

INTRAMURAL SLATE STARTS TODAY

Donut War On! Nep To Reign Aquatic Bout

Today the curtain rolls back, King Neptune blows his horn and the race is on for supremacy in swimming, first sport on the year's intramural program. This year promises to exceed the last, when over 1700 took part in 13 different sports. Twenty teams will compete for swimming honors, all of them striving to win the crown which was captured by Beta Theta Pi last year, with the Betas also capturing the crown for total points in all sports.

Three contests are billed for today: Sigma Nu and Pi Kappa Alpha clash in the opener at 4 p. m. Forty minutes later, Delta Upsilon and Theta Chi will match strokes; Sigma Alpha Mu and Phi Kappa Psi will meet in the final at 5:20. There will be three contests on Wednesday and Thursday, but none scheduled for Friday. By next Monday, all teams will have seen action.

Entries Unlimited

Each organization is allowed to enter as many men as it wishes but each man is limited to two events and a relay; or the order may be reversed—two relays and one event. Two men from each team is the limit for any one event and four men may be entered from each team for the relays.

Scoring will be as follows: Five points for first place, three for second and one for third. In the relay, only one team will be scored; the winner receives five points.

Mike Hoyman, swimming coach, is in charge of intramural swimming and will pass upon the eligibility of all competitors. Those who have received varsity letters in swimming will be barred. A forfeit will be allowed ten minutes after the scheduled time, if one of the teams is not ready to swim and the other team has four men on the score sheet who are ready to compete.

Other rules which must be followed strictly by competing teams are: any team shall forfeit a contest in which an ineligible man engages and the ineligible man will be barred for further competition in that sport for the season; also, any player using an assumed name shall be barred from all intramural sports during the season in which the offense is committed.

It has been ruled that all protests must be made in writing to the intramural director in charge within 24 hours of the contest in question. Both contestants and officials in charge shall be permitted to present their case before decision is made. Protests other than eligibility must be made at the time of the meet. Protests made but over-ruled by the official in charge will be over-ruled unless the intramural director decides otherwise.

A scheduled contest may be postponed only with the unanimous agreement of both team managers and the director of swimming.

Nothing is known of the strength of the different teams at this time, but it appears that the last year's champions, Beta Theta Pi, will have a fight on their hands to hold the swimming crown. Swimming will end October 19. Four days later, October 23, the next intramural sport, water polo, will get under way.

Basketball and volleyball are two other sports slated for the fall season.

GRAD TRANSFERRED

Eric Foster, '32, who had a position with the Aetna Life Insurance company in Minneapolis has now been transferred to the company's office in Portland.

Callison Drives Squad Hard Points for Husky Battle Saturday

There are a lot of doings down on Hayward field these days, for with the Washington clash only five days off, Coach Prink Callison is driving his charges without mercy or favor. They should be in fine condition when the Husky tilt rolls around.

By this time the clash with the northerners has assumed proportions of the biggest game on the national schedule, for besides the long feud and promise of offensive fireworks, there is the marvelous defensive record of the past six years held by the Ducks, during which time no Husky team has ever crossed the Lemon-Yellow goal line nor even scored a point.

Sick Men Ready

Several players who were in the infirmary last week with heavy colds are now out, and will doubtless be ready to go. There are two question marks—Gardner Frye, veteran tackle, who will probably take things easy this week until his sprained back is well, and Budd Jones, end, whose playing condition will not be determined until this morning.

If Jones does not play Saturday, Vince Walker, transfer from Marin Junior College will get the starting call. He is husky, a fine defensive man, and an excellent pass snatcher.

Del Bjork, who in his first major game showed so well against U.C.-L.A., will probably continue as the first string right tackle. He is rock-like on defense, and a hard charger.

Fresh Use Husky Plays

The backfield is in fine condition, as is the rest of the line. While Washington plays, as portrayed by the frosh, will be the center of attention, offense will be given a thorough going-over to smooth up the ragged spots shown up by the Bruin tilt.

The four members of the coaching staff are home again, with reports on the enemy opposition that bode ill for the Ducks in future games. Of chief interest was the report of Gene Shields, who looked on at the W.S.C. slaughter. "Very tough," was the description given the Cougars, but Gene emphasized the fact that the Trojans would be at their best later in the season.

Interest in the Washington-Oregon has advanced to a stage where almost all of the seats are sold. Seattle was forced to order an extra thousand duets, and with most of the student bodies of the two institutions present, it looks as if a new attendance record will be set.

Indians Meet Wildcats Saturday at Stanford

Stanford University, Oct. 8—(Special)—Tiny Thornhill and his Cardinal football squad returned here yesterday from their successful invasion of the Pacific northwest and today got down to serious preparation for the first big inter-sectional classic of the year—Stanford vs. Northwestern in the Stanford Stadium next Saturday.

Both teams are rated quite strong this year and are working hard for a victory after the scoreless tie which resulted when they met last year in Chicago.

RAE IN PORTLAND

Arne Rae, field manager of the Oregon Editorial association, attended a meeting of the board of directors for the Oregon State Editorial association at Portland last week-end.

All-American??

Here we have one of Oregon's candidates for all-American honors this year. No less than co-captain Butch Morse, star Webfoot left end.

Tickets Still on Hand For Washington Game

Although the sale of tickets for the Washington-Oregon game has exceeded that of past years and bids fair to be a complete sellout there are still tickets available for students and Eugene people, according to reports from the graduate manager's office at McArthur court.

Those who wish these tickets must get them soon, however, or they will not be able to do so.

Pi Delta Phi Will Honor Consul From France

M. Yves Meric de Bellefon, Consul General of France at San Francisco, will be the honor guest at a banquet given by Pi Delta Phi, national French honorary society, on Friday, October 12. The dinner will be given at 6:30 at the Osburn Hotel. All members of Pi Delta Phi are urged to attend. In order to make reservations please call Saxon Brooks, 439W.

M. de Bellefon's visit to the campus will be part of a tour of western universities.

Enlargement of Band Makes Improvement

The University band renditions at the Seattle engagements for "Challenge Day," program today will be considerably improved by the addition of more players for the trip.

According to Lloyd M. Green, manager of the band, the organization will be expanded from 30 selected players to 42. This number gives the band a better instrumental balance, as the previous restriction necessarily eliminated many good musicians.

Pop Hagerty Pops Up As First String Center For Washington Team

Latest press flashes from the Husky camp up north indicate that no less a personage than Frances "Pop" Hagerty will open at center for Phelan's lads when Washington and the Ducks waltz onto Multnomah field next Saturday. Pop, football fans here will recall, started the season under Prink Callison.

However, a few days before the Gonzaga game Hagerty suddenly withdrew from school and went home with a badly injured knee. Of course there was some sort of a little argument about whether he was to play center as he wanted to, or tackle as Prink wanted him to, that might have had something to do with his departure—but anyhow his knee was hurt a little bit.

About two days after leaving here Pop's pain in his knee suddenly disappeared and he returned to school and football playing—but this time to the University of Washington. Either his style of play must have improved or else the Husky line does not compare with Oregon's, because after his entrance into the Seattle eleven's fold he suddenly became first string center. While here Pop rated about second or third string man for the pivot position.

Anyhow Pop did his little bit for dear old Oregon when he brought two of his classmates from St. Martin's college down here, Johnny Reischman and Andy Hurney are the lads and they will both be in there against their old pal Saturday because they are both big cogs in the Webfoot grid machine.

So Hagerty's a Husky now, but it wouldn't be a bit surprising if by the time the Oregon game is over he would be wishing he was a Webfoot again. After being here as long as he was he may be just a bit on the spot Saturday when he meets a few of his previous teammates.

VENISON OR HUSKY MEAT?

Echoes from the Igloo indicate that the Webfoots might be getting ready for their feast of Husky meat next Saturday by sharpening their appetites on a venison diet.

Anyhow it's no secret that both Bill and Mrs. Hayward, and also Bob Officer, returned from separate hunting trips over the week-end each bringing in their allotment of deer meat.

IGUESSO EXPLAINS HIS ERRORS

In order to sort of save his reputation after the terrible beating he took in predicting the outcome of last Saturday's grid mixups, little Iguesso, master mind and sage of the sports world, flopped into the office this morning and explained that all the dope spilled last week was not of his doing at all but was the work of a brother of the mystic circle who coasts around under the moniker of Iguessum Rong.

Of course even Iguessum Rong didn't miss them all—he did pick the right winner in the Car-Beaver clash. Too, he was only six touchdowns off about the result of the Trojan-W.S.C. game. And for his misleading statements about the Bulldog-Vandal, and Gael-Bear scores he blames the publicity departments of the schools he picked to win. After reading their material he claims it is impossible to believe in anything else but a victory for their eleven.

And so this week our own Iguesso says he is going up on the desk himself and not entrust his picking to a trifier like Iguessum. And right at this stage of the week he is still proudly quacking that Oregon is going to trim the Huskies.

Roosevelt Holds Washington Even

Portland—Washington high school, Oregon state interscholastic football champions for 1933, was held to a six-all tie on Multnomah civic stadium field here this afternoon by the roughrider eleven from Roosevelt high.

The tie left Washington with a percentage of 1.000 for the 1934 season with one win and one tie.

COACH'S SON ON SQUAD

Some people wonder whether it's a lucky break or the opposite for William Edward Spaulding, the son of Bill Spaulding, coach at U.C.L.A., who will play football under his father this fall for the Bruins. In all events it means that young Spaulding will get plenty of tutelage and will have to fight for a position on a good team.

Accountant Graduates Acquire New Positions

Six students of last years certified public accountant class have received positions since last June.

They are Burton Smith, who is with the Price Waterhouse Co., auditors in Portland; Delford Bishop in the St. Helens Pulp and Paper Co. at St. Helens, auditing department; Russell Morgan who is with W. P. Whitcomb, public accountants in Portland; Orville Young, assistant space auditor for the Morning Oregonian and Sydney Hoffman and Ray Fields who are in the state audit department at Salem.

The University of Oregon accounting department holds an enviable position among all the schools along the coast. During the last few years it has consistently turned out more certified public accountants than any of the other schools.

Frosh-Varsity Scrimmage Goodin Injured Out for Weeks

Maury Van Vliet, mosquito-like halfback for the Ducks started off the season going places against the Uclans last week and is all set to do the same to the Huskies.

Women Attracted By Course in Law

According to reports given out from the law school office there is a 20 per cent increase in the enrollment of women students over last year. The total registered this year is six compared to five in 1933.

Of the above number three of the women are first year law students and the other three are second year students.

Two women placing on the law school honor roll spring term were Dorothy Kliks and Josephine Rice. The honor roll is on the basis of the cumulative grade point average covering work done in the law school and only includes students registered in 10 or more hours of law school courses.

Josephine Rice is a graduate of last year's class and recently passed the examination given by the state board.

Hello Dance Enjoyed By Record Attendance

The first dance of the year at the Igloo last Saturday night was from all reports from the Skull and Dagger committee, a financial success as well as an entertaining affair attended by approximately 500 couples. This was an exceptionally large turn-out for the first season dance by not only freshmen but also the upper classmen.

This is the first year the Skull and Dagger club have had the complete sponsoring of the dance.

With less than a week's practice under their belt, the Oregon frosh received their hardest workout of the year when they scrimmaged the varsity Friday. They were greatly handicapped since the varsity has been practicing for over three weeks, is heavier, and far more experienced. However, as soon as the Yearlings get accustomed to their new style of play, they will be able to prove themselves more than cannon-fodder for the older team.

The Frosh outlook was somewhat dimmed when Bud Goodin, left half, injured his left knee and will be out of action for three or four weeks. No other serious injuries were received by either side. The highlight of the scrimmage was a 90 yard return of a kick-off for a touchdown by Maury Van Vliet, speedy varsity back.

No Cuts Made

Coach Irvin Schultz says that no cuts will be made on the squad, thus giving him plenty of material from which to pick his starting line-up against Southern Oregon normal, October 20. The following line-up started against the varsity: Leil Jacobsen and Melvin Engel, ends; Charles Shimomura, and Kenyon Skinner, tackles; William Prentice and Tony Amato, guards; Herbert Olson, center; Elaine McCord, quarter; Bud Goodin and Frank Swall, halves; and Lester Lewis, full.

This line-up appears to have the edge on the rest of the candidates, but there are many men fighting for each position and there may be several changes before the first game. Bud Goodin's place at left half will probably be filled by Dale Lassale, speedy back from Grant high.

Another scrimmage may take place during the middle of the week.

MILLER WINS BY KNOCKOUT

New Castle, Eng., Oct. 8—(AP)—Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, recognized by the National (United States) boxing association as world's featherweight champion, tonight knocked out Benny Sharkey of New Castle in a left round of a 12-round bout. A left hook to the solar plexus sent Sharkey down for the count after two minutes, ten seconds of fighting.

HUSKY TEAM HOME GROWN

The University of Washington football team is very near a home product with most of their players coming from the state of Washington. The roster of the team is made up of 32 from the evergreen state, two each from Michigan and Texas, one apiece from Oregon, Oklahoma, Iowa, Montana, and three from Illinois.

PAN XENIA TO MEET

On Thursday, October 11, Pan Xenia, international foreign trade fraternity, will hold its first meeting in the men's lounge of Gerlinger at 7:30. President Ben Halliday announced plans for the showing of several reels of film concerning foreign trade.

Coach Claims Husky Sophs Are Promising

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—(Special)—If the Oregon-Washington game were to be played right now, Jimmy Phelan would probably use his sophomore backfield composed of Matt Muczynski, Byron Haines, Jimmy Cain, and Elmer Legg. The sophomore boys have been showing more fire than the veterans, Paul Sulkosky, Burl Bufkin, and Art Ahonen, and may play most of the game next Saturday.

Muczynski, one of Washington's most outstanding backs last year, was at one time thought to be out for the whole season as a result of an arm injury but is now able to play again.

The Cougars' starting forward wall will probably be: Dan Lazarevich and Ted Markov, ends; John Wiatrak and Chuck Bond, tackles; Shper and Mucha, guards, and "Pop" Hagerty, center.

Captain Woody Ullin was on the sidelines all last week with a heavy cold.
