

Gleemen Slated For Program In ASUO Series

Eugene Singers Replace University Band

ADMISSION IS FREE

Request Numbers to Be Offered At Concert, Says Director John Stark Evans

Eugene Gleemen have offered to sing on Sunday, February 18, as one of the winter term free concert series sponsored by the associated students. The program will take place in McArthur court.

This group, 80 strong, under the direction of John Stark Evans, professor of music, will take the place of the concert of the University band, previously scheduled for this date. The band concert will be given on the following Sunday.

Requests to Be Sung
"The program will not be a repetition of our December concert, but will be in the nature of a rather informal complimentary request program for the benefit of our many friends who have been supporting us in past years," said Evans. Requests for numbers to be sung may be made in writing by addressing John Stark Evans, care of the school of music.

The gleemen will appear in Portland on Friday in a Shrine benefit program at the municipal auditorium. The program combines massed chorus singing, solos, duets, and violin numbers, and will feature a special arrangement by Evans of Liszt's "Liebestraum," including piano, baritone, and tenor solos with the chorus. George Bishop, baritone, and Don Eva, tenor, accompanied by Miss Cora Moore, will be the soloists for this number.

Concert Free
Unlike the concert of Roland Hayes, which was paid for by the associated students and presented free of charge to students, this concert has been donated entirely by the gleemen and will not cost the A. S. U. O. anything.

The Eugene gleemen is not a University organization, but is composed of Eugene business and professional men. It was organized in 1926 by a small group who enjoyed singing together and, through several years of changing fortunes, with changes in conductors and personnel, the group has been built up to its present high character under the guidance of Evans.

Fritz Hesse to Be Main Speaker at Club Meet

The Congress club will hold a meeting tonight at 9 p. m. at the College Side Inn where Fritz Hesse, freshman in journalism, will speak on "Germany Today."

Hesse maintains an intimate knowledge of the life in Germany through his friends, even though he lives in this country. He will speak from personal knowledge and letters received from Germany. Any man interested in debate or public affairs is welcome.

Lost: One Shoe, at Least Size 18, by Male Cinderella at Ball

By VELMA MCINTYRE
A male Cinderella, in a futile attempt to crash the Coed Capers, lost his slipper, (at least size 18) as he madly dashed across the campus with the irate senior cops close at his heels. Rumors have it the scoundrel was a Theta Chi, but whoever it was, his slipper will not be returned without revealing his identity to Elizabeth Bendstrup, chairman of the affair.

The two lower classes carried off the honors, first prize for the best skit going to the sophomore class, and honorable mention to the freshman.

A graveyard scene, in which ghosts of the famous Oregon dead came to life and lamented the state of the University 50 years from now, characterized the sophomore stunt. Tom Tongue rose from beneath his lofty tombstone and called his faithful colleagues, Micky Vail, Nancy Suomela, Jean Failing, and Mike Mikulak to join in a lusty yule to revive again the good old spirits of Oregon.

The freshman stunt brought

Object of Search

Authorities of Oregon, Washington, and California are engaged in a search for George G. Wittenmyer, treasurer of King county, Washington, charged with theft of $31,816.79 in funds entrusted to his care. He was seen in San Francisco.

Junior President Selects Shearer Shine Chairman

Shoe-Shining Shops on Campus Will Close for Day; to Donate Equipment

Dick Shearer, junior in pre-medicine, was appointed chairman for Junior Shine day yesterday by George Birnie, president of the junior class. Shearer has been active on the campus, serving as chairman of the frosh picnic his first year, and being in other important activities.

The committee for Shine day, which will be held the latter part of this month, will include an assistant chairman, construction, publicity, and ticket committee, all to be appointed soon by Shearer.

Some campus shoe-shining shops have voluntarily decided to close their shops and donate their equipment on that day. Three or four stands will be placed at strategic points on the campus.

Birnie announced that extensive plans are under way for a successful day. According to him, "Prospects for a bigger and better Shine day are bright, because it has been rumored around the campus that numerous members of the junior class have served as apprentices to professional shoeshiners during the summer months."

Sigma Delta Chi Will Meet Today

A meeting of Sigma Delta Chi members and pledges will be held in the Journalism building at 4 this afternoon to discuss plans for initiation. Formal initiation of the five new pledges, Reuben Rada-baugh, Art Derbyshire, Les Stanley, Guy Shaddock, and Bill Aetz, will be held Sunday, February 11, in Gerlinger hall.

A ceremony in honor of Hal Hess, late secretary of state, will be conducted following the initiation ceremony. Hess was an associate member of Sigma Delta Chi. Breakfast will be held at the Anchorage immediately following.

Webfoots Hope To Climb From Cellar Position

Vandals Will Play Here Friday, Saturday

INVADERS FAVORED

Idahoans Hold Third Position in Standings; Oregon Reserves Will Figure in Tilts

By BILL EBERHART
The Webfoots will try tomorrow night and Saturday to salvage something out of the wreckage of the week, when the Idaho Vandals invade Eugene for the first two-game series with Oregon.

For the first time in many years, Reinhart's team will meet the Vandals as the underdogs. Idaho rests in any easy third place position, and the Ducks are lying in the cellar of the percentage column of the northern division.

Vandals Ahead
A look at the record reveals the fact that both teams have played eight games against the same opponents. The slight difference of one game in the past performances of Oregon and Idaho puts the Vandals two notches ahead of the Webfoots. Rich Fox's men took both games from Washington State, while the best Oregon could do was split the Cougar series.

Chances for a successful series at the expense of the Moscow visitors are, nevertheless, much better than they were prior to the Washington series. Although the facts and records offer no justification, it is not too much to predict Oregon victories in both of the coming tilts. The Webfoots are gathering impetus with every game, and the uncovering of some valuable reserve talent Tuesday night gives a big boost to the strength of the Oregon lineup.

Sanford Shows Well
Glen Sanford, sophomore, gave a particularly good account of himself in Tuesday's game and will probably see much more action against Idaho. Sanford was one of the mainstays of the frosh quintet last year, and before that was a member of the all-state team three years in a row. He played in the prep league as a Salem high luminary.

A first-string player of two years' standing, a man the crowd has been hollering for all season, was finally given a break in the second Husky game, and he turned in a fine performance. We're speaking of Jim Watts, the boy who, while laid up at the first of the season with a fractured cheekbone, had his position swiped by (Continued on Page Four)

Morris Gives Opinion On Monetary System

Dr. Victor P. Morris, professor of economics, gave his opinion on the present monetary system of the United States and its effect on the commerce of the nation and international trade, before approximately 100 persons, including members of the Cottage Grove chamber of commerce and its guests, Tuesday evening.

"In any consideration of our monetary situation, it is first well to look at two common fallacies generally associated with money," the speaker declared. "These fallacies are the common mistake of identifying money with wealth, and confusing money and purchasing power."

Dr. Morris believes that the danger of wild inflation in this country is not yet over and that serious economic trouble may be caused by the administration's "tinkering" with the monetary system.

Features Lined Up for Yeomen Dance Friday

Mary Ann Alnutt and Wilma Stien, a pair of Eugene tap dancers, will be featured along with Sam Seal and his accordion in a Valentine's day informal to be held by the Oregon Yeomen Friday night.

The dance will take place at the Craftsman club, which is undergoing extensive decorating in hopes of obtaining a real Valentine atmosphere. The decoration committee is headed by George Telfort.

Tickets costing 35 cents are now on sale. The price at the door will also be 35 cents, contrary to previous reports.

Candidate for Pivot Honors

Howard Grenier, towering center of the Idaho quintet, which will appear in the Igloo against Oregon tomorrow and Saturday evenings in a two-game series, is a serious contender for northern division conference honors in the pivot position. He is the only two-year letterman center in the northwest section of the conference.

Graduate Council Groups Approve Yearly Programs

Committee of Three Functions For Individual Schools and Colleges

Considerable work has been accomplished during the winter term by the graduate committees of the various schools and colleges in the University, according to an announcement made from the graduate division office in Johnson hall recently. The University committee in their regular meetings have been approving the year programs of graduate students majoring at Oregon.

In the newly-organized graduate division each school or college has a graduate committee of three in charge of graduate work in that school or college.

Members of the graduate council are George Rebec, C. V. Boyer, J. H. Gilbert, H. V. Hoyt, J. R. Jewell, J. J. Landsbury, Eric W. Allen, Olof Larsell, and J. F. Bovard.

The graduate committee members follow:
College of Arts and Sciences: C. V. Boyer, F. G. G. Schmidt, Leavitt O. Wright.

School of business administration: H. V. Hoyt, C. L. Kelly, O. K. Burrell.

School of education: J. L. Jewell, C. L. Huffaker, F. L. Stetson.

School of fine arts: J. J. Landsbury, E. F. Lawrence, Percy P. Adams.

School of journalism: E. W. Allen, George Turnbull, Arne G. Rae.

School of physical education: J. F. Bovard, E. R. Knollin, Florence Alden.

College of social science: J. H. Gilbert, Robert Seashore, H. J. Noble.

Campus Calendar

A. W. S. Carnival Directorate will meet at College Side at 4 o'clock today.

Sigma Delta Chi, members and new pledges, will hold a brief meeting this afternoon in room 101 at 4 o'clock. Attendance is imperative.

Der Deutsche Verein will meet at Westminister house tonight at 8. The German youth will be discussed.

Play Production Class to Present Second Matinee

'Wienies for Wednesday,' 'Drip, Drip, Drip,' Are Listed on Dramatic Program

Two dramatic interludes featuring campus talent will be presented this afternoon in Guild theater, beginning at 4 o'clock. This is the second in a series of matinees given by the play production class to which the public is invited. No charge is made.

Marion Pattulo directs "Wienies for Wednesday," a comedy which tells the complications in a middle western family which has operas for breakfast and an opera singer as a visitor.

"Drip, Drip, Drip," directed by Robert Dodge, is a thrilling melodrama with all men characters—and those men murderers!
Included in the cast for "Wienies for Wednesday" are Helen Campbell, Mrs. Foster; David Montag, Mr. Foster; Barbara Reed, Marion Foster; William Rice, Jack Foster; Alice Hult, Madame Castinelli; Nan Smith, prompter.
Lawrence Fotherill and Leonard Marshall are featured in "Drip, Drip, Drip."

Men's Section of Choir Holds Election Meeting

Officers of the men's section of the Polyphonic choir were elected yesterday at a 4 o'clock meeting. The results were as follows:
Phil Mulder, president; Paul Potter, junior member of the board of directors; Jack Campbell, sophomore member of the board of directors; Ernest Savage, freshman member of the board of directors; and Earle Arrell, secretary and manager.

Student Group To Keep Watch On Traditions

Court Gets Fallen to Deal With Offenders

SIX COMPRISE BODY

Neal Bush, Bob Hunter, Dick Near, Jean Failing, Helen Burns, Cosgrove LaBarre Selected

A new and definite system of traditional enforcement on the campus was begun yesterday with the creation of a court of traditions. This judicial group, named by the student relations committee in its session yesterday afternoon, will interpret campus traditions and will deal with offenders.

The students comprising the court are Neal Bush, vice-president of the student body; Bob Hunter, president of the Order of the O; Dick Near, senior man; Helen Burns, senior woman; Jean Failing, president of the Associated Women students; and Cosgrove LaBarre, president of Skull and Dagger.

Court Given Powers
The court, according to Tom Tongue, president of the associated students, will have the power "to summon offender, state the offense, and reprimand the defendant as it sees fit." No provision was made for physical punishment.

The action was taken by the student relations group because of the uncertainty arising out of the recent discussion on freshmen wearing tuxedos and the ambiguities into which reference to campus traditions has fallen.

Guide Formulated
As a guide to the newly formed court, the student relations committee enumerated the traditions which will be maintained and enforced. They are:

1. The Oregon Seal at the north entrance of Villard hall must not be stepped on.
2. Every Oregon student will maintain the "hello" tradition while on the campus.
3. Every Oregon student must rise and uncover during the playing of the Oregon "Pledge" song.
4. No student shall smoke up on the campus.
5. None but seniors may use the senior bench.
6. Cords will be worn exclusively by upperclassmen and graduate students. No underclassman shall appear in cords.
7. Only seniors will be allowed to wear a mustache.
8. There will be no "pigging" at athletic contests.
9. The "Oregon Spirit" will be maintained.

Freshman List Given
Freshmen are restricted by the following traditions. Every freshman must:

1. Refrain from wearing a tuxedo.
 2. Discard his high school pins, rings, etc.
 3. Attend every assembly.
 4. Maintain the "O" on Skinner's Butte.

Economics Professor To Speak at Honorary

Victor P. Morris, professor of economics in the school of business administration, will speak before a meeting of Pan Xenia, foreign trade honorary, tonight in the men's lounge at Gerlinger hall. His subject will encompass all the angles of the question as to where the United States is heading economically.

The Pan Xenia honorary has had several faculty members speak before its meetings on various subjects connected with foreign trade. Last month Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, spoke on the Oriental situation.

Spain Subject of Talk Tonight at Guild Meet

Miss Anna M. Thompson of the Romance language department will give an informal talk on Spain and the Spanish people tonight at 9 p. m. at the Westminister Guild meeting to be held at the Westminister house.

Miss Thompson will show pictures of Spain to illustrate her talk. She is characterized by Spanish customs and characteristics after having taught in a girls' school in that country for 10 years.

Sues Governor

A. L. Wirdin, Los Angeles attorney, whose recent kidnaping to prevent his addressing a meeting of lettuce strikers at Brawley, prompted an investigation by federal authorities. He has filed suit against California's Governor Rolph and other state officials to the tune of $250,000.

O. G. Villard Will Address Student Assembly Soon

Speaker Has Had Brilliant Career As Newspaper Man, Author, Free-Thinker

Oswald Garrison Villard, noted editor and author, who is scheduled to address a public student assembly in Gerlinger hall, Tuesday, March 6, gained international recognition as owner and editor of the Nation, considered one of the foremost magazines of liberal thought in America.

Villard, who is a son of Henry Villard, financier and philanthropist for whom Villard hall was named, and the grandson of William Lloyd Garrison, the Abolitionist, has had a brilliant career as a newspaperman and a free-thinker. Through his management the Nation assumed great importance as an organ of current opinion, and for 21 years before taking over this magazine Villard was editorial writer and president of the New York Evening Post.

He was born at Weisbaden, Germany, in 1872, and gained his education at Harvard, Washington and Lee universities, and at Lafayette college, earning the degrees of bachelor of arts, doctor of literature, master of arts, and doctor of laws.

During 1896-97 Villard served as reporter on the Philadelphia Press, before joining the New York Evening Post, where he remained until 1918, at which time he sold the paper.

Besides being owner and editor of the Nation, Villard also owned the Nautical Gazette, of New York, and was president of the Fort Montgomery Iron Corporation.

He is the author of a number of books, among them, "John Brown," "A Biography Fifty Years After" (1910), "Germany Embattled" (1915), "Newspapers" (Continued on Page Two)

'Cradle Song' To Be Offered In Guild Hall on February 24

The second production to be given at the Guild theater is a play which has been received with great interest in London as well as the United States. This is Martinez Sierra's well known drama, "The Cradle Song," recently the vehicle for Dorothea Wieck in the motion picture of that name.

The play, to be presented February 24, takes place entirely within the walls of a convent. Its simple story deals not with a particular heroine, but with a group of heroines.

It is the life of the nuns as a group rather than the story of an individual which fills the author's interest. Emphasis on one of the sisters, rather than the community as a whole, was stressed by the moving picture in order to individualize the leading actress' part. The University players will interpret the play as originally conceived by the author, Sister Joanna of the Cross standing out in the group only because she is the one selected by the child as the nun which she looks upon as being most nearly her mother. Faculty Group Split Reported On ROTC Work

Discussion to Continue This Afternoon

MEETING CUT SHORT

Three Religion Courses Approved At Session; Bovard Elected To Advisory Council

The University faculty heard its special committee on military training report a split decision yesterday on the petition of 25 students that R. O. T. C. training here be placed on a voluntary basis. The faculty session was adjourned until this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The majority report of the committee favored retention of the present system of compulsory training, with some modifications. The minority report advocated abolition of the compulsory feature.

Howard Substitutes
Although the meeting was closed to newspaper representatives, it was reported unofficially that the minority report was prepared by Dr. Waldo Schumacher, professor of political science, who was in Portland teaching an extension class at the time the meeting was held. It was read by Charles G. Howard, professor of law.

It was believed that the majority report contained provisions for a committee to pass on students who desired exemption from drill, the committee to be separated from the military department.

Meeting Cut Short
Discussion of the two reports was cut short by lack of time, since the greater part of the time was consumed by other matters.

The faculty approved three courses in religion, to be taught next year. These will be entitled "Origins of Religions," "Great Religions of the Orient," and "The Great Religions of Palestine and Arabia." These will replace present courses on religion and will be offered as heretofore through a non-major service department of religion in the college of social science.

Education Courses Approved
Two new courses in education, entitled "Methods of Teaching" (Continued on Page Four)

Executive Council to Meet This Afternoon

The executive council meeting, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed until 5 o'clock today on account of its conflict with the faculty meeting.

Several important topics will come before the council this afternoon, including the adoption of the minor sports schedules, and the settlement of coaches' salaries.

Infirmity Has Four
Don Law, Don Parks, Betty Reade, and Jane Walker were patients in the infirmary yesterday.

The following season Miss LeGallienne sent her company on tour with great success. Soon after this presentation, a Spanish company produced the play in New York under the author's own direction. This also received cordial comment from the critics. Because of its slight story many critics contended that "The Cradle Song" was not really a play in the strict sense of the word, but at the same time they agreed that it was one of the most perfect bits that had ever been brought to the stage.

The University production will be given for one performance only, on the evening of February 24.
