, but Sigma Phi Epsilon started hitting the basket and piled up a big lead which was never threatened. Sigma Alpha Epsilon scored by virtue of two free throws.

The Yeomen tounced Sigma Pi Tau 21 to 9 in the only other hoop contest played yesterday. This game also started out slow, with S.P.T. holding a 3 to 2 lead at the quarter, but the independents soon loosened up and scored consistently. Sigma hall won by a forfeit from Phi Sigma Kappa in the other scheduled event.

All games played on yesterday's slate were "B" league games. Today's clashes are listed in the "A" circuit.

Monday's results were: Sigma Alpha Mu "A" 15, Yeomen 10; Sigma Nu "A" 34, Omega hall 1; and Beta Theta Pi "B" 39, Sigma Nu 7.

Duck-Beaver Contest Will Be Thirty-Seventh Grid Classic

The University of Oregon will meet its oldest football foe this coming Saturday, when it tangles with the Oregon State Beavers for the thirty-seventh time.

Way back in 1894 Oregon and O. S. C. (O. A. C. at that time) played the first of a series of games which has continued with two interruptions up to the present time. Rivalry between the two schools, it seems, has grown with every game played, and this year's struggle will certainly be a hard-fought and closely contested one.

Oregon is on the top of the Pacific Coast conference football heap with a record of three wins, no losses, and no ties, but O. S. C. isn't far behind with two wins, no losses, and no ties, but O. S. C. wins, it will be an important step toward the Pacific Coast championship, but the "Ironmen" from Corvallis are determined to upset the fast-stepping Webfoots.

Since 1894 the Ducks have won 20 contests, the Beavers nine, and seven games have ended with tie scores. This might point to an evident superiority in the Duck teams of the past, but we must also consider another angle. In the last ten games the Ducks have captured four games, the Beavers five and one ended in a tie.

Oregon State won the first game in 1894 by a score of 16 to 0, but the Ducks came back in the following year to swamp their rivals 42 to 0. The first game drew a crowd of 500 persons, which was a good crowd for that time. Since there was no stadium in which to play the game, the only way money could be collected was by asking for donations from the cash customers.

Oregon took the 1896 game by a score of 8 to 4 and the Staters came back in '97 to win 26 to 0. Oregon won the games of '98 and '99 by the identical scores of 38 to 0. In 1900 and 1901 the board of regents abolished all forms of intercollegiate sports but the rivalry was revived in 1902 when the two schools fought to a 0-to-0 tie. Oregon then proceeded to take the next three games and to tie the fourth. In 1907 the Beavers won, then the Ducks started another winning streak, taking four successive games, tying the next two, then winning two more.

It was in the middle of this winning streak, in 1911, that the board of regents again called a halt to all intercollegiate sports. O. S. C. won the 1917 tilt, then Oregon won two, tied two, and then won another. O. S. C. won the 1923 game and Oregon the 1924. In 1925 the Beavers started
