 4:00—Beta Theta Pi vs. Omega hall "A."

 5:20—Sigma Chi vs. Phi Sigma Kappa "A."

The Sigma Nu donut hoopers eked out a victory over the Phi Delt's yesterday afternoon, 15 to 12, definitely copping the championship of "A" league I, and assuring themselves a starting position in the elimination tournament which opens next week.

Don McMillan topped the scoring parade for the winners by netting a sum of six points, while Leland Canessa and Bob Williamson showed flashy court form.

Dick Taken Out
 Bill Dick, frosh hoopster, was the spark of play in the first half before being taken out in accordance with the new ruling, which eliminates those who participated in the Frosh-Oakridge tilt Friday night from donut competition.

Malcolm Bauer was the main cog in the previously undefeated Phi Delt machine with six markers to his credit. Bob Pickens, from the "B" ranks, also performed well.

The Yeomen clinched their elimination representation, by piling up 28 tallies to 4 by their Delta Tau Delta opponents.

Kjosness Stars
 Ingram Kjosness, independent forward, was behind the majority of the Yeomen scores with accurate passing and smooth floor play, while Bob Austin, playing only in the final half, ran up the most points, 10 in all.

Kenny Weber and Jay Scruggs were outstanding for the losers.

Delta Upsilon finally entered the win column by virtue of a 12 to 10 triumph over the four-man Sammy aggregation, which was crippled by the sudden loss of Dave Silver and Mel Shevack, Yearling casabamen, from the starting lineup.

PIGSKIN PORTRAITS

Editor's note: The following is another in the series of articles by Bill McInturff which are presenting the various members of the 1934 Webfoot grid team.

An old timer is two-year letterman George Pepelnjak, fighting 169-pound reserve half. He has played with such subsequent grid "greats" as all-American Mike Mikulak, Stan Kostka, and Bill Bevan; all-coast Butch Morse and Bernie Hughes. In his Frosh year, teamed with some of these pigskin artists, he burnt up

Each successive year thereafter he barely missed making the starting lineup. Every year he sat on the bench and nursed the comical, misshapen little headgear, so familiar to his team mates. He has always proved an able reserve. Only two things have held him back. His light weight has made him unsuitable for the powerhouse line plunges demanded in the "Oregon system," and his small stature has made him a poor pass defense man.

Pepper is without a doubt one of the best-liked men on the Oregon squad. Despite his physical handicaps he is a brilliant ball player and commands the respect of his teammates. Pep is another of the great Minnesota ball players imported by the lately lamented Doc Spears. However, when Kostka, Clarkson, and Bevan tired of warming the bench during the sophomore year and returned to their boyhood state, Pep stayed on with the Oregon squad. He was born in Virginia, Minnesota.

Hoop Odors Fill Air; Knee-Pads New Style; Gridmen Played Well

ATLETIC winds have shifted the last few days and starting tonight it's going to be maple court odors in the air instead of turfy ones—anyhow if we had a turf field they would be turfy.

The opener in the hoop entertainment, with the Ducks meeting the Union Oilers ought to rate quite a bit above the usual preview showings. The Portland aggregation boasts a lineup of all-stars, who although they have not been practicing much together, will make plenty of trouble for our conference-titled bagging Webfoots.

Both Verne Harrington and Bill Reinhart, opposing coaches seem to be gloomy about the outcome with the former believing the Ducks have had too much practice for his lads, and the latter appearing to be of the opinion that the more experienced men will outplay his proteges.

Without a quail Iguesso is naming the Oilers to trip up the Ducks, although not by much of a margin.

If you should stroll into the Igloo tonight don't be alarmed by the reflections bouncing off the dimpled (?) knees of the Duck hoopers.

The boys have recently donned their new gear for the season and

Manager Posts Open for Sophs

Positions as sophomore basketball managers are still open for men who wish to try out for the posts, according to Don Law, senior manager, and Don Kelly, junior manager.

Men who try out this year will be eligible to be named as junior managers next year, a privilege which entitles them to a number of trips with the Freshman hoop team and is a stepping stone to the coveted post of senior manager the following year.

Anyone wishing to try out for the positions may see Law or Kelly at the Igloo any day after 3:30.

it includes nice, shiny, black knee-guards.

The idea was instilled by Chuck Taylor, pro hoop star, who gave a basketball demonstration here last fall that few fans who saw it will forget.

Reinhart adopted the suggestion and it seems to be going over pretty well with the boys, and helping by doing away with bumped up knees.

Watts Puts Frosh Quintet Through Stiff Scrimmage

Squad Boasts 21-16 Defeat Of Oakridge Five; Silver Stars

In an effort to iron out some of the rough spots which showed up in the first practice game of the season with Oakridge high school last Friday, Jim Watts yesterday sent the Frosh hoop squad through a stiff scrimmage at the igloo.

Starting on the first five picked by Watts were Lasselle and Stafford at the forwards, Silver at center, and Purcell and Clark, guards. This aggregation had a slight edge in an hour of playing against the combination of Shevak, Miller, Crawford, Austin, and Dick. Frequent substitutions were made throughout the scrimmage session in order to give as many members of the squad as possible an opportunity to show their wares.

Last Friday the Yearlings journeyed to Oakridge to defeat the high school there by a 21-16 count. Dave Silver, giant center, led the frosh scoring with 11 markers, followed closely by Bill Dick with 7 points.

Co-ed Hockey Fracas Ends in Scoreless Tie

Fighting a hard game from beginning to finish, the sophomore hockey team held the junior coeds to a 0 to 0 score yesterday afternoon.

The freshmen and sophomore teams are scheduled for their second game of the season at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A practice will be held this afternoon for those who wish to make up the postponed practice.

Louisiana Tilt Next on Green Grid Schedule

Team to Leave Saturday For New Orleans

Eleven in Good Condition After Losing Game With Gaels

Final preparations are being made by Prink Callison's football squad this week for the long-awaited journey to Louisiana. The Webfoot traveling squad will leave Eugene this Saturday for New Orleans, where on December 15 the Ducks will face Huey Long's adopted Louisiana State Tigers.

No serious injuries were suffered by members of the squad in the St. Mary's game and no allis were offered. The game was hard-fought and fast throughout with neither team showing a definite advantage until the very end of the game. The returning Ducks did seem awed, however, by St. Mary's style of play.

Moragamen Clown

Oregon gridsters reported that the Moraga's clown through their play and seemed to be bent not on winning the game but on enjoying it. "Harry the Horse" Mattos, Al Nichelini, and the giant Turk Yezerski were Gaels highly complimented by the Oregonians.

However, Prink Callison is determined to put the recent 13-7 defeat behind him and turn toward the inter-sectional game with L.S.U. which culminates the Duck grid season. Johnny Kitzmiller, assistant football mentor, has been sent to scout the L.S.U.-Tennessee U. game which is to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., this Saturday.

Tigers Lose Game

Last weekend Louisiana State met its first defeat, 13-12, at the hands of Tulane, rival Louisiana school. Formerly Tulane, Louisiana State, and Rose Bowl-bound Alabama had been tied for the southern championship.

Oregon's chief fear is Abe Mickal, temperamental Tiger star, who recently refused a seat in the Louisiana state legislature which the Kingfish offered in exchange for a touchdown. In the Tulane

Frosh Who Were In Oakridge Tilt Are Not Eligible

Players Who Enter Game Tonight Also Declared Out By Board

The smoke that clouded the intramural basketball situation two weeks ago slowly drifted back over the scene yesterday when Paul R. Washke, director of the administrative board, announced to the Emerald that from the time of this statement all Varsity or Frosh hoopsters who have actually participated in any contest representing the school will be barred from further donut competition under the classification as members of these squads.

First damage hit the Sigma Nus during their important tilt with the Phi Delt's. Mr. Washke discussed the matter at the half with Alton Woodard, the Sigma Nu manager, and at this point Bill Dick, who was under discussion, was taken from the game because of his participation Friday at Oakridge.

Dave Silver and Mel Shevack of the Sammys, Stafford and Crawford of the A.T.O.'s, and Bar Purcell, "B" Yeoman, will be affected by the ruling as will any man who is used in the Union Oil game tonight.

game Abe was carried from the field in a stretcher and so may not be able to meet the Tennessee eleven. In all likelihood, however, the "Senator" will be in the opening lineup by December 15.

CANDIDATES MUST COMPETE

The naming of candidates and alternates for "internships" with the national institution of public affairs must not be confused with the final selection of the successful applicants, states Professor J. D. Barnett, chairman of the local committee in charge of the selections. Students chosen from the University must compete with candidates from other schools, and only a limited number of "internships" will be awarded.

Quintet Meets Union Oilers Tonight At 8

Starting Lineup Problem For Reinhart

Reserves Battle for Posts Of Regulars; Portland Team Favored

Basketball will start its reign as sports king tonight at the igloo when Bill Reinhart stages a preview showing of his 1935 Webfoot basketball squad in a meeting with the strong Union Oil five from Portland. Heading the intercollegiate hoop season in the Northwest, the contest will start at 8 o'clock.

Although picked by many fans as leading contenders for the northern division title this year, the Ducks will have their hands full in tonight's game. The Oilers boast a strong lineup of former college stars headed by two former Webfoots, Jack Robertson, all-Northwest forward last year, and Kermit Stevens, long shot artist who performed here for three years until 1933.

Only Willie Jones and Captain Bill Berg appear to be sure of positions in Reinhart's opening lineup with the remaining positions open to conjecture. The combination which seemed to click best in last night's practice session included Berg and Ron Gemmell at forwards; Willie Jones, center; and Glen Sanford and Sam Liebowitz, guards.

With this combination the Ducks would present an all-letterman lineup with the exception of Liebowitz, who is being pressed hard for his position by another member of last year's frosh team, Arne Faust. Roland Rourke, letter winner last year as a reserve, is presently (Please turn to page 2)

MANY men of the South have been "in tobacco" for years—growing tobacco and curing it—buying it and selling it—until they know tobacco from A to Izzard.

Now folks who have been in tobacco all their lives, folks who grow it, know there is no substitute for mild ripe tobacco.

And down in the South where they grow tobacco and where they ought to know something about it—in most places Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette.
