Stanford - California Game to Decide Rose Bowl Entry; Too Bad

STRANGE as it may seem to Pacific Northwest gridiron followers, it looks very much as if the winner of the annual "Big Game" between Stanford and California, which is to be played at Palo Alto next Saturday, will be the Far West's representatives in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena New Year's day. There is nothing that can be done about it.

Even though our own Oregon Webfoots are now riding on the crest of the conference with four victories and one defeat, the Ducks will get little consideration for the Pasadena epic. The reason is the 26 to 0 loss that Southern California tacked on the Webfooters last Saturday.

Of course, there is still a chance for El Trojan to continue in its defense of the Pacific coast's honor, but Jones' outfit has a pretty tough bunch of elevens remaining on its 1933 schedule before it can lay any claim to the Rose Bowl game. On successive weekends they meet Notre Dame at South Bend, Georgia at Los Angeles, and Washington at Los Angeles. If they come through this punishment without a loss or a tie they should have something to say about the Pasadena fracas. The odds are against it, however.

Let's get a slant at the two first in line for the invitation as they stack up right now. Stanford's Indians seem to have the edge by virtue of the great game they put up in beating the Trojans two weeks ago. But to name the Palo Alto eleven, providing it disposed of California, its 6 to 0 setback at the hands of the University of Washington and the early season scoreless tie with Northwestern, which has since been the doormat of the Big Ten, would have to be overlooked. No, we don't like the idea of the Indians representing themselves as the best the coast has to offer.

As for California, the Golden Bears have likewise suffered one defeat and been held to one tie during the current season. U. S. C. holds a 6 to 3 victory over Ingram's outfit, while Washington State, able to win from both two conference teams this year, stopped the Bears, 6 to 6. Even if California should humble the Red of Stanford Saturday, there are many who would contest her right to be named for the Rose bowl tilt.

It's just the old, old story. Californians only remember the games that have been played in the sanctity of their own lovely state. The Oregon State-Southern California tie, Washington's defeat of Stanford, the Washington State-California tie were all myths. They just don't count. If their teams have their bad breaks in the Northwest it is called a fluke, but if Washington, Idaho, or Oregon sends a team to San Francisco or Los Angeles and falls a victim to the demon "bad luck," it's all in the game.

This year, of all years in the near past, it has been proven that the Northwest has football machines just as big and just as good as their conference brethren in the South. The Northwest deserves, and is due for a Rose Bowl invitation this year. The Northwest doesn't expect it.

As for the eastern candidates, there are very few left for the honor. Georgia fell by the wayside last weekend. Nebraska permitted Pittsburg to put a blot on its otherwise perfect record. Even the mighty Wolverines of Michigan could do no better than a tie with Minnesota. As they stand now, Princeton, undefeated, untied, and untied upon; and unbeaten and untied Duke look like the logical elevens in the race to uphold the honor of the east in the annual classic.

The Tigers have Rutgers and Yale to hurdle before they can be sure of a perfect record. Duke has two tough assignments in North Carolina State and Georgia Tech.

Duck Eleven Returns From South In Crippled Condition

Leighton Gee May Not Play In Gael Game

Star Halfback Out With Twisted Ankle

Bernie Hughes Still Injured But Will See Action Against Madigan's Men

The Webfoots' hopes of defeating the St. Mary's Gaels for the first time in their annual Thanksgiving classic at San Francisco dropped several points last night when Bill Hayward, veteran trainer, announced that it is rather doubtful if Leighton Gee, sensational halfback, would be able to play against the Moraga Marauders.

Gee's ankle was badly twisted in the first few minutes of the Trojan battle last Saturday which caused his removal from the crucial tilt. The dashing halfback's services were greatly missed by the Duck squad especially his signal calling ability. When Gee left the game at Los Angeles the Webfoots' hopes of victory went with him. Pepper Pepelnjak or Frank Michak, both who saw action against the pass tossing men of Troy, will probably get the starting call unless the veteran Gee's ankle responds to treatment.

Hughes Will Play
 Co-captain Bernie Hughes, who was on last year's all coast teams, came out of last Saturday's heart-breaking game in none too good shape. The veteran center played almost the entire contest with a severely injured shoulder, sustained in the Oregon State match. Although it is rather certain that ever-smiling Bernie will see action against Slip Madigan's gridders it is dubious as to his chances of playing his usual full game. Until his shoulder heals enough to warrant his playing Chuck Swanson, veteran sub-center who replaced Bernie for a few minutes against the Trojans, will fill in on the first eleven.

Ducks Point for Gaels
 The conference leading Oregonians returned early yesterday morning beaten but not discouraged about their 26 to 0 defeat at the hands of Mr. Warburton and his assistants. Many of the emerald clad gridders have vowed that they will take the Gaels if it is the last thing they do.

Last night's workout on Hayward field showed no signs of staleness, shrewdness or lack of fight, on the contrary, every one of the mighty Oregonians turned out full of vim and vigor to prepare for the final battle of the season.

The men who saw action against the Trojans limbered up and did some light blocking, whereas those who were left at home and the substitutes that watched the game from the bench went through a heavy scrimmage session. Members of the frosh squad were also taught St. Mary's plays by the coaching staff who witnessed the Gael-Bronco 6 to 6 tie in San Francisco Sunday afternoon.

Meeting to Be Fifth
 When Oregon meets the Gaels in Kezar stadium it will mark the fifth gridiron battle between the two colleges. The Moragans have won all four games played, the rivalry starting in 1929 when the Gaels walked over the Ducks by a 31 to 6 score. In 1930 Oregon completely outplayed the Galloping Gaels with Johnny Kitzmiller doing most of the Oregon ground gaining but Madigan's team eked out a 7 to 6 win.

The following year the Webfoots were handed a 16 to 0 defeat. Last year, the first under Prince Callison, successor to Doc Spears, the rain belt eleven gained more yardage than the Catholic boys but lacked the punch at the goal line, and once more the Saints came through with a victory, 7 to 0.

Phi Delt's Lose To Phi Sigs in Donut Contest

Borden Sinks Deciding Field Goal

Betas Down Omega Hall and Fijis Troupe S.A.E. in Other Encounters

TODAY'S BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

4:00—Yeomen "B" vs. Phi Kappa Psi "B."
 4:40—Phi Gamma Delta "A" vs. Phi Kappa Psi "A."
 5:20—Sigma Alpha Epsilon "A" vs. Phi Sigma Kappa "A."

Staging a last quarter rally the Phi Sig "E" basketball team edged out a victory over the Phi Delt's by a 15-to-13 score yesterday afternoon. The other two events of the day were both slow and one-sided, with the Beta "B" quintet trouncing Omega hall 24 to 8, and the Fijis downing Sigma Alpha Epsilon 19 to 4.

The closest and best played game of the day was the Phi Sig-Phi Delt tussle. Both teams played dull ball until the start of the second quarter when each team opened up with a scoring barrage. With less than a minute to play Borden, high scorer for the Phi Sigs, shot the winning basket.

Bill Bowerman, ex-varsity football quarterback, was responsible for the Beta victory over the hall five. Bill collected 12 points to place him high scorer of the day. The race boys took the lead at the first of the game and held it throughout the contest.

Paddle Tourney Goes Into Second Round This Week

The first round in the Yeoman ping-pong tournament is completed, and the second round matches will be played the first part of this week, according to Ethan Newman, Verne Adams, and George Bennett, committee in charge.

Don Eva, who has ranked high in every paddle tournament staged on the Oregon campus for the past few years looms up as the outstanding contender for this year's title. Eva has defeated Nye, F. Mountain, and Crockett.

Stan Smith displayed a sparkling brand of ping pong when he defeated Bikamen to go into the second round. Smith holds several outside titles, but has never entered an all-campus tourney.

Frosh Rifle Team Material at Work

The freshman rifle marksmanship classes of the R. O. T. C. have begun in earnest on the range at the barracks. Up to the present time the highest score has been made by Ralph Osborn, formerly a member of the Eugene high rifle club before entering the University.

Others who have scored high marks are William Frye and Leonard Bjork.

Memorial Tablet Honors Merrick

Tribute was paid Sunday to Lieut. Robert W. Merrick, University graduate in the class of '29, with the unveiling of a bronze memorial tablet in the new chapel at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Esides honoring Lieutenant Merrick, the tablet also honored Lieut. Jefferson Davis of Three Rivers, California, who along with Merrick lost his life in a plane crash in the San Francisco bay November 20, 1932.

The two United States army air corps reserves were attempting to locate Crissey field in a dense fog when the tragedy occurred.
