Students Score Compulsory ASUO Membership

Willard Marks New President of Group To Replace Nelson

Ten Names on Petition Given To State Board

Proposal Seeks Saving Of $5 Per Term

ACTION IS DELAYED

Bonus of $1000 for Coach Callison Negated by Refusal of Group To Consent on Matter

PORTLAND, Jan. 15.—(Special to the Emerald)—Dick Neuberger, former editor of the Emerald, this morning presented to the state board of higher education, through Chancellor W. J. Kerr, a petition aiming at abolition of compulsory membership in the Associated Students and compulsory payment of student body fees.

The proposal, presented as a means of saving $5 a term for students in straitened circumstances, was referred to the board's student welfare committee, with E. C. Sammons serving in place of Mrs. Cornelia Marvin Pierce, who is in Washington. F. E. Callister is the other member of the committee.

Ten Students Sign

The letter was signed by 10 students, several of them graduate students in the law school who do not pay the full $5 required of undergraduates. It pointed out that the present low enrollment at the University shows the dire financial need of many students. It declared that it is difficult to find employment in Eugene, that many students must resort to installment payment of fees, and that student loan funds are depleted.

American Man of Business Branded 'Racketeer' in Talk

Advancing his view that the "depreciation of human ideals has been responsible for the present world economic depression," Dr. Alexander Goldenweiser, professor of thought and culture of the Portland extension center, addressed a large audience in Villard hall Sunday evening on the subject "Our Economic Complex."

Allen Will Speak Tonight to Group On Topic of War

International Relations Club Opens Winter Activities With Talk By Journalism Dean

The International Relations club will open its winter term activities with an address by Dean Eric W. Allen of the school of journalism, at the Craftsman's club tonight at 7:30. His speech is titled, "Who Will Be to Blame for the Next War."

Dean Allen is an authority on international affairs and traveled extensively in the Orient last summer. He will attempt to place the responsibility for the next war if there is one and will point out just how threatening are the war clouds of the present.

Following Allen's talk an open forum will be held, the students questioning him on points not made clear.

N. R. A. Codes to Be Discussed by Editorial Visitors

Journalistic Meet Scheduled for Friday; Late Developments Coming by Wire

Business subjects and discussions will predominate at the Oregon Press conference that is to be held at the school of journalism beginning Friday morning, January 19, and continuing for two days.

Topics which will occupy important places on the program for the conference sessions will include NRA codes for newspapers and printing shops, advertising promotion, circulation problems, and business recovery.

Friday afternoon the Oregon State Editorial association will hold a very important business meeting to which representatives of all Oregon newspapers are invited. The general discussion will center around NRA codes for daily and weekly newspapers and their commercial printing plants, as well as independent commercial printing establishments.

Arrangements have been made with the National Editorial association to have the latest information by air mail and telegraph about the recent developments concerning the newspaper and graphic arts codes which are now on the desk of the president waiting for his signature.

Concerts for Winter Term Slated by ASUO

Roland Hayes to Appear January 25

TICKETS GOING FAST

Second Concert of Series to Be Given Next Sunday in Igloo By University Band

Winter Concert Series

Jan. 21, University band. Jan. 25, Roland Hayes. Feb. 4, University orchestra. Feb. 18, University band. Mar. 4, Polyphonic choir.

The second concert on the A. S. U. O. winter term concert series is scheduled to take place next Sunday at 3 o'clock, when the University band will present a free program in McArthur court.

On the Thursday following, Roland Hayes, famed negro tenor, will appear in the same building. This concert is attracting much interest on the campus and in the city. The demand for tickets is said to be unprecedented.

February 4, also a Sunday, the University orchestra will appear once more, with the band slated for the Sunday two weeks later.

Choir Will Appear The final concert on the series is that of the Polyphonic choir on March 4.

In next Sunday's concert 36 players will take part. The band has appeared twice already this school year; once during Homecoming, and again on Dad's day.

"The personnel of the band this term is better than usual," Director John Stehn stated yesterday, "especially in the reed sections. For the first time in the history of the band we've got enough good clarinet players to assure a correct balance between reed and brass."

Gounod Number Included The March and Cortege from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba" open the program. The brass section is used considerably in this number. Hildreth's "One Beautiful Day Overture" is popularly used by school bands. It has earned its American composer quite a bit of fame. Melodious passages dominate the work.

Tobani's "Hungarian Fantasia" is a skillfully arranged medley of Hungarian folk tunes which vary (Continued on Page Three)

Profs Absent-Minded? So Are Students When Library Is Concerned

Even the minds of some of Oregon's brightest students apparently cannot comprehend the complicated schedule of library hours, which, in addition to having been posted in both libraries, has been published in the Emerald several times.

For the benefit of those who are not yet sure whether the library will be open when they set out to study, the schedule is again published.

Library hours will remain for the rest of the year as follows: Reserve departments: Monday to Thursday, 7:45 a. m. to 10 p. m.; Friday, 7:45 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Saturday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.; and Sunday, 3 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Circulation and reference departments: Monday to Thursday, 7:45 to 10 p. m.; Friday, 7:45 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Saturday, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.; Sunday, 3 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Detailed Work Eliminated

Dr. W. J. Kerr, chancellor of higher education, will have more time to consider matters affecting the system as a whole with the appointment of acting presidents on the Eugene and Corvallis campuses.

Sigma Delta Chi Cup to Be Given To Best Weekly

Presentation Is Included in Press Conference Activities Here During Present Week

Presentation of the Sigma Delta Chi silver loving cup to the paper that is judged the best weekly in the state will be one of the features of the Oregon Press conference when it is held here January 18, 19, and 20. Don Caswell, president of Oregon chapter, will award the cup at the luncheon Saturday noon, where Sterling Green, editor of the Oregon Emerald, will preside.

A special election will be held this term, disclosed Hieber, at (Continued on Page Four)

Rise of Negro Makes Typical Story of American Success

Were it not for the keen ear of an Oberlin college student, a young negro named Arthur Calhoun, Roland Hayes, internationally famous tenor, might still be working in a Chattanooga sash-weight factory for $3 a day. Hayes is to appear at McArthur court Thursday, January 25 under the auspices of the associated students.

It fell to Hayes to sing a small solo in a church entertainment arranged by Calhoun in Chattanooga, Tennessee, more than 15 years ago. Calhoun was so impressed with the promising young voice that while the two were walking home after the meeting, he urged Hayes to take up singing in earnest.

Hayes, filled with pride over his foremanship of the sashweight factory, and thinking of the profitless life of an itinerant dance-hall singer, refused.

Hayes was finally convinced that singing was his career when he was invited to Calhoun's house to hear records of some of the great singers—Marcella Sembrich, Emma

Sigma Repeats With Top Place In Grade List

Hendricks Hall Captures Second Position

TOP AVERAGE 1.6701

Susan Campbell Third, Kappa Delta Fourth; Delta Upsilon, Chi Psi Head Fraternity List

Sigma hall topped all other living organizations on the campus in the grade point averages for the fall term, released yesterday from the registrar's office, with a 1.6701 average. This was .3720 above the All-University mark of 1.2981.

By placing first for the second successive time amongst all male living organizations of the University, Sigma gained a stronger hold on the silver cup awarded for the best scholastic average. One more win will give them permanent possession of the trophy.

Hendricks Second Hendricks hall as usual places high up in the rating, having an average of 1.6630 to gain second place. Last spring term Hendricks beat out Sigma by a narrow margin.

Susan Campbell hall took third place on the list, while Kappa Delta, next in line, topped all sororities and Greek-letter organizations. Sigma Kappa, Phi Mu, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Alpha Xi Delta followed.

Delta Upsilon won first position among the fraternities and was ninth in the general standings. Second place in this group was (Continued on Page Two)

Brand Elected Vice-President as Calm In Higher Education Is Sought In Portland Meeting

PORTLAND, Jan. 15.—(Special to the Emerald)—Three steps toward the calming of higher educational storms were taken by the state board in session here this afternoon. The following program went through unanimously:

1. The investigation of Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school, was ordered abandoned.

2. "Acting presidents" were designated for the Eugene and Corvallis campuses. C. V. Boyer, dean of the college of arts and letters, named to head the University, and George W. Peavy, dean of forestry, to head the state college.

3. Willard L. Marks elected president of the state board to fill the unexpired term of Roscoe C. Nelson, resigned.

All the measures were approved in perfunctory fashion, without prolonged discussion. Abandonment of the investigation of Dean Morse, ordered November 24 as the aftermath of the dean's outspoken attack upon Nelson and his demand for the resignation of Chancellor W. J. Kerr, was taken, according to the language of the resolution, because "the board realizes that many things were said and done under conditions of stress and misunderstanding and that these conditions resulted in part at least from statements of members of the board."

Need Filled The selection of acting presidents was made in order to fill "an immediate need for more adequate provision of local administration." Deans Boyer and Peavy will serve as institutional administrators, heading those activities on the major campuses that require integrated and personal leadership. The acting presidents will discontinue some of their present duties and will receive only a slight increase in salary for their work as institutional administrators. At present, no salary change will be made.

The local administrators, it was pointed out, will relieve the chancellor of much of the detail work that he has hitherto had to handle, and will leave him more time for consideration of matters affecting the system as a whole.

The chancellor revealed that he had long contemplated the establishing of presidents on the campuses but had delayed action until the higher educational system was in better financial condition to sustain the expense. The chancellor declared that as recently as this summer he was working on a plan to install presidents, but that he has not been "ready to present it at an earlier date."

Heads Supplied The new plan, it was believed, will supply the functional heads necessary upon the campuses, without using as salary outlay the funds which are sorely needed for instructional and institutional purposes.

Details of the functional relationship between acting presidents and interinstitutional deans, between faculty and acting presidents, and between the chancellor and presidents, will be worked out in the next two weeks. They will (Continued on Page Three)

Dean Hoyt to Talk On Radio Tonight

Harrison V. Hoyt, dean and director of the school of business administration, will speak tonight at 8:15 over radio station KOAC concerning the schools of business both here and at Corvallis.

Hoyt's talk is the third of a series on the educational training and services offered by the Oregon state system of higher education. James H. Gilbert, dean and director of the school of social science, will talk regarding his school over KOAC January 30.

Each dean will present the material for his particular school or division. The series will be continued through the spring term until all of the deans and directors have presented the work of their respective divisions and schools.

Good Work in String Groups Noted at Sunday Symphony

The University Symphony, which gave a program Sunday in the Igloo before a crowd of approximately 2000 students and townspeople, is a student organization, primarily, and this fact must be taken into consideration in any comments upon its performance.

Obviously this group would have its weaknesses just as any other student group. Therefore, the following remarks are not so much written in a critical sense as in an analytical sense through which possible roads to improvement may be found.

Be it understood that the writer is just as much a student critic as the orchestra members are mostly student musicians, and he is just as open to criticism as anyone else, if not more so. But in all fairness to his own conscience and the performer, he writes what he thinks. (Continued on Page Two)
