Student Relief Campus Work To Be Retained

News Ends Anxiety of 196 in University

FUND IS AVAILABLE

Activity Will Continue for Rest of Year, Chancellor W. J. Kerr Tells Emerald

Student aid under the federal employment relief program will be continued for the rest of the school year, Chancellor W. J. Kerr told the Emerald last night on his return from Portland. Kerr said that he had seen telegrams received by Acting President Peavey of Oregon State college from Senators McNary and Steiner which denied that there is any danger of discontinuation of the student work.

Senators McNary and Steiner conferred yesterday with Harry L. Hopkins, FERA chief, the telegrams said, and were told that money would be available to carry needy students through this school year. Hopkins stated that he was telegraphing this information to Elmer Goudy, Oregon FERA administrator.

This announcement will be "good news" for 196 University students, who were yesterday confronted with the possible necessity of withdrawing from school, when the University's committee on federal emergency relief for students sent out notices that all assignments of CWA work for April, May, and June had been cancelled pending further instructions.

The announcement that the work was to be discontinued created a virtual panic at the University employment office in the Y hut yesterday, where steady streams of worried students appealed to Miss Janet Smith, employment secretary, for any type of odd jobs that they might earn funds to stay in school for the remainder of the school year.

As University officials last night had received no official notification, they could set no time for resumption of work on the part of students.

Under the student relief program on the campus 115 men and 81 coeds will be employed until the end of the school year at an average salary of $15 a month on the basis of an hourly wage of 35 cents. The work includes a variety of projects—library reference, office assistance, and work on campus grounds.

Arne Rae Attends Code Conference

Arne G. Rae, assistant professor of journalism and field manager of the Oregon State Editorial Association, returned from a trip to Chicago March 6 where he attended the meetings of the national code authorities.

Arriving in Chicago February 26, Rae spent the week participating in the sessions during which the board of directors of the National Editorial Association completed the national code authorities for non-metropolitan and daily newspaper publishing and printing establishments, a joint national code authority and its administration.

He was named a member of the joint code authority's standing finance committee.

Rae reported that the weather in the East was cold.

Parked Car Damaged By Passing Motorist

A car belonging to Alice Morgan, senior in music, was damaged last night at approximately 8 o'clock when another automobile ran into the machine parked across the street from Gerlinger hall.

Miss Morgan was supplied with the number of the offending car by passers-by who witnessed the accident. She notified the city police, who are now working on the case.

Lost and Found Depot Has 47 Stray Articles

The lost and found department at the University depot now has 47 stray articles, which were left last term. Following is the present list: Three pairs of glasses, three ladies' belts, five scarfs, one pocket book, one tam, 11 pairs of gloves, three slippers, one top coat, two umbrellas, two note books, and 15 text books.

AWS Vocational Conference Will Begin Wednesday

Two-Day Session Includes Round Table Discussions, Talks by Prominent Women

The first A.W.S. vocational conference to be held on this campus will take place Wednesday and Thursday of this week, when seven Oregon women prominent in various vocational fields will be in Eugene to speak and conduct round table discussions on their particular fields of work.

Each speech and round table will deal with women in a certain field, considering the opportunities for positions, approximate pay, kind of training necessary, and other practical questions. The speakers will give personal interviews to girls who are interested in a certain kind of work.

This two-day vocational conference, of which Marygolde Hardison is general chairman, replaces the monthly vocational talks held last year. The conference will be divided into sections, with round tables both afternoons and general speeches both evenings. All meetings will be held in the AWS room on the third floor of Gerlinger hall, except the round table on "Women in Art" Wednesday afternoon, which will be in the men's lounge in Gerlinger.

The entire program is as follows: Wednesday afternoon at 3, Mrs. Frankie Coykendall, member of the advertising firm of Botsford, Constantine & Gardner, will lead a round table on "Women in Journalism and Advertising." At the same time Miss Brownelle Frazier, head of the University design department, will conduct a round table on "Women in Art." Wednesday at 4, Mrs. Alice Howard, dean of girls at Klamath Union High School, will lead a round table on "Women in Education."

97 Students Win Places on Winter Term Honor Roll

12 Make Perfect Grade Averages; Listing of Oregon Scholars Given by Registrar

A total of 97 students gained honor roll standing in the University during the winter term this year, official figures from the registrar's office show, 12 of these having received perfect records of all "A" grades.

Last term 90 students won honors and six showed 100 per cent scores.

The scholars who reached the heights are Frances B. Brockman, Carl E. Davidson, Sherrill L. Gregory, Geraldine Hickson, Dessa D. Hofstetter, Lucy Howe, James C. Kennedy, Elizabeth Patterson, Lloyd G. Humphreys, Edwin A. Pitt, Norman E. Swanson, and Margaret A. Wagner. Honors are evenly divided between the sexes, in contrast to the standing last term when five men and one coed made perfect grades.

To obtain a place on the honor roll, students must earn a grade average of 2.50 based on 12 hours or more of study, or 10 hours for law students. Three points are (Continued on Page Two)

Pinkerton, Kliks, Davidson Lead Law Honor Roll

Grade Rank System Established By Faculty for First Time Last Term

Carl A. Davidson, A. Duane Pinkerton, and Dorothy Kliks are leaders respectively of the third, second, and first year law students, according to the University of Oregon law school honor roll for winter term.

The law school honor roll, which was established by the faculty for the first time last term, consists of the names of the seven students in each of the three classes who have the highest cumulative grade point average at the close of the term. The students are listed in the order of their grade rank, but their actual grade point average is not included.

The basis for the ranking is the grade point average accumulated since entrance into the law school. Students must take at least ten hours in order to be included on the honor roll.

Two of the four women in the law school are on the winter term honor roll, as well as having been on fall term. Dorothy Kliks has been the highest of all first year law students for two successive terms, and Josephine Rice has been on the list of third year students for two terms.

The entire law school honor roll follows:

Third year: Carl Davidson, Carl Coad, Josephine Rice, Karl Huston, James Landry, Eugene Laird, Arthur Ireland.

Second year: A. Duane Pinkerton, Wilbur Riddlebarger, Day Bayly, Kenneth Linklater, Arthur Clark, John Pennington, Louis Skinner.

First year: Dorothy Kliks, Stephen Kahn, James G. Smith, Otto Vonderheit, Grant Anderson, Donald Heisler, Edward Ryan.

Iglo Acoustical Work Ordered Discontinued

All CWA work on the improvement of the acoustics in McArthur court has been discontinued since April 1, when word was received at the University of Oregon business office to cease all operations. This action puts 30 men out of work.

Under this improvement program all but 80 feet of the ceiling has been covered with acoustical fiber, which absorbs reverberations and echoes. This portion of the work, which is above the east side bleachers, will be left unfinished until further word on CWA work has been received from Washington, D. C.

Correspondence Project Stopped

Word was received by the extension division Saturday of the discontinuance of the civil works service projects correspondence courses, effective at once. Registrations had reached 395 students, but lack of funds necessitates the discontinuance of the project.

The project accomplished its purpose in hiring unemployed teachers, but few of the students had finished much of their work. Miss Mozelie Hair, of the extension division, said that it is possible some of the more popular courses may be continued. Facts discovered in this project show that English courses are the most popular, just as in the regular correspondence work.

The project was started winter term, and included a list of practical reading courses which were offered free to adults.

Dean, Assistant Leave To Attend Conference

Dean of Women Hazel P. Schwerling and Alice B. Macduff, assistant dean of women, left yesterday morning for Spokane where they will attend a meeting of the Inland Empire association, consisting of high school and university instructors and professors throughout the Northwest.

Dean Schwerling is chairman of the dean of women's section of the conference, which will last until Friday, April 6.

Dean of Women Asks Houses to Pick Dance Dates for Term Now.

Arranging dance dates for the spring term social calendar is progressing rapidly, it was announced from Dean of Women Hazel P. Schwerling's office yesterday. All living organizations on the campus are requested to choose as soon as possible the list of dates available for dances.

A.W.S. Will Elect New Officers at Libe Tomorrow

Two Candidates Are Nominated for President for First Time in Last Four Years

For the first time in four years, two candidates will run for president of the Associated Woman Students, when Marygolde Hardison and Catherine Coleman compete for the office at the A.W.S. election tomorrow.

Having opposing candidates is the result of a recommendation made by last year's A.W.S. planning conference to have two women run for president whenever possible instead of having one unopposed as has been the custom for the last few years.

The candidates for the other A.W.S. offices are: Marie Saccamano and Virginia Howard for vice-president; Reva Herns and Henriette Horak for secretary; Portia Booth and Ann-Reed Burns for treasurer; Elaine Comish and Lee Chapman for sergeant-at-arms; Marjory Will and Margery Kissling for reporter.

Elections will be held from 9 to 5 tomorrow in front of the old libe. In case of rain, elections will be indoors, with a sign in front of the old libe telling the location.

No woman may vote who does not bring her student body card.

Nominations for the offices were made at an A.W.S. mass meeting last Thursday at 4 in Gerlinger hall. Previous to the nominations reports were read by the A.W.S. officers and committee chairmen, describing the year's work.

Registration Put At Figure of 1912 At End of Week

Number Shows Slight Decrease; Final Expected Total Is Set At 1910 Students

University registration at the end of the first week of the spring term totaled 1912, according to figures released by Assistant Registrar Clifford Constance yesterday. This is a decrease of four per cent from the total at this time last year of 1913 students.

The schools of journalism, physical education, and home economics showed an increase in attendance over last year, while the other schools and colleges decreased in enrollment.

Among the classes, the freshman was the only one to show a boost in first week figures with 497 students registered, 12 per cent more than in 1933. The graduate registration shows a decrease of 22 per cent in enrollment at this time.

Men have the greater drop from last year with 66 fewer students, while the women have only 10 less enrolled.

We have every expectation of a registration of 1910 students this term," stated Constance yesterday.

The final date for all registration is Saturday noon, April 7, and any students wishing to register after that time can do so only by special petition, said Constance.
