New 'Humpty Dumpty' House Making Profits For U of O Graduates

Bill Anderson and Chuck Shoemaker, graduate students of the University of Oregon, who were especially active on the campus in dramatics, opened on New Year's day a novel-looking restaurant located between Salem and Portland.

They have named their eating house "Humpty Dumpty" and have a picture of the fairyland character on the outside of a triple X building, which looks something like a barrel. It has been rumored that they are serving very excellent food profit.

Washington Meet On 1934 Schedule Of Duck Natators

Match Sets for Feb. 10 at Eugene; Ducks to Take Part in Conference Contests

Arrangements for a swimming meet with Washington, Feb. 10, at Eugene have been completed, according to Tom Stoddard, assistant graduate manager. Efforts are being made to schedule a return meet with the Huskies at Seattle, and also a home-and-home series with Oregon State. In addition, the Webfoot mermen will participate in the Northwestern collegiate meet at Portland, March 17, vieing with swimmers from Oregon, Washington, and Idaho colleges.

No coach has yet been appointed for the team. Several of the swimmers took part in the Oregon-Candadian meet in December, and others have been taking swimming under their physical education program. All-Oregon team last December were Chuck and Jim Reed, Francis Oglesby, and Wally Hug. Plans are also being started for a fresh team, but these are still tentative.

Oregon Papers Enter Contest of Sigma Delta Chi

Honorary Sponsors Competition in Connection With Annual Press Conference

The annual best weekly newspaper contest, under the sponsorship of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national journalism fraternity, has been announced by Don Caswell, president of the organization. It will take place as usual during the press conference, which will be held on this campus, January 18, 19, and 20.

Many entries are expected this year under the somewhat changed rules of the contest. This year four issues are to be turned in, two being consecutive and chosen by the editor, and the other two are to be the first issue of October and the first issue of November, 1933. Entries were to be in by January 5, 1934, and included only weeklies and twice-weeklies.

Scoring of the papers is according to news and content, editorial page, front page, mechanical perfection, and advertising. Caswell said. This along with the rules governing entries makes for utmost fairness throughout the contest.

Winners of this cup in the past were the Hillsboro Argus, McMinnville Telephone Register, and the Hood River News.

W. C. Beattie, in charge of KOAC at the present time, is conducting these programs.

Scanning the Cinemas

McDONALD — "Footlight Parade," James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell.

COLONIAL — "Disraeli," George Arliss, Joan Bennett, Florence Arliss. Also "Three Little Pigs."

By J. A. NEWTON George Arliss is first, last and always one of the screen's greatest actors. And one of the best of his shows to date is "Disraeli," which is the Colonial attraction.

Strangely enough this fine actor usually gets a role which is better than the ordinary role, and when his talent is added to this, an outstanding show results.

"Disraeli" is the dramatization of the great prime minister's efforts to secure the Suez canal for England. A romance between Clarissa, played by Joan Bennett, and a stiff-necked young nobleman is one of Disraeli's diversions.

Footlights and the Fool For the fountain stage number alone it is worth while to sit through a rather lengthy preliminary story. "Footlight Parade," the Mac's attraction, is, of course, a follow up of the wave of musicals started by "42nd Street." It isn't as good as "42nd Street."

But that fountain number individually beats anything that has yet been produced in movie revues. Nothing has approached it as yet on the counts of imagination and novelty.

There are two other rather lavish stage presentations, one modeled on the "Shuffle Off to Buffalo" idea, only this time it's the "Honeymoon Hotel." The other is a "Shanghai Lil" idea. It is a bit difficult to accept Ruby Keeler in that part.

Miss Keeler and James Cagney both do some good stepping.

Cagney plays the part of a stage prologue idea originator, with Joan Blondell, his secretary, trying to keep him in the straight and narrow. She fails, but he succeeds in selling his revue prologues, grabbing off the secretary and a stack of money to boot. "Footlight Parade" is two complete entertainments, one being the story, and the other the revues. That fountain number stands alone.

Criminal Survey Volume by Morse, Beattie Is Praised

Work by University of Oregon Professor Receives Many Favorable Reviews

The first volume of the Oregon Crime Survey, written by Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University law school, and Ronald H. Beattie, now of the bureau of public administration in the University of California, has received much favorable comment in several recent law reviews.

Morris Ploscowe of Harvard university reviewed the book at length very favorably in the December issue of the Journal of Criminal Law and Criminology. The book was also favorably reviewed in recent issues of the Idaho and Minnesota law reviews.

The volume of the Oregon Crime Survey, officially called the "Administration of Criminal Justice in Oregon," and published by the University of Oregon Press, is the first of five volumes contemplated by the authors.

Washington Sets Pace as Beavers Divide With WSC

Orangemen Nosed Out in Second Contest; Huskies to Play Idaho This Week-end

The Huskies of Washington grabbed an early lead in the Northern division of the Pacific Coast conference basketball race as a result of a double win over Idaho last weekend. Both games were featured by the brilliant performance of Bob Galer who, playing at a guard position, Friday night garnered eight points to help set down the Vandals 35 to 29, and, shifted to forward Saturday, sparked his team to a 31-to-25 victory when he ran wild to score 17 points. Idaho showed surprising strength and both games were battles throughout, the hostility reaching a climax in the Friday night tilt when Joe Weber, Washington guard, and Harold Klumb, Idaho's big sophomore forward, came to blows, momentarily halting the struggle.

After dropping a one-sided game to Oregon State Friday night, 28-16, the Cougars from Pullman came back to nose out the Pacific coast champions in a frenzied finish, 26-24, Saturday. Jack Friel's boys handled the ball faultlessly when trailing the Beavers 24-20 and with only a few minutes to go Johnson and Scott sank two beautiful shots to tie it up and another shot by the brilliant Johnson put the game on ice. The game was a scoring battle between Wills, stellar W. S. C. guard, and Skeet O'Connell, who chalked up 10 points for the Beavers.

Games this weekend, in addition to the second Oregon-W. S. C. game tonight, find Washington journeying to Moscow to tangle with the Vandals in two more games on Friday and Saturday nights. They return to play the Cougars at Pullman Monday and Tuesday. The Beavers will be entertained by Oregon at McArthur court Saturday night in the first of a four-game home-and-home series.

Bandmen to Get More Strenuous Work This Term

The University of Oregon band will undergo an even more strenuous schedule this term than it did last term owing to the large number of basketball games that will be played here on the home courts.

The band will perform at every game although each member will be required to attend only two-thirds of the performances. Practices are now under way for a concert to take place at McArthur court at 3 o'clock Sunday, January 21.

The Center Leaves have the finest

Tobacco Quality

that's why only center leaves are used in Luckies

The first thing people see and like about Luckies is how round and firm they are. The tobacco doesn't spill out and there are no loose ends to cling to lips. That's because we pack each and every Lucky full to the brim with long, even strands of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos—only the center leaves. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed.

Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because they are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. That's why Luckies always draw easily, burn evenly—and are a fully packed cigarette. So remember, "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

From the Diamond Horse-Shoe of the Metropolitan Opera House Every Saturday at 2 P. M., Eastern Standard Time over the Red and Blue Networks NBC, LUCKY STRIKE presents the Metropolitan Opera Company in the complete Opera performed that afternoon.
