Olson Urges Resolution Against Doctrines of School 'Menace'

Bennett Declares Voting 'Insult to Teachers'

PORTLAND, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The city council today voted to dismiss any school teacher advocating either publicly or privately any "radical" doctrine not in accord with the United States constitution.

The vote was 3 to 2 and Commissioner J. E. Bennett assailed the measure as "an insult to the teachers."

Ernest Olson of the Portland business men's public speaking class urged enactment of the resolution, insisting that radical doctrines being urged in schools and elsewhere are a menace to the American government.

Commissioner R. C. Clyde demanded a definition for the word "radical," saying he had been called a radical in advocating public ownership, free textbooks, widows' pensions and other "progressive thought."

Olson replied that he had not expected to "have to argue with American citizens in defense of the constitution."

Brahms Slated For Symphony's Sunday Concert

Underwood Leads Group With ASUO as Sponsor

The University symphony orchestra, under direction of Rex Underwood, will play in concert this Sunday afternoon in McArthur court at 3 p. m. under the sponsorship of the ASUO.

Underwood is trying a special experiment for this program. He is presenting the fourth movement from Brahms' First Symphony. Brahms is usually considered by those but slightly acquainted with music as "high brow," yet Underwood has pointed out that many themes from his works are used by Hollywood as musical backgrounds for their pictures. One example in particular which he cited, is the horn solo woven in during several scenes in that lately current film, "Gabriel Over the Whitehouse."

This symphony is the first composition of Brahms ever to be played on the Oregon campus either by student groups or visiting orchestras, Underwood said. He further stated that he is so sure of its popular approval that he has reserved this composition for the final number on the program, which he considers to be the most important position. Student body members will be admitted free to the concert.

The second prize of $20 will be given by the law school. Each contestant speaks for approximately 15 minutes without the aid of manuscript, although brief notes may be relied upon.

Any regularly enrolled law school student is eligible to enter the contest, but he must sign up no later than 5 o'clock Tuesday, February 5 with either Orlando John Hollis, chairman of the faculty committee, or Claud H. Brown.

Gridmen to Crash 'Capers'? 'Oh, Yes?' Yawn Coed Cops

Every year some brave masculine student endeavors to "crash the gate" at the annual Coed Capers. In order to test the opinion of various men on the campus, interviews were obtained this year Joe Renner, A.S.U.O. president, had no opinion, but he did repeat a rumor he had heard. "Six football men," he said, "are planning on attending the Coed Capers this year. They say that too many sissies and pansies have tried to crash the gate in previous years, so they plan to go in even if coed guardians try to stop them."

Morrison Speaks Jimmy Morrison, former humor editor of the Emerald, expressed keen interest. "I think it would be quite an experience," he said. "I have even contemplated trying it myself some time, although I have heard the girls keep rather rigid vigilance at the door." The Emerald editor, Bill Phipps, presented something original. Said Bill: "My suggestion would be that if any men wanted to go in for that sort of thing they should have an all-men's maypole dance, featuring the Vassar daisy chain." Several freshmen men have been sitting around, holding their respective breaths, and anticipating being ordered by some of their

Northwest Sees Sun Eclipsed on Sunday Morning

Pruett Says Moon Hides Sun About 7:45

The third of seven sun eclipses which are predicted for this year will occur Sunday morning, February 3, shortly after sunrise. In a recent article, J. H. Pruet, astronomy instructor of the University extension division, states that the eclipse will be visible from all parts of North America. Along the Pacific coast the sun will rise eclipsed but the major part will occur after sunrise.

Seven is the greatest number of eclipses which can occur in one year, according to Pruet. Such a number in a single year usually occurs only once in a century, but during this century three such years, 1917, 1935, and 1982, will occur or have been recorded. The maximum eclipse for observers on the Pacific coast will occur about 7:45, or about sunrise where there is a distant or level horizon. About one hour later at 8:45 the sun will again be clear, as the moon passes on its way between it and the earth. At Sacramento 55 per cent of the sun's surface will be obscured at the maximum, 64 per cent in Portland, and 66 per cent will be invisible from Seattle. From these figures an estimation for other localities may be made.

In telling of ways to view the eclipse, Pruet says that the observer should not look at the sun through field glasses or a telescope which are not protected with a heavily darkened glass or a piece of camera film, as a permanent eye injury may result. A piece of smoked glass or camera film makes an ample protection through which the sun may be viewed. It will be possible to take pictures and to make a record of the various stages with cameras equipped for small stops and very short exposures. The best way to view the eclipse, Pruet says, is to focus the sun's image on a piece of white cardboard through a telescope so that many people can view it at once. The farther away the cardboard is placed the larger and less distinct the image will appear.

Washington U. Forbids 'Hell Week' Hazing

Fraternal Council Draws Fair Practice Code For Greek Row

Group Advises Use of New Rushing, Dating Rules

SEATTLE, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The University of Washington fraternity council today announced plans for a "code of fair practice" in "hazing" pledges next fall, after the recent arrests of two pledges for taking a plumbing fixture from a service station.

The code is designed to take the hell out of the annual "hell week" on "Greek row," so far as the public is concerned. Under it, "rushing" stunts may be private and innocuous as those government panhellenic sororities. The sisterhoods' most public and severest stunt is forcing a pledge to attend her classes without makeup.

Code Provides Rules The hell week code, at suggestions of Herbert Condon, Dean of men, will provide: No "rough stuff" or physical torture.

Activities to be confined to char-ter houses. Adoption of a five day "silent" period before fall rushing, so pledges can do some studying. Extending the time for final pledging to 6 p. m. Saturday before hell week. Compulsory use of uniform date cards by all chapters.

Hofman Collects Sixteen Encores From New York

Josef Hofmann, hailed as "the greatest pianist of our times," after his New York concert on January 19, is apparently content to remain that. Under the name of Dvorsky, he used to compose during the summer. Now, he says, during that time he just decomposes. Years ago, when he was studying composition, he learned to play the violin, as the stringed instruments are so important in orchestration.

He found, however, that he had to give this up because violinists develop callouses on the fingers of their left hand, which are awkward for pianists.

Brought by ASUO The famous artist comes to Eugene for a concert a week from Sunday under the sponsorship of ASUO. Tickets for non-student body members and townspeople will be placed on sale the latter part of the week. The concert will be in McArthur court, and student body members admitted free.

Reports of his Carnegie hall recital tell of a packed house, with standees four rows deep, demanding sixteen encores, it would seem that Hofmann is outdoing himself this season.

Hofmann is not an old man—he is now approaching what is usually termed the prime of life. He was already a recognized virtuoso at an age when most children are still in kindergarten.

Fire Drill Procedure Irritates Sleepy Girls

"Grrrrrrrr, will someone stop ringing that gong! Some people's idea of a joke, when I want to sleep. Some dumb freshmen, etc." So ran the remarks on seven girls' sleeping porches Tuesday night, when Mr. Nusbaum, Eugene fire chief, conducted his fire drills. The drills were conducted in record time with most of the houses taking from one to two minutes for all the girls to report from the sleeping porch to the downstairs where roll was taken.

Mr. Nusbaum reported that the fire equipment, the gongs, alarms and the hoses, were in good condition and also he stated that it is good to have monitors on each floor.

The following houses had the inspection: Alpha Delta Pi, Phi Mu, Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Pi Beta Phi, Susan Campbell hall and Hendricks hall. These inspections will be conducted at other houses if they request it as the above houses did.

All Campus Dance Set for Saturday After Duck Clash

High School Lettermen to Be Honor Guests

The only all campus dance this week end is the "Lettermen's Limp," sponsored by the Order of the "O," given in Gerlinger hall Saturday night immediately after the basketball clash with Oregon State.

Reports yesterday were to the effect that some of the best decorations ever used at an Order of the "O" dance are being imported from Portland. A real attempt is being made by the organization to make the decorations something to remember. The "athletic extravaganza" idea is being used as the theme for the affair. Unique programs have been promised by those in charge.

Athletes to Entertain University athletes are to take an active part in the feature entertainment of the evening. Special numbers are being rehearsed by the "Order of the 'O' Belles."

Arne Lindgren, general chairman of the dance, is being assisted by the following: Bob Miller, Sherwood Burr, Howard Patterson, Eddie Vail, Ned Simpson, Fred Nowland, Winton Hunt, and Cosgrove LaBarre.

The basketball teams of both Oregon State and Oregon will be guests of honor at the dance, which is to be informal in nature. Tickets for the dance are now on sale and members of the Order of the "O" are canvassing the campus. A special dating bureau is being conducted. Any girls who want dates with Order of the "O" men are asked to call Bob Parke, who is heading this bureau, at 1024.

Dean Gets Scout Volunteer Award

O. F. Stafford, dean of the chemistry department, received the silver beaver award, the highest honor which a Boy Scout council can bestow upon a volunteer scout worker, at the annual meeting of the Wallamet council Tuesday evening.

The award, which came as a complete surprise to Dean Stafford, was the first to be presented by the Wallamet council and the second in Oregon given to the volunteer worker judged to be the most outstanding in rendering service to boyhood.

In presenting the award Commissioner Lloyd A. Payne told of Professor Stafford's quarter of a century of influence on boyhood through his activities in boys work with the Rotary club, as a member of the Boy Scout executive board for six years, three years as vice president of the council, and president of the council in 1933. In addition to this he was chairman of the Lane county organization of the national youth movement.

Faculty Reports Room Conditions To Will V. Norris

Professors List Reasons For Recommendation

A report on the heating and ventilating conditions of all the University buildings on the campus was turned in yesterday to the school administration for their consideration by Will V. Norris, professor of physics.

A questionnaire was sent out last month by Professor Norris to all the faculty members and employees of the school, asking them to give him the reports on the heating and ventilating conditions in the classrooms. One hundred and thirty-seven replies were received.

The report consists of a digest of the questions asked with comments, a summary of the different points, and recommendations for improving conditions.

Automatic Control Asked

Thermostatically controlled temperature valves operating on an electric time schedule was the major recommendation made to the administration. Reasons given for the recommendation are that buildings would have a uniform temperature at any time, that heat would be turned on and off automatically which would remove the responsibility of such control from all the people now operating the various school units, it would allow the janitors to work on a regular eight hour schedule.

When the new library is finished, it is believed that no additional janitorial force will be necessary, and a saving of at least 10 per cent of the fuel cost should be saved.

Coach Awards Letters At Order of O Banquet

Varsity football awards will be made at a lettermen's banquet to be held Saturday evening at 5:30 at the Eugene hotel, under the sponsorship of the Order of the "O." The letters will be presented to the men earning their award in last fall's grid contets by Prince (Prink) Callison, football coach.

Tom Stoddard, assistant graduate manager, stated last night that any students would be welcome at the affair, which is stag. Tickets are now on sale at 75 cents each.

It is expected that many business men will be present, as well as members of the Order of the "O," coaches, graduate managers, and students.
