

WEBFOOTS CINCH SECOND PLACE IN STANDINGS

Oregon Hoopsters Smite Orangemen By Score of 33-25

Ducks Hold 18-6 Lead at End of Half in Game at Igloo; Willie Jones Leads Scorers With 13

By BILL EBERHART

The University of Oregon Webfoots continued their trip on the comeback trail last night and rolled into second place of the northern division as they won handily from the Beavers, 33 to 25. The Orangemen thus drop out of their tie with the Ducks and take the third position, with a chance tonight for a final tie with Oregon.

Not the close, smashing, spectacular battle that has characterized the meetings of these two teams in the past, last night's tilt nevertheless showed Oregon at her best, for whom the Beavers were no match. Webfoot fans were enthusiastic about the result of the contest but were a bit disappointed at the lack of color.

Oregon drew first blood and continued all through the game to be the aggressor. From the time the score was tied at 2-all after a minute of play, Oregon State was constantly on the short end of a score. A rally in the second half failed to overtake Oregon's tremendous lead, mostly gained in the first half, which ended 18 to 6 for the Webfoots.

Oregon State started the game minus the services of two veteran first-stringers. Skeet O'Connell, Beaver captain and forward, was held out at the start on account of a wrenched ankle, but was rushed into the fray by Coach Slat's Gill in the closing minutes of the first period. Carl Lenchitsky, husky guard, who has played regularly this season and last, was confined to the bench during the entire game for some unaccountable reason.

The game was clean compared to games between the two Oregon teams in the past, and Referee Jimmie Mitchell and Umpire Dwight Adams were lenient, only calling 16 fouls, 10 on Oregon and 6 on Oregon State.

The Webfoots played the best ball witnessed here this season as they pierced the Orange defense during the first half almost at will. After only eight minutes had gone, the Ducks held a 10-to-3 advantage, and increased their lead to 18 to 4 in six more minutes.

Both teams slowed down very noticeably from then until the rest period. Two conversions by O'Connell were the only scoring to interrupt the otherwise uneventful floor play.

'Twas a Worthless Old Tree, Fit for Naught but Firewood

"Oh, woodsmen," quoted sentimental passersby, "spare that tree."

If the choppers ceased their chopping, it was to pick up a saw instead, and now the old cherry tree that graced the president's lawn for more years than anyone on the campus seems to remember, is no more.

It had become, said D. L. Lewis, superintendent of buildings and grounds, a nuisance. "Its blossoms," he admitted, "were pretty, but the fruit was worthless. Last year we could not even give the cherries away. Instead, they became fully ripe and dropped onto the sidewalk, where they were a slippery mess, unsightly and dangerous to pedestrians."

Asked if the wood could not be used to build furniture, possibly

Emerald-of-Air Offers Contest During Spring

Living Organizations to Compete for Prizes

ENTRIES MADE NOW

Merchants Make Contributions to Support of Rivalry to Start April 10

A radio contest among the living organizations is scheduled for spring term. It is to be sponsored by the Emerald-of-the-Air. Campus talent of various and sundry forms will be given an opportunity to compete for a first prize of $50 to be presented to the house or hall which submits the best entry.

The first prize will go to either the men's or women's group that takes first place, and a second of a silver loving cup will go to the opposite group as a first award. For the best individual performance, another loving cup will be awarded.

Program Type Unlimited

The type of program will not be limited to any definite class of entertainment. Anything from a dramatic monologue to a bar-room quartet may be entered. Each performance must be a half-hour in length, and must be in unbroken continuity, states George Callas, radio editor of the Emerald-of-the-Air.

The contest will begin about April 10, and entries must be filed during the remainder of this (Continued on Page Three)

Weekend Chairman

Chemist of Leper Hospital to Speak Here Next Week

Dr. H. I. Cole, Former Instructor at University, to Come Under Sigma Xi Auspices

Dr. H. I. Cole, head of the chemistry research work at Cullion Leprosy Colony hospital in the Philippine Islands, will speak on the campus next week. Sigma Xi, science honorary, is sponsoring the lecture.

The address will deal with modern leprosy treatment, and the effect of the leprosy situation on society. It will be of especial interest to not only those interested in the medical aspects of the disease, but to those interested in sociology.

Dr. Cole was a former instructor in the chemistry department of the University. Twelve years ago he accepted the position at the Cullion Leprosy Colony hospital which is maintained by the United States government.

Sigma Xi has held two other public lectures during the school year, by Louis F. Henderson, curator of herbarium, and Dr. Roger J. Williams of Oregon State.

Although previous lectures have been held in room 103 Deady, the definite time and place for the address have not been announced.

Thunemann Will Speak To Advertising Class

Karl F. Thunemann, advertising manager of McMorran and Washburne, will speak to the general advertising class on "Retail Advertising" Wednesday afternoon, March 7, at 3 o'clock and will give awards to the winners of the annual class advertising contest.

Prizes of $10 and $5 will be given for the best department store advertisements on the subject, "Easy Washing Machine." The contest is sponsored by McMorran and Washburne store.

Annual Junior Weekend Dated From May 11-13

Motif Built on Diamond Anniversary of State

DAVIS IS CHAIRMAN

Plans Under Consideration for Yearly Celebration on Oregon Campus

Junior Weekend this year, scheduled for May 11, 12, and 13, will commemorate Oregon's diamond anniversary of statehood. The advancement of the state from its inception 75 years ago will form the central motif after which the many features of the weekend will be patterned.

With the appointment of Bill C. Davis as general chairman, plans for the annual celebration definitely got underway last night. Davis, who will begin preparations immediately was appointed by George Birnie, junior class president. He is a junior in pre-medicine, and during his two and a half years in school has been outstanding in class activities. He is now chairman of the A. S. U. O. speakers' committee and a member of the constitutional revision committee. During his sophomore year he was class president and a member of Skull and Dagger, under-class service honorary.

Confidence Felt

"I have the utmost confidence in Davis' ability," said Birnie last night. "He has the industry, in-

English Miracle Play to Be Given in Guild Theater

The Brome "Abraham and Isaac" will be presented Tuesday, March 6, at 4 p. m., in Guild theater under the direction of Ellen Galey. This drama, one of the most famous of old English miracle plays, is the story in graphic form of Abraham's obedience to God.

This is the last of the studio plays to be given this quarter. All the members of the play production class are assisting Miss Galey. In charge of settings are Carl Gross and Joann Bond. The costumes are being arranged by Gladys Burns, Marian Pattullo, Ida Markusep, Robert Dodge, Althea Peterson, and Dorothy Dykeman are in charge of publicity.

The following characters take part in the play: Abraham, Bob Knapp; Isaac, Helen Vebien; God, James Doyle; the angel, Bill Thiens; the doctor, Ted Karafotis.

As a prelude to the play, John Spittle will sing several old English songs. An old English madrigal, "The Silver Swan" by Orlando Gibbons, will be rendered by a quintet.

Skulduggery Brings Pathos; So Crowds Hiss Sir Francis

By MARIAN JOHNSON

A hero pure as the falling snow, a villain black as the ace of spades, a beautiful heroine persecuted and misled, and drama that will make you weep copiously—such is "East Lynne," the five act melodrama being presented this week at the Very Little theater. Tonight's performance is the last to be presented.

All the elements that go to make up good, heartrending melodrama are ingredients in this story of the charming Lady Isabel Vane who, suffering the fierce pangs of jealousy, flees from the protecting arms of her innocent husband into those of the scheming, debasing Sir Francis Levison, leaving behind her a heartbroken husband, two children of a tender age, and a beautiful home.

She encounters the cruelties of the world and the disillusionment of discovering that Sir Francis is

Assembly Talk, Banquet Slated For O.G. Villard

Public Meet in Gerlinger Tuesday at 10

DINNER ON MONDAY

Students on Committee to Greet Nationally-Known Visitor On Arrival Here

When Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the Nation, nationally-known writer and liberal, comes to the University campus Monday for a two-day stay, he will be warmly greeted by students and faculty, who not only know him for the work he has done, but as the son of Henry Villard, railroad builder and benefactor of the University when it was a struggling institution back in 1881.

Friends of Villard here have pointed out that the journalist is not given to pomp and show, so the reception will in no way be of a "brass band" affair, but will make up in warmth and hospitality for what might be seized upon as an occasion for a more elaborate greeting.

Dinner Scheduled

Upon arrival Villard will be met at the train by a group of students headed by Richard S. Near, Eugene, law student and senior man on the executive council. Monday evening a dinner, limited to 100 students and a few faculty members, will be given in John Straub Memorial hall. At this time Wayne L. Morse, dean of the school of law, himself a nationally known liberal and formerly an associate of the LaFollettes in Wisconsin, will welcome the visitor on behalf of the faculty.

Richard Neuberger, editor of the Emerald last year and the youngest contributor to Villard's Nation, will introduce the honor guest, who will then talk informally. Wallace J. Campbell, graduate assistant in sociology, will be toastmaster, and Stephen B. Kahn, Portland, is chairman of arrangements.

Assembly Tuesday

Tuesday morning Villard will meet with advanced journalism students for a discussion on modern improvements in, the profession, and on present world problems. While Mr. Villard will talk, much of the hour is expected to be devoted to a round table discussion. At 10 o'clock he will address in (Continued on Page Two)

House to Publish Merrick's Story

Word was received here yesterday by Mrs. Anne Merrick, research assistant in the school of fine arts, that a short story written by her and her husband, Padriac Merrick, had been accepted for publication by the Merivel Publishing company of New York. The story, entitled "Water Babies," is about "modern people in a modern setting," the authors state.

Mrs. Merrick majored in English while in the University, and Merrick, who is now one of the editors of the Literary Monthly of Portland, did graduate work in this department here last year. He is a graduate of Reed college.

The publishing house acts as agent for several magazines, and it has not yet been announced which will publish the story.

Campus Calendar

Men's debate squad will meet Monday night at 7:30 in room 13 of Friendly hall.

Pi Lambda Theta will hold initiation and banquet next Thursday. Initiation at Gerlinger hall at 6:15. Banquet at the Marigold tea room at 7 p. m., charge 45 cents. Members please get in touch with Miss Swenson at local 336 before Tuesday.

Phi Delta Kappa, men's educational honorary, initiates at 3 p. m. in Gerlinger.

Emerald This Morning Last Edition Published For Present Semester

This morning's Emerald is the last issue of the term. Rapidly approaching examinations force members of the staff to take a "vacation" now.

Publication of the campus daily will be resumed during the spring term, with the first edition appearing on Tuesday, April 3.

Men's Education Group to Initiate Members Today

Phi Delta Kappa Honorary Elects 7 Students; Meeting Held At 3 o'Clock

Seven men will be initiated into Phi Delta Kappa, men's professional educational fraternity, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Gerlinger hall. These men are the only students who will be elected to membership this year.

The pledges are William J. Bowerman, Lawrence Narschat, Charles Wishard, Cornelius Eatonson, Albie L. Deck, Winfield Atkinson and Harry Keats Jr. Usually members are chosen from faculty members and graduate students.

Following the ceremonies in Gerlinger the fraternity will hold a banquet at the Eugene hotel at 6:30 o'clock. Elam J. Anderson, president of Linfield college, is the principal speaker. President Anderson has held presidencies in Chinese colleges for many years.

Candidates to Phi Delta Kappa are elected upon the basis of scholarship, interest in professional activities and promise of success in educational matters.

Women Debaters Talk in South on School Finances

Casteel Thinks Audiences in Large Towns Favorable to Sales Tax; But Villagers Opposed

"Audiences in southern Oregon are favorable to the sales tax, but to most of them the idea of saving school money through educational reorganization is a new one," said Prof. John L. Casteel, head of the speech department, upon his return from a tour made last week by the women's debate team.

The speech professor based his opinion upon his analysis of audience reaction in the larger towns visited by the women's squad, and contrasted the feeling in such centers as Ashland and Medford to that encountered by the men's debate team in the smaller towns where audiences were either "opposed or suspicious of the sales tax," probably, Casteel thinks, because of the opinion of the state grange upon the matter.

The women's team spoke Sunday evening before the forum of the Congregational church of Ashland on the subject of educational reorganization. The talk was followed by an animated discussion. Monday morning they appeared at a school assembly at Medford high school, Monday afternoon at an assembly at Ashland high school, Monday night before a meeting of the public and of Ashland school teachers, and Tuesday morning at (Continued on Page Two)

Grant LaFarge To Talk Today In Villard at 4

Illustrated Speech Free To Public

DINNER SCHEDULED

'It's All a Matter of Taste' Will Be Discussed at Meeting by Noted Architect

Christopher Grant LaFarge, official lecturer for the educational committee of the American Institute of Architects and member of a family famous for generations in art circles, will speak this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Villard hall on "It's All a Question of Taste." The noted architect, the postponement of whose lecture for one day was necessitated by storms in the middle west which delayed the speaker, will illustrate his talk, and the public is invited to attend. The address is sponsored by the University school of architecture and LaFarge will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by members of the school and others interested in his work, at the Anchorage this evening.

Speaker Noted Architect

LaFarge, chairman of the alumni committee of the school of architecture of Columbia university, is noted for being the original architect of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York and is also designer of the cathedral in Seattle and in several other cities in the United States.

He is the son of John LaFarge, acknowledged to be one of the foremost American painters, and the brother of two other famous artists, Bancel and Oliver H. P. LaFarge. In addition, he has a son, Oliver, and four nephews who are noted for their artistic endeavors. His brother, Oliver, is the author of the classic "Laughing Boy," while his son also has many novels published, and has won the O. Henry award for short story writing.

Lecture Free

Concerning C. Grant LaFarge's art work, James W. Lane writes in the Commonweal magazine: "He exhibits chiefly scenes or iconography of American Indian life and is noted also for his having designed St. Mathew's church in Washington. In his minute work he has the spirit of an engraver on armor or of a niellist, and how his color glows!"

The lecture will be free of charge and all students, faculty members and townspeople interested are asked to attend.

M. H. Douglass States Library Schedule Will Not Change for Exams

No change in library hours for closed weekends and examination weeks will be made. M. H. Douglass, librarian, said that students had not expressed a desire for any extension of hours and previous experience does not warrant a change.

He 'Professes' Business; but Could He Run a Hash House

W. P. Riddlesbarger, assistant professor of business administration, will take over the management of the Anchorage next term—at least that is the belief of Beth Beal and Ruth Chilcote, secretaries of the school of business administration.

Thursday afternoon Riddlesbarger had the two secretaries prepare a lengthy contract stipulating just what wages should be paid and how the property was to be managed. After they had typed through thirteen or fourteen clauses involving financial terms, the girls became genuinely worried over the prospect of losing one of their beloved professors.

When the time came to affix their signatures to the fateful document, the two faithful secretaries could hardly repress their tears.

"It seems a shame," stated Miss Chilcote "to do this after all your years of study."

"Oh," grinned Riddlesbarger, who had neglected to tell them that it was only a class project but let it go at that, "they just don't pay me enough here."

The joke has since been found out, but Riddlesbarger has not as yet been forgiven.

"It wouldn't have been so bad," mourned Miss Chilcote, "if he hadn't come around the next morning and offered me a job as a waitress."
