GIANT AIR SCHEME CONSIDERED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The president's policy-making aviation commission seriously considered tonight a proposal for American participation in a network of airship lines providing speedy transportation across the Atlantic and Pacific.

Two world recognized lighter-than-air leaders today urged such a step before the commission—Dr. Hugo Eckener, who has flown 600,000 miles in his Graf Zeppelin, and Paul W. Litchfield, whose firm built the navy's Akron and Macon.

SIAMESE KING MAY RETURN

BANGKOK, Siam, Oct. 29.—(AP)—An attitude of calmness and confidence that Prajadepok would be induced to return to the throne of his native Siam prevailed tonight in government circles.

Government spokesmen issued assurances that Siam's legislative tangle growing out of a law to which the king objected could be straightened out without the king going through with his threat to quit the throne.

SECURITIES BOARD CRACKS DOWN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The securities and exchange commission, as an offshoot of its campaign against stock swindling, today cracked down upon the allegedly false appraisal of property in connection with the issuing of stock.

An order was issued by the commission stopping the sale of the stock of the Haddam Distillers Company, Moodus, Conn., on the ground that its appraisal, made by Starkland Appraisal company of New York, was "inexcusably careless."

SKY ACES DOT GLOBE

Aerial adventurers were scattered around the world last night in a series of spectacular distance flights.

Honolulu—Wing Commander Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith set down his monoplane Lady Southern Cross after a flight of 3,187 miles from the Fiji Islands enroute to California.

Croydon, England—James Fitzmaurice and Eric Bonar, pilots of the "Irish Swoop," were laid up here with mechanical difficulties after starting a flight to Australia in the hope of beating records established in the recent air derby.

Allahabad, India—Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller, derby fliers on a back-track flight from Australia to England, rested overnight, their average speed on the return trip well over 200 miles an hour.

Melbourne—Eight more planes in the Bourne-to-Australia air derby were still awaited here. Three of them had reached Australia soil.

Charters of Fraternities May Be Revoked

State College President Says Dues Charged Are Too High

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Oct. 27.—Charters of the honorary fraternities on the Oregon state college campus will be revoked, unless these organizations effect economies to students and prove their worth by activity, President George W. Peavy first made this threat a month ago at semi-weekly convocation.

Next Wednesday night at a formal banquet to which all members of the 30 honoraries have been invited, President Peavy will present his objections formally. Among his chief objections, President Peavy states that in national administration, fee reductions are sadly lacking to meet current campus conditions, and that in recent years as well as at present these organizations have failed to fulfill their intended purposes.

Last year, Talons, a sophomore woman's service group voluntarily gave up its charter to the national honorary, Spurs, with which it was associated. It gave excessive fees as its main reason for withdrawal.

The banquet to be given Wednesday evening is sponsored by Blue Key, senior men's honorary. Russell Tegnells and Clarence Richen are in charge of the event. The purpose of the banquet will be to stimulate activity in fraternities toward obtaining needed changes from their respective national headquarters.

Other speakers at the affair will be F. O. McMillan, research professor of electrical engineering and president of the local chapter of Pi Kappa Phi, national all-school scholastic organization; Ralph Boden, junior in education, and member of Delta Sigma Rho, national forensics honorary, and Betty Steel, president of Associated Women Students, and member of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary.

FERA Provides Money To Compile Book List

With some of the money allotted by the FERA and CWA funds the University of Oregon has had extra student help compile a list of duplicate books, magazines, documents, and pamphlets that are in this library.

This list is sent to 200 various librarians who choose from it the books or periodicals they want shipped to them.

Since March 30, 1934, the University library has received 4723 unbound volumes and pamphlets, valued at the original cost per number at $1248.54. They have also received 320 bound volumes estimated at $460.

With this exchange method, libraries are enabled to enlarge their collections at very little cost.

Portland Will Play Host To Library Convention

On Saturday, October 27, Librarian M. H. Douglas attended the executive meeting of the Pacific northwestern library association held in Seattle.

At this meeting the date was set for the annual convention to be held this year in Portland, on the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday preceding Labor day. Also the program and speakers were discussed.

Miss Margaret Clay, librarian of the public library in Victoria, B. C., and president of the P. N. L. A., presided over the meeting. Mr. Douglass of this campus is the secretary of the organization.

Dispensary Kept Busy Caring for Students

The infirmary and dispensary seem to be busy undoing the work partially done by old man sickness. Students file into the dispensary seeking medical attention, wanting prescriptions filled, and asking for cold remedies.

Although not so crowded or in demand as much as it might be, although hardly a day passes without the admittance of a new patient at the infirmary. Cynthia Liljeqvist and Mel Fletcher head the list today. They were admitted over the week-end.

Anti-Honorary

President George Peavy of Oregon State college has been the center of the storm of opposition to the Greek letter honoraries on that campus. His attacks upon the national organizations have gained wide attention.

Emerald Players Produce Comedy

"Welcome, Stranger," a play in one divided act by Alice Henson Ernest, assistant professor of English, is to be produced by the Emerald players over KORE Wednesday evening at 8:30.

The half hour dramatization will be the third of the fall term series. The Emerald players group, under the direction of Miss Mary Bennett is composed of University students interested in radio play work.

Island of Pongo is the scene of the first part of the humorous play. A modern apartment is the locale of the concluding action. There is an intervening lapse of a few thousand years.

Wednesday evening's performance will mark the first radio interpretation of the play. It has been produced but once previously and then by a prominent Portland group.

Thacher Corresponds With First ROTC Head

W. F. G. Thacher, a member of the journalism staff, who carries on a wide correspondence with many well-known writers, ex-students of the University, and former residents of Eugene, related today that he had received a letter from John Leader, former commandant in the R. O. T. C. Mr. Leader, who was connected with the military service during the World War, is now located on the Isle of Jersey, one of the Channel Islands. He is remembered as the first to direct military training along R. O. T. C. lines here.

Lost a Book? Or a Pen? Go See Lost and Found

Books, books, books! Has any one lost a book? There are seven of them in the lost and found office. Nine pens are also waiting for their owners. Pencils are in a minority with only two to keep the pens company.

Besides these things, there are two notebooks, three purses, two pairs of gloves, two single gloves, two belts, one key case with keys, and one comb and mirror case.

Franck's D Minor Opus Is Featured By Musical Group

Hoogstraten's Symphonic Orchestra Chooses Recent Favorite

PORTLAND, Oct. 29.—(Special)—Cesar Franck's D Minor symphony, the musical masterpiece which last spring was revealed as an outstanding favorite among Portland music-lovers, will be the principal work on the Portland Symphony's orchestra's opening program, to be given in the public auditorium Monday night, November 5. The Franck opus is being used fittingly to usher in a season which will celebrate Willem van Hoogstraten's tenth year as leader of the orchestra and which will at the same time set the tempo for a cycle of programs which, it is believed, will excel anything Portland has experienced previously.

Mr. van Hoogstraten has taken particular pains to make the opening program a particularly attractive one. Coupled with the Franck symphony will be the D Minor suite of Ernst von Dohnanyi, the eminent Hungarian contemporary—a work which is said to be distinguished by some amazing orchestral effects and which at the same time retains the pleasant melodic patterns at one time employed so freely by such masters as Schubert. The overture to Weber's "Der Freischuetz" will complete the program.

Season tickets for both series of symphony concerts—8 Monday night and 6 Sunday afternoon events—are now being delivered at the box office in the J. K. Gill store. They will be on sale daily until after the season actually opens. The first Sunday concert is billed for November 11, when a special Armistice day program will be given.

sion of the population which Mussolini hopes to build up by his bonuses and like encouraging measures. England has likewise long had her eye on Italian friendship, and no doubt hopes to maintain her control of the balance of power in Europe.

French Will Likewise Cede From Rome, however, comes the announcement that France, too, will cede that region of Tibesti, bordering the Anglo-Egyptian acquisition on the Sahara side, to Italy. Just what bearing this change of hands in this little-known and comparatively unimportant district may have upon the rather uneasy position of Franco-Italian relations is a question that may well be looked into.

Mussolini to the North If Italy plans merely to expand along the Libyan coast, however, contemporary opinion will be way off the track. Toward the north and east, Austria and the Balkans, Italy's greatest interests lie, and it is there that the symptoms of significant moves and realignments must be looked for.

Active in literary circles, Dr. Strong wrote several books, among which are "The Life of Benjamin Franklin," "Government of the American People," with Joseph Shafer, and other works in addition to numerous contributions to magazines.

Honorary Doctor of Laws degrees were given him by Baker University, University of Oregon, and Kansas State College. He was president of the American Association of State Universities in 1916.

Theater Revue

MCDONALD — "Barretts of Wimpole Street" with Norma Shearer, Frederic March, and Charles Laughton.
COLONIAL — "Catherine the Great" with Elizabeth Bergner and Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

By R. KNUDSEN

THE only way one can really appreciate "Barretts of Wimpole Street" is to actually see it. It is impossible to describe it adequately without using a good many meaningless superlatives. There is a character and richness about the entire production that fairly takes one's breath away. It would take an extremely skeptical and hard heart not to be moved by this piece of photoplay.

An interesting criticism made by the National Board of Review is as follows:

"A beautifully photographed and faithful adaptation of the play about the romance of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning. Fredric March is hardly a perfect Browning but otherwise the whole production is definitely superior. Nothing objectionable for the family but its interest is for mature minds. Recommended to Committee on Exceptional Photoplays.

cludes plans to bring several prominent speakers to the campus, besides sponsoring various campus projects. Plans are also being formulated by the combined efforts of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. to hold a regional conference for discussion of international relations, which will be held at Linfield college.

Bruce Curry, an author of note, and a student of religion and philosophy, is one of the lecturers who will visit the Oregon campus this year. M. Curry has been active in Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. lecture work for several years.

Wednesday is organization and faculty day for the doughnut drive, and all living organizations are being contacted to urge their cooperation and to have "sinkers" for at least one meal during the day.

Dads and grads will also have an opportunity to partake of the said refreshments, for Y. W. C. A. salesgirls will cry their wares at the Oregon-Montana game Saturday.

Worth being kept permanently available."

Catherine the Great Running for the last times tonight at the Colonial theater is a United Artists production, "Catherine the Great." Douglas Fairbanks Jr. takes the part of the suspicious and impetuous young Grand Duke Peter, heir to the throne of Russia, while Elizabeth Bergner plays Catherine, his wife.

The show as a whole is a somewhat weak imitation of the vivid and successful type of picture represented in "Queen Christina" and the "Scarlet Empress." For the central theme of the plot which dwells upon the character and emotional turmoils of Peter and Catherine, the action really moves entirely too fast. Although entertaining, the show leaves one with the impression that more could have been made out of it if the time and effort had been taken. Perhaps the fact that Elizabeth Bergner is not a Garbo or a Dietrich has something to do with it.

"The Big Bad Wolf," sequel to the "Three Little Pigs," another Walt Disney color cartoon feature is also being shown with the main feature. Both of these short subjects have excited as much comment and attention as many of the regular features during the past year.

Emerald of the Air

By GEORGE Y. BIKMAN

DOOFLUMDUNGS: This Friday we inaugurate the first of what we hope will be a series of half hour broadcasts. Emerald of the Air programs to date have been fifteen minutes. Over-supply of talent is the reason...

A special Dad's Day broadcast is on the fire. Watch for a very special announcement soon... Student talent for the daily broadcast over KORE is still being sought. Our office hours are five to six at the Shack daily. Absolutely anything in entertainment that's reasonable is given an ear...

There is great demand for original compositions—musical, or in the literary line. If you have a poem, play or song and you're not bashful, bring it in to us. Perhaps we can adapt it for you.

Today our star of the blues—Lou Parry—takes the air. Lou's spectacles have been repaired, so we can expect her to sing the right words, in case she has to read them. Buck McGowan, coming to be more and more in demand for campus entertainments, is to do the accompanying. And he'll get the spot a time or two on his own. Our jhanks and an orchid to Ned Gee, who sang, and to Chuck French, who played on yesterday's quarter hour. They'll be heard from again.

May we suggest that visitors at the downtown studio of KORE are welcome while we broadcast. The location is above the Metropolitan store on Willamette. Time, 4:45.

Beall Contributes Research Volume On French Work

Book Shows Tasso's Effect On Norman Writing: Just Published

A volume entitled "Chateaubriand and Le Tasso," regarded as an important contribution in the field of research on French literature, recently written by Dr. Chandler B. Beall, associate professor of Romance languages here, has just been published by the Johns Hopkins university press.

The book is a study of the influence of Tasso on French writers, and deals specifically with the influence this sixteenth century poet had on Chateaubriand. It is of special interest to those interested in French literature, since it gives a new insight into the quarrel between the "ancients" and the "moderns" especially in the field of poetry.

Dr. Beall came to the university in 1929, after a varied teaching career which included membership on the faculties of the University of Southern California, Johns Hopkins, Amherst, and George Washington university. He graduated from Johns Hopkins in 1922, and was granted his doctor of philosophy degree in 1930. He also received a diploma from the Sorbonne in Paris in 1925.

Much of Dr. Beall's research in French literature has been done in France. He lived and traveled in Europe in 1920-21, 1923 and 1924-25. He has published a number of papers in Modern Language Journal and other publications. An article along the lines of his book, giving his views on the influence of Tasso on Balzac, was published in Modern Language Notes in the May, 1934, issue.
