Webfoots to Doll Up For Scrimmage This Afternoon; OSC Plays

HOT Dawg!
 At last the stay-at-homes are going to get a chance to see the latest styles in football togery. Prink Callison will doll his Webfooters up in their new Kelly green jerseys, satin pants, and gold arm bands today, and the conference leaders will go through their hometowners on the turf field just behind the Igloo.

Don't forget to be on hand at 4 o'clock, because besides the fashion show Prink will probably dish up a little of what might be expected from the Webfooters in the St. Mary's game, Thanksgiving day.

All of you cynical drug store coaches who think the Ducks are done for the season and will be an easy mark for the ten-ton Gaels, come on over and see for yourself. The wearers of the Kelly green aren't a bit happy about that 26 to 0 defeat, and they are counting on showing California audiences some more great football before the year is out.

Must be hot stuff to be on a football circuit like the one the Oregon State Beavers are now touring. New York one weekend, Lincoln, Nebraska, the other. We've no advanced dope on their itinerary, but the betting odds along the mill race are 5 to 4 that they don't cross the ocean (that is, before New Year's day).

All kiddin' gaside, the Beaver-Cornhusker clash should be a natural. Both teams have been beaten but once this year, and they are made up of rugged players.

Two potential all-Americans will go to bat against one another in this tiff. Red Franklin will pit his broken field running against the line plugging and defensive skill of big Cliff Sauer, the widest-west candidate for fullback honors. In press circles right now it is admitted that big Mike Mikulak and Sauer are running a close race for the first choice on the 1933 all-American roster. The Beavers should be able to tell pretty well which is the better man when they come off the field Thanksgiving day.

Just to let you know that this sports column is not sewed up with the football racket, we'll tip you off that there's a good chance to see a world's champion matman in action this week. Gus Gallo, king of the globe's middle-weights, will risk his belt against Otis Clingman on Herb Owen's Thursday night card at the armory. When we say "risk," we don't mean it literally. No money's on Clingman, because mat champs just aren't allowed to lose their crowns that easily.

The hoop game's getting pretty rough. Before the season starts... in fact, before practice is well under way, one of last year's regulars, Jim Watts, breaks his jaw bone in a friendly scrimmage. Haven't been able to locate the gent who bears the scars which dovetail with Jim's jagged jaw.

Pass Defense Stressed by Duck Mentor

Ralph Terjeson Shifted To Quarter

Bobby Parke Will Take Over Gee's Post; Oregon Hopes to Gain Victory

Realizing that it was the Trojan aerial attack that beat his men at Los Angeles last Saturday, Prink Callison, headman of the conference leading Oregon football eleven, spent most of last night's practice session drilling his big green team on pass defense.

The entire Webfoot coaching staff watched the Galloping Gaels and Santa Clara fight to a 6-to-6 tie at Kezar stadium in San Francisco last Sunday, and they have brought back many of Madigan's plays.

With Leighton Gee's playing an uncertainty Coach Callison made a few changes in the Webfoot backfield quartet. Ralph Terjeson, chubby reserve quarterback, has taken over the regular field marshal job in place of Bobby Parke, who has been moved over to Gee's position at right halfback. Gee sustained a twisted ankle in the Trojan game, and it is very unlikely that he will see much action against the Moragans.

According to word received from the Pasadena officials, the emerald-clad warriors are not to be considered out of the running when it comes to choosing the West's representative in the New Year's classic. If the Webfoot gridgers can decisively beat Madigan's giant football crew, they may still see action in the Rose Bowl tilt. With not only this to fight for, but also their first win in five starts against the Gaels, the Callison cohorts are victory minded.

The Oregon team will depart for the bay city next Tuesday, arriving there the following day. A workout is scheduled on Kezar field Wednesday afternoon.

George Theodoratus is playing tackle on this year's edition of "Babe" Hollingbery's football eleven. Last season Theodoratus lined up as a fullback, but due to lack of tackle material he was shifted to the line this season. "Big George" will be scrapping plenty hard when the Cougars play their traditional foe, Washington, at Pullman next Saturday.

Stanford to Meet Ancient Rival in Bears Saturday

Tiny Thornhill Drills Entire Squad in Blocking and Tackling For Cal Tilt

PALO ALTO, Nov. 22.—(Special)—"Full speed ahead!" is the war cry of the Stanford Reddies as they swing into the final week of 1933 football. Their last game scheduled will be with their traditional rivals, California, at Palo Alto Saturday.

Tiny Thornhill is abandoning the idea of secret practice, which is traditionally almost as strong a part of the festivities as the game itself. Says Tiny, "We have no secrets to let out of the bag. Just good hard blocking and tackling, plus alertness of the backs and linemen. Oh, of course, we have a few plays, but what if anybody does find out?"

The Indians today are 10-8 favorites to take the Bears. The odds are always fluctuating, however, and California may come up to even money before game time.

The only doubtful position right now in the Cardinal lineup is the right halfback post, usually occupied by Bob Maentz. Van Dellen, has been coming along fast, however, and after his sensational

Speech Division Plans Demonstration Teams

The speech division of the English department is organizing two parliamentary law demonstration teams to stage demonstrations of parliamentary procedure as a part of the University's community program for this year, it was announced yesterday.

These teams will appear before community groups throughout the state along with the debate squad's symposium debates.

The personnel of the teams will be made up for the most part of students who took the speech division's course in parliamentary law last spring term. However, competition for the teams is open to all undergraduate students of the University.

Any students interested in trying out for the teams should contact John L. Casteel, director of speech, in room 13 of Friendly hall.

Independent Quintet Wins From Phi Psi

Yeomen Get 32 Points in Lop-Sided Victory

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Gamma Delta Take Slated Contests in "A" League

Today's Basketball Games
 4:00 Kappa Sigma "B" vs. Sigma Pi Tau "B."
 4:40 Delta Tau Delta "A" vs. Sherry Ross "A."
 5:20 Sigma Pi Tau "A" vs. Sigma Nu "A."

The regularly scheduled game for 4:00 was between Sigma hall and International House, but as the latter team defaulted Mr. Washke announced that in order to speed up the schedule the above game would be played.

The Yeomen "B" hoop team had little trouble last night in holding to their lead in League IV and handed the Phi Kappa Psi five a 32 to 2 trouncing. In the two other "A" games, Sigma Alpha Epsilon had a close call and just edged out a 16 to 13 victory over Phi Sigma Kappa, and Phi Kappa Psi lost a 20 to 7 decision to Phi Gamma Delta.

The independent men ran wild in the first half of their game. After the half the Phi Pisis put up a little more opposition but could do little to stop their opponents. Wellnitz, Watson and Holland of the Yeomen were flipping in short shots consistently, while Litton was the cleverest with the ball. Lundin made the losers' sole field goal.

The S.A.E.'s had a battle on their hands all evening against the Phi Sigs but managed to maintain a lead gained in the first half for the rest of the contest. Ward improved his scoring total by dropping in 6 points for the victors, and Van Dine contributed 5 counters. For the losers Baxter played a steady game and also made two field goals.

In another hard fought but low scoring game the Fijis had a smaller Phi Psi team at their mercy most of the time. "Pinky" Pinkstaff broke through with three field goals for the winners and Don White made the same number. For the losers Pray made four of his team's counters, and Brooke played this usual scrappy game.

Galloping Gaels Will Play Uclans On Southern Turf

Madigan's Eleven Determined to Repeat Victory of 1932 Over Bruins

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Nov. 22.—(Special)—Aroused by their tie game of last Sunday with the fighting Broncos of Santa Clara, the Galloping Gaels of Saint Mary's will make their second trip of the season into the Southland determined to repeat their victory of 1932 over the U. C. L. A. Bruins in the Coliseum in Los Angeles Saturday.

The Gaels came out of the Bronco tilt without serious injury, and with the exception of Gerardin and Fiese, previously injured, will be at full strength for the Southern conflict. Pat Gilbert, giant guard, had a swollen face this week but will be in shape for the game Saturday.

This is the second time the Gaels have invaded the South this year, going to Los Angeles early in October to battle the Trojans unsuccessfully. It is the fifth meeting of the Bruins and Gaels, the latter being in the victory column three times to the Uclans' once. Last year the score was 14-7 in favor of the Moragans.

Theater Passes Given Seven Staff Members

Seven members of the Emerald staff were yesterday awarded passes to the Colonial and McDonald theaters for outstanding work on the campus daily last week.

The pass winners included Jane Bishop, Dorothy Dill, Mariam Eichner, Hilda Gillam, Elwin Ireland, Howard Kessler, and Roberta Moody.

Miss Haberlach at West Linn

A communication received yesterday by the alumni office revealed that Gladys Haberlach, graduate of the University in 1931, is engaged this year as head of the commercial department of the West Linn union high school. She has held similar positions in the Richland and Baker schools the last two years.

Beavers in Nebraska for Husker Game

Battle Will Take Place on Thanksgiving Day

Franklin and Sauer Will Battle for All-American Honors in Post-Season Tilt

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 22.—(Special)—The O. S. C. "Iron Men," who have scheduled a game with the Cornhuskers of Nebraska for Thanksgiving day, will stay in Omaha until after the Nebraska-Iowa game Saturday, then will enter for Lincoln.

The Staters and Nebraska both have fine records this year, the far westerners winning five, tying two and losing one. Nebraska, who walked through to its third straight Big Six title, has only the 6-0 defeat by Pittsburgh to mar its record.

Both teams have a prospective all-American in their midst. The Orangemen boast Norman "Red" Franklin, fleet halfback, who ran the opening kickoff of the Fordham tilt back for a touchdown. Cliff Sauer, heavy fullback, adorns the lineup of the Huskers. Many critics rate him the best all-around performer in several years to play in the Big Six.

Both institutions are reported favorable to plans for a series of home-and-home games. Such a plan, if carried out, would undoubtedly see the Staters in Lincoln again next year, and the Cornhuskers coming west for an appearance in Portland in 1935.
