Oregon Lacks Speed On Maple Court; OSC May Not Send Natators

For today's sports chatter we turn the column over to guest writer Ned Simpson, end on the 1934 Webfoot grid team—take it away, Ned . . .

With the basketball team basking on the one-horse town (maybe it's two, come to think of it) of Pullman, Wash., in quest of two more wins over the W.S.C. cagers, it leaves the writer in a quandary over the question of how to start off his career as a columnist and guider of the destinies of the sports page. All the times—as a freshman—when we wished that we could be sports editor for just fifteen minutes or so crowd back to mind like pale ghosts—and boy! how they can haunt!—and now we wish that there had been a little more preparation in the art of "How to write a column." Well, here goes!

Basketball has been taking up all the headline space these days, and it is only fitting that mention be made of the situation now confronting our own Webfoot varsity. Maybe you've already noticed that speed is the element that has contributed most materially to their two downfalls already this season. A week or so ago the Beavers outsped and outfired the stocking-less Ducks from start to finish, and again on Saturday night when Idaho was dumping them 39 to 21, it was little Wally Geraghty's lightning dashes under the basket that split the beans.

It looks like Oregon will have to devise some sort of special defense to take care of the advantage in experience and ball handling lost through lack of speed on the part of most of the team. Two Duck hoopers, Gemmell and Sanford, do have the acceleration necessary to cope with OSC's Palmberg, Hibbard, and Bergstrom; Washington's Galer and Wagner; WSC's Johnson; and Idaho's Geraghty. Sanford looked like a million that unfortunate evening in Corvallis not so long ago—so good that many were heard to remark that he was the best man on the floor. However, one man's efforts etc.—Gemmell is the speediest man on the squad, but is inconsistent in his shots. These two are the only ones who have more than the average zip on the getaway.

Washington's Huskies, fresh from the slaughter of a couple of Beavers, comes to Eugene Friday and Saturday nights on a Duck hunting expedition, bringing with them Bob Galer, sensational sharpshooter who uses either a rifle or shot-gun to good advantage. Oregon will be primed for victory over the Seattle quintet, however, for last year the Huskies took four straight from the Lemon and Green, and it wouldn't be at all surprising if the contests take on some of that do-or-die atmosphere so common to Husky-Webfoot rivalry on the gridiron.

S.P.E. Handballers Lose As Victors Reach Final Round

Kappa Sig Takes Colors Into Beta Mix

Encouraged by the verbal support of their house brothers, the Phi Delt handballers swept through their donut opponents, the S.P.E.'s, yesterday to reach the finals in the intramural tournament.

As a result of the conquest, the embattled Phi Delta Theta men whittled at least 10 points off the 327-303 point margin that separated them from the Sigma Phi Epsilon interhouse athletes, who stand on the third rung in the all-year ladder.

Hollenbeck Downs Sprague
Jack Mulder turned in the first win for the Phi Delt's by smothering Art Clark in the second rank singles, 21-3, 21-17. Les Hollenbeck, fancy S.P.E. swatter, wiped Vernon Sprague from the boards in the first rank singles, 17-21, 21-13, 21-15, by the skillful use of corner shots and kills, evening the match.

However, Bob Van Nice and Bob Hunter captured the nerve-tinging doubles event from the S.P.E. teamsters, Bob Farley and Ken Lottridge, 21-15, 15-21, 21-15, for the Phi Delt victory.

Kotchik Eliminated
In the last of the quarter-finals the Kappa Sigs overcame the Pi Kaps two matches to one, although their luminous first rank singler, George Kotchik, was eliminated by steady, heady Floyd Dorris, 21-12 and 21-16. They will tackle the Betas today for the right to meet the Phi Delt's.

Howard Bobbitt, second rank Kappa Sig, subdued Ralph Clark, 21-8, 21-10, while the Kap Sig doubles duo of Harry Lucas and Grant Eade checked in Ed Raudsep and George Niemi after a 21-5, 21-5 count.

Up at the Igloo they're showing off some unique pictures taken the other day in the deep snow—remember?—of Col. Bill Hayward's tacksters. The shots were taken down on Hayward field and show some of the Colonel's pupils running a track meet in the drifts. The pictures are to be sent out over the country by one of the big news syndicates, according to Bruce Hamby, and will rate lots of publicity for Oregon's track team because of the unusual situation of summer sport in winter weather.

Co-op Sells New Outline Booklets For Student Use Series Show Essentials For Complete Text

A recent aid in study that was used by many during last year's summer school session is on sale now at the Co-op. The College Outline Series, a series of small booklets on numerous academic subjects, has been very popular among the students as an aid in studying their courses, reviewing, and for pre-exam concentration.

These booklets are the only group of outlines in existence that are a complete digest of requirements of all college courses. They are written by authors who have specialized in their respective subjects through training and teaching experience.

The varying size of type selected in order to show at a glance the relative importance of each thought, fixes important information definitely and quickly in the reader's mind. Although the text is abbreviated it is complete in all essential features of a regular textbook and contains maps, tabulated dates, review questions, diagrams, indexes, charts, bibliographies, and laboratory problems.

Professor Warren D. Smith uses the booklet on geology for a regular textbook supplemented by lectures in one of his classes.

Among those on sale at the Co-op are: "An Outline of Ancient, Medieval, and Modern History," by John Rickard (revised edition); "An Outline of Educational Psychology," by Rudolph Pintner and others; "An Outline of the History of Europe, 1500 to 1848," by Henry W. Littlefield (third edition); "An Outline of the History of Europe, 1815 to 1934," by Henry W. Littlefield (revised edition); "An Outline of the Principles of Geology," by Richard M. Field; "An Outline History of the Middle Ages," by George F. Mott and Harold M. Dee; "An Outline of First Year College Chemistry," by John R. Lewis (revised edition); "An Outline History of the United States to 1865," by John A. Krout; "An Outline History of the United States Since 1865," by John A. Krout (revised edition); "An Outline of Shakespeare's Play," by Homer A. Watt, Karl J. Holzkecht, and Raymond Ross; "An Outline of the History of Education," by Merritt M. Thompson.

We usually sleep until noon, practice from 12 till 2, and after that go to the theater, or have some fun in other ways. There are lots of things to see in Chicago!"

"The owner of the Cardinals," Mike casually remarked, "is a young millionaire sportsman, Charles Bidwell, who by the way could buy this University, and not give it another thought!"

Mike's next game is in Portland, February 3, after which he is going back to Chicago with the Cardinals.

Betas, Sigma Hall, DUs Win Net Contests

Three Grab Race Leads Following Victories Yesterday

Omega Hall, Chi Psis, Phi Delt's Also Victors

Beta Theta Pi, Delta Upsilon, and Sigma hall, with two wins and no losses, stand out as the teams to beat in the intramural volleyball league as the result of victories turned in in yesterday's games.

Most exciting of the six matches played was the Beta Theta Pi-Abba Dabba struggle, won by the Betas in successive games by scores of 15-6 and 19-17. With Hugh McCredie and Norm Hampton, giant Betas, doing most of the damage, the fraternity men had little difficulty in winning the first game by a decisive margin. In the second game, however, the Abba Dabbas suddenly came to life and twice came from behind to tie the score before finally losing the only extra point match of the day 19-17.

Sammies Lose
Led by Pelton and Wilson, Sigma hall kept their record clear of defeat by downing the Sammie 15-6 and 15-5. Rotenberg and Saffron played an outstanding game for the losers.

In another thriller Delta Upsilon took the measure of the Kappa Sigs after two close struggles, by scores of 16-14 and 15-12. The victory put the D.U.'s on top of the heap in their league and definitely established them as one of the favorites of the tournament.

Delts Defeated
Omega hall broke into the win column for the first time by defeating Delta Tau Delta 15-10 and 15-7. The Delt's were handicapped by having only five men on the floor, but despite this fact put up a good struggle in the first game.

In the other matches the Chi Psis beat the Phi Sigs, 15-7 and 15-6 and Phi Delta Theta "B" downed Sigma hall 14-16, 15-7, and 15-12.

Five Groups Sign For Competition

Five women's living organizations have signed up for interhouse competition in swimming, according to Martha McCall, swimming manager.

Delta Delta Delta, Susan Campbell, Orides, Chi Omega and Sigma Kappa will compete for the Sellar cup which is awarded to the winning team. Last year it was won by Susan Campbell hall.

Living organizations planning to enter a swimming team are asked to submit their name by Thursday. Three preliminary practices and a heat check from the dispensary are necessary before anyone may enter competition. Practice which will continue until next week is held every afternoon at 4 p. m. in the woman's swimming pool.

until the last five minutes of the game. At this point, Rogers, lanky W.S.C. howitzer expert, sank a long one to tie the score 21-21.

In the wild scramble that ensued Rogers gained possession of the ball and swished in another long arc. Holstine converted a foul throw in the last few minutes of play to secure the Cougar lead. Ralph Rogers, W.S.C., was high point man of the game with 12 counters. Willie Jones of Oregon was not far behind with 11.

Oregon's basketball progress this season has not been very encouraging. Starting at the crest of the conference standings, the Oregon team gently tobogganed down the slope to fourth rank. The ill-fated Cougars still rest at the very bottom of the ratings with five losses and one victory. Even though W.S.C. should drub Oregon again tonight, it would be almost impossible for the Cougars to supplant any other of the conference teams in ranking.

Duckling Five Plays Salem Vikings Here

Tilt With High Schoolers Scheduled for 7:30 On Igloo Floor

Silver, Austin, Stafford, Moore, Dick Start

The University of Oregon freshmen basketballers will get a chance to get a little basketball into their system after a week with no action, when they will play Salem high school Vikings in the first of a 16-game schedule, starting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the igloo.

The layoff suffered by the Yearlings was due to faulty train service that forced them to cancel their game with the Klamath Falls high school Pelicans last Saturday night.

However, head-man Shields has been working his men overtime with nightly scrimmages amongst themselves in order to keep his men on top for tonight's game.

Vikings Weak
The Vikings will not present a very strong quintet against the Frosh, due to a wide gap left in the team by graduation. Only two veterans form the nucleus of the Vikings' power, lying in Vern Salstrom, forward, and Bob Perrine, guard. Both of these men are lettermen and have played on the Capitol City team for the past three years.

Coach Ollie Huntington will offer a fast moving team that depends on speed and shortness alone. Trying to eliminate the long distance shooting, to the clever working of the team together, Huntington's men will give the Yearlings a good, fast evening.

The Ducklings will present to Oregon fans a different picture than was evident in the early stages of the season. For a group of men who have never played together before, the Frosh have developed into a smooth, fast-passing club under the careful guidance of Shields.

Five Frosh Shine
Thus far, five hoopsters have shone brightest in the limelight for the Frosh and appear to have the best chance for first team posts. These men are Dave Silver, center, from Lincoln high in Portland; Bob Austin, forward, Klamath Falls; Jack Stafford, forward, University high, Eugene; Vernon Moore, guard, Long Beach, Cal.; and Bill Dick, guard, The Dalles. Others that comprise the team are Al Regsdale, Bob Beard, Ford Dan-

Aspirants for Frosh Varsity Tennis Team Meet 4:30 Thursday

Varsity and freshmen tennis aspirants will meet Thursday afternoon at 4:30 in the classroom of the men's gym, according to Paul Washke, tennis coach.

All prospective racquet wielders are urged to attend, as the meeting is very important.

ner, Dale Lasselle, Jack Crawford, and Bard Purcell.

In their three game series with the Irish Cash store five in which they won one and lost two, the apparent improvement was obvious in each contest. Losing the first two games by 8 to 10 point margins, the Ducklings came back in the final contest and trimmed the Irish by a one point margin.

Shining out in both contests, Dave Silver and Jack Stafford sparked the first-year men through out. In these games both men split high point honors between themselves.

Shields will start his first string, composed of Silver, center; Stafford and Austin, forwards; and Dick and Moore at the guards, and then if they move far enough ahead he plans to substitute freely in the remainder of the game, giving one and all a chance to get a shot at the hoop.

Successful Merchants Know That It Pays to Advertise.

Most of the more successful merchants have built their volume of business which they now have by advertising. They realize the merits of good advertising and place advertisements in good mediums consistently through the years.

The Emerald has a complete coverage on the campus as it is read daily by the students, faculty and friends of the University.

This is an advertising medium which the successful merchant cannot afford to overlook in his attempt to increase his business.

By advertising in the Emerald, merchants are able to tell about their values and merchandise to a class of people who are in a position to make purchases from them.
