

Duck Gridders Seek Revenge From Troymen

Webfoot Squad on Way To California

LINE CHANGES MADE

Coast Conference Championship At Stake in THT Saturday At Los Angeles

ABOARD OREGON SPECIAL BOUND FOR LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Mindful of last year's 33-to-0 setback at the hands of El Trojan, 30 University of Oregon football players are bound for Los Angeles where they will meet the men of Troy in the coliseum Saturday.

The conference-leading collegians from Eugene arrived in Gerber, Cal., at noon and held a light half-hour workout. The short practice session consisted of dummy scrimmage and wind sprints.

Clark at Center
Howard "Dutch" Clark, 195-pound veteran guard, has been working out at the center position in the place of Co-captain Bernie Hughes, whose shoulder was injured in the Oregon State game last Saturday at Portland. It is expected that Oregon's all-coast pivot man will start, but it is doubtful if he can last the full 60 minutes.

With Clark at center, Biff Nilsson, who has just recovered from a knee injury, has returned to his old position at tackle, and Gardner Frye, made-over guard, who took the injured Nilsson's place, is taking Clark's position.

If Hughes is taken out of the conflict, the Duck forward wall will line up with the men in these positions. Chuck Swanson, veteran sub center, who is light but scrappy, can also be relied on at the centering post.

Coach Prince Callison spent two hours this morning conducting a "skull practice." The Duck mentor also talked with Co-captains Hughes and Temple and Leighton Gee, versatile halfback who calls the plays in the huddle.

Shields Confident
"I believe if Oregon plays the type of ball it is capable of playing, that we can beat the Troyans," stated Gene Shields, Duck (Continued on Page Four)

WAA Health Posters Must Be in by Monday Noon; Prize Offered

Have you started your poster advertising W. A. A. Health week yet? If you haven't, get your paint brushes out right away. There is no time to lose.

All posters must be into Jean Aiken at the Alpha Omicron Pi house by noon on Monday, November 20.

A two weeks' pass to the McDonald theater is being offered as first prize. You never can tell, you might be the lucky one!

Plays Tonight

George Hopkins, professor of piano, who will give a piano recital tonight in the music auditorium.

Mexican Student Speaks to Group At Westminster

Melissa Martin, O.S.C. Professor, Among Guests Attending "Spanish Night"

A large and enthusiastic gathering of Spanish students, professors, and guests attended "Spanish night" at Westminster house last evening.

Among the visitors was Melissa M. Martin, professor of the Oregon State department of Romance languages, accompanied by several O.S.C. students, and Salvador Miramontes, Mexican student attending the University high school, who spoke of his experiences in his native country and the United States.

The four Rael children sang two numbers which pleased the audience immensely. "Tu Eres Mi Blanca Paloma" and "Me Gustan Todas." Talks were given by Ray P. Bowen, head of the Romance language department; Marie Saccomanno, newly-elected president of the campus Spanish club, La Corrida de Todos; and Jose Bishop, member of Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary.

Pi Lambda Theta To Hold Banquet

Dr. John F. Bovard, dean of the school of physical education, will be the speaker at the Founder's day banquet of Pi Lambda Theta, women's education honorary, Saturday night at 6:45 in McCrady's cafe. The banquet is to be a homecoming affair for all members throughout the state as well as for the local chapter.

Dr. Bovard's speech will be "Some Neglected Phases of Education." Preceding the banquet initiation of new members will take place at 6 o'clock in Alumni hall in the Gerlinger building. Gertrude Sears will be toastmistress and Mrs. Wendell Van Loan will give a short statement concerning the work of the campaign for conservation of education in Oregon. The Founder's day candle lighting ceremony will be a part of the program.

Piano Concert Scheduled for Young People

Hopkins to Play Tonight In Auditorium

SELECTIONS VARIED

Parents and University Students Invited; Explanations to Be Made by Performer

Presenting his first concert of the year, George Hopkins, member of the music faculty, responds to a request of the city high schools and junior high schools by giving a program within the understanding of youthful students tonight at 7:30 in the school of music auditorium. Although University students are cordially invited, the recital is essentially for younger people. Adults will be welcomed as personal guests of their younger friends.

Varying his selections from heavy classics to lighter modern numbers, Hopkins also includes tone poems and novelties. Preceding each number he will give a brief explanation of its type or the motive of the composer in writing the selection.

Last year he gave a recital, repeated in Portland, which consisted entirely of dance music ranging from the time of Mozart and Bach to the present. This program was received enthusiastically by the large audience filling the music auditorium.

Beginning the program with one of the heavier classics, he plays Bach-Tausig's "Tocatta and Fugue in D-minor." The second group consists of 13 moods of the romantic school. The composer is Schumann, while the title is "Scenes from Childhood."

As the third group, he offers four tone pictures: Jugglery, Rachmaninoff, Polichinelle, Brahms-Grainger, Cradle Song, Schubert-Tausig, Military March.

In conclusion, the fourth group includes several distinctly modern numbers: Palmgren, May Night, Goossens, March of the Wooden Soldier, Liadow, Music Box, Strauss-Schultz-Evler, Blue Danube Waltzes.

Cooler Weather Slated In Southern California

Clear weather with cool, foggy mornings until the rains arrive from the North was indicated for Los Angeles by the weather bureau, according to reports received here.

The maximum temperature yesterday was about 70 degrees, five degrees less than Wednesday. A drop to 75 on Tuesday broke an unseasonable heat spell of 13 days durations in which the temperature was above 80 and on one day was 101.

Articles Found
Someone is in danger of catching pneumonia. The attendants at Condon reserve library suggest that he call for the suede jacket which has been there for two weeks. It was left on one of the chairs in the reading room. A girl's silk scarf was also found and awaits its owner at Condon.

Campus Calendar

All prospective teachers for next year who plan to avail themselves of the services of the University appointment bureau are asked to meet on Tuesday, November 21, at 4 p. m., in Room 4, Education building.

Sigma Nu will have pictures taken for the Oregon at Kennell-Ellis studios, 927 Willamette street, today.

Independent women meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the women's lounge of Gerlinger. Important business will be brought up.

Prose, Poetry and Drama group of Philomelete will meet today in the A. W. S. room of Mary Spiller hall.

Housemothers' meeting at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon in room 1, Johnson.

Condon Library Has Aid for Work As Term Closes

For those who are already beginning to quake and shiver at the end of the term approaches, Condon libe has an effective soothing agent, in the form of a pamphlet called "How to Prepare a Term Report," by Warren R. Good of the University of Michigan school of education.

Planning next term's courses in advance is a wise thing to do. Catalogues for the University of Oregon, 1933-'34, for the University of Oregon medical school, for Oregon State college, for the Portland extension division, and a schedule of classes are on file at Condon reserve libe.

New Recruits of Drama Take Part In Coming Show

"Guild Hall Gaieties" Will Bring Skits Presented by Novice and Skilled Students of Acting

The majority of those taking part in the Guild hall Gaieties, which are slated for Friday and Saturday, November 24 and 25, at 7:30, are new recruits to the drama department.

The Guild Hall Players, a group consisting of students who have participated in drama work for some time, number only four in this entertainment. These will be represented by Gertrude Winslow, Kay Briggs, Ethan Newman, and Charleen Purcell in a skit named "Flittermouse." Miss Winslow and Miss Briggs will be assisted by Roy Craft, an Oregon alumnus, in another skit entitled "How Perfectly Absurd."

In a takeoff on the average American audience, which is called "Give the Audience a Chance," the cast is made up almost entirely of new drama students.

The following make up the "audience" in this farce: Pauline Conrad, Helen Harriman, Willard Marsh, Rex Faust, Betty Dillow, Bill Ireland, Cynthia Liljeqvist, Nevada Eiden, Virginia Wappenstein, Ed Pinney, Ellen Gailey, and Gwynn Caverhill.

Barron Featured In Music Recital

Ranging from the classics of Mozart and Schubert to the lovely old English air "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," the program of George Barron, basso, held the interest of his audience last night in a recital given at the school of music auditorium as partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Fine Arts.

In his second group Barron included one of the most beautiful and beloved of Wagner's works, "Traume." First intended to be a part of the opera "Tristan and Isolde."

Explanations made by the singer immediately before each number, making them more meaningful to the listener, increased the enjoyment of the program. A quiet, reserved, yet pleasant personality adds to Barron's stage presence.

As a final encore in response to enthusiastic applause, George Barron sang "Deep River," well-known negro spiritual. His deep mellow voice is well suited to this song, lending itself to the mystery and superstitious nature of the selection.

Filipino Siamese Twins Have Same Likes, Dislikes

By VELMA MCINTYRE
"What God hath joined together let no man put asunder," is the sincere expression of Jucio and Simplicio Godino, Filipino Siamese twins who appeared at the McDonald theater Wednesday night.

The twins were accompanied by their wives, sisters, whom they met while attending grade school in the Philippines. Five thousand persons attended the double ring ceremony four years ago although invitations were sent to only 500.

"Yes, we get along fairly well," was the answer to how they manage their likes and dislikes. "We enjoy the same sports and hobbies, mainly golf, with a score of 36 on a nine-hole course." Photography is also one of their chief pastimes. With a motion picture camera and four other types of kodaks they have made a large collection of pictures during their travels.

The twins attended St. Johns college in Washington, D. C., for two years, where they majored in

Portland Meet Of State Board Due Next Week

Education Controversy To Be Aired

MEIER STILL SILENT

Marks Says Session Is Probable; Problem of New Appointee To Be Discussed

The Oregon state board of higher education will probably meet in Portland early next week, according to reports received here yesterday. Willard L. Marks of Albany, new chairman of the group, told the Portland press of the prospective session.

Marks has assumed the position vacated by Roscoe C. Nelson, Portland attorney, who resigned as head of the board more than a week ago.

Indications are that the meeting in the northern city would bring action with regard to the appointment of Nelson's successor. Governor Julius L. Meier has yet to select another member of the board but has not discussed the matter. The chief executive is silent about the person whom he may select and about the time when the appointment will be made.

Marks said that a "general discussion of the recent controversy will probably be held at the coming meeting of the board." He added, "As far as I know, there are no communications on the situation, from Eugene or elsewhere, to come before the board. At least I have seen none, although some may have been addressed to the secretary of the board."

Nelson gave up his place on the board when the University faculty passed a resolution demanding that he resign. This action supplemented the request made first by Dean Wayne L. Morse of the law school for Nelson's resignation. Morse has also declared that Chancellor W. J. Kerr, who is now out of the state, should give up his position as head of the higher educational system in Oregon.

Curator to Talk At Open Meeting

An open meeting of townspeople and students Tuesday evening, November 21, at 7:30 in Alumni hall will be addressed by Louis F. Henderson, University of Oregon curator of herbarium.

Prof. Henderson has chosen as his subject "Reconstruction Days in New Orleans After the Civil War."

The address includes the latter part of a paper prepared by Prof. Henderson on his reminiscences of the war between the two factions. The first part of the paper was read a month ago at a meeting of the Round Table, the group which is sponsoring the meeting Tuesday evening.

Prof. Henderson's topic has aroused no little interest because he lived in the southern states during the war and his remarks arise out of the childhood impressions he has retained through the years.

Mum Sale Directors

The mum sale directorate this year consists of the four coeds pictured above. From left to right, they are Janet McMicken, secretary; Betty Ohlemiller, publicity director; Marie Saccomanno, chairman; and Jean Failing, president of the A. W. S. More mums were sold this year than in several past years.

Deans Will Hear Economist Speak On Forest Fires

Problems Arising From Tillamook Disaster of Past Summer To Be Discussed

Deans James H. Gilbert, Harrison Val Hoyt, and James R. Jewell of the University were notified yesterday of a tentatively arranged meeting of five deans tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. in Corvallis, where they will hear Sinclair Wilson, economist of the United States forest service, present the problems created by the fire in Tillamook county last summer.

Herman Kehrl, director of the University bureau of municipal research and service, reports that Wilson has recently been investigating the problems arising from the Tillamook disaster. Wilson finds that the entire business, governmental, and cultural structure of the county is doomed to destruction unless some definite program of action is worked out.

Wilson believes that the various schools of the higher educational system might be able to cooperate in a survey which would give Tillamook county the information and plan it needs.

Wilson stated that the Tillamook fire created more destruction of property than the San Francisco fire, the Galveston flood, or any other of a number of major catastrophes, and that 40 per cent of the assessed value of Tillamook county was destroyed.

Science Faculty Holds Meeting at Tea Room

The science faculty held their monthly meeting last night at the Marigold tea room at 6 o'clock. Earl L. Packard, dean of the school of science on both the Oregon and Oregon State campuses, was present at the meeting.

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the department of geology and geography gave a short talk on "Modern Geology."

Villard Hall Chosen as Place of First Lecture

Villard hall has been announced as the meeting place for the first speech of the University lecture series on November 20 at 8:15 p. m.

Professor Kenneth Scott Latour-ette of Yale university will speak on the subject, "Some Fundamental Attitudes of Chinese Philosophy," for the opening talk of the series.

Library Vault Contains Many Valuable Books For Student Reference

Library books worth $50 or more are kept in the vault in the order department, which is situated in the basement, across the hall from the newspaper room.

Books kept in the vault belong to various groups such as the Pauline Potter Homer collection and the Oregon collection. They are for the most part old and rare books, although some expensive modern books are also included.

When a book is kept in the vault, that fact is mentioned on the catalog card of the book. It may be obtained for reference use upon inquiry at the order department, and may be used only in that department.

Willard Marsh Places First in Jewett Contest

Ray Clapp, Jay Wilson Win Other Prizes

OPTIMISM IS SUBJECT

Humor Keynote of After-Dinner Talks; Awards of $15, $10, and $5 Presented

By CLIFFORD THOMAS
With a speech ironically condemning the blind type of optimism that "fogs sane judgment," Willard Marsh, sophomore business administration major, won first place honors in the W. F. Jewett after-dinner speaking contest held last night at bona fide dinner occasion in the regents room of the John Straub memorial building.

The contestants, judges, and friends were guests of the residents of the men's dormitory. Ray Clapp, senior in the school of journalism, and Jay Wilson, senior in economics, captured second and third places, respectively.

Optimism Decided
Speaking on the topic, "Bigger and Better Booms," relating to the general subject, "American Optimism," Marsh cleverly and scorchingly scored the "chamber of commerce type of American optimism" which binds its disciples to facts of actual situations. The first place winner also subtly poked fun at various American communities whose blind local optimism has developed into a dangerous prejudice.

Clapp spoke on "Keeping Up a Front" and declared that bluffing and keeping up a front are the dominating characteristics of American optimism.

Jay Wilson's humorous treatment of his subject, "Go West, Young Man," won him the third place award.

Americans Recognizable
Hale Thompson, one of the other contestants who gave the winners close competition, spoke on the subject, "You Can Tell an American." According to Thompson, optimism is a trait that, above all others, distinguishes Americans. In a clever analogy, Thompson said, "Americans are like ostriches which, when in trouble, stick their heads in the sand and keep their sunny sides up."

In the most serious of the evening's speeches, John Casey expressed the opinion that Americans, in their optimism, are purposefully trying to blind themselves. (Continued on Page Two)

Tickets Now Available For St. Mary's Contest On Thanksgiving Day

Tickets for the St. Mary's football game in San Francisco on Thanksgiving day, November 23, are now available in the graduate manager's office and by mail order for $1.65. These seats are in a special student section on the 50-yard line.

German Press Subjugated, Says Neuberger in Article

In an article by Richard L. Neuberger, last year's editor of the Emerald, the subjugation of the press and other medium of public opinion in Nazi Germany is described vividly in the current issue of the New Republic.

The title of the feature is "Germany Under the Choke-Bit," and is the third Neuberger has contributed recently to the national magazines on Germany. A short time ago articles by him appeared in The Nation and Opinion. Neuberger, editor of the Daily Emerald last year, is the youngest contributor to The New Republic and The Nation and the first University of Oregon student ever to achieve the distinction of writing for their columns.

In his New Republic article Neuberger contrasts the autocratic domination of the German press with the freedom advocated so earnestly by Thomas Jefferson and other American statesmen, and points out how Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's minister of propaganda and enlightenment, also has suppressed the radio and compelled the motion picture industry to conform to his bidding.

Neuberger and his uncle, Commander J. F. Neuberger of the United States navy medical corps, were among the few foreigners last summer to see the famous Nazi propaganda film, "S. A. Mann Brand." The picture is described in his article in detail. "Although well-acted, it would appeal in America to persons of about the same mental age as those stirred by 'Tarzan of the Apes,'" Neuberger declares.

The article shows how Hitler and his aides have used the press as a weapon to incite public opinion against the Jews, liberals and other dissenters and points out how thoroughly and viciously editors and their aides have been intimidated. It also tells that even certain American publications are forbidden in Germany and says it is worth a man's life to possess a copy of the Manchester Guardian. Even sports have not been free (Continued on Page Two)