

'Old Oregon' Features '09 'No. 1 Alumni'

E. H. McAllister Honored By Alumni Association

November Magazine Issue Gives Sports Account, Personal Items

The November issue of "Old Oregon" is on its way to thousands of former Oregon students...

This month the publication features E. H. McAllister, graduate of the class of '09. He is honored as the "distinguished alumnus..."

Among other features, accounts of alumni banquets held in San Francisco, Portland, Marshfield, LaGrande, Albany, Burns, Baker, Pendleton, Klamath Falls and other cities...

The Oregon Homecoming festivities are featured and a full account of sports is given. Maury Van Vliet, Vincent Walker, Ned Simpson, Budd Jones, co-captain Butch Morse and Stan Riordan are especially praised...

Faculty, student activities and personal items about alumni are also included in the issue.

Oregon Rally Section At Game Goes Over Big

A total of 87 students from the University attended the football game with St. Mary's in San Francisco on Thanksgiving day...

These students formed the nucleus of a huge rooting section that competed favorably with that of the southern school. Many Oregon alumni living in the vicinity of San Francisco attended the game...

Oregon's rally committee attended the game en masse and from radio reports, they made a striking appearance in their white uniforms and deserve much credit for leading such a successful yell section so far from home...

Students from the University were given free admission to the game upon presentation of their student body cards to Hugh Rosson, assistant graduate manager, in San Francisco prior to the game.

AUSTRALIAN FLOODS PAST MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 3.—(AP)—

After a night of terror which many spent in trees beating swimming in surrounding waters, thousands of residents of flood-devastated communities near here watched swollen rivers recede today.

The unprecedented flood, gravest disaster in the state of Victoria's history, cost the lives of 4, left approximately 8,000 homeless and caused damage estimated at 1,000,000 pounds (about $5,000,000).

RELATIONS BOARD RULES WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—

The labor relations board today ruled the San Francisco Call-Bulletin had violated the recovery act in the case of Dean S. Jennings, formerly one of its rewrite men who contends he got in trouble with his superior because of newspaper guild activities.

Unless the paper offers to reinstate Jennings within ten days, the board said, it would be cited to the NRA compliance division for Blue Eagle removal and to the justice department for legal action.

BIGGER DAM PREDICTED WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—

Frank T. Bell, United States commissioner of fisheries, predicted today that the Grand Coulee dam, on the Columbia river in central Washington, would be built to its full height and water provided for the irrigation of 1,200,000 acres of now arid land in the Columbia basin.

New Department Added to Emerald Advertising Staff

Improvement of Facilities Makes Better Display Copy Possible

With the addition of improved facilities for picture decoration and display, a new department, the purpose of which is to give better service to advertisers, has been added to the Emerald business staff...

The new layouts will be presented to merchants by the Emerald advertising solicitors.

"It is an extra service which will be welcomed by the merchants in Eugene, as it will tend not only to save them time, but also to make better advertisements, since the layouts will be prepared by persons who are especially capable at this type of work..."

William Jones, recently appointed assistant advertising manager has charge of the new department.

Extension School Boasts Largest 1934 Enrollment

Correspondence Students Active in Literary Circles

Extension work of the Oregon state system of higher education is becoming a recognized factor in the education of the state. The general extension division now has more students under its supervision than any institution controlled by the board of higher education.

There are 3051 enrolled students, 1760 of whom are in the Portland extension center. This marks a gain of 508 over last year's enrollment for the Portland unit. At Eugene, the correspondence study department has 1104 students enrolled; 187 are studying in Medford, Grants Pass, Eugene, Salem, and LaGrande.

Mrs. Cobie de Lespinasse, a correspondence student in Hubbard, and a mother and grandmother, is having a book published in December entitled: "The Belles of Helmus," a realistic novel of American-Dutch characters with Oregon and the Middle West as background. Mrs. Lespinasse has taken every available course in creative work which the extension division offers.

Another correspondence student, Mrs. Claire Warner Churchill, Wheeler, has been widely praised for the literary excellence of her volume, "Slave Wives of Nehalem," a story dealing with the natives of the Nehalem country.

MERRY CHRISTMAS WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)

Government statisticians concluded today, on the basis of official and private figures, that business would enjoy the best Christmas trade since 1930.

ing Gemmill hard for his forward post. Lewis injured. A sprained ankle suffered Saturday night put John Lewis, who was working with good chances of a first team berth, out of competition for at least two weeks.

Budd Jones, last year's regular guard, has just started practice with the squad this week. Other Union Oilers who will make things exciting for the Webfoots are Ralph Cairney, Washington's all-Coast guard of two seasons back, and Howard Grenier, who won all-Coast honors last winter at Idaho; Buck Grayson, King Bailey, and Jerry Thomas, all former Beaver stars at Corvallis, are veteran members of the quint who will also be out to show up the University five.

Tentative starting lineups will be found elsewhere on the sport page.

Kehrli Leaves To Attend City Official Meets

League Group to Submit Legislative Program

Pendleton, LaGrande, The Dalles to Make Up Itinerary

Herman Kehrli, director of the bureau of municipal research and service of the University and executive secretary of the League of Oregon Cities, left yesterday morning with Arthur Cannon, research assistant, to attend regional meetings for city officials which are being resumed by the League of Oregon Cities.

The next meeting, the fifth of the series, will be held in Pendleton Thursday. All officials of Oregon cities as well as citizens interested in municipal affairs will be welcome. The sixth meeting will be held at LaGrande, December 7, and the seventh at The Dalles, December 11.

A tentative program will be submitted by the legislative committee of the league at the next three meetings which will provide for amendments to the revenue feature of the Knox law; correction of present abuses of the initiative, referendum, and recall; parity between state and local units in apportionment of tax collections; a commission to study problems of municipal administration and finance; and collection and foreclosure of city liens by the county sheriff.

Representatives of the state emergency relief administration, the Northwest regional planning commission, and the Oregon state liquor control commission have been invited to be present.

Kehrli will be gone for about two weeks. He will drive from the regional meeting at The Dalles to Seattle where he will attend the conference of the Northwest regional planning commission which will be held there December 12, 13 and 14.

likely Ron Gemmill out of a forward post, John Lewis took a bad downward slip Saturday when he sprained his ankle. Keep your eye on the boy though—he'll be back in a couple of weeks and will see plenty of first team action this season.

Too bad he had to be laid up though because, along with all the rest of the men, he needed the practice sessions and games before conference play starts to iron out the rough edges so as to fit in with the smooth working team Reinhart is striving for.

Gene Shields, veteran Duck line coach and keen-eyed scouter, has had a little better luck this year and has watched his team in three games instead of his usual one or two. He added the third one to his list Thanksgiving day when he saw the boys take a defeat from the St. Mary's Gaels. Other games he saw were the U.S.C. and Montana ones.

It's too bad we lost that one, Gene says, we really had the better team and outplayed them. A couple of costly decisions and their heavy backs pounding so hard is what did the damage. They kept getting stronger as the game went on while we weakened. But the boys really played good ball and deserved to win.

DEATH PENALTY INVOKED LENINGRAD, U. S. R. R., Dec. 3.—(AP)—

The death penalty for Russian terrorists was invoked anew today by the central executive committee of the Communist party as an aftermath of the assassination of Sergei Kiroff, secretary of the party's central committee.

Relief Statistics Disclose 18,500,050 Are Receiving Aid

One-Sixth of Population Is Dependent on State Federal Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Nearly one-sixth of the population of the United States is on relief rolls.

Federal figures show that families are exhausting savings and turning to relief agencies faster than industry and public works cut into the ranks of the unemployed.

The gravity of the situation was driven home to the administration by the latest official figures—those for September. In that month 18,500,050 were on relief and $143,000,000 of public funds was spent to support them. In September, 1923 the relief population numbered 12,338,000 and relief expenditures were $59,000,000.

Cold weather and dwindling funds have brought added problems in recent months.

The government has spent $1,000,000 in civil works this year, but relief officials frankly are dissatisfied over the amount of relief provided by these funds. More than half of the destitute unemployed still are dependent on outright doles. Two million bread winners have work relief jobs, but their earning averaged only $9.87 each in a recent typical week.

The average family on relief receives about $2 a month. Payments vary widely in different sections, depending on living costs and the contributions made by state and local governments.

President Boyer Back on Campus

President C. V. Boyer returned Sunday from a Washington, D. C., meeting of the National Association of State Universities, November 21-23. He was on a committee with Presidents L. P. Sieg of Washington university, A. C. Willard of the University of Illinois, and E. A. Gilmore of the University of Iowa to present for discussion the administrative problems facing new college heads.

The National Association of State Universities, which meets every year and alternately at Chicago and the capital, discusses problems facing the colleges and universities of the nation. Some of the subjects of this year's gathering were "Is There Organized Opposition to Public Education?", "Public Education and the State Tax Program," and "Social and Community Projects in F.E.R.A. Student Employment."

Dr. Boyer said yesterday that every state but California was represented at the meeting. The heads of land-grant colleges usually convene at the same time—this year they met on November 19 and 20.

LAMSON ASKS DISMISSAL SAN JOSE, Calif., Dec. 3.—(AP)

Prosecution and defense attorneys clashed today over disposal of wife murder charges against David A. Lamson, with superior judge R. R. Syer finally taking under advisement the defendant's pleas for their dismissal and his release on bail.

Judge Syer continued the case until Friday but said he would make no decision within 10 days.

New Geology Course Offered Winter Term

Introduction to field geology, a course for students desiring to obtain greater familiarity with common rocks and minerals will be given winter term, according to Warren D. Smith, head of the departments of geology and geography.

While the work in the course is primarily designed for second year students in geology, a limited number of students from other departments and schools can be accommodated. A knowledge of elementary chemistry and geology is desirable, but students without this prerequisite may register for the work after consultation with the department, said Dr. Smith.

The main objective of the course will be to provide the general student with some familiarity with the common rocks and minerals and simple methods of identifying them in the field and laboratory.

Vacation Cruise And Tour of Italy Offered as Prize

University Travel Bureau Is Sponsor of Student Essay Contest

The Bureau of University Travel, an educational, non-commercial foundation fostering travel education, is offering a vacation cruise and tour of Italy as a prize to the undergraduate student writing the best paper on "Educational Values in Travel," according to a letter received recently by Dean J. H. Gilbert, of the college of social science.

Any undergraduate, man or woman, is eligible to compete in the contest. Approval of a college adviser must be obtained and application must be presented to the sponsors of the contest on or before March 15, 1935. Terms and conditions governing the contest are, in part, that the study shall be based upon personal experiences

Sight Important

About 87 per cent of our learning comes through the sense of sight, the other 13 per cent being through hearing, touch, smell and taste, so it is no exaggeration to say we must consider the use of the eye to be the main interest in civilization today for the advancement of learning or bettering the condition of living.

Let us consider ways of using light more efficiently and with less eye strain, for it has been reported that 40 per cent of persons 30 years of age have defective eyes.

Test Is Made

An amber colored lamp was recently tested and found to give just half as much light as an inside frost lamp. So use these colored lamps for the purpose intended, strictly for decoration. Don't use them to see by. The blue (daylight) lamp is used where a whiter light is wanted. It gives only three fifths as much light as the inside frost lamp.
