Reinhart's New Jump Plan Will Get Trial; Mike, Bree Are Back

To center-jump or not to center-jump seems to be the question in coast basketball games this winter.

The southern division of the conference tossed back a negative reply and are now using their system whereby the center-jump gets quite a shove towards being eliminated by use of out-of-bounds plays in its stead at certain stages of the game.

Taking a step in the same direction, Gene Shields plans to use one of Bill Reinhart's ideas on the center-jump propositions in a test game between his Duckling hoopers and any agreeable opponent sometime later this season.

Reinhart's suggestion, proposed some time ago, is to make the jump a rotating affair between every man on the two opposing sides.

Thus No. 1 man would always oppose No. 1 man, No. 2-No. 2, etc. The advantages of the proposal could be listed as follows:

1. Would cut down the advantage one very tall man now gives a team.
2. Lead to developing the jumping power of all the players and tend to make for better all-around men.
3. Retains the thrill and excitement of the tip offs and the play around the center circle.
4. Give a good 6 foot jumper the advantage he deserves over a poor 6 foot jumper.
5. Would, everything considered, put all teams on a more even basis.

Under the setup there would of course be plenty of shuffling around and substituting by coaches to get their proteges lined up right, but with only one reentry per half allowed for each player too much of it couldn't go on. Of course there would be some misfitting of men.

So with apparently not very many real drawbacks to the proposal, we'll anxiously await its testing and see how officials and rulemakers accept it.

Today's laurel wreath — to Sphinx Wishard, colorful end on the 1933 grid eleven. The former Watertown, S. D. silent boy is now coaching in Prairie City, Oregon. He's well liked there according to reports from residents and just recently his physical education system in the school was complimented by an inspector as the best in the state for that class of school.

The second game of the Idaho series will be broadcast over radio station KGA, Spokane, Saturday night. The first game ever to go on the air from Moscow was flashed out last Saturday when the Vandals met the Cougars.

It'll be tennis between the halves of basketball games at the igloo if at all possible, Coach Paul Washke states. Most of the players still think it will be fine despite the one protest received. However the boys will need a little time practicing to get used to the hard floor, so it's not absolutely sure yet just when the proposed plan will get under way.

Webfoot Basketeers To Leave On Northern Invasion

Frosh To Play Klamath High Friday Night

Tilt With Prep Quintet To Open 16-Game Yearling Slate

Pelican Clash Will Be First Away From Home

While their "bigger brothers" from the varsity basketball squad are being entertained at Moscow, Idaho, the Webfoot Ducklings will engage in hoop warfare on foreign court for the first time this season, when they play the Klamath Falls high school Pelicans at Klamath Falls Friday night in the first game on a 16-contest schedule arranged by Gene Shields, freshman mentor.

The clash with the preppers will take the place of a cancelled two-game series with the Medford and Ashland high school fives, tentatively scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights.

Ducklings Will Leave Today
The baby Webfoots will leave for the southern city Friday afternoon at 12:30 and will return home late Saturday night.

Unable to choose a first string from the large group of players competing for places on the squad, Shields has been unable yet to pick the basketeers who will make the trip. He expects to cut his squad this afternoon, however, when he will select his traveling team of 15 players after a stiff workout at McArthur court.

Several Share Spotlight
Thus far five hoopers have been in the limelight for the Frosh and appear to have the best chances for first-team posts—Dave Silver, center, from Lincoln high in Portland; Bob Austin, Klamath Falls, forward; Jack Stafford of University high in Eugene, forward; and Vernon Moore, Long Beach, Cal. and Bill Dick, The Dalles, guards. Leading candidates for other berths on the squad are Jack Crawford, Bard Purcell, Dale Lasselle, Bob Beard, Ford Danner, and Al Regsdale.

The complete yearling schedule for 1935 follows:
January 22—Salem high at Eugene.
January 25—Lower Columbia Junior College at Longview.
January 26—Astoria at Astoria, Ia.
February 1—Eugene high at Eugene.
February 2—Longview high at Eugene.
February 8—Oregon State college rooks at Corvallis.
February 9—Lower Columbia Junior college at Eugene.
February 12—Salem high at Salem.
February 15—Oregon State college rooks at Eugene.
February 22—Oregon State college rooks at Corvallis.
February 23—Oregon State college rooks at Eugene.

Betas Top All-Year Intramural Parade

Handball Victory Over SAE Gives Frat Team Lead

Sigma Alpha Mu Swatters Beat Pi Kappa Alpha In Close Tilts

The Beta Theta Pi handballers moved ahead of the Yeomen in the all-year scramble for intramural points as the result of their handball victory over the SAE team yesterday at the men's gym. The total score of the two leaders now stands at 401 for Beta Theta Pi and 392 for the Independents.

The Betas were never extended in their games with the SAE swatters. Hugh McCredie, number one man, took Marsh Harrison into camp by scores of 21-11, 21-10. In the other singles match Bob Parke downed Dick Proebst 21-9, 21-3, dominating the play throughout. The Beta doubles team of George Corey and Keith Powers followed the good example set by their singles men and trounced Robert Voegtly and Hanson by decisive scores of 21-4 and 21-2.

In the other match Sigma Alpha Mu nosed out the Pi Kaps by a 2-1 count. Floyd Dorris of the Pi Kaps started his team off in the right direction by winning two of three games from Louis Rotenberg. The scores were 21-15, 17-21, and 21-12. Victor Rosenfeld then defeated Marvin Janek in successive contests, 21-12, 21-13, and the doubles team of Lester Goldschmidt and Morris Saffron edged out Ed Raudsep and Bob Zurcher 23-21 and 21-9 to sew up the match for the Sammies.

Coaches Asked To Officiate Pro Football Contest

PORTLAND, Jan. 16—(AP)—

Football coaches from coast conference schools may don knee breeches and act as officials for a professional football game here February 3 between the New York Giants and Pacific coast all-stars.

Invitations to officiate were sent to four coaches when it was learned here that Herb Dana, commissioner of coast conference officials, decreed that coast conference officials who work professional games will be blacklisted.

The committee in charge received an answer from Orin Hollingbery, Washington State college grid mentor who is in San Francisco, that he would "wire answer upon approval from college."

Prink Callison, Oregon coach wired:

"Will be glad to assist with civic football game subject to University authorities approval."

Aaron Frank, chairman of the festival finance committee, late today received a telegram from Tom Stoddard of the University of Oregon graduate manager's office stating:

"Associated students give unqualified endorsement of this move."

Lon Stiner, Oregon State football coach, telephoned he would be glad to help out in any way, but preferred not to referee.

Each Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington was the fourth coach asked to work in the game.

Bernie Hughes, former Oregon center, is assembling the all-stars.

2 Women Debate Question on KOAC

Two members of the women's University debating team will discuss the question, "What form of public regulation of the movies should be adopted?" in the third of the series included in a student forum sponsored by the speech division. The forum is broadcast over KOAC at 8:40 every Thursday evening.

Avery Combs, manager of the first half of the series to be broadcast this term, will interview Frances Mays and Mary Nelson in the discussion which will examine the effect of moving pictures on the public—children and adults—and which will consider the effectiveness of various means of control, and forms of censorship.

"Taxation Reform" was presented by Verne Adams and Charles Paddock last Thursday evening.

to the payment of bonds issued for building purposes was definitely conferred on the board.

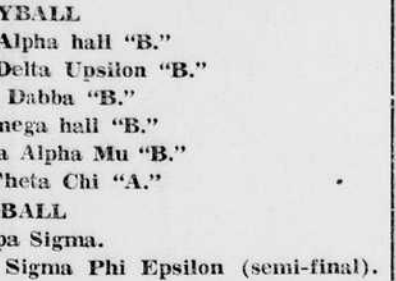

In the meantime, Oregon's quota had been exhausted under P.W.A. allotments and the library project, although it was given a high rating in Washington, had to await the availability of other funds.

Legal questions were again raised regarding the ability of a state institutions to incur debt in excess of $50,000 which was the constitutional limit on state indebtedness. This question had been definitely settled in the McClain case involving the issue of bonds for the John Straub Memorial hall, but the Washington authorities had apparently overlooked the application of this case to the present projects.

Morse Arranges Hearing

When Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school, visited Washington early in December, 1934, he found both infirm and library projects under legal ban and arranged for a hearing after which the authorities placed the library again on the eligible list.

Entry Lists for Donut Wrestling Tournament Close This Afternoon

Today is the last day for intramural house managers to hand in lists of wrestlers to Earl E. Boushey, supervisor of donut activities.

The hug and tug gents will begin their tournament in about a month, but must hold three workouts a week from now on in order to participate, it was announced by Boushey yesterday. Practice sessions are being held daily from 4 to 5:30 p. m. in the gym under the direction of Tom Mountain and Con Fury.

Any other individuals or groups in the University aside from intramural contestants are welcome to receive instruction.

In order to gain the entrance points each organization must enter three men who have completed their weekly training. Competition will be held in the following weights: 125, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175, 185 lb. A variation of three pounds from the official weight in each division will be allowed.

Vandal Aggregation Is Surprise Quintet Of Loop; Teams Are Deadlocked For Second Place

Yeomen Sextet Scores Decisive Triumph; Fijis Surprise

S.A.E., Sigma Chi, Pi Kap, Phi Psi Sixes Win

The banner of the Yeomen flashed across the donut scene again today when the Independents' "B" volleyball sextet mowed down the Chi Psi aggregation in quick order, 15-9, 15-5, in an impressive melee.

The shorts of John Crockett and Irvin Elder at the forward wall were decisive in batting home "Y" tallies, while Charley Paddock took care of the set-ups in skillful style.

Pete Brooks and Bill Schloth were outstanding for the losers.

Fijis Surprise
Exhibiting flashes of unusual speed and accuracy, Phi Gamma Delta developed into the dark horse of the "B" tournament with a 15-0, 14-16, 15-5 edge over the Sigma Nu hunksters.

Gay Hempstead and Ken Skinner guided the Fijis to the one-sided overthrow of the Eleventh streeters in the initial game, but the Sigma Nus switched the board for a 16-14 win in the second tilt. Phi Gamma Delta captured the only three-game series of the day with a triumph in the third tilt.

S.A.E. Downed
The Sweethearts of Sigma Chi trampled along in the footsteps of their "A" brothers with an easy victory over the S.A.E. spikers.

B. Beckenridge led the Sigma Chis in 15-9 and 15-5 conquests, while Doug Ward was the spearhead of the S.A.E. defense.

With just four men on their roster the Pi Kaps humbled Delta Tau Delta with 17-15, 15-4 setbacks. Little Eugene Stauss and Bob Keefe led the drive with consistent long volleys, while Jay Scruggs contained the rubber ball propensities for the Deltas.

Mulhall, Mathews Pace Phi Psi
Jack Mulhall and B. Mathews carried the brunt of the Phi Psi attack which downed the Theta Chis, 15-18 and 16-14. Fred Lockab, Bill Parsons, and Bill Pease played on an even basis of consistency for the losing sextet.

As the sixth "B" aggregation to shift into the win column, Sigma Phi Epsilon was awarded a forfeit victory over the Gamma hallers who failed to appear on the court at playing time.

Bill Reinhart announced late last night that the basketball team will leave for Idaho at 5:00 tonight from the Southern Pacific depot. The following ten men will comprise the traveling squad: Captain Bill Berg, Budd Jones, Willie Jones, Bill Harcombe, Roland Rourke, Glen Sanford, Sam Liebowitz, Arno Faust, John Lewis, and Ron Gemmell.

Bill Reinhart's rejuvenated hoopers will leave Eugene this afternoon for an extended barnstorming trip into the northwest hinterland. Friday night the Ducks meet Idaho at Moscow in the first battle of a two-game series.

Rated as comparatively harmless at the beginning of the season, the Idaho Vandals shocked the basketball world into recognition when a 37-35 victory from the title-defending Huskies in their first game of the season. In the following contest the champs evened the series by counting a 30-24 win.

The following week the Idahoans again leaped into the spotlight by upsetting the Washington State Cougars 37 to 28. Their record of two wins and one loss gives the Vandals a tie for second place in the conference standings.

Rich Fox, Idaho coach, has a desire for a taste of Duck meat and he plans to send his smooth-working "midget" combination against the Webfoots in hopes of capturing the Duck flock. This team, considered the best combination Fox can collect, is made up of Harold Klumb, pivot man; Wally Geraghty, second in scoring only to Houston of Washington State, forward; Vic Warner, and Merle Fisher and Norm Iverson, guards.

After the two-game series at the Moscow school, the Lemon-Green hoopers will move on to Pullman to complete their basketball relations with Washington State for 1935 with a two-game series.
