CAMPUS COSTUMES

By MARY GRAHAM

Those who saw Marlene Dietrich in "The Scarlet Empress" will recall how she looked in the Russian tunics, pajamas and cosack style hats she wore; so stunning and breath-taking. Fashion designers must have the same recollection of how clever Miss Dietrich looked for they have decreed Russian costumes are for the well-dressed girl this season.

Cossack hats and suits are taking the country by storm, which reminds me speaking of storm, one of the clever styles is a new white galosh with white fur trailing around the top. It makes one wish for the snowy Russian steppes so one would have an excuse to wear it. Then there are the hats.

Cylindrically shaped and high in the crown, some of the hats follow the Cossack hat rigorously in style. Others are more modified in their style but fur and fur cloth materials are used for both.

For street wear Russian suits are very much in vogue, either one-piece dresses long skirted, or separate skirt and coat. The coats are belted closely around supple waist-lines, descending and flaring as they go to achieve quite wide widths around the knee. Skirts are patterned straight and slim, with graduated tucks and a bias cut to give them a good fit. Fur and astrakan seem to be the most popular trims for these suits although some fussy models have the gold braid effect across the front.

Tunic blouses worn with these suits also use a cut which suggests the general line of the Russian blouse—high necks, voluminous sleeves caught into a tight wristband and braided cords forming the belt. Peasant blouses finished in bright colored smocking are still very much in vogue, fitting in excellently with these new styles which will soon grace many a feminine wardrobe.

The trend toward Russian styling does not confine itself to day wear alone though. Lounging pajamas of luxurious brocaded crepe

Dean Schwering Interested In Merits of Women's Page

Dean Schwering has much to say in behalf of the University women as she expresses her opinions in the following statements: "I am happy to know that the woman's page is to be continued. It provides an opportunity for the women of the campus to express their opinions regarding women's participation in the affairs of student government and their influence as world citizens. The recent movement of active discrimination against women by certain foreign governments has made us aware of a growing attitude to put women out of industry and recognized positions of leadership. On the other hand, in our country at the present time, women are playing a very prominent part in governmental affairs. They have interested themselves in legislation and broad social movements pertaining not only to the welfare of women but men and children as well. The day of the suffragette is past and women of ability and leadership assume their positions with dignity and wisdom.

"Through the many activities of the Associated Women students, it is possible for women students of the University of Oregon to use this opportunity to learn the needs of their fellow students and to set up a program vital enough to carry over when these same students function as adult citizens. The Associated Women students must be conscious not only of the problems of women in industry, the profesand crepe satin have trousers of a dark color and the tunic blouse of a contrasting color. To add that more imperial touch one might have her monogram embroidered on the pocket of the blouse.

Curled up on the couch before the fireplace, a book in one's lap, a cigarette in one's hand, and dressed in a pair of these pajamas, to a casual observer one might even look like Natasha herself.

Schedule Coming Soon For Intramural Sports

The schedule for this season's intramural sports for women has not as yet been announced, but the announcement is expected in the immediate future.

Teams for basketball, hockey, and other women's competitive sports have been practicing for some time, and there is promise of a very good and active season.

Theta Sigma Phi Holds First Meeting of Year

Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, held its first meeting of the year Tuesday noon at the College Side. The meeting was in the form of a luncheon.

Routine business was transacted and plans were made for the initiation of women pledged last spring term. The initiation date sions, the unemployed, and recognize the tremendous force of united efforts in bettering the bewildering problems of society today.

"The Associated Women students should assume the leadership in placing the emphasis on the intellectual development of the student. In every way promote a high regard for scholarship. Their recent policy of disqualifying students with less than a "C" average from participation in activities is praiseworthy.

"Through their organization there is a real opportunity for the development of leadership, not in a spectacular fashion, but rather through the quiet strength of the well equipped woman. There is opportunity for the development of responsibility, not to a den or to the administration but to one's self as a matter of pride and self respect. There is opportunity for the development of tolerance for other races and for the opinions, weaknesses, and strength of others.

"Through the cooperation of all, the Associated Women students should be concerned with building a dignified, wholesome social tone among the students on the campus. The whole program of activities should not mean hurrying after experience without stopping to see what we are hurrying after. Too often, participation in activities makes one's life a subway rush with an underground lock. The real purpose is rather to provide fundamental basis for a well balanced life."

Yeomen Will Hear Merlin Blais Talk

Merlin Blais, first regular president of the Oregon Yeomen, will be the leading speaker at the all-independent banquet to be held at the Y hut Friday night.

Blais has been in intimate touch with Yeomen affairs ever since they were organized three years ago. He is a graduate from the school of journalism and was awarded the Turnbull-Hall plaque during his senior year. The purpose, aims and bits of history of the organization will form the subject of his talk.

The purpose of the banquet is to acquaint all unaffiliated men with each other and the organization.

Regular enrolled members of the Yeomen who have paid their $1 a year fee will be admitted to the banquet free of charge. A small charge of 30 cents will be made all others.

During the year the Yeomen will conduct several social events in conjunction with the Orides, independent women. Membership in the organization is necessary to compete in intramural athletics.

Fred Gieseke, treasurer, is in charge of the membership drive. The banquet will be held at the Y hut on Friday, October 28, and will be followed by a breakfast, the time and place to be announced later.

Betrothal Announced

Announcement of the betrothal of Miss Louise Marvin to Dr. E. A. Cochran was made Friday evening in Portland at a dinner party which preceded the Oregon-Washington football festivities.

News of the engagement was made known through cards to which were attached small pairs of doll glasses, typifying Dr. Cochran's profession.

Miss Marvin was graduated from the University of Oregon a year ago. She was a member of Delta Gamma, social sorority and Phi Beta Kappa.

Dr. Cochran is a graduate of the school of optometry, University of Southern California, and has been practicing in San Jose.

At a bridge party and buffet supper in Portland last week Miss Alice Wingate announced November 3 as the date of her marriage to Karl Greve. The ceremony will be performed in Portland at the bride's home.

Miss Wingate attended the University of Oregon and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. Mr. Greve also attended the University, where he was affiliated with Delta Tau Delta.

Betrothal Is Announced

The wedding will take place in Portland December 1.

Hood River Wedding

A wedding of interest to University students was performed Thursday evening in Hood River when Miss Carol Hurlburt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll M. Hurlburt of that city, and Joseph Judson Nunn of Salem, made their vows at a picturesque evening ceremony in St. Mark's parish.

The bride wore the 55-year-old wedding gown of her grandmother. Fashioned of heavy ivory satin brocade, the long full skirt hung with tiers of handmade Spanish lace sewn with seed pearls, which also formed the trimming of the sleeves and bodice. A tiny Mary Stuart cap of pearls, caught at

Hobby Divisions; Phi Theta Upsilon Will Join Forces

Aim Is to Cut Down Class Barriers and Promote Good Feeling

Phi Theta Upsilon, women's upperclass service honorary, is composed of women who have received recognition for service on the campus. Sixteen girls are chosen each year—two from the junior class and the remainder from the sophomore class. Girls are chosen on the basis of democracy, service, potentialities, and interest in Philomelete hobby groups, according to Valborg Anderson, president of Phi Theta Upsilon.

Its primary aim is to cut down class barriers between fraternities and non-fraternity women, to gain friendly contacts among girls with similar interests and to promote a wide experience among college women.

The main project for furthering the purpose of Phi Theta Upsilon is the Philomelete hobby groups. They are organized under the leadership of Miss Anderson. The president also has a position on A. W. S. council. The president of Philomelete, Dagmar Haugen, is a member of Phi Theta Upsilon. There are five hobby groups in Philomelete—charm, music, outdoor, prose and poetry, and travel groups. Each group is under the leadership of a president and sponsors are chosen from Phi Theta Upsilon members to act as advisers to the group president.

Officers of the honorary besides Miss Anderson, are: Alma Lou Herman, vice-president; Ebb Wicks, secretary; Gladys Burns, treasurer.

the back with orange blossoms completed the outfit.

Miss Patsy Carroll of Portland was the bride's only attendant. She wore a regal gown of zinnia pink with gold flecks and a tiara of button zinnias.

Roy Northcott of Portland was best man for Mr. Nunn.

Mrs. Nunn attended the University of Oregon, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Mr. Nunn is a graduate of Cornell university.

I ONLY HEARD

There has been some controversy on the campus as to whether Gus Arnheim's dance last Wednesday night was a success or not. The majority seems to think it wasn't. We are feeling mighty sorry for some of the boys who paid out their good money and then were disappointed.

We heard that the Theta juniors were entertained at dinner before the dance by Margann Smith. And almost all of them know the dance was a success.

We have found it often proves useful to have "old school pals." At least the Phi Psis think so. A number of them were seen behind the stage talking to the Downey sisters and Maxine Tappan. Two of them even rated dates Friday night in Portland. Just school pals!

The heat proved too much for the Chi Psis, and they decided to cast etiquette to the winds by removing their coats during the latter part of the evening. We wager they were the only comfortable men on the floor.

A number of the sororities were pleasantly surprised at being serenaded after the dance. And it's a sad state of affairs when Oregon State men serenade the Oregon co-eds before our own fellow-students. And incidently, such harmony as in "Sleepy Head" won't be heard again for a long time.

Cigarette holders for women seem to be the vogue lately. And we have seen them in the most peculiar places. One fair co-ed was seen using one at the Rally last Friday noon—of all places! The only damage done was one burned hole in one man's sweater. This same girl was continuously saying during the rally that she wanted the team. It was suggested that we wrap it up in pink ribbons and tissue paper and present it to her.

We take off our hats to Beverly Berkett, and Alpha Phi pledge. She has already pledged the music honorary, Phi Beta.

Various women's living organizations have turned into practice houses for the golf students. Two women seem to practice eagerly and frequently. We wonder if it is just their interest in the game or could it be the new golf professor? The first year pottery classes have turned out to be very amusing during the last few weeks. Some of the articles intended to be potterly studies have turned out to be distantly related to such an art. The students' theme song will soon be "Your're Nothin' but a Nothin'."

Last week-end proved to be too much for most of us. We lost out on some of our classes on Friday because we were absent physically. You could certainly tell from some of the students' expressions Monday that they were absent again—mentally.

There were a number of sororities who had luncheons at various places before the game Saturday. The Gamma Phis had lunch at the Campbell Court hotel; the Chi Omegas at the Sign of the Rose; the Alpha Gamma Deltas at Kelly's; and the Thetas at Meier and Franks.

The Pi Phis from both Oregon and Washington had lunch at Meier and Frank's also. They created no little excitement by singing their fraternity songs and joining forces in singing "Bow Down to Washington" and the Oregon alma mater song.
