Immediate Selection of Chancellor Necessary, Says Thompson, President of Dads

university as indicated by the term "Alma Mater" was pointed out by Dr. Boyer.

The need for immediate action in the selection of a chancellor was the topic dwelt on by W. Lair Thompson, Portland, president of the Oregon Dads' club. The new chancellor should be selected at once so that he will be acquainted with the higher education setup in Oregon and will be ready to take charge at the opening of the institutions in the fall, said Thompson.

Thompson Speaks

Thompson spoke of the value of timeliness in action by any power wielding body. Using the comparison of a golf swing, he pointed out that timing can make an educational setup smooth also. The timing has been had in the past and consequently many friendships, he said, were bent.

The president of the Oregon Dads said he had not heard of any steps having been taken to replace the chancellor, in time to give the new appointee an opportunity to acquaint himself with the Oregon campuses. The timing must not go wrong, Thompson declared. There are rare cases in which delayed action is fruitful, but this, he said, is not one of them.

O.S.C. Ranks High

As a technical school Oregon State college ranks among the highest in the nation, Thompson pointed out in turning to another phase of his speech. Neither of the schools should be allowed to have too many irons in the fire but should specialize in their own fields, Oregon State in technical matters only and Oregon in literature and the arts. By this method both would have greater opportunities to reach the top in their respective fields. Both schools would have to give up something but it would tend toward a betterment of both institutions, said Thompson.

Presentation of trophies was made by Mrs. Arthur M. Dibble, president of the organization, re-elected to serve another year in that post. A beautiful candelabra offered by the mothers of Portland was presented to Phi Mu sorority for having the most mothers present. They scored 100 percent. Chi Psi lodge was awarded the Mrs. Charles Hall trophy offered to the men's organizations for the third successive time, thus gaining permanent possession of it.

Welcome Given

Fred E. Callister brought greetings from the board of education. "The period of retrenchment is passed," said Callister. The board is well fitted for the work ahead, he pointed out, but it must have not only the cooperation of all board members but also of the institutions of higher learning and harmony between the institutions.

Welcome from the University was given by Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University. Joseph Renner, newly installed president of the A. S. U. O., welcomed the mothers on behalf of the students, telling them how much their help was valued and cooperation as well as their love. Earle Wellington, president of the Associated Friends of the University, brought word from that group. Invocation was offered by Rev. Cecil F. Ristow, of the First Methodist church of Eugene. A vocal selection was given by Charles Fahey.

At the close of the program the introduction of the new officers for the Oregon mothers was made.

Music for the banquet was furnished by the Phi Beta Trio: Vivian Malone, violin; Roberta Shrdacsam Moffitt, cello; and Theresa Kelly, pianist.

JUNIOR WEEKEND PLEASES MOTHERS

student body president for the past year, was the installing officer.

At noon the annual campus luncheon, spread on the lawn under the campus firs, was held, with mothers as special guests. The crowning of Miss Josephine Waffle, Astoria, as Queen Josephine I was the outstanding event of the luncheon. Her court of honor included Margaret Ann Howland, Maryline New, of Portland; Miriam Henderson, Oregon City, and Cynthia Liljevist, Marshfield.

The picturesque ceremony of pledging to Mortar Board, senior women's society, and Friars, senior men's honorary, was held during the luncheon. The Mortar Board members in cap and gown

To all Oregon Mothers:
On behalf of the associated students I want to express to you the great pleasure we experienced in having you here for the seventh annual Mother's Day celebration. We sincerely hope you enjoyed your stay as much as we enjoyed the privilege of entertaining you over the week-end. Although next Mother's Day is a year away, we want to extend to you an invitation to be with us again. To those mothers who could not be here this year, we want to express our regrets and we want you to know that we missed you very much. We hope that all of you can be with us next May, and we will again do our best to show you our University, our work and our aims.

Sincerely,
JOSEPH RENNER, President
Associated Students, U. of O.

and the Friars in gowns marched among the students, "tapping" those chosen for next year. Those elected by Mortar Board were Nancy Archbold, Eleanor Wharton, Portland; Rosalind Gray, Eugene; Valborg Anderson, Colton; Elizabeth Bendstrup, Josephine Waffle, Astoria, and Alma Lou Herman, Oregon City.

Junior men elected by Friars, senior service group, were Ralph Schomp, Santa Maria, California; George Bernie, Malcolm Bauer, Joe Renner, Bill Davis, all of Portland, and Bill Berg, Eugene.

Friday evening they were guests at the annual Junior Prom, and witnessed the court of honor held for Queen Josephine I, Miss Josephine Waffle of Astoria. At this time the Gerlinger cup, awarded annually to the most outstanding junior woman student, was given to Miss Marygoide Hardison, of Portland, and the Koyle cup, awarded to the most outstanding junior man, was won by Malcolm Bauer of Pendleton.

Saturday morning the sophomores marched the freshmen up to Skinner's butte where the "O" was given a fresh coat of paint, and then proceeded to pull the first year men into the millrace in the annual tug-of-war. A water carnival and other events also enlivened the morning for students and guests.

Mrs. A. M. Dibble, Portland, whose work as president of the University of Oregon Mothers won high praise from members and others with whom she has been associated during the past year, was re-elected to this position by unanimous vote of the seventh annual Mothers' mass meeting held Saturday morning.

At the mass meeting, which this year attracted a record attendance, the mothers were greeted by Dr. C. V. Boyer, president of the University, and C. A. Brand, Roseburg, member of the state board of higher education. Dr. Boyer sounded a note of optimism for the future of the University, and warmly praised the mothers' organization for its cooperation during the past year. Mr. Brand also pointed out the value of the work of the Mothers' organization, and praised Dr. Boyer's work to date as president. He also spoke enthusiastically of the future of the institution.

The work of the personnel division of the University, which includes the offices of dean of men and dean of women, was described by Karl W. Onthank, dean. Mrs. Hazel Schwering, dean of women, and Virgil D. Earl, dean of men, also described their contacts with students and other details of their work.

The work of the Mothers' organization for the past year was reviewed, and the program for the coming year outlined. The mothers plan to issue a pamphlet soon, describing the work at the University and opportunities for students.

Saturday evening the Mother's Day banquet was held in John Straub Memorial hall.

Sunday morning special services honoring mothers were held in all Eugene churches, and mothers were guests at dinners at the various living organizations. As a finale to the successful weekend, mothers and sons and daughters attended the concert of the men's division of the Polyphonic choir.

Roy G. Bryson, director, had selected a special group of songs that delighted a large audience.

The committees which had charge of the Mother's day celebration and the banquet were as follows:

Faculty—Earl M. Pallett, general chairman; George H. Godfrey, publicity and advertising; Virgil D. Earl, registration; Genevieve Turnipseed, banquet.

Student—Nancy Archbold, chairman; William Meissner, assistant chairman; Althea Peterson, banquet; Catherine Coleman, registration; Douglas Polivka, publicity; Josephine Waffle, program; Dorothy Dibble, secretary.

Banquet—Althea Peterson, chairman; Pauline George, Margery Thayer, Margaret Mortensen, Mae Schnelbacher, Lois Howe.

Oregon Campus Plays Host to Many Mothers

Freshman, Sophs Both Get Duckings In Big Tug-o-war

Everything from an ordinary soaking to slinging mud was allowed at the free-for-all fracas which developed out of the frosh-sophomore tug-o-war Saturday morning.

Seriously outnumbered by a horde of freshmen who arrived at the millrace, the sophomores took no chances and tied their end of the rope to the nearest telephone pole. Not to be out-manuevered the frosh performed the same operation with their end of the rope. Then the struggle began. The sophomore telephone pole began to creak and sway. The freshmen were determined to win even if they had to disrupt the power system. Matters were brought to sudden halt, however, when the rope snapped over the middle of the stream, laying all the frosh out straight on the ground.

From then on a storm of flying mud, water, and slippery bodies developed on the banks of and in the millrace. Every underclassman on the premises regardless of class who showed any signs of being dry was tossed in the water. The banks quickly became a mass of slippery mud.

Not being satisfied with the devastation already created, about 20 men from both sides made a tour of nearby fraternity houses ducking every helpless underclassman they could find. Joe Renner, A. S. U. O. president, was one of the victims.

Article, Baby Come to Grad Simultaneously

Mrs. Ivan McCollom (Freda Holtzmeier), former graduate student in psychology at the University, became an author and a mother on the same day, May 7. She published an article jointly with Dr. Francis Robinson, formerly a graduate student in psychology here, now head of the department of psychology at Stout institute. The article was on the relative importance of speed and comprehension in reading difficulties of the college student.

The child's name is Joan. She was born in the Good Samaritan hospital at Portland.

Needham Passes Test For Master's Degree

Howard Needham, student of merchandizing and advertising, passed his preliminary examination for his master's degree Thursday afternoon.

Needham has about one quarter's work yet to complete before taking his final examination. Judges who passed him were J. H. Bond and N. H. Comish, professors of business administration; Calvin Crumbaker, professor of economics; H. V. Hoyt, dean of the school of business administration, and W. F. G. Thacher, professor of advertising.

Band to Give Concert At Springfield Tonight

The University band will take another one of its spring concert visits to Lane county towns tonight, this time to Springfield. The program will be presented in the Methodist church under the auspices of the Lions' club, with members of the club providing transportation to and from Springfield.

Local Pioneers Recall Days Of Stables and Board Walks

Board sidewalks and great trees lining either side of the street were some of the scenes of Eugene 25 years ago recalled by Mrs. Anna Butterfield, a resident of Eugene for many years, while spending a few hours at the millrace home of Aunt Samantha Dillard, one of the most loved pioneer Oregon mothers, chatting over the prized memories of yesterday.

Lively stables predominated in those horse and wagon days, having since been replaced by modern buildings. No paved roads; rather pools of mud or dust in early Oregon days, travelers using good old dust coats. Their thoughts then turned to Aunt May Walker, one of the greatest pioneer mothers, who often slept with her clothing laying ready to dress at a moment's notice, listening for the footsteps of an approaching man coming through the night leading an extra horse for Aunt May. With herbs and roots, she would mount the horse and with her midnight caller would be off through the trails, to aid the sick or distressed.

This valiant mother is remembered today by men and women of Lane county as one who gave a long life of service and love to them and their families.

"Grandma Johana Hanson, one of Mrs. Butterfield's neighbors, came as a 16-year-old bride to Eugene in 1853; a good neighbor and friend. Mrs. John Stewart, another pioneer mother, after an afternoon spent in sewing and telling of her life in Oregon, filled a basket with fruit, walked to the corner with her visitor, and bid her goodby, saying, "lovely afternoon, and no one's heart will ache for anything we have said. Be over soon, goodbye."

Other neighboring pioneers included Oliver Beeler, the first white man to settle in the state of Kansas, before making Oregon his home. Aunt Samantha and Mrs. Butterfield then remembered the little hand bell J. D. Meyer used to call the housewives to the door to buy his fresh vegetables. As they picked out their vegetables Mr. Meyers would tell them all the news he had gathered during his daily trip about Eugene, but no gossip!

At this time there were few telephones except those used in business, and fewer cars. Inhabitants of the town were indeed proud of the car loops when they were first installed.

There are still many pioneer mothers and fathers left, though the ranks are thinning. When Uncle Henry Harlow on his ninth birthday, with Aunt Matt, was brought to Eugene they talked of the old pioneer families, and their experiences, topics that never grew old.

"Beautiful Oregon," declared Mrs. Butterfield, "no wonder the pioneer fathers and mothers loved their homeland. May their descendants have the faith, the love and pride of their pioneer people for our Oregon."

Under the Mikroscope

By JIMMY MORRISON

Things seem to be moving in the maritime department. "Mr. Bop," famed speedboat belonging to Commodore L. Q. Stoopnagle and Budd, is high and dry in a shipyard with a new tailshaft and propeller being installed, due to the Commodore's habit of exploring the Hudson river mudbanks. The colonel is now working on an invention to soften water so propeller blades won't get bent.

Sometimes these two boys are pretty good, but other times they're lousy. Tune in on KSL tonight at 6 for the Camel Caravan, and you can hear them yourselves and judge accordingly; incidentally, Glen Gray and the Casa Loma orchestra are the stars on the program. You can always tell when Glen comes on the air. You will hear a beautiful trombone solo of "Smoke Rings" with an entrancing background of muted trumpets and low clarinets. Here is a suggestion: Leave your dining room doors open so you can truly enjoy both your meal and the music.

Varied Recital To Feature Music Program Tonight

Pianist and Tenor Accompanied by Paul Petri Will Appear in Music Auditorium

Two musicians will again feature a recital, when Kathryn Orme, pianist, and Charles Joseph Fahey, tenor, accompanied by Paul Petri, appear tonight in the music auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Miss Orme will present a varied program, with no great concentration on any author. Chopin is favored to the extent of two numbers, while Beethoven, Friedman-Gartner, Rubinstein and Leschetzky are also represented.

Fahey will present an even more diversified series of numbers, with numbers from Italian, French, and English masters. Miss Orme is a student of Mr. Hopkins, while Fahey studies under Paul Petri.

The complete program will be:

I
Beethoven..... Sonata, op. 81a
Kathryn Orme

II
Giordani..... Caro mio ben
Fontenailles..... Obstinaton
Cadman..... Dream Tryst
Charles Fahey

III
Chopin..... Nocturne in B-major
Chopin..... Ballade in F-major
Kathryn Orme

IV
Tosti..... La Serenata
Strickland..... Ma Li'l Batteau
La Forge..... O Ask of the Stars

V
Friedman-Gartner.....
..... Viennese Dance No. 1
Rubinstein..... Barcarolle in G
Leschetzky..... Arabesque
Kathryn Orme

new program to be known as "Paul Whiteman's Workshop." It is to feature different composers each week, with programs from the music of Deems Taylor, Vincent Youmans, and Johnny Green already lined up.

Morton Downey gets my vote as the world's worst radio "singer." If any of you kids think of anyone worse, let me know—but tick-a-lock on Guy Lombardo's brother, Carmen.

Dance Bands Tonight
6:00—KSL, Wayne Kings.
6:30—NEC, Gus Arnhem.
6:45—KNX, Ted Flo Rito.
8:30—KYA, Tom Coakley.
9:15—NBC, Clyde Lucas.
9:45—KPRC, Earl Hoffman.
10:00—KJR, Harle mband.
10:30—KFI, Jimmie Grier.
11:00—NEC, Ted Flo Rito.

Phi Mu had a clever idea for introducing the tunes which were played on their program yesterday. One of the girls answered letters on the air, one of them inquiring of her the meaning of "love." She answered something like this: "You can't have love without that certain thing." Then the Phi Mu trio broke into "Without That Certain Thing." Isn't that a ducky way?

Alpha Gamma Delta kiddies didn't have time to rehearse over the weekend, so they won't be on the air today, but Jack Miller, the Emerald-of-the-Air sports reporter, will be on hand at 4:30 to dish out the dirt on sports.

Betty Rix-Les Dunton Get Canoe Race Cups; Vinson, Lees Win Also

Leslie Dunton of Sigma hall and Elizabeth Rix of Alpha Xi Delta were the winning pair in the canoe race of six heats held in the Junior Weekend water carnival. They win permanent possession of silver loving cups for their respective living organizations.

Fred Lees of Zeta hall and Marion Vinson of Alpha Omicron Pi were the cup winners in the swimming races. Later on in the day the Amphibians gave a diving and swimming exhibition; Ladd Sherman gave high dive demonstrations; and Wally Hug entertained the audience with comic dives.

Oregon Mothers Pass Work Done, Plan Coming Year

Executive Committee Holds Two Sessions; Boyer Outlines Scholarship Plans

Members of the executive committee of the Oregon Mothers spent a busy weekend, especially those on the old and new groups. Meetings for both were held at 8 o'clock in the morning in the regents' room in John Straub Memorial building. At the Saturday morning session the old committee reviewed and passed on the work done during the past year, while the new board, at its meeting Sunday morning, planned out the work for the coming year.

The new board Sunday heard from President C. V. Boyer. An outline of a plan for scholarships for worthy and needy students, and the mothers were called on to promote the plan wherever possible. The plan, in brief, provides that scholarships shall be established by service clubs and other civic organizations in the various Oregon cities, and these scholarships given to students who can qualify. Amounts for the scholarships and the number, will vary with the size of the communities and the number and strength of the civic organizations, Dr. Boyer pointed out.

Other phases of the work, for the coming year were discussed at the Sunday meeting. Each year the organization is gaining in localities all over the state, and the various ways in which the Mothers' groups can work together for the benefit of the University and their sons and daughters were discussed.

Saturday the board heard the report of the president, Mrs. A. M. Dibble, the treasurer's report and minutes of various committee meetings held during the year. Definite progress in the organization was shown by these reports, and the committee was so enthusiastic over the work that had been done under Mrs. Dibble that they again nominated her for president.

Other nominations, all of which were later passed unanimously by the mothers at the mass meeting, included Mrs. George F. Brice, Portland, vice-president, and Mrs. L. A. Henderson, Oregon City, treasurer.

A report on the University of Oregon Federation and its work was made by Mrs. Walter M. Cooke, Portland, representative of the Oregon Mothers on this group. The executive committee of the federation is composed of representatives of the Oregon Dads, Oregon Mothers, alumni, Associated Living Groups, and Associated Friends of the University. A sum to aid the federation in its work was voted by the mothers. Plans for a pamphlet on the University, to be issued soon, were also voted, and a sum was voted for this. These actions were later rectified at the mass meeting.

Clark Appointed As Head of Group

Prof. Dan E. Clark, of the history department and extension division, is planning to attend a regional committee meeting in San Francisco on June 12, where he will make a committee report.

Professor Clark received word yesterday of his appointments as chairman of a sub-committee on the survey of research materials on the Pacific coast, of the social science research council.

This committee is the sub-committee of the Pacific coast regional committee on research materials which will meet in San Francisco. The purpose of the committee is to make a survey of the materials for research in the field of social sciences on the Pacific coast.

In the last two years the committee has made some study of the newspaper files available in the libraries on the coast. It has also discussed the problems of encouraging better preservation of local archives in the counties and municipalities.

Miss Alison Comish, of Eugene, sister to Elaine Comish, freshman in business administration at the University, has been chosen valedictorian of the 1934 graduating class of Brigham Young university at Provo, Utah, according to word received Thursday from that institution.

Miss Comish is a member of Val Norm social unit, White Key honor society, Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary debating fraternity, Block Y club and the International Relations club.

During her senior year she has served as president of the Associated Women Students.

President of Mother Group Elected Again

Brand Addresses Mass Meeting of Group

Other Officers, Members of Board Elected at Annual Business Session of Organization

Over 100 Oregon Mothers took time Saturday morning at 10 o'clock to attend the annual mass meeting, held in Guild theater. There they named officers for the ensuing year and heard a number of talks and reports. Charles A. Brand, Roseburg, member of the state board of higher education, made the chief speech, bringing greetings from the board.

Mrs. Arthur M. Dibble, Portland, was unanimously re-elected president of the Mothers. Mrs. George F. Brice, ex-president of the Portland group of Oregon Mothers, was elected vice-president of the state organization, to succeed Mrs. W. G. Hare of Hillsboro. To the office of treasurer, Mrs. L. A. Henderson, Oregon City, was re-elected.

Directors Elected

Six directors also were elected at the meeting. Mrs. H. B. Fenton of Portland was named for the short term, to retire from the executive committee in 1935. Those elected for the full term, to retire in 1937, included Mrs. E. C. Peets, Portland, Mrs. Roy T. Bishop, Portland, Mrs. Percy F. Freeman, Portland, Mrs. Ben Chandler, Marshfield, and Mrs. E. V. Betts, Eugene.

Standing members of the executive committee include Mrs. Walter M. Cook, Portland, honorary president, and Earl M. Pallett, executive secretary. Acting secretary, appointed by the president of the Oregon Mothers recently to keep the minutes of meetings, is Mrs. W. B. Shively, Portland.

The session was opened with a short welcoming talk by President C. V. Boyer. President Boyer particularly stressed the importance to the welfare of higher education of the active interest of students' mothers.

Brand Gives View

Brand also expressed this view, suggesting that the women nominate and elect to office men who will support higher education. He gave a concise summary of the work of the state board during the last year. He praised President Boyer as, "a real president, a scholar, a friendly man, and a straight-shooter." The most recent phase of re-organization in Oregon's system of higher education, he declared, has resulted in a new friendship between the campus at Eugene and that at Corvallis.

Extra-curricular activities are an integral part of modern education, Brand said in explaining why they were included in a student's fees. Routine reports followed Brand's talks, the reading of minutes for the 1933 mass meeting and four intervening executive meetings and the annual treasurer's statement. With the payment of a check for $50 to the University of Oregon Federation and another of $13 to the Portland Mothers, $128.55 will be left in the organization's treasury. Slightly over $10,000 is in the Oregon Mothers' infirmary fund.

Report Given

Mrs. Dibble read a report of her work as president during the last year. Mrs. Walter M. Cook, representative of the Mothers on the University of Oregon Federation directorate, also read her report. Klamath Falls activities were described in an impromptu report by Mrs. Pearl Drew, president of the Southern Oregon group.

The work of the University of Oregon personnel division was told by Dean Karl W. Onthank and by Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, and Virgil Earl, dean of men.

Volunteers were called for to organize Oregon Mothers in various places about the state. Among those who responded with promises to contact mothers in their home cities were Mrs. J. M. Lamb, Albany, Mrs. W. E. Wright, McMinnville, and Mrs. W. L. Martin, Corvallis.

Alison Comish Chosen Valedictorian at Provo

Miss Alison Comish, of Eugene, sister to Elaine Comish, freshman in business administration at the University, has been chosen valedictorian of the 1934 graduating class of Brigham Young university at Provo, Utah, according to word received Thursday from that institution.

Miss Comish is a member of Val Norm social unit, White Key honor society, Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary debating fraternity, Block Y club and the International Relations club.

During her senior year she has served as president of the Associated Women Students.
