

Death of Hoss Is Grieved by Friends Here

Secretary of State Once Active Journalist

Acquaintances Express Deepest Sorrow in Passing of Oregon Statesman

(Continued from Page One) of the school from the first, and at many times came to Eugene to speak to classes and at one time negotiations were under way looking to his accepting a position with the school. His loss will be deeply felt and long remembered.

James D. Barnett, professor of political science: "We have lost one of our best officers of state."

Gilbert, Morse Speak
James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science: "Hal Hoss was the finest type of young statesman. He was greatly interested in human beings and approached all problems with a calm and humorous attitude. He never allowed himself to be swayed out of the line of absolute fairness."

Dean Wayne L. Morse of the law school: "Hal Hoss, as secretary of state exemplified a keen appreciation of the responsibilities which a public servant owes to the people of the state he serves. He was a man of unquestioned integrity and unafraid to stand for unpopular issues if he believed them to be right."

Death Great Loss
Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration: "I knew Hal Hoss for nearly 20 years. His fine sincerity and consideration for others is rarely equalled. He was an able newspaperman and public administrator. His untimely death is a great loss to Oregon and a personal bereavement to a host of friends."

Earl M. Pallett, registrar: "Hoss was a very capable man. His death is a blow to state administration."

Philip A. Parsons, professor of sociology: "In the death of Hoss the state of Oregon lost a public servant in the finest sense of that word. He was a scholar and a gentleman, a statesman rather than a politician."

Hoss Interested in Students
Arne C. Rae, assistant professor of journalism and manager of the Oregon State Editorial Association: "The death of Hal Hoss is a genuine loss to the faculty and students of Oregon's University and college. As former regent of the two institutions he was intensely interested in state education. Faculty and students were his friends; leaders of the University and college as well as students, felt free to swing his door, and he asked to 'pull up a stool' if they sought his counsel. Many a graduate and student of the University and college is indebted to him for the encouragement that he gave to them."

Carlton E. Spencer, professor of law: "Hoss had a host of friends on the University of Oregon faculty. He was respected as an efficient state official. We also had a great confidence in his integrity, sincerity of his purpose and devotion to public interest. The state has sustained a real loss in his untimely death."

More Praise Given
W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and business administration: "Qualities I shall remember are his essential sincerity and his affectionate interest in young people. He would go out of his way to help any young person."

George Turnbull, professor of journalism: "I had known him for 15 years. There isn't any member of my circle of acquaintances I will miss more than Hal. He was the personification of friendliness, and probably loved as a brother by more people than any other in the state of Oregon."

New Quarters More Roomy For Seashore

Office Outfitted as One Of CWA Projects

Psychology Laboratory One of Best Designed Departments On Oregon Campus

Visitors to Dr. Robert H. Seashore, associate professor of psychology, can now enter his office and turn around without moving one foot in order to find a place to put the other. He has a new office one door down the hall from his old one, which he himself remarked was so crowded that in order to get up from his desk he had to push his chair out and to one side and squirm into a standing position, then push the chair back so as to have room to move. The new office was outfitted with bookcases and drawers as one of the C. W. A. projects.

In speaking about the offices and laboratory rooms of the psychology department, which are on the top floor of Condon hall, Dr. Seashore remarked: "This is one of the best designed and finest equipped psychology laboratories in the country, as well as one of the most adequately designed departments on the campus."

"Every room is wired for alternating, direct, and timed electrical currents, and has both compressed air and gas, so that laboratory apparatus can be set up in any room in the department. The floor has a special felt base, and the walls are specially built for sound-proofing. We have a completely equipped shop for building and repairing our own apparatus, except for metal work, which has to be done elsewhere."

The University of Oregon psychology department, according to Dr. Seashore, is one of a very few in the country having individual laboratory rooms for elementary students. Each of these rooms has a cabinet with the supplies necessary for conducting

Collection of Articles In Department of Lost And Found Increases

The spring weather effect upon the collection of articles at the lost and found department.

The collection was the smallest it had been for several years, according to Allen Tyson, University postmaster, until the warm sunny days came along and the meager supply began to increase. A watch, a small coin purse, gloves, scarfs, and a pair of glasses are waiting to be claimed by the owners.

all the experiments to be held throughout the year.

The building was designed by Dean Ellis F. Lawrence of the school of fine arts with suggestions from Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the psychology department, and Professor Raymond Wheeler, who was here before Dr. Seashore, and is now head of the psychology department at the University of Kansas.

Prof. Clark Compiles Index for Publication

Professor Dan E. Clark, of the history department, is compiling an index of the second volume of the Pacific Historical Review, a quarterly publication of the Pacific coast branch of the American Historical Association.

Dr. Clark is a member of the editorial board of the publication. Donald G. Barnes, formerly of the history faculty and now of the University of Washington, is also a member of the board of editors.

Travel Group to Hear Miss Starr at Meeting

Miss Mary E. Starr, instructor in home economics will address the travel group of Philomathe, hobby organization, at 5 o'clock, Wednesday in the A.W.S. room of the Spiller hall.

The talk will be the continuation of a series of studies on travel in the British Isles. Miss Starr's subject will be "Getting Around in London."

"Patronize Emerald advertisers."

Scanning the Cinemas

Instead of Donald Cook, prominent motion picture actor, appearing before a court to answer to a $100,000 breach-of-promise suit brought by Maxine Lewis, 24-year-old radio singer, he will make an appearance before a minister with the same miss. Here they are filing application to wed in Los Angeles.

McDONALD — "Convention City," Joan Blondell. Also "As Husbands Go," Warner Baxter.
COLONIAL — "Counsellor-at-law," John Barrymore, Bebe Daniels, Isabel Jewell, Doris Kenyon.

By J.A. NEWTON

Isabel Jewell plays the part of a switchboard operator in "Counsellor-at-law," John Barrymore's show at the Colonial. Those who have seen her in more serious roles will be surprised at this gym-chewing, fast-talking portrayal.

Just a crazy gabby dame, that's all she is. She puts it across. Barrymore never had a role which fit him better than does this one. Rapid action, dynamics, fast thinking and talk. All right up Barrymore's alley.

Barrymore dominates the picture with the Barrymore theatrical manners and gestures. Bebe Daniels is busily present in the background as the lawyer's secretary who maintains a secret love for her employer. He, of course, never notices her unless he has some business to transact.

All the time she realizes how the boy's wife is two-timing him on the side but she keeps mum. Really good stuff. Moves very fast.

OSC Professors Visit Here

Dr. Albert E. Caswell and Dr. W. P. Boynton, of the physics department at Oregon State college, were visitors at the University Monday. Dr. Boynton was formerly head of the physics department here, and Dr. Caswell, a professor of physics.

Social Science Classes Busy

Students in Dr. Samuel H. Jameson's class in backgrounds of social science are keeping the library reference department busy this week. Ethics of many different industries and professions are being studied, making necessary use of library reference sources.

Spencer, Morse Prove Waltzing Talent at Dance

For the second consecutive year Carlton E. Spencer, professor of law, won the prize waltz at the law school dance, when last Friday night, he was judged best waltzer, with Dean Wayne L. Morse running him a close second.

In commenting upon his victory, Professor Spencer stated that he owed his success to "having entered the University of Oregon at a day when waltzing was in vogue."

The fox-trot at the law school dance was won by Bill Whitley and Thelma Kem, with John Casey and Betty Hudson as runners-up.

Prizes for the dance were donated by campus merchants. Professor Spencer received an order for a shave-and-a-haircut at Charlie Elliott's barber shop. Mrs. Spencer received a box of stationery from the Co-op. Bill Whitley, an order for two dinners at the College Side, and Thelma Kem, five pounds of bath salts from the Oregon pharmacy.

The main feature of the dance, aside from the prize contests, was Walter (John Jack) Hempstead's rendition of "The Face on the Barroom Floor." According to a reliable eye-witness, this selection "was the high light of the evening, adding a classical touch to an otherwise common atmosphere."

Jewell in Portland
Dean J. R. Jewell, of the school of education, left Eugene Monday night for Portland. He spent Tuesday at Jefferson high school and will be at Lincoln high today, following out the education faculty policy of visiting active high schools in the state.

MARY LOUIEE EDINGER, Editor

THE despised male of the campus will be persona non grata at the annual Coed Capers tonight in Gerlinger hall. The traditional inhibitions, described so laboriously to students in psychology classes, will be overturned, according to advance information—just for the evening.

Several house dances are scheduled for the coming weekend and hold the spotlight on the social calendar.

Coed Capers Tonight

Tonight at 7 o'clock the Senior Cops will officially open the Coed Capers. This is an annual affair, given in Gerlinger hall, and is one time when coeds can become quite natural—for there are no men present.

Each class will present a stunt, and a cup will be awarded the class with the cleverest idea. It is strictly a costume affair, and at the end of the evening the judges will present a prize to the girl with the most appropriate costume.

There will be an orchestra for dancing, and Eskimo pies and popcorn balls will be available, if the visitors feel the need of refreshment. The girls will "caper" until 10 o'clock, when the Senior Cops will once more be given a chance to show their authority by sending every one home and restoring order to Gerlinger hall.

Alpha Gams to Give Dance

Alpha Gamma Delta will entertain with a semi-formal winter dance Saturday evening at the chapter house. Decorations will be palms and floodlights. Music will be furnished by Sherwood Burr.

Catherine Watson is chairman of the evening. The patrons and patronesses will be Mrs. Elizabeth Ramsby, Miss Maude Kerns, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Noble, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Rae, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goehner.

Alpha Phi to Give Formal

Alpha Phi will entertain Saturday evening with their winter formal at the chapter house. The theme will be an Alaskan night in blue and silver. Music will be furnished by Sherwood Burr and his orchestra.

Betty Ruggles is chairman of the evening. The patrons and patronesses will be Mrs. A. L. Wall, Mrs. Elizabeth Talbert, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Schwing, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher, Dean and Mrs. Eric W. Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins.

Valentine's Dance Slated

Valentine's will be the motif for decoration at the Alpha Chi Omega formal Saturday night. Huge red valentines will decorate the walls, and red cupid will be found at each window. In the corners of the rooms will be palm trees, spot lights in the shape of a heart concealed behind them, while small tables will be placed around the room giving the idea of a night club.

Art Holman's orchestra will furnish music for the affair. Several out-of-town guests are expected to be present at the dance.

Patrons and patronesses for the affair are: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Manerud, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thacher, and Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Smith.

Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Ellen Sersanous, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sersanous, to Harold Fraundorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Fraundorf, was announced Sunday, February 4, at the Alpha Chi Omega chapter house. Both families are from Portland.

The announcements of the engagement were cleverly made in newspaper style, the living room of the sorority house being fixed to represent a newspaper office.

Both the young people are graduates of the University of Oregon. While on the campus Miss Sersanous was prominent in activities, and was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega. Mr. Fraundorf was a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

The wedding will be an event of the spring.

Exchange Desserts

Pi Kappa Alpha will entertain Delta Delta Delta at dessert tonight, and Alpha Delta Pi, Sigma Phi Epsilon. An all-dorm after-dinner dance is scheduled in the men's dormitory tonight also.

Numerous desserts are scheduled for Thursday evening. Alpha Omicron Pi will entertain Phi Sigma Kappa; Chi Omega, Sigma Chi; Alpha Xi Delta, personal women guests; Phi Gamma Delta, Gamma Phi Beta; Delta Gamma, Delta Tau Delta; Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pi Beta Phi; Sigma Kappa, Kappa Sigma; Delta Upsilon, Delta Delta Delta; and Theta Chi, Alpha Chi Omega.

Kappa Entertain

Kappa Gamma Gamma entertained faculty guests at dinner last evening. Margaret Wagner was in charge. Guests included Mrs. Alice E. Macduff, Miss Mabel A. Wood, Miss Mary E. Starr, Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt, Miss Brownell Frazier, Joseph W. Angell, Mr. and Mrs. S. Stephenson Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert R. French, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph H. Ernst.

Alpha Phi to Entertain

Alpha Phi will entertain with a faculty dinner at the chapter house Thursday evening. Guests will be Miss Maude Kerns, Dean and Mrs. Eric W. Allen, Dean and Mrs. Virgil D. Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert R. French, Mr. and Mrs.

ARE YOU A HAIR MUSSER?

How are YOUR nerves?

TEST NO. 16

Place a cork upside down on top of a bottle... Back up six paces... Extend your right arm and sight with your index finger... Walk rapidly toward the bottle, without wavering your arm... See if you can knock off the cork with the first flip. Most people try this test six times before they succeed.

Anton Lehang (Camel smoker), National 1932 ski jumping champion, flipped the cork off the first try.

Those untidy habits come from jangled nerves

It's bad enough to look untidy—

But it's twice as bad when you think that those nervous habits are a sign of jangled nerves... a friendly signal that says, "Find out what's the matter."

So, if you catch yourself musing your hair, biting your nails, chewing pencils—or suffering from any other of those countless little nervous habits—

Get enough sleep and fresh air—find time for recreation. Make Camels your cigarette. You can smoke as many Camels as you please, for Camel's costlier tobaccos never jangle your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand of cigarettes!
