Duck Eleven Needs Plenty of Going Over Before Beaver Game

Prink Callison and his assistants have a real job on their hands this week. The Webfoot football team needs plenty of working over if it is going to beat the Beavers next Saturday. Ever since they won by a heavy score over the Uclans, despite losing later to Washington, the Ducks have been coasting along on their reputation and the fact that they really are a better than average club. But although they are better than average they are still far from championship caliber.

The way they looked against Montana, except for a few minutes when they were spurred on by a good demonstration of cheering, the team couldn't win a game against any major eleven in the country. However, in those few minutes of hot play and in their demonstration against the Bruins the boys showed they really have the stuff if they get pep up enough to use it.

So that's part of Prink's job—to get the team mentally ready to really get out and play as well as they are capable of. Physically he won't have many worries, with almost every man in top shape for the game. The play of the team itself is weak in one department—and that is blocking. The line, it is true, did open some good holes through the weak Montana forwards but the blocking of the backs was decidedly off key. They would gently bump their man and then let him sift on through to spill the ball carrier. Close to 75 per cent of the tackles made by the Grizzly men were by players who had been bumped out of the way but not hard enough to do any good.

So Prink will have a little job convincing some of his backfield men that its quite the thing to do to block a bit for their fellow back when they carry the ball and not just make all the all-American runs themselves.

Of course it is true that the Ducks were only sparkling on half strength Saturday and they will be going full force against Oregon State. But it is also true that the list of men who were not up to their normal ability then, includes men who haven't played as well as they are capable of all season—except in those brief little flashes of brightness—and are not reserve players.

And so if the Ducks are really going to go places the rest of the season in their tough games it means that from now on there is going to have to be continuous instead of spasmodic sparkling, better blocking, and better general cooperative teamwork. The pleasant side of the picture is of course, that

Betas Continue Drive for Title In Basketball

SPE's and Phi Deltas Win From Opponents

Houghton, Beard, Clause, And Carpenter Head Scoring List

Today's "A" Schedule
4:00—Yeomen vs. Gamma Hall.
4:40—Kappa Sigma vs. Chi Psi.
5:20—Sigma Chi vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Speed, close-checking, and humor marked yesterday afternoon's donut hoop melees, in which the Betas, S.P.E.'s and the Phi Deltas were awarded major honors over the Pi Kaps, the Phi Sigs, and the Filipinos.

Anxious to cop the "A" basketball title for the second straight year, the Beta Theta Pi quintet pulled out of a slump which netted them a hazardous 6 to 5 win over Kappa Sigma two weeks ago. From the gun they had the reins of victory tucked in hip pockets, emerging finally on the long end of a 22 to 6 count over the Pi Kaps.

Carpenter Leads

Dewey Carpenter and Bob Beard, former Washington high sensation, led the stampede in shooting, while Norm Hampton, Keith Powers, and Dale Fischer held the brunt of the defense. Norm Geardon, loser forward, starred in his

TRACKING AROUND

One Montana pass play with a lateral mixed in almost reminded one of eastern pro games . . . Stan Riordan looked slightly out of place as he goosestepped along when he got the ball once during the game and tore off about 20 yards in 10 jumps . . . The ever faithful Oregon dogs, present at everything from a symphony concert to a wrestling match also viewed the Montana game . . . the official trousers of the honorableness suffered quite a good deal of ball-wiping . . . Speed Lopez made almost his first, last, and only run for Oregon fans this year when he tore off eight yards on a slant off-tackle in the first quarter . . . The Grizzlies weren't up very well on mob psychology or something when they halted the Duck drive as the Oregon fans were in their greatest cheering moments and then kicked right back to the Webfoots before the crowds' enthusiasm died down and soon the Oregon team went over for a touchdown.

Tre Top, the syncopating shoe shiner, entertained a large group with "Oh Death, Where Is Thy Sting?" while Jim Emmett and Platt Davis played the accompaniment with banjo bass respectively. The choral echo effect was done by a bunch of the mill race boys.

Frank Pichereau took a babe out the other night.

The Theta Chis disguised a water polo game under the cognomen of football Sunday morning, terminating with the crippling of practically every upperclassman. Of course the upperclassmen won—they couldn't lose with Doug Polivka as upperclass lineman. Rusty Woodward came a close second, with Parks Hitchcock playing a close second.

Polivka made the most yardage by shoving the ball ahead after every play by the older boys and pulling it back after the underclass gain. Woodward made his yardage in bullrushes through the line, while Hitchcock made his by swimming under water.

The only real gain the underclassmen made was at the dinner table when they brought their own desserts and ate them at the table.

Scribe Spills Impressions, Laughs of Grizzly Battle

By BILL MCINTURFF

All students who are desirous of making places on the varsity and freshman swimming aggregations are requested to report at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the lecture room of the men's gymnasium to get information on the tryouts and practice.

H. S. "Mike" Hoyman, University swimming instructor, will be in charge of the meeting.

floor work, but his colleagues were satisfied with wasting long shots.

Battling through a wild, defensive first half, in which only three points were chalked up, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Phi Sigma Kappa furnished the most even contest of the day, the S.P.E.'s stealing a belated Phi Sig rally right out of their laps for an 8 to 6 triumph in the last two minutes.

Phi Deltas Win

The last fracas could more properly be termed a comedy with the Phi Deltas taking a physical beating, although piling up a 33 to 3 point advantage. Even if their arms towered above the La Casa Filipina aggregation, the dark-skinned boys battled like African pygmies against such cassava vets as Malcolm Bauer, La Grande Houghton, and Wes Clausen, the diminutive ex-Jeffersonian. Houghton whipped through the hoop the most baskets for one man since the season opened, 9 for a total of 18 points. Bauer was not in form, so Wee Wes captured second place with 14 markers.

The scheduled set-to between the Sammies and the Fijis, "B" division, originally set for last Friday will be played at 4:40 on Friday, November 30.

A rather clever movement was executed during the game by Bill George. The Oregon yell king stopped a dog fight in front of the grandstand by placing his megaphone over one of the contestants. Ingenuity?

Pepper Pepelnjak has his embarrassing moments in the Montana game. After a spectacular 20 yard gain Pep again took the ball, cut off tackle, neared the Grizzly goal, spun away from a tackler, and fell flat on his back on the 1 yard line with no tacklers in sight.

Monday night is called "Slasher House Night" by the players. For on that evening there is a three-hour scrimmage for all those players who had little or no playing time in the preceding Saturday's game.

Last night, however, Callison took no chance of injuries to his squad and sent the team through a light workout in preparation for this coming weekend's epic battle with the Beavers.

Dick Bishop showed up very well before his home town's people.

In the first quarter Number 78 jersey was very noticeable. Dick finally lugged the ball as far west as the 14 yard line.

And here the Montanans showed something unexpected: touchdown resistance. Seven times in the game the Webfoots pushed inside the Montana 16 yard zone only to be held for downs. Twice the Missoula men checked Oregon on the 1 yard line.

Dizzy and Daffy To Ask Cardinal Boss for $40,000

Brothers Rake in About $12,000 Apiece Since Series

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 5. — (AP) —

Dizzy and Paul Dean, who will ask the St. Louis Cardinals management for a joint salary of $40,000 for their pitching next season, dropped in on President Sam Breadon of the Red Birds for a chat today.

Despite announcement the meeting was only a social get-together, and that the three had not discussed 1935 salaries, it is known Breadon would like to sign the Deans at once.

The brothers, who pitched the Cardinals to their four victories over the Detroit Tigers in the world series, slipped into town yesterday. They left immediately after the series on a barnstorming and vaudeville tour.

"We made about $12,000 apiece since the world's series," Dizzy said today. "So there ain't going to be no big bad wolves running around our house at Deaville this winter."

"But that ain't going to make me unreasonable. Take some and leave some, I says, and Mr. Breendon will find us very reasonable and as I might say to him in a letter, hoping he is the same, I am yours truly, Dizzy."
