Eberhart Ought to Be Proud; No Umpires Now—It's Mr. Referee

Coach Jean Eberhart over at University high ought to be feeling very proud right at the moment with two of his former proteges occupying the hoop limelight on the campus. Bill Harcombe, new Varsity shining light, is one of the lads and Jack Stafford, high point man and star for the Ducklin hoopers in their opening games, is the other.

Conference hoop officials are no longer referees and umpires says Phil Brandt, Barometer sports editor. Correct etiquette now designates the men as Mr. Referee this year—both of them. There is no longer any differentiation between umpire and referee.

Officials decide before a series who is to be in charge of the first game and then switch honors the second night. This, however, holds true only with the more experienced officials. When the newer referees—Harry Leeding of Portland, or J. Buckley of Spokane—are working the games the older men continue to handle the more umpire and referee.

Jimmy Mitchell, Seattle, Emil Piluso, Portland, and Ralph Coleman, Oregon State, are the three oldest officials in experience in the northern division.

The announcement that Bill Berg will be on the bench for the O.S.C. clash is somewhat of a blow to the Webfoots' chances. Given any time on his shot Berg is about the best dead-eye on the squad, although contrary to last year's steady play he has been turning in rather hit and miss offerings in this season's tilts.

Shooting like an eastern pro, Rodgers, Cougar forward, was the dead-eye of their squad in the series here. His shots were the deep underhanded sort of flip starting as low as the knee. The shot is an easy one to stop if the checker is close enough to put up his hand but the shooter is usually so deep he has the guard believing he won't attempt a shot.

The notable deficiency of the Oregon team in games so far this season is their inability to grab the ball after any tipoff play, jump ball, or off the backboard. Johnson seemed to be their biggest trouble in the Cougar games. He got away with over half of the center jump balls and figured in almost every other play.

Six-footers will be the order of the day when the Webfoots take the floor against the Beavers tomorrow at Corvallis. With Bill Harcombe and Willie Jones both hovering above the 6 foot 4 mark, Budd Jones at 6 foot 2, and John Lewis and Ren Gemmell both about one inch lower followed by Sam Liebowitz and Glen Sanford at an even 6 foot (from whom the starting lineup will most likely be chosen) the Ducks boast the rangiest five they have had for some time.

When Bob Miller's broken hand gets in shape so he can play there will be another 6 foot 3 of material added to the squad, while Captain Bill Berg, now out with a foot infection, is another even 6 footer.

Along with all his good playing the other night against the Cougars Liebowitz also turned in some rather bum pass-tossing. In the first half of the Monday night game he had nine wild tosses that ended up in Washington State men's arms. Of course it might be argued that his teammates weren't alert enough to get them but nevertheless it is of great value to his team Liebowitz will have to make his passes so they go to his own players.

Ned Simpson, Oregon Varsity football end, has another year of play left with the Ducks instead of this being his final year as yesterday's Emerald stated. Also this is Simpson's first letter award.

Duckling Five Loses Second Game to Irish

J. Watts Leads Winners In 40-28 Victory; Stafford Hot

Frosh Look Better Than in First Clash

The University of Oregon freshman basketball team dropped the second of a two game series with the Eugene Irish Cash Store five here last night at McArthur court by a 40 to 28 score.

The Irish led by Jim Watts and Maxie Rubenstein, ex-Webfoot maple cavers led from the outset. The half time score was 21 to 14 in favor of the independents.

The Ducklings looked better than in the Wednesday evening fracas, making setups count, when they didn't the previous evening. However, they did miss many long shots by an eyelash, and consequently pulled their score down.

Stafford Stars

Stafford played his usual brand of good ball for the Frosh, capturing high point honors for his team with a total of seven points. Watts stole the show last night ringing up a total of 11 markers to run off with high point honors of the game. He was closely followed by Condon, who amassed 10 digits.

Lee Canessa and Stafford sparked the Frosh onward with a good offensive and defensive game. Canessa still showed some football in his basketball playing, but with a few more weeks' practice, will probably iron this out.

As in the Wednesday go, the Frosh jumped to an early lead with a fast passing attack that enabled Danner, lanky center to move out in front of the basket and drop a pretty setup in.

Rubenstein Scores

Rubenstein then came back and dumped in a long shot that tied the score at two-all and from then on the Irish led throughout the remainder of the contest, finally walking away in the final half.

It wasn't until late in the third quarter that the game was put on ice, when Rubenstein again called on his pet play of getting the ball in front of the basket, to pivot and back hand the ball in. He did this twice in a row, and then swinging to the left to escape the defense, he shot. The ball was deflected from a Duckling's hand and neatly swished through the hoop to make the score 35 to 26.

Last minute shots by Dick and Silver put the losers to within three points of the Shamrocks, but then Watts and Condon came to the rescue and putting in a long arcing shot and one free throw finally pulled away and made the final count 38 to 28 in their power.

Cooperatives Is Discussion Topic

A series of discussions on "cooperatives" will be started Sunday evening by the Wesley foundation of Eugene. The first discussion will be led by Rev. Cecil Ristow of the First Methodist church.

Interest has been revived in co-operatives through studies made by Wallace Campbell, former Wesley club member and graduate assistant in sociology on the University campus, who is now studying cooperatives in the eastern states. The meetings are held at 6:30 every Sunday evening in the Methodist church, preceded by a social hour.

Chief Democrats Fight to Prevent Congress Revolt

Four Billion Dollar Lump For Federal Relief Fund Subject of Debate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—Steps to block a brewing revolt in congress against a lump sum appropriation of $4,000,000,000 for the administration's work relief program were taken today by President Roosevelt and Democratic chieftains.

A course was charted at a White House conference today to prevent efforts of members to allocate the huge fund to various projects and purposes.

It was agreed by the leaders that all but $300,000,000, to be set aside for regular public works, would be turned over to the chief executive for distribution on projects designed to give work to 3,500,000 now on federal relief rolls. A specific bill to this effect was carried away from the White House. Those called to the executive offices were Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrns, Democratic senate leader Robinson and chairman Buchanan of the house appropriations committee.

Buchanan, whose committee will initiate the legislation, said after the conference, that the agreement was reached to go ahead with the $4,000,000,000 lump sum proposition.

In flinging a challenge to those who want the relief fund allocated Buchanan said:

"It is utterly impracticable and impossible to earmark the $4,000,000,000 fund."

At the same time, the president informed the leaders he was anxious for quick action on the $880,000,000 emergency relief appropriation. Buchanan said this would be handled in a separate bill before existing law expires February 10. Speaker Byrns said he told the president there was a "general and reasonable and proper desire" in congress to know how the big fund was to be spent, and that efforts would be made in the house to earmark it.

Prospects Good For Rifle Squad

The University rifle team, selections for which are now being made by a process of elimination, will have nine of last year's men on the team again this year. Four of these were on the first string; they are Earl Thomson, Kenneth Belieu, E. J. Cross, and Bill Rice. The other five, who were substitutes last year, are Leith Oglesby, Del Bjork, Charles Ayers, and Bob Parker.

The other 21 members of the team will be picked from the 24 remaining tryouts, who are still firing on the range. These 21 will be the best shots of the original 60 who started in the tryouts last term.

Last year's five-man team came within three points of taking the district championship. Although it is yet a little early to accurately judge the coming team, there are indications that it will be as good as that of last year. Earl Thomson, whose score in the individual national championship matches last year was but one below the champion's, is held a possible national winner this year.

Twenty-six matches with other colleges and universities have already been accepted and scheduled. The intercollegiate matches will start the week ending February 9 and will end the week of March 2.

Players to Tour Southern Oregon

Traveling in a special caravan of cars the University players will leave at 1:30 this afternoon for Roseburg where they are scheduled to present "The Amazons" by Sir Arthur Pinero at the Roseburg high school.

After being dinner guests of the high school the cast will have a short practice rehearsal before their performance in order to become acquainted with the stage surroundings. Following the performance the players will be billeted at different homes in Roseburg for the night. Saturday the cast will proceed to Medford arriving at Ashland in the early afternoon. Saturday night the play will be

Pi Kap, Phi Sig Mitmen Take Donut Games

Win From Delta Upsilon, Delta Tau Delta in Close Tilts

ATO-Yeomen, Fiji-Phi Psi Teams Meet Today

Opposition in the donut handball play tightened down yesterday as the Phi Sig and the Pi Kaps met and conquered the Deltas and the D.U.'s in close contests.

In the first rank singles William J. Bruce, the swatting librarian, came back after losing the first game to Jack Woodard, Phi Sig top man, 14 to 21, to win the match for the Deltas with two game wins, 21-9 and 21-18.

Rick Hilles, also of the Delta Tau Deltas, was upset by Bill Moore in the second rank of singles, 21-19, 21-19, after taking the opening game, 21-18.

Corman, Montag Win

Phi Sigma Kappa won the contest by taking the third match doubles event, 22 to 20 and 21 to 10. Dave Montag and Bill Corman teaming up against Miles McKay and Floyd Lees of the losers.

Although defeated in the doubles event by Bill McInturff and Bob Newlands, who spilled Ralph Clark and Ed Raudsep, the Pi Kaps were able to eke out a victory over Delta Upsilon with two singles triumphs.

Dorris, Janak Winners

Floyd Dorris and Marvin Janak, their first and second singles court men, walked away with Will Rice and Bill Jones by the respective scores 21-3, 21-7, and 21-16, 21-15, while the doubles team fell under a 21-18; 13-21, 14-21 count.

In the first contest today at 4 p. m. the Fijis will match swats with the Phi Psis, and at 5 o'clock the A.T.O.'s will endeavor to bounce the independent Yeomen from their handball throne room into which they moved one year ago.

Social Work School Offers Fellowships

The New York School of Social Work, New York City, is offering yearly fellowships to American and foreign students. The fellowships cover a period of 27 months, and are open to college graduates under 35 years of age, both men and women.

The appointment of students for these fellowships is made on a selective basis. The student must be a college graduate, have a certain number of hours of social sciences, average intellectual ability, good health, a good social adjustment, and an interest and liking for people. In general the student must have potential ability for the profession of social work.

For further information, students interested in these fellowships should see Dean Onthank in the personnel office.

Rose Festival Tilt Will Have Seven Former UO Stars

Morse, Eagle, Clark Join Team to Oppose Giants

Seven former Webfoot gridiron heroes will be among the performers in the Rose Festival football game in Portland February 3 when the New York Giants, professional league champions, meet a team of picked all-stars.

The list of former Duck stars was included today with the announcement of acceptance Butch Morse, Al Eagle, and Dutch Clark of an invitation to play with the all-star team.

Teammates of these three men will include last year's stars, Bernie Hughes, Mike Mikulak, and Bree Cuppoletti. These three men have just finished a successful season with the Chicago Cardinals under the direction of former Oregon State Coach P. J. Schissler.

The former wearer of the Lem-on-Yellow will be Bill Morgan who is a member of the Giant eleven.

Morse and Eagle completed their playing career at Oregon this fall while Clark finished a year ago and has since been serving as Frosh grid coach.

O.S.C. Ready for Clash With Ducks

CORVALLIS, Ore., Jan. 10.—(AP)—With the leadership of the northern division of the coast conference basketball race at stake, Oregon State college and University of Oregon meet here Saturday night.

Both are undefeated this season in conference play, each winning two games from Washington State. While the Webfoots showed an edge in scoring, comparative scores showed Oregon State excelling at defense.

In two games against Washington State the Webfoots scored 67 points, as compared to 63 by the Orangemen. Oregon State held the Cougars to 47 points in two games while Oregon allowed them 55.

Emphasis has been on offensive as Coach Armory T. "Slat" Gill drilled his men this week for the coming early season climax Saturday night.

Berg Unable to Play Against Orangemen

Infected Toe to Keep Captain on Bench In Saturday Clash; New Combination Slated

Against the victory-hungry Beavers at Corvallis Saturday night the Webfoot basketekers will start minus their captain, Bill Berg.

Berg, who has weathered the stormy battles against the Orange hoopers for two years, will be confined to the bench due to an infected toe. Reinhardt is determined to keep the stocky captain out of action this week, if possible, since any further infection might prevent his playing for the rest of the season. With this rest Berg will probably be able to make the road trip starting January 17.

Sanford to Play

However, Reinhardt has experimented with several new combinations to use against the Oregon State quintet. Two possible combinations have been designated as the possible five for the starting line-up. In either case Glen Sanford, one striker and member of the famed Salem high state championship team of three years ago, will replace Captain Berg at forward.

The first combination places Bill Harcombe, white-haired hero of the W.S.C. series, at center, Willie Jones and Glen Sanford at the forward berths, Budd Jones and Sam Liebowitz at guard. The second working combination which Bill Reinhardt contemplates on sending onto the Corvallis maple court is composed of Willie Jones at center, Glen Sanford and Ron Gemmell at forward, Budd Jones and John Lewis at guard. In any event, the "Jones boys," Willie and Budd, plus Glen Sanford seem to have the best chance of getting first crack at their traditional rivals.

Clash Is Odd

The clash between Beaver and Duck tomorrow night is odd in that the two leaders of the Northwest conference, both undefeated and each with two victories over the unlucky Cougars, will meet to decide the leadership of the conference so early in the season.

Even the loser of Saturday night's skirmish cannot sink lower than a tie for second place in the conference, since both Idaho and Washington have one loss

Soph Hoop Manager Positions Still Open For Interested Men

Positions are still open for sophomores basketball managers according to Fred Whittlesey, senior manager.

Men who are selected as sophomore managers are eligible for the junior managerial posts which entitle them to numerous free trips with the Frosh basketball team and after a year of this service they are eligible for the senior manager's position now held by Whittlesey.

Anyone wishing to try out for the places may contact Whittlesey or Don Kelly, junior manager, any afternoon at the Igloo after 3:30.
