MISS MARION SHELTON, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Sheldon, was married Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock to James Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ferguson of Pendleton, Oregon.

The ceremony was read by Dr. Victor Morris before the fireplace in the Sheldon home. Large ferns and bouquets of white chrysanthemums flanked the fireplace, while bunches of white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers completed the all-white color scheme of the living room. Autumn shades, carried out through clusters of roses and chrysanthemums, decorated the hall.

Miss Eleanor Gullion was the bride's only attendant. She wore a light blue afternoon crepe, a shower corsage of red roses attached to silver ribbon.

The bride's wedding gown was of deep midnight blue velvet fashioned in ankle-length style with a low décolletage and a high neckline outlined with a ruche of lace. The sleeves were sheered at the shoulder and fell just below the elbow. Her bouquet was made up of red roses and gardenias.

Grant Theummel attended Mr. Ferguson.

Pink chrysanthemums and tapers decorated the bride's table and the dining room for the reception which immediately preceded the ceremony. Mrs. Eric Allen and Mrs. O. R. Gullion poured and Mrs. James R. Jewell and Mrs. James H. Gilbert cut ices. Assisting about the room were Mrs. Andrew Fish, Mrs. Mary Jean Warner, Mrs. Elizabeth Gullion, Miss Barbara Betts and Miss Margaret Davidson.

As a going away costume Mrs. Ferguson wore a mottled grey-green tweed suit trimmed in squirrel fur and accented with brown accessories. Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson will return to their home at Pendleton.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ferguson arrived in Eugene to attend the wedding.

Grid Battles

California's Bears and Southern California's Trojans, out of the conference championship race through earlier defeats, will match up on Saturday in their annual set at Los Angeles. For years it has been one of the most important football games of the year. This season it will settle only a rivalry that is traditional in this state. Based on the scores of preceding games, the two will line up on fairly even terms with "breaks" possibly deciding the issue.

University of Oregon and Oregon State college will square off at Portland in another struggle steeped in tradition. Oregon's seasonal record is more convincing but Oregon State held Washington to a 14 to 7 win last week while earlier in the schedule Washington beat Oregon, 16 to 6.

University of Montana meets Montana State in a non-conference game.

Cleopatra

Starting Sunday Eugene will have an opportunity to view Cecil B. DeMille's latest masterpiece, "Cleopatra." This Paramount production will make a run of four days at the McDonald theater.

DeMille has always been noted for his lavish and spectacular productions, but "Cleopatra" tops them all in pageantry and luxurious display. The grandeur of the Nile and the glory of Rome all furnish wonderful opportunities for rich magnificence.

Taking the leading part as Cleopatra is Claudette Colbert. As a wily wicked serpent of the Nile she is said to perform the part almost perfectly.

Henry Wilcoxon, a newcomer, portrays Marc Antony. Wilcoxon has a marvelous physique which is said to characterize the original Antony.

Julius Caesar is played by Warren William. He also is one of the susceptibles to the wiles of Cleopatra.

Others in the cast are Ian Keith, who portrays Octavian, Gertrude Michael as Calpurnia.

Rip Tide

Starting at the Colonial theater Sunday is a Metro-Goldwyn-May production Rip Tide, starring Norma Shearer, Robert Montgomery, and Herbert Marshall.

matter how poorly one team may be rated before game time there is always the possibility of an upset. The Beavers particularly have acquired that "upsetting" reputation since they outplayed the Trojans last fall in Portland.

With Parke on the bench and also because it is his turn, Morse will lead the Webfoots on the field today.

Dr. Holland, "Under no circumstances can we tolerate such defacing of college buildings."

Idaho Replies
From the University of Idaho, just nine miles from here, came a reply to the effect that the Idaho raid was in retaliation for two made to the campus at Moscow.

On Wednesday night University buildings and the athletic field were smeared with red "W's" and again last night. Besides, many bridges downtown were daubed with red paint.

"Student leaders convinced me," said Dr. M. G. Neale, president of the university, after reading President Holland's statement, "That sentiment here is overwhelmingly against any such conduct."

THE iniquities and intrigue of the munitions trust are exposed in this objective, straight-away volume of Mr. Seldes. A war correspondent, and later a muck-raker among Europe's fascist des-potisms, Mr. Seldes brings to his subject a vast amount of practical knowledge and first-hand experience. In the front-line trenches, he witnessed many of the deaths which netted Krupp, Vickers, DuPont and other power manufacturers $25,000 each.

The author also tells how Robert M. LaFollette Sr., George W. Norris, Harry Lane of Oregon and Charles A. Lindbergh Sr., and a few other members of congress realized the war was a munitions makers' plot and were politically crucified for their opposition to American entrance into the war. Taken as a whole, Mr. Seldes' volume is a powerful argument on the futility of armed conflict. His delving into the subject with other authors, helped produce Senator Nye's investigation of U. S. armament manufacturers. If government control of munitions results, as many Washington correspondents predict, the book will have helped bring about a far-reaching result.

To age and mellow tobaccos just right to give Chesterfield its milder better taste . . .

it takes Time

WE have tried a good many methods to age cigarette tobacco, but we have never found any method that equals the slow old-fashioned plan of ageing it in wooden casks for two years or more.

All the tobaccos we use in Chesterfields are aged this way.

It takes time, money, and miles of warehouses—but it's the one way to make a milder better cigarette.
