

Roland Hayes Concert Free To All Students

Famous Tenor to Sing At McArthur Court

CO-OP HAS TICKETS

Success Marks Rise From Humble Home to Greatest Singer Of Negro Spirituals

Oregon students will be admitted free to the concert of Roland Hayes, internationally famous negro tenor in McArthur court, Thursday, January 25.

Playing to large audiences in large cities at high prices, it is an unusual opportunity to be able to hear him with no charge. Since his last visit to the Northwest, three years ago, Hayes has acquired for himself new laurels in the concert halls of Europe and America.

Additional tickets may be obtained from the Co-op, the graduate manager's office and McMoran & Washburne for $1.10. Unreserved tickets are selling for 55 cents.

Born in Georgia in a very humble home, Roland Hayes, struggling against poverty, the prejudices of an unfriendly race, the misunderstanding of the people around him, he has overcome all obstacles and is now one of the best known tenors in the world.

Commencing with the negro spirituals which he heard sung on the plantations of old Dixie, he eagerly sought a mastery of the art songs of all nations. Today he is the absolute master of five languages, and sings anything within the tenor range with absolute understanding and irreproachable artistry. He is universally recognized as the world's greatest singer of negro spirituals, and has brought these folk songs to a state of perfection rivaling the masterpieces of Schubert, Wolff, and Beethoven.

Hayes is recognized as that extraordinary rarity among singers; a true musical genius who possesses a naturally fine voice. Sheer hard work over a period of years, constant perfection of an already fine art, and a contempt for the formidable obstacles which stood in his way have brought him to an eminence shared by no other negro in the entire world.

CWA Beautifies Artists' Quarters

Through funds provided by the CWA the Art building has been redecorated and painted. Many filing cabinets and other conveniences have been added to the office equipment.

The large painting studios have been completely redecorated in pale green and white. A room used by upper division composition classes has been remodeled to enlarge the working space for pottery classes and the architecture department has been supplied with an additional office.

Sharp-Shooters Start Intensive Practices

Twenty-six sharpshooters are signed up for the University of Oregon rifle team, which is being directed by Sergeant Harvey Blythe at the R.O.T.C. barracks. Sergeant Blythe expects to cut this number down to 20 by the end of the week.

"I believe that the team will be as good as any that has ever represented the University," declared Sergeant Blythe. Intensive practice will be undergone during the winter term so that the squad will be in condition to take part in the corps area meet later on.

Late Compilation For Registration Is Near 2000 Mark

Enrollment Decrease From 5 to 10 Percent Under Last Year Finally Expected

Registration for the winter term at the University was approaching 2000 yesterday, announced Clifford L. Constance, assistant registrar. Material for registration had been issued to 2000 students last week.

The enrollment will probably be between five to ten percent below that of a year ago, stated Constance, the total for the winter term of 1933 being 2190.

"There seems to be a gradual improvement in the number of students enrolled," said Constance. All registration must be completed by noon Saturday, January 13, for auditors as well as credit students.

Nine Students Receive Privileges for Honors

Nine students of the University have been awarded junior certificates with honor privileges, according to Dr. Earl M. Pallett, registrar.

Those named were Lester Goldschmidt, Frances G. Helfrich, Will Charles Davis, Joseph Renner, Lloyd Faust, Margaret Osborne, Byron Brinton, Ruth McClain, and Hazle Corrigan.

This privilege entitles the students to work towards graduation with honors, and denotes that their scholarship for the first two years in the University has been considerably above the average.

Seventy-five Copies Of Yearbook All That Remain Unsigned for

Only 75 copies of the Oregoniana are now available for those who have not as yet obtained subscriptions. This announcement was made last night by Ed Cross business manager of the year book, who added that already more than 900 subscriptions had been signed for, and the total printed copies of the annual will not exceed 1000.

All students who wish to secure copies of the book may sign subscription blanks either at the University Co-op store or at the Oregoniana offices in the igloo.

90 Students Gain Places on Honor Roll in Fall Term

More Women Than Men Included In List of Scholars With 2.50 Average

Ninety undergraduate students earned places on the University of Oregon honor roll for the fall term of 1933, official figures from the registrar's office show, six scholars having rate all "A's," the highest average possible.

The half-dozen "perfect students" are Donald W. Emry, Martha Goodrich, Edward M. Hicks, Lloyd G. Humphreys, Roy McMullen, and Burton M. Smith, the male sex having triumphed by a ratio of 5 to 1, although figures for the whole honor roll dispute this supremacy. There are 46 women included, as against 44 men.

To obtain a place on the honor roll students must earn a grade average of 2.50 based on 12 hours or more of study, or 10 hours for la students.

Of the total, 32 are from Portland, 22 from Eugene, and the remaining 36 from other points of the compass.

Those gaining the honor are: Valborg Anderson, Winfield Atkinson, Sam Banning, Ralph Beardsworth, Mary Benson, Anne Booth, William Bowerman, Ben Bowie, Byron Brinton, Frances Brockman, James Brooke, Robert Brown, Victor Bryant, Clifford Bullock, Ann-Reed Burns.

Gunsmith Helps Professor Crosland Perfect New Device

It took a gunsmith, working in collaboration with Dr. H. R. Crosland, associate professor of psychology, to perfect a device for controlling the time of exposure in the Dodge tachistoscope, which in simpler terms is a rig to regulate the flashes of light for experiments in right and left-eyedness.

Dr. Crosland got his idea from an apparatus invented years ago by a certain Dr. Whipple, psychology and education instructor at the University of Michigan, who used it for flashing material before the eyes of a subject for a given part of a second in the "range of attention" experiment.

Dr. Crosland worked upon a similar apparatus several years ago, and in the April, 1926, issue of the "Journal of Experimental Psychology," he published an article called, "A Device for Controlling the Time of Exposure in the Dodge Tachistoscope." In this apparatus,

$26,000 Spent On Renovation Over Campus

Funds Originate From CWA Program

71 MEN HAVE JOBS

Work to Continue Till Feb. 15; Repairs, Painting, Sprinklers Included in Grant

Seventy-one men have been given work on the University campus from the funds allotted for the CWA program, reports J. O. Lindstrom, business manager.

The repair work, which was begun at the start of the Christmas holidays, and will continue until February 15, will cost $23,101, of which $21,075.30 was furnished from CWA funds, while the remainder, $5025.70, was supplied by the state board of higher education, upon recommendation of Dr. W. J. Kerr, chancellor. Labor will receive $18,498 of the total.

The first project approved and already partially completed employs 49 men and includes such work as painting and refinishing rooms in the journalism building, remodeling the third floor of Friendly hall for office rooms, and repair work in the architecture, science, law, physical education, and social science headquarters.

The project also includes repair work in McClure hall, Deady hall, Education building, physical education building, Oregon building, R. O. T. C. barracks and the press building.

Under a second grant, a drainage and sprinkler system is being installed on the campus, and considerable repair work is under way. The first project called for an expenditure of $18,984 and the second $7117.

Alpha Delta Sigma Schedules Krawl Saturday Evening

With the customary array of advertising sheets, posters, and crazy copy in general as decorations, and with worthwhile favors, and a surprise feature this Krawl is expected to surpass those of the past.

A hint about the features is to the effect that Cocoonat Grove entertainers from Los Angeles will be here with first rate entertainment for the college crowd at this dance.

Grant Thummel is chairman of the dance. Other members of the various committees follow: assistant chairman, Ed Labbe; decorations, Don Black, chairman, Eldon Haberman, Don Thompson; favors, Ed Meserve, John Zehnbauer; features, Bill Meissner; tickets, Ron Rew; publicity, Tom Clapp.

Taste Defeat in Igloo

KEN WILLS

ROLAND JOHNSON

REX SCOTT

Above are three members of the invading Washington State college team, which lost a sensational game to a battling Oregon team last night in the Igloo by a count of 30-27. The Cougars took all four games from the Ducks last season, but they can't repeat this year.

Figures Indicate Smaller Number Put on Probation

Disqualified Students Increase by Large Percentage With Twenty-four Out

Twenty-four students were disqualified after the fall term, an increase of more than 150 percent over the corresponding term of a year ago, figures from the registrar's office reveal. Only nine students were disqualified for the fall term of 1932.

However, the number of students placed on probation shows a decrease, there being 287 last term and 363 a year ago. Reasons given for this drop are the changed rules for upper division students, provided for a warning to those falling slightly below the minimum grade point average set. Twenty-three such students were warned.

There were 72 students who cleared probation by gaining satisfactory averages.

Students Protest Payment of Fees

Nine graduate students formally protested last Tuesday to the administration of the University of Oregon against paying that portion of registration fees which goes to the Associated Student body.

Registration fees for graduate students are $26, $25 of which goes to the Associated Students in return for a Student Body card entitling admission to athletic contests, concerts, and so forth. The nine graduate students paid the $25.00 under protest, on the grounds that they do not attend these functions, and consequently are paying for a privilege they do not use nor want.

Those who signed the formal protest were James Landye, Bill Kinley, Bill Whitely, Art Clark, Karl Huston, Josephine Rice, Eugene Laird, Carl Coad, and Bennett Swanton.

By BILL EBERHART
Oregon laid the foundation last night for a definite rebuilding of her basketball prestige by taking the season's opener from Washington State college by the tight score of 30 to 27. Jack Friel's Cougars split a two-game series with the champion Oregon Staters last weekend, making Oregon's victory mean a good deal.

Both teams displayed a flashy spark that is usually absent so early in the season. The game was packed with thrills and breath-taking shots throughout, with both teams participating in the crowd-pleasing tactics. Another pleasing dish of the same variety will be served to Oregon fans again tonight, when the two teams convene at McArthur court for the second game of the series.

Oregon Takes Lead
The ball game was all Oregon during the first half last night. The Webfoots, from the opening whistle, acquired a healthy lead that was held down to the closing minutes of the period. The half ended 16 to 11 in Oregon's favor, but at one time Reinhart's men enjoyed a 13 to 4 advantage.

The situation was reversed for the major part of the second half. The visitors proved to be a great last period club when they overtook Oregon and stepped out in front with a 19 to 18 lead. The Webfoots tightened up, however, and climbed out of the hole in veteran style.

Robertson Tallies
After a rather slow and scoreless minute or two at the start of the game, Captain Olinger of the Webfoots slipped Robertson a smooth pass and he made his short shot good. Budd Jones followed, a little later with a field goal from the foul line, and the other Jones, center Willard, swished one from the free throw after he was fouled by Johnson.

Ken Wills, captain of the W. S. C. team, opened the scoring for his side at this juncture with one of his famous one-handed push shots with a running delivery. Willard Jones followed up with a similar shot for Oregon, and time-out was called by Captain Olinger.

Rally Starts
After the short rest, high-scorer Robertson slipped a short one in over his head, and Bill Berg tallied on another short one in the orthodox manner. Six-foot-seven-inch Robert Houston, Cougar center, started the rally that brought Washington State within reaching distance of Oregon's superior score with a long, high shot from mid-court.

John T. Ganoe, associate professor of history, read a paper, "Some Constitutional and Political Aspects of the Ballinger-Pinchot Controversy," and Alexander Goldweiser, professor of thought and culture, gave a symposium on "Causality and Law in the Natural and Historical Sciences."

Other members of the faculty in attendance at the meeting were Andrew Fish, Harold J. Noble, Dan E. Clark, and R. C. Clark, head of the department.
