Gamma Alpha Chi Dance to Feature Fashion Parade

Many Eligible Males Still Unasked; Get Your Man Early and Avoid the Rush

According to latest tabulations, there yet remain 832 eligible male students to be invited to the Gamma Alpha Chi fashion dance, scheduled for this Saturday evening at the Kokonut Grove. This dance is the first one to be given this year to which the women invite the men, hence the abundance of men students still awaiting to attend.

Rumor has it that no small number of the yet uninvited men will be asked, but that the women students are taking this opportunity to use on the men the dating tactics heretofore and all other times used by the male sex exclusively.

The size of the Grove has necessitated the restriction of attendance at the dance, so it has been planned to admit only 300 couples. Tickets on sale in the women's living organizations were practically sold out within five minutes. (Continued on Page Two)

New Members Added to ASUO Lists Total 39

Installation Pledge Used By 25 Students

14 PAY FEE IN CASH

Committee in Charge of Drive Is Divided Into Two Groups By Tom Tongue

Thirty-nine students yesterday paid their $5 A.S.U.O. fees as the organized drive for student membership definitely got underway on the campus. Figures from the business office showed that 25 of the new members took advantage of the installment pledge blank provided them, while the remaining 14 paid cash.

As the campaign made its first advance, Tom Tongue, student body president, reorganized the A.S.U.O. forces in an effort to handle the situation from all angles. The first student committee working in conjunction with the graduate manager's office in launching the campaign was divided into two separate groups, one to conduct the drive for membership and the other to supervise the detailed checking necessitated by the wide scope of activities involved.

The campaign committee is composed of Malcolm Bauer, chairman, Joe Renner, Ralph Schomp, Roberta Moody, and Bob Miller. The other group, whose work it will be to draw a line of distinction between members and non-members and to regulate the discriminations involved, will be headed by Bill Russell. Aiding Russell will be Marygolde Hardison, Don Thomas, Don Thompson, and Adele Sheehy.

Despite extended articles of explanation in the Emerald, student leaders report that many of those who are non-members are still unaware of the significance of membership. To aid in clearing up this uncertainty the student speaker's committee tomorrow will talk before the various living organizations, explaining the privileges of membership and the process involved in gaining such membership.

Complaints on Failure To Receive Emeralds May Be Fixed on Igloo

Many students who have paid their A. S. U. O. fees are complaining because they are not receiving their Emeralds at the living organizations. This complaint may be remedied by calling the Emerald business office at McArthur court, where the error will be corrected.

This situation is due mainly to late registration, but will be remedied by Saturday noon, the last day for registration. Students not receiving their papers may obtain them by presenting their student body ticket at the Co-op until further arrangements have been made. A few student body members have failed to come for their Emeralds at the Co-op, where they are distributed from 7:45 until 10 a. m.

Bovard Presents Plan for Complete Control by Faculty

Idea Offered to Committee Named By C. V. Boyer to Suggest Possible Solutions

Dean John F. Bovard of the school of physical education last night presented a plan for the complete reorganization of student activities which would wipe out the A. S. U. O. as now constituted and end student government as hitherto maintained on the University campus.

The proposal was submitted to a committee of 11 persons named by President C. V. Boyer to consider possible suggestions for re-alignment of student activities in order to solve the legal difficulties facing the student association following the attorney general's recent opinion on student fees.

The Bovard plan calls for the placing of financial and administrative supervision for each student activity under the University school or department whose work it most closely parallels; for instance, operation of football, basketball, track and other athletic functions would be included under the direction of the department of physical education. The Emerald and Oregonian would be placed under control of the dean of the school of journalism; debate would be handled by the department of English; band, orchestra, concerts schedule, and so forth, would be administered by the dean of the school of music.

Over all, Dean Bovard suggested, would be placed a "student fee commission," composed of representatives of the faculty, business office and students, which would allocate funds from student fees among the various activities. The dean of each department would be assisted in the administration of his special extra-curricular activity by an "advisory board," composed of faculty members, representatives of the University alumni, and students.

Dean Bovard's plan, presented in some detail, aroused a storm of discussion and controversy, and called forth half a dozen other proposals from the group in attendance.

Discussions at Round Table Held in Vocational Meeting

Business in the United States will take second place to the other occupations of life, such as knowledge and the enjoyment of culture, according to Miss Vivian Cooley, head of Meier & Frank's book department, who gave the first general address of the A. W. S. vocational conference yesterday evening on "Modern Trends and Needs in Business Today."

"Believe it or not, we're not going to have the big salaries and big wages we used to have," America, said Miss Cooley, is going to have more leisure time, and will concentrate less on continual money-making and more on education and culture. "The government, under the new deal," Miss Cooley stated, "has gone into the business of education. . . . We're just learning how to live."

In considering the opportunities for women in business, Miss Cooley said that any woman can get a job if she has a foundation and can create and make a place for herself. "Everyone has the ability to do some one thing well," she stated, saying that it is up to every girl to find her own place. The desire to serve is highly im-

Students Here Will Get Relief Work for Term

Projects Assigned for Present Month

NOTICES TO BE SENT

Departments Requested to Hold Back Until Definite Word Is Given to Proceed

Work for 196 University students until the end of the spring term was assured yesterday in a letter sent President C. V. Boyer by Elmer R. Goudy, executive secretary of the state relief committee.

Goudy's communication reads: "Provision has been made to pay the wages of part-time college students from the regular relief funds allocated to the state of Oregon by the federal emergency relief administration.

"Your quota of students as heretofore determined shall be provided part-time jobs until the end of school in accordance with federal emergency relief administration instructions previously forwarded to you.

Funds Available
"Funds to meet part-time student payrolls for the months of February and March are now available and will be forwarded to your office without delay."

Commenting on Goudy's letter, Earl M. Pallett, University executive secretary and registrar, said: "In view of this authorization, the University committee on federal relief for students met for the purpose of assigning students to projects for the month of April. In making assignments for the month of April, precedence was given to students who had previously been promised work during this month. If these students were eligible to continue on the list, and if no other circumstances made it inadvisable to assign work to them, they were assigned the same number of hours on the same projects as they had been assigned previously.

Notices to Be Sent
"Notices will be sent as soon as possible to the students to whom work has been assigned, and copies of these notices will be sent to the faculty members having charge of the projects. The committee will continue to assign students to projects until the quota of 196 students for the month of April has been reached.

"No definite assignments are being made for May or June because the committee feels it is inadvisable to make assignments at this time with the possibility that they might be canceled. At the end of this month, if the work has not been cancelled, letters will be sent to students assigning work for the month of May."

Pallett requested that departments are not to start students to work immediately, until they have received definite notice when to proceed.

In the afternoon previous to Miss Cooley's speech, three round-table discussions, on different fields of work, were led by guest speakers prominent in these fields. Miss Frankie Coykendall, head of media and research departments at Botsford, Constantine, and Gardner, spoke on "Women in Advertising and Journalism"; Miss Brownell Frazier, head of the department of design at the University, spoke on "Women in Art"; and Mrs. Alice Howard, dean of girls and mathematics teacher at Klamath Falls union high school, spoke on "Women in Education."

Each of the three afternoon speakers emphasized the opportunities for women in the three fields of work discussed, considering necessary training, qualifications. (Continued on Page Four)
