

Fete Judges Are Chosen For Tonight

Queen, Royal Party to Precede Pageant to Float Down Millrace

Gleemen Will Sing

Floats Near Completion; Junior Men Requested To Aid in Fixing Setting

The judging committee for the Canoe Fete, highlight of the Junior Weekend activities, announced yesterday by George Schenk, chairman of the event, will include Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel, Dean of Women Hazel P. Schering, Don Orput of Portland, one of the originators of the millrace pageant, Cal Young and Lance W. Hart, assistant professor of drawing and painting.

Work on the floats is rapidly being finished, according to reports from living organizations. A call for junior men to give some of their time this morning and afternoon to working on the millrace setting for the fete, was issued last night by Schenk, who would like to see every male junior helping make the occasion successful.

Water Parade at 8:30 Promptly at 8:30 o'clock this evening the gala water parade is scheduled to get under way, with Ralph Schomp as master of ceremonies, unrolling the pages of history for Oregon's seventy-fifth anniversary of statehood.

First, Queen Josephine Waffle and her royal party of princesses Margaret Ann Howland, Cynthia Liljeqvist, Miriam Henderson and Maryline New will float down the millrace, preceding the pageant "Where Rolls the Oregon," and will dismount on the stage at the north side of the millrace where they will rule the fete. The queen will probably be attired in white organdie and the attendants in pastel shades of the same material, according to Marie Saccamanno, chairman of the queen's reign.

Colorful Floats Entered Then will follow the floats depicting Oregon's history, past, present and future. A galaxy of colorful characters, events and scenes will feature this procession. The Gleemen chorus will sing, Don Eva and George Bishop will give solos, and Sherwood Burr's orchestra will play. Oregon music will be the order of the evening.

An intricate telephone system will connect Schenk's booth with all important points of the fete, so the chairman will be able to keep in touch with every detail of the event.

The prices of tickets for vantage points along the millrace are 75 cents.

Orides to Meet Orides will meet Monday at 7:30 in the women's lounge at Gerlinger.

'Mother O' Mine to Be Sung On Men's Program Sunday

The University of Oregon polyphonic choir, men's division, will make a formal appearance for the first time this year Sunday afternoon in the music building, at 3 o'clock. Roy Bryson is director of the group and Mary Denniston, accompanist.

Group I on the program is selected from the Harvard university collection, arranged by Dr. Archibald T. Davidson, director of the Harvard Glee club. Numbers included in this are "My Bonny Lass," by Morley; "Around Us Hear the Sounds of Even," by Dvorak; "Suabian Folk-Song," arranged by Brahms; "Now Let Every Tongue," by Bach.

A number of humorous songs will be heard in Group II. The well known "Creole Song (Ay-ay-ay)" which has been sung many times by Tito Schipa, famous tenor who appeared in Eugene a few years ago, is included. Two negro spirituals will also be given, one of which "Were You There" is a popular favorite with Roland Hayes, celebrated negro tenor.

The last group in the program includes "Salamelekum," from the opera, "Barber of Bagdad." Charles Aetzel will sing the incidental solo. The closing group also includes "Hallelujah Amen" by Handel. Alice Woodson, guest artist, and con-

Sports, Dancing To Be Features Of Frosh Picnic

Vigilance Group Will Keep Out Upperclassmen

A big surprise at the frosh picnic Sunday, May 20, at Swimmer's Delight, is promised by Dave Lowry, general chairman for the affair. Don Thomas and Phil Hodes, in charge of sports and features, have worked up a day livened by swimming, baseball, other sports, and something new and different, but you'll find out about that at the picnic.

"The picnic starts at 2:00 o'clock and when you get there we're going to have the biggest party you've ever attended," said Lowry. Mess call will sound at 3:45 o'clock followed by three hours of dancing. A five-piece orchestra will play.

If present plans work out prizes will be furnished by the class and be given to living organizations having 100 percent of their freshman group at the picnic. Frank Nash has been appointed chairman of the vigilance committee and promises to care adequately for any upperclassmen who invade the freshman sanctuary that afternoon. "The worm has turned," said Nash as he viewed his policing army: Chan Berry, Jim Rummel, Bob Konopka, Hank Cross, Peter Brooke, Jim Schofield, Joe Murray, Elmore Borden, John Brunton, and Duke Bradisty.

The picnic was postponed a week because of Mother's Day festivities. Lowry thinks the 20th will be a popular date and expects a large crowd. "We can take care of all of you," said Lowry, "and promise you a whale of a time!"

Third Fees Installment Must Be Paid by Noon

Noon today is the final date for payment of third installments on spring term fees, and 40 students have yet to make these payments, according to figures from the business offices in Johnson hall. Delinquent students will be subject to dismissal from the University after 12 o'clock this morning, and must pay a reinstatement fee of $1.00, in addition to the daily 25 cent fine which has been accruing since last Saturday, and the original dues.

Junior Weekend Officially Opened By Campus Lunch

Mortar Board, Friars Ask 13 to Membership

Opening of the annual Junior Weekend took place at noon today when six junior men were pledged by Friars, senior men's service honorary, and seven junior women were tapped for Mortar Board, senior women's service honorary.

Parading in long black robes, the procession of Friars was led by Thomas Tongue, president of the group, followed by faculty and student body members. The men pledged were: Ralph Schomp, George Birnie, Malcolm Bauer, Joe Renner, Bill Berg, and Bill Davis.

Women of Mortar Board including Dean Hazel P. Schering and Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, were led by Lois Greenwood. Elizabeth Bendstrup, Valborg Anderson, Eleanor Wharton, Alma Lou Herman, Nancy Archbold, Roselind Gray, and Josephine Waffle were tapped and pledged.

Immediately following the pledging of men and women to the honoraries was the coronation of Queen Josephine I by George Birnie, junior class president. The court, including Maryline New, Margaret Ann Howland, Miriam Henderson, and Cynthia Liljeqvist, with Ann Graham as crown bearer, followed the campus in the procession across the campus to the throne facing the Gerlinger.

George Birnie, chairman of Junior Weekend, welcomed the Oregon Mothers to Junior Weekend and then proceeded with the coronation. Mothers, dads, and University students were guests of the various classes at the campus luncheon served by members of underclass service honoraries. Four long tables were placed under the trees in front of the old library.

A concert by the University band was given at the picnic grounds during the affair. Serving the group took over an hour and long tables of waiting people stretched over the campus from the loaded tables to the walks of Thirteenth street. The menu included veal loaf sandwiches, potato salad, pickles, olives, punch, and ice cream served in dixie cups. The lawn recently cleaned for the occasion were rapidly filled with people watching the ceremonies, and eating their repast. About 1:30 the entire crowd was served and the space cleared rapidly as they dispersed to go to the tennis dances, registration, and various organizations.

Pledges Speak to Oregon Mothers

Although not listed on the Junior Weekend program, political speeches were heard Friday noon by the throng of students and mothers gathered near the "old lib" for the annual all-campus luncheon.

George Callis, "anti-nudist," was the first of the speakers. He acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Winston (General) Allard, candidate for governor and "lover of dear little children"; Bob Moore, aspirant for the position of chief on the state liquor control board; Barney Clark, would-be county coroner, and Ned Simpson, candidate for county dog-catcher who led the politicians in his theme song, "Get along little dogie."

The unofficial entertainers were pledges of Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism fraternity.

Mother's Day Devotions Will Be Held Tomorrow

Mother's day devotions and McKenzie conference echoes will constitute most of Westminster's program for this Sunday. At 9:45 Edith Grim will be in charge a Mother's Day service. Leslie Dunton has charge of the worship program and Grace Burnett will sing. The regular evening forum at 6:30 will be devoted to reports from and discussions of the McKenzie conference held last week. Hilda Fries has charge. The forum will be preceded by the usual social half-hour at 6:00.

Webfoot Nine Gives Huskies 9-2 Trimming

Donin Allows Only Two Hits; DeLannay, Koch And Hunt Bat Leaders

Keystone Today at 3:30

Ducks Drive Washington Chucker From Mound; Weber Poles Out Homer

By CLAIR JOHNSON Whispering the words of the famous football jinx over the Huskies, the Webfoot baseball artists combined near perfect fielding and a lusty batting attack yesterday, to topple the University of Washington nine from their perch at the top of the conference standings, as they handed the northern team a 9 to 2 defeat. The second game of the series will be played on Reinhardt field today starting at 3:30.

The Donin walked off the diamond with his third conference victory when he hurled two-hit ball, and struck out seven men, and was never seriously in trouble. Ray Koch, who again was clicking in big league style around the keystone sack, Mark DeLaunay, and Mike Hunt were the last guns of the Webfoot batting rampage which put Bill Reinhardt's charges back into the thick of the race for the title.

Ducks Open Scoring The victorious Ducks opened the game with a run in the initial inning when Maury Van Vliet walked, went to second on Wes Clausen's sacrifice, and scored on Koch's single to left. In the next frame the Huskies knotted the count when Weber's slant baseman, caught one of Donin's slants for a four base drive. The upstate nine rung up their final counter in the third when Boulton walked, and sole second. He crossed the plate when the Oregon hot corner guardian mishandled a peg attempting to catch him at third.

With the count 2 to 1 against them, the Lemon-Yellow started their battering of the Husky pitcher, and came back in the last half of the inning to ring up two tallies and clinch the game. Koch got a free pass, went to third on Gordon's sizzling double down the third base line, and both men put Oregon in the lead, never to be headed, when Hunt scored them with a double to center.

Husky Hurler Replaced The chucker for the northern nine was driven from the box in the sixth as the Webfoots continued their blasting. Hunt singled, McCall sacrificed, DeLaunay singled, and Vail drove one over first for another safety as the Husky pitcher left the game. This rally accounted for two runs in the seventh and eighth four more were added to the total.

Clausen and Gordon walked, Koch was credited with a sacrifice, Hunt a fielder's choice and DeLaunay with a single in the seventh period and in the following one Donin got a double off the left field fence, Clausen a sacrifice, and Van Vliet and Koch walked out one base hits.

The only threats the Washington squad offered were in the seventh when Weber doubled but died (Continued on Page Four)

Emerald Corrects Callister Misquote

Suggestions for Albert Cup Prize Open to Students

Dean Earl Will Consider All Communications Suggestions from students or faculty members which will help the Albert prize committee select the senior University students who have the best record for faithful study in scholarship will be welcomed by the committee, announced Virgil D. Earl, dean of men and chairman of the group which will nominate three students whose names will go before the senior class for final selection.

The faculty committee consists of Earl, Mrs. Hazel P. Schering, dean of women, Calvin Crumbaker, professor of economics, C. L. Kelly, professor of business administration, J. H. Bond, professor of business administration, Robert H. Seashore, associate professor of psychology, and Hugh E. Rosson, graduate manager. They will consider in making their nominations character, service and wholesome influence of the student.

The Albert prize is provided by Joseph Albert of Salem, Oregon. Communications on the subject of senior candidates for the award should be addressed to the dean of men's office in Johnson hall.

Pledges, Numeral Men Will Paint 'O' at 8 a. m.

The big yellow "O" on Skinner's Butte will receive a brand new coat of paint this morning when pledges of the Skull and Daggers, sophomore service honorary, and first-year numeral men scale the heights of the butte to do their stuff.

Two in Infirmary Marvel Twiss and Kathleen Horton were the sole occupants of the infirmary yesterday.

Renner Takes Oath of ASUO President Before Assembly

A new regime at the University was ushered yesterday morning at the student assembly in Gerlinger hall, when Tom Tongue, retiring president of the student body administered the oath of office to his successors and handed his gavel to Joe Renner, incoming president, who will direct the destinies of the associated students through the next school year.

The outgoing officers, Tongue, Neal Bush, Nancy Suomela, Richard Neer, Helen Burns, and Otto Vonderheit gave place to Renner, Bill Berg, Nancy Archbold, Bob Miller, Elizabeth Bendstrup, and Cosgrove LaBarre.

Almost unanimous support was voted by the students to a resolution presented by Bob Parke, providing that varsity swimmers who are not members of the A. S. U. O., this term, but who were recommended by the coach to be awarded letters for competition last term, be given permission to purchase these awards and sweaters, without being forced to join the student body.

In summarizing the year's activities of the student body, before he retired as head of the organization, Tongue pointed out the "most successful athletic year the University has ever had," the meeting of the optional membership prob-

Juniors Win Awards for Achievement

Koyl and Gerlinger Cups Presented to Bauer, Marygolde Hardison

Scene Is Historical

Queen, Princesses, Heads Of Committees, Officers Given Exclusive Dance

Marygolde Hardison, sociology student, and Malcolm Bauer, journalism major, were awarded the Gerlinger and Koyl cups as the outstanding junior woman and man on the campus, at the Junior Prom in McArthur court last night.

Hendricks hall and Sigma hall received the scholarship cups for the women's and men's living organizations having the highest grade point average throughout the past year.

Miss Hardison is a member of Chi Omega sorority, vice-president of the senior class, chairman of vocational conference, secretary of the Junior Prom, Thespian, Kwama, chairman of the A.W.S. carnival last year, member of the regional committee in the campaign for Phi Theta Upsilon, member of A.S.U.O. membership, and chairman of registration for Dad's day.

Bauer is prominent student body this spring, has been sports editor and news editor on the Emerald and is a member of Scabbard and Blade military honorary. George Birnie, president of the junior class, made the awards.

The setting of the dance portrayed the early conquests of the white man in the west through scenic views of pioneer Oregon. Side drapes of bright colors formed the background for the oblong pictures of Oregon scenic and historical spots, pioneer cabins, covered wagons, buffalo and Indians. The general idea of the entire weekend, a celebration of Oregon's 75th anniversary, was carried out in the motif.

Special Dance Held

After the presentation service for Queen Josephine I and the awarding of the cups, a dance exclusively for the queen and her party of princesses, student body officers, class presidents and committee heads and their partners was given.

Visiting mothers observed the dance from a special gallery constructed so that they were able to watch the features of the evening.

Two in Infirmary

Marvel Twiss and Kathleen Horton were the sole occupants of the infirmary yesterday.

By the end of next year the Associated Students should be completely out of debt for the first time since 1925, due to the sizeable profit made this year," stated Tongue, heralding "a new era" in student body history.

The postponement of the incorporation of six amendments to the A.S.U.O. constitution which were approved in the elections a month ago, was his greatest disappointment while in office, according to this year's president, who hoped that next year the revisions would be culminated.

Among the features inaugurated this year, Tongue described the yell squad's organization, the greater's committee, headed by Richard Neer, frosh instruction during Freshman week, and the Committee of 50, consisting of leaders from all living organizations on the campus.

Tongue urged next year's student body to disregard party politics and cooperate wholeheartedly with the new body of officers. Medals awarded for placing second in the Hearst rifle competition against 197 other schools, were presented by Tongue to Horace
