Oregon Wins From Beaver Quintet 30-26

Ducks in Second Place With Victory

Fastest and Most Colorful Tussle Of Year Furnishes Thrills For Big Crowd

By BILL EBERHART
Bill Reinhart's up-and-coming basketball team climbed into second place and kicked Oregon State into fourth position in the conference race last Saturday night, when it won a colorful victory over the Beavers, 30 to 26. It was the roughest, most spectacular tussle seen on the campus this season, and time after time sent the throng of spectators into feverish spasms.

The Webfoot coach out-smarted the Staters by installing a new system of attack to baffle their zone defense, and it worked perfectly until "Slats" Gill, O.S.C. mentor, changed from zone to a man-to-man defense. No less than four times in a row did big Willard Jones, Oregon center, hole out crumples following perfect execution of the new system by his team mates. Robertson, Olinger, and Berg played a fast game of three-corner-catch until the Beaver forwards became impatient and plunged after the ball. This was the cue for Robertson to dribble toward the foul line, shoot a bounce pass to W. Jones, who ended the play with a neat shot.

Beavers Stage Comeback
This was the principal factor in Oregon's success during the first half, although Oregon State was coming up fast near the end of the period. The score at the rest interval was 16 to 7 for the Webfoots, of which Willard Jones had accounted for 12.

Similar to Washington State last week, Oregon State came back after half-time with a dangerous rally that threatened to unfasten the Ducks from their comparatively safe lead. Hibbard began scoring with a crumpled shot which Budd Jones nullified with a long shot from mid-court—the kind L. H. Gregory of the Oregonian brands as a "howitzer" shot. Robertson added one of the same type, and Hibbard equalled this with another short one. State came within two points of catching up to the Webfoots when McDonald made good a pair of throws and Hibbard dropped in his third one of the period. Score: Oregon 20; Oregon State 18.

Oregon Looms as Threat
Gemmell, sub for Berg, gave Oregon a 4-point lead with a short shot, but McDonald and Folen converted free throws to bring the Beaver's score to 20. W. Jones retaliated with a double conversion, and Jack Robertson found the coast clear for a long dribble into the basket for a shot. After Palmberg, Kidder, and O'Connell had scored field goals for the Beavers, and Gemmell had picked up a point from the gift line for Oregon, the score was 27 to 26, a one-point advantage for the University, and the closest Oregon State came to a tie score. W. Jones scored a tough short shot and Gemmell converted, ending the game with Oregon on the long end of a 30 to 26 score.

The game established Oregon as the second place team in the present rankings of northern division conference members, and as an

California Comes Back to Down U.S.C. Saturday After Being Trounced Friday Night

This Week's Schedule
Saturday — California vs. Stanford, at Palo Alto; Southern California vs. Uclans, at Los Angeles.

After losing the first struggle to the California Bears Friday night, 36 to 30, U. S. C. came back the following evening to completely rout the tall Californians, 42 to 19.

In the first game, Southern California jumped into an early lead, but the fast breaking offense of the Berkeley team soon began clicking and were never again headed once they took the lead. Englehard, flashy Bear forward, carried off scoring honors with 13 points. Holbrook led the Trojan attack garnering 12 points.

The Saturday night game was a one-sided affair with the deliberate offensive game of Southern California completely baffling the Bears and led by Lee Gutter, Ward Browning and Holbrook, the Trojans won an easy victory.

Stanford journeyed down to Los Angeles to completely overwhelm the U.C.L.A. Bruins Friday night, 45 to 26, in a game that saw the southern team no match for the lofty giants from Palo Alto. Topping, Stanford forward, ran off with scoring honors, sinking seven field goals and four free throws for a total of 18 points. Captain Piper of the Bruins garnered 7 points to take second honors.

The Bruins showed a reversal of form in the Saturday night game and by sheer aggressiveness eked out a close 32-31 decision from their superior rivals and evened the series. The brilliant play of Johns featured this struggle. The score at half time was 18 all.

outfit to be seriously considered when the ultimate outcome of the campaign is discussed.

Huskies Clean Vandals
Meanwhile, Washington finished its entire schedule with Idaho Saturday night, winning 34 to 30, after a 39 to 29 victory the night before, making it a clean sweep in the four games. Because of a freakish schedule, the Huskies entered their series with Washington State last night at Pullman as the undisputed leader of the division. For the same reason, Idaho starts her games with other teams under a severe moral, as well as statistical, handicap.

Plenty of Joneses Here!

The two Joneses, Budd (left) and Willie, Bill Reinhart's youthful sophomores who played important roles in Oregon's 30-26 triumph over Oregon State Saturday night. The victory not only landed the "dark-horse" Webfoots in second place in the conference race but established them as contenders for the league title.

Huskies Stand Good Chance To Cop Northwest Gonfalon

Editor's note: This is a second of a series of articles concerning the comparative strengths of Northwest conference basketball teams written by Dan E. Clark, Jr., Emerald sports writer.

By DAN E. CLARK JR.
From the north came ominous rumblings as the Washington Huskies completed their massacre of Idaho last Saturday, shutting out the Vandals in their four game series for this season, and taking the opener from Washington State last night.

The Huskies seem bent on copping the conference pennant for the sixth time in seven years, for their only miss in the last seven being in 1933 when the Beavers from Oregon State scooped up 3, Northwest and Pacific coast conference first place money.

Hee Edmundson, Washington coach, has two first teams. So far this season he has seemed unable to make up his mind as to what combination is best and he has been changing his starting lineup in each game. A school that can throw two first string combinations on the floor, one equally as good as the other, is a hard outfit to beat. Idaho found this out.

At the first of the season Edmundson had Galer, his high scoring forward, in the guard position. At one time he played Bishop, a forward, at the center post, and Cook, a guard, took over the forward berth. All of which goes to show that the Huskies are a bunch of tall and versatile giants with their eyes on the Northwest conference flag.

Bob Galer not only tops his teammates in scoring but he now leads the Northwest conference basketballers with 48 counters. Although idle over the week-end, McPhee, of Washington State, still had enough points to remain in a second place tie with Grenier.

Husky Quint Tops League In Hoop Race

Ducks Climb to Second Place in Standing

Oregon State Faces Hard Task In Defending Coast Crown; Webfoots Threaten

Although the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference hoop race is but two weeks old, two definite factors are apparent as evidenced by the games to date, namely: first, that the defending Pacific coast championship Oregon State five is very apt to find itself unsuccessfully defending its northwest honors this year, and second, that the Oregon Webfoot quintet which wound up in last place in the race last year, winning but two games out of 16 starts, has wormed itself into the limelight as one of the most formidable contenders for the 1934 northern division crown.

The Washington Huskies are leading the race having swept the four game series with Idaho by winning last weekend's struggles with the Vandals at Moscow, and beating Washington State college last night at Pullman, 30-28, for a record of 5 wins and no defeats.

Oregon Holds Second Place
The Webfoots are undisputed possessors of second place with two wins and one reverse as a result of halving the series with the Cougars and topping the highly-touted Staters Saturday night at Eugene, 30 to 26. The Lemon-Yellow travel to Corvallis Friday night in a return game with the Beavers, the outcome of which will have a marked bearing on the championship considerations of both teams. The next week finds O.S.C. leaving on an extended road trip to Idaho and Pullman where "Slats" Gill's men will play four games in five nights, returning to play host to Washington, February 2 and 3, with two games at Corvallis.

Oregon, incidentally, takes to the road for the first time two weeks hence, meeting the Huskies at Seattle, January 26-27, entertaining the Washington five a week and a half later at McArthur court.

Huskies Have Advantage
Oregon State and W.S.C., now battling it out with each other for third and fourth place, meet a strong and stubborn Idaho aggregation in games next week, a Vandal team that although losing four games to Washington, three of these by exceedingly close scores, is admittedly strong and due to win a good share of its games in the present campaign.

At the present writing, Washington appears to be clearly with the advantage, while Oregon, a strong team with a favorable schedule, and O.S.C., although having lost two crucial games, stacking up as the most serious contenders.

Cougars Lack Reserves
Washington State, although boasting the stellar Wills and Johnson and the veteran, Scott, and the sharpshooting McPhee, seems to be weak on reserve strength and with green sophomores taking these roles for the most part. The Cougars should win a major share of their games and are undoubtedly still titular contenders. Idaho, off to a poor start, is due to begin clicking soon, with a pair of brilliant forwards, Klumb and Naslund, playing bang-up ball for the Vandals along with the veteran Grenier, rangy center.

From all appearances the 1934 basketball race of the northern division looks to be about as interesting as the last season's football campaign.

Yearlings Defeat Franklin 28 to 19 In Third Victory

Liebowitz and Hardisty Scoring Leaders; Leavens Stars For Lossers

Gene Shields' frosh hoop team won its third straight game Saturday afternoon at the expense of Franklin high, 28 to 19.

The Ducklings had little advantage in the opening period leading 6-5 at the end of ten minutes. They soon found themselves, however, and at half time led 16-9. From then on the frosh led easily, stopping every would-be Franklin rally. Sam Liebowitz of the yearlings led the scoring with 13 counters, while his teammate, Hardisty, scored 8. Leavens, reserve Quaker guard, scored 6 points.

Next Saturday the frosh will entertain Commerce high of Portland. The Stenographers, rated the "dark horses" of the Rose City interscholastic race, include Nello Vanelli, all-city grid star, and Gilbert Lorenzini in their lineup.

All women planning to go out for intramural or inter-house swimming competition must have a heart check before Friday, January 19. This is for your own protection.

More about heart checks! All intramural basketball players must have heart checks in by Friday.

If your house is planning to enter a basketball team you must have it in by this Wednesday. Get in touch with Dorothy Bergstrom, basketball manager, at Hendricks hall.

which time the student body will vote on proposed constitutional changes. In this way students will have a chance to express their opinions on each amendment.

At the general election during the spring term, the amendments will have been incorporated into a newly-formed constitution, the whole to be voted on at that time.

"The committee," said Hieber, "has been consulting constitutions from many other schools, and Tom Tongue has contacted several student body presidents on the coast in an effort to acquire information useful in conducting student government."

The committee will meet again on Saturday.

The Betas started on their way to another donut sports title last night in the opening games of the intramural "A" league volleyball schedule, when they upset Kappa Sigma in the closest matches on the afternoon's program.

After losing their first game, a hard fighting Omega hall team came back to win their match with victories in the two final games from Sigma Nu six. A Yeomen victory over Alpha Tau Omega and a defeat of La Casa Filipina by Theta Chi completed the afternoon events, while Phi Gamma Delta and Sherry Ross were awarded victories over Alpha hall and Phi Kappa Psi.

Mermen Hold First Session Of Year Today

Appoint Hoyman Coach Of Oregon Teams

Prospects for Competitive Meets Bright; Five Veterans Listed For Varsity Outfit

All aspirants for the varsity and frosh swimming teams are asked to report to Coach Hoyman at the swimming pool at 4 p. m.

Swimming made its official re-entrance into University sport circles yesterday with the announcement by Hugh Rosson and John F. Bovard that H. S. Hoyman, instructor in physical education, had been appointed swimming mentor of varsity and frosh teams.

Swimming Discontinued in 1932
Since 1932 swimming had been off the list of Duck sports, and Oregon aquatic stars had made only desultory appearances. The cessation of swimming was due to lack of talent, but to the fact that money for swimming and other minor sports was not forthcoming.

With the "new deal" in Oregon athletics, it was felt that swimming should be put back on the schedule of sports, and yesterday's announcement was in accord with opinion in athletic circles.

Five Veterans Back
The 1934 edition of the Web-foot team will probably be built around the five mermen who took part in the Oregon-Canada tryouts and meet—Jim Reed, Wally Hug, Francis Oglesby, Nason Newport, and Bob Needham. Chuck Reed, another of those who took part in that meet, is a freshman, and will compete on the frosh team.

The Oregon team will probably take part in six matches, including the Northwest meet in Portland, March 17. Negotiations are being conducted with a view to scheduling meets with O. S. C., Washington, and Multnomah Athletic club of Portland. The Frosh will probably schedule two or three meets.

Secretary III
Miss Margaret Reed, secretary to Dr. Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University law school, is ill and will be absent for a week. Dorothy Dill, freshman in journalism, is substituting for her.
