

Campus Beer Is Threatened By Knox Ruling

Issuance of Licenses May Be Restricted

COUNCIL SUGGESTED

Meeting Will Be Arranged When Onthank Returns; Statements Made by Stoddard, Large

With another campus eating establishment serving beer, and all campus stores reporting orderly conduct by students, it became doubtful yesterday whether the Knox liquor bill, which has not yet gone into effect, will permit the sale of beer in a University zone. Provisions of the bill give the state licensing agency permission to refuse licenses to establishments in close proximity to schools and churches.

Issuance of state licenses may be restricted to any dealer. The commission may refuse to issue licenses to any store within a definite zone yet to be determined, according to George H. McMorran, chairman of the state liquor board.

Special Line on Blanks
A line is being provided on the blanks, now being printed, for the dealer to fill in information pertaining to his proximity to a school or church.

McMorran has recommended that a conference be arranged between student body officers and administration officials, who are opposing the sale of beer at campus stores, to reconcile their differences. The conclusions arrived at at this meeting could be used as a basis for determining the policy of the state liquor board in regard to a University zone.

Meeting Planned
As Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel, who was responsible for the campus ruling, is out of town, the meeting will be arranged when he returns, probably tomorrow.

In a statement made yesterday on the subject of the campus sale of beer, Tom Stoddard, assistant graduate manager, said, "I am very pleased that beer is here and students are not forced to leave the campus and habitate unsavory places where hard liquors are also sold to indulge in a pastime that I consider a perfectly conventional one. I believe that from the disciplinary standpoint, the thing is self-governed. No student who desires to remain in the University will become intoxicated during class hours, if only because of the severe University penalties on the subject."

Mayor Elisha Large of Eugene, said unofficially yesterday that the city had no more jurisdiction in the matter.

Essay Contest of $100 Sponsored by League

Announcement of the William H. Baldwin essay contest for 1934, involving a cash prize of $100, was posted yesterday on the bulletin board in the basement of the old life.

The contest is sponsored by the National Municipal League, and is for essays written on one of the five stated subjects concerning municipal government. Contestants are restricted to undergraduate students in colleges or universities offering courses in municipal government.

May 15, 1934, is the closing date of the contest. Further details may be obtained from the National Municipal League.

Dagmar Haugen, Neal Bush Named Most Courteous of All

By ANN-REED BURNS
Men, doff those hats!
Women, be ready to bow!
And everyone, put on that poker face, to conceal all traces of jealousy at the news which is about to come. For the winners of Phi Theta Upsilon's politeness contest have at last been selected.

Miss Dagmar Haugen is Oregon's most courteous coed; and Neal Bush the campus Sir Walter Raleigh.

Both winners will be presented with a ticket to the Gamma Alpha Chi fashion dance, and Miss Haugen will receive in addition a corsage, donated by Lester McDonald of the College Flower shop.

Honorable mention was given to those students whose politeness

Rosson Gets Request For Budget Statement In ASUO Controversy

Yesterday's only development in the controversy over optional student body membership, proposed by a committee headed by Dick Neuberger and Jim Landye, was a request received by Hugh E. Rosson, graduate manager, for information concerning A. S. U. O. budget figures for 1933 and several previous years.

Rosson told the Emerald last night that the books of the A. S. U. O. would be open to the investigators when they arrived.

Dance for Senior Class Scheduled For January 27

Ball to Be Given in Gerlinger Hall Amidst Russian Atmosphere; Committee Named

The annual Senior ball will be given in Gerlinger hall Saturday evening, January 27, it was announced last night by Howard Bobbitt, named chairman of the yearly event by Ed Martindale, president of the senior class.

A Russian theme and background will predominate at the affair, with more complete plans to be announced within a few days. Possibility of obtaining Archie Loveland's band, which has been performing in Portland, to furnish music was declared good.

Assisting Bobbitt will be John Casey, assistant chairman; Harold Birkinshaw, music; Frances Johnston, decorations; Helen Burns, refreshments; Chick Burrow, publicity; Bernice Baynard, programs; Marion Vinson, patrons and patronesses; Stanley Haberlach, shes; Stanley Haberlach, cleanup; Biff Nilsson, tickets; and Jim Ferguson, construction.

Business Student To Go to Harvard

James Dutton, senior in the school of business administration, will attend the Harvard graduate school of business next year. The Harvard school offers a two-year course in the most advanced methods of business administration.

Several of the best students from the University of Oregon business school have attended the Harvard graduate school, among them being Ronald Robnett, graduated from here in 1928, who acted as assistant graduate manager up until his entrance to Harvard. According to last word received here, he is at the head of his class and a member of the honor society.

Prof. John M. Rae, of the school of business administration, will interview any students who are desirous of attending Harvard. All applications must be in by the first of April. The enrollment is limited, however, and selections will be in order of application, he said.

Three Spanish Plays To Be Given This Term

Three one-act plays are to be given this term by members of the Spanish club, Marie Saccomanno, president, announced today.

Tryouts for the plays, which are to be given in Spanish, will be held next week, and practice will begin at that time.

Names of the plays, which will be produced during February, are "La Broma," "El Joven Medico Infortunado," and "Una Disputa."

Faculty Gives Entire Support To Dr. Boyer

Military Training Paper Presented at Meeting

Resolution of Professors Assures New President of Hearty Cooperation

The faculty of the University yesterday pledged "to our newly elected head full and unqualified cooperation and support in protecting and safeguarding the interests of the institution and in promoting its ideals and extending its services to the commonwealth of Oregon," at its regular meeting in Johnson hall. The resolution assured Dr. C. V. Boyer, newly elected president of the University, of the complete support of the faculty.

A petition of a group of students on the campus to make military training optional instead of required for the University male undergraduates, was forwarded to a special committee of the faculty yet to be appointed.

Colonel Barker Appears
When the petition was brought before the faculty, Colonel Frederick A. Barker, professor of military science and tact, asked that it be referred to the minor faculties council, which consists of the military and home economic departments. Professor L. S. Cressman's amendment to have the petition sent to a special faculty committee was carried. Dr. C. V. Boyer will appoint the committee.

The faculty also approved the new courses which had previously been presented to the academic council, and they will be included in this year's catalogue.

Resolution Given
The complete text of the resolution regarding the support given Dr. Boyer read:

"Whereas, under the unified system of higher education in Oregon provision was made for presidents of the two major institutions; and

"Whereas, following the investigation by the official committee of the American Association of University Professors and as a consequence of a recommendation that executive heads be appointed at Eugene and Corvallis as a means to the establishment of confidence in the institutions and the administration of their affairs, the board of higher education has designated our colleague, Dean C. V. Boyer, as acting president of the University; and

"Whereas, the faculty of the University have full confidence in the sound scholarship, the integrity, courage, and impartiality of Dr. Boyer,

Outspoken Review of Emerald Music Critic Brings More Protests

The Emerald's music critic is still "on the spot" for his outspoken criticism of Sunday's concert of the University symphony orchestra. The following letter was received yesterday from a prominent student musician, who was quite willing to sign his name, except for the fact that it would inject even more of the personal element into the dispute than has already been injected.

Lack of space and the late hour at which the letter was received prevented its being published this morning. The mis-sive will be printed in its entirety tomorrow.

Dr. Keppel Visits Warner Museum During Stay Here

President of Carnegie Corporation Meets Research Committee in Art Appreciation

Dr. Fred Keppel, president of the Carnegie corporation, visited the University campus for a short time Tuesday before leaving for Seattle, Washington. He met Professor John J. Landsbury, R. W. Leighton, R. H. Seashore, and Noland B. Zane, who are members of the committee for research in art appreciation, which is being financed by the Carnegie corporation.

Dr. Keppel, accompanied by E. F. Lawrence, dean of the art school, visited the museum, where Mrs. Gertrude B. Warner showed him the art exhibit. He also heard the report of the summer session for art teachers under the auspices of the American Institute of Architects, the funds of which are supplied by the Carnegie corporation. ### Student Body Finances

(EDITORIAL)

Yesterday the Emerald presented a review of the financial difficulties of the Associated Students in the past eight years. It showed that the A. S. U. O.'s credit has been seriously imperiled in the past, but is now approaching a firm basis, despite the fact that at the beginning of the present school year it was indebted to the extent of about $80,000. An exceptionally successful football season, such a season as may occur once in five years, will reduce that debt considerably, and the normal income from the student building fees will, by the end of the year, have brought the indebtedness down to approximately $30,000.

What will be the financial situation if the plan for optional membership proposed by Dick Neuberger, Jim Landye, and eight other students is successful? How far would the activities of the Associated Students be curtailed? How would the credit of the A. S. U. O. be affected by the change? How would a possible curtailment of the A. S. U. O.'s program of activities affect enrollment at the University? To what extent is the cultural program of the A. S. U. O. beneficial and worthy of continuation? How many students are financially so distressed that they would have to forego membership in the association?

Those are the problems that must be confronted. The question of optional membership is not as simple a matter as the mere exemption of students from payment of student fees.

An analysis of present yearly expenditures of the A. S. U. O. will give a clear idea of how much money is required to maintain its varied activities. From this analysis may be omitted consideration of the athletic department, since the sports program, year in and year out, is largely self-supporting. Deficits in any given year may be made up in the next year.

At present the program of the A. S. U. O. is contracted to its fullest extent. Student officials believe that the present year's budget, the lowest in many years, restricts too narrowly the field of activities which may be carried on. (For instance, the Emerald is operating on a total budget of about $9,000, only $4050 of which comes from student fees. In recent years the Emerald's total outlay has been as high as $14,000—but this was in a year when student enrollment hovered at the 3200 mark.) Furthermore, it was made up in a period of low prices—various contracts were signed at figures which it will be impossible to secure again.

Although a summary of this year's non-athletic budget expenses cannot be considered typical, then, the Emerald presents them as a tentative analysis of the lowest figure obtainable at which the activities of the A. S. U. O. can be operated on their present basis:

Emerald	$ 4050.00
Forensics	387.67
Student administration	694.33
A. W. S.	192.46
Philomelete	60.00
W. A. A.	172.00
Concerts	422.50
Band	1680.00
Orchestra	225.00
Administration (general)	3188.34
Miscellaneous	250.00
Interest cost on indebtedness	2080.00
Insurance	250.00
Total	$12,152.30

To this must be added the payment from student body funds of a deficit of some three or four hundred dollars on publication of the Oregonian; at present the loss on the year book cannot be estimated precisely.

Some provision should be made, we feel it fair to point out, for an upward revision of these figures in future years. Intercol- (Continued on Page Two)

Students Seek Optional Basis In ROTC Work

Petition Given to Faculty At Meeting

25 OFFER PROTEST

Matter Placed in Hands of Group To Be Named by Dr. Boyer For Investigation

A petition signed by 25 students of the University asking that military training be made optional for male undergraduates, was read before the regular meeting of the faculty yesterday, and referred on to a special committee yet to be appointed by Dr. C. V. Boyer, acting president of the University.

The complete petition, which was tendered by the Student Committee of Compulsory Military Training, headed by Wallace J. Campbell, graduate student in sociology, reads as follows:

"To the Faculty of the University of Oregon:

"We, the undersigned students of the University of Oregon, do hereby respectfully submit the following petition for your consideration.

"WHEREAS: the Oregon Code, Section 35, 4707, 1930 Edition, Volume 2, vests in the faculty of the University the power to prescribe the course of study to be pursued in the University,

"AND WHEREAS: the federal law provides that military training be offered at all state universities but that it be made complete at the discretion of the governing board of the institution,"

Annual Press Meeting Slated To Open Today

Full Weekend Planned For Guests

DINNER SCHEDULED

Recognized Authorities on Phases Of Newspaper Work Will Give Addresses

The sixteenth annual Oregon Press conference, which is to be held in the school of journalism beginning today and continuing through Friday and Saturday, will draw newspaper men from the entire state.

A full weekend of entertainment, business discussions, and addresses from newspaper men presenting various problems and new plans for the profession, is planned. Some of the topics to be discussed include advertising promotion, circulation problems, business recovery programs, and NRA codes for newspapers and printing shops.

Activities for the visitors begin today at 3 o'clock with an executive committee meeting of the Oregon State Editorial Association, which will be held at the Eugene hotel. This evening the annual publishers' round table and dinner will be held at the Eugene hotel, with E. B. Aldrich, Pendleton East Oregonian, presiding. Weekly editors and publishers have always been invited to attend and take part in the round table discussions, and in previous years have turned out in large numbers. Originally these round table affairs, which were held before the conference, were planned to give daily publishers and executives an opportunity to discuss their individual problems.

A group of recognized authorities on different phases of the newspaper work will give addresses on a wide range of topics. Among them Floyd L. Sparks, a recognized advertising authority of San Francisco, will be a leading speaker on the subject of "Advertising Under the New Deal." O. C. Harn, managing director of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, of Chicago, will discuss circulation problems with daily and weekly publishers in their department meetings. He will also address the general session on the topic, "A. B. C. and the Smaller Newspapers." Dean Eric W. Allen, of the Oregon school of journalism, will speak on the subject, "Go West, Young Man, Go West."

Contributions of books for a college library are requested in a letter received at the registrar's office and referred to M. H. Douglass, librarian, yesterday. The school is Rider college, of Trenton, New Jersey. It has a student body of 800.

The letter states that the college is making an effort to build up a library for the aid of its worthy students who are receiving financial assistance in obtaining their education. Names of donors of books for the collection are to be enrolled and placed upon the library walls.

The library of this University will probably donate several volumes of which it has duplicate copies, such as text books and English classics, Douglass stated yesterday.
