U.S. Scene in Oriental View Lecture Topic

Non-Yong Park, Chinese Philosopher, Expert On Far East

1 o'Clock Classes Excused For Gerlinger Speech

American civilization from an Oriental view will be discussed by Non-Yong Park, Chinese lecturer and philosopher, at a student assembly today at 1 o'clock in Gerlinger hall. Classes will be dismissed at this time for the lecture.

Dr. Park is recognized as an authority on Oriental subjects and has made Far Eastern history and international relations his life study. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. He received his master's degree at Harvard in 1932 in history and political science, specializing in international relations.

While a university student, Park won three prizes for essays on international problems and relations, competing with American students in their own language. Dr. Park was born in Manchuria. At the age of 13 he left his parents in order to escape an unwanted marriage arranged by his parents.

Visiting Manchuria last year, he fell into the hands of a tribe of bandits and had a thrilling escape. On this same trip he visited in China and Japan, where studied the political and social conditions of these countries.

Talks and Teaches For 10 years he has been lecturing on Far Eastern questions at various universities and colleges. He taught at the University of Minnesota after being graduated there.

Besides being a noted lecturer, Park is also an author. His book entitled "Oriental View of American Civilization" has been widely read, and he has just completed a new book on "Retreat of the West." Times Praises The New York Times book review says of his "Oriental View of American Civilization," "Surely it is time for the balance to begin to right itself, it has been for so long dragged to the ground on one side by scores of books about the East written by Occidental observers and critics that to find this book by an Oriental about America is encouraging. An Easterner that begins to talk back will enliven contemporary life. And, indeed, the author of this book has the native endowment and the skill to 'talk back' with such knowledge, intelligence and humor as to make it worth while for Americans to read what he says."

One literary critic has termed Park the "Goldsmith of China." (Please turn to page four)

20 Pre-Med Students To Confer With Myers

Twenty pre-medical students who are eligible for admission to the University of Oregon medical school in Portland have arranged for a conference with Dr. Harold B. Myers, assistant dean, who is on the campus today. Dr. Myers will address an assembly open to anyone interested in 105 McClure at 1 o'clock. The 20-minute appointments for the students who intend to apply this spring for admittance to the school this fall will begin at 9 o'clock.

Critic Calls Band Technique Fair; One Ear in Bass Horn

By Fulton H. Travis As nearly as it is possible to judge a concert when one ear is tucked snugly into a bass horn and the other is being assaulted by staccato notes from a trumpet bell, your critic believes that the band concert was good average work. There was almost nothing scintillating and on the other hand, nothing particularly bad.

"Irelandia" by George Drumm well lived up to the expectations held for it. Wayne Gilgry's baritone solo, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" carried all the beauty, poignancy and emotional qualities for which that justly great number is famous. Gilgry gets this week's orchids for a splendid piece of work and those members of the band who so expertly supported him in the accompaniment should especially be commended. William Gresham's solo, "Come Back to Erin" lacked the perfection of tone of which he is capable, but was accurately done.

This Tells Story

Words, words, words, nearly 1,500,000 of them, have poured forth in the trial of Bruno Hauptmann. All were recorded by court stenographers and transcribed into this great stack of testimony—29 volumes comprising 7,272 pages prepared at a cost of $1 a page—which must be considered by the jury. Walter E. Hammond is the custodian.

Amos Burg To Speak, Show Pictures Here

Explorer's Pictorial Talk Covers Alaska, Asia, Java, South Seas

Friends of Amos Burg, noted explorer and Oregon graduate, who have followed the intrepid adventurer through newspaper accounts and through his own stories in the National Geographic magazine, will have the opportunity to hear him tell of his experiences, and see his strange and unusual motion pictures, it was announced at the University today by Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel. Burg will be presented before University students and townspeople Tuesday and Wednesday, March 5 and 6, at the Colonial theater sponsored by the associated students.

"Our Strange World" is the title chosen by Burg for his illustrated talk, which will include not only vivid word pictures of his adventures, but more than 7,000 feet of carefully selected motion pictures. The pictures and talk will take the audience from the far north in Alaska, through glamorous South Seas, cannibalistic Melanesia, to Bali, Java, and many parts of Asia and other sections of the world.

Full Program The presentation is exactly as Burg will give it before the annual session of the National Geographic society in Washington, D. C., in March, when an audience of more than 3,000 will gather for it. He has appeared before this group and others in the East and has always been enthusiastically received. 5 Speakers Vie In Jewett Prize Contest Tonight

Winner Will Attend State Extempore Contest

The W. F. Jewett extempore speaking contest, second of the Jewett series of this year, is slated for tonight in room 13, Friendly hall. The participants will draw the topic of their speech from a list of 13 sub-topics all dealing with the general subject, "America's Stake in the Pacific." Drawings will be made at 7 o'clock, John L. Casteel, director of speech, said.

The competitors for the two prizes of $25 and $15 are: Orton Goodwin, William Lubersky, Dan E. Clark, Jr., Irvin Buchwach, and Brittain Ash. The winner of the contest will be Oregon's representative at the extempore state contest which will be held this year. Avery Combs and Dan E. Clark, Jr., won the first of this year's W. F. Jewett speech contest, after dinner speaking contest. Combs represented the University in the state contest held at Salem last December and took fourth place.

Sweetser Plans Talk For Audubon Society

Albert R. Sweetser, emeritus professor of plant biology, is preparing slides for a speech which he will make in Portland to the Audubon society March 8. Professor Sweetser has chosen for his subject, "Through a Looking Glass," and will cover the subject of microscopic plants. Although the Audubon society before whom he is to speak is mainly interested in the subject of birds, it also makes studies of other fields in nature.

Kehrli Goes to Advise Beaverton City Council

Herman Kehrli, director of the University municipal research bureau and executive secretary of the League of Oregon cities, accompanied by R. S. Bryson, is leaving for Beaverton today. They have been asked by council members of that city to give their advice on the present charter and other municipal problems. The city is considering the advisability of adopting a new charter.

House Passes Wheeler Bill For Activities

Senate Measure Would Permit State Board To Collect $15

Law-Makers Not Informed, Says Neuberger

Compulsory ASUO fees moved another step closer today with the passage by the house of Senator Wheeler's bill empowering the state board of higher education to collect a sum up to $5 a term from all students for the support of student activities including athletics. The bill was advanced on the calendar for first consideration. The measure, which has already passed the senate, passed the house yesterday by a vote of 46 to 11, with four absent.

Representative Norton of Multnomah county suggested the bill be amended to avoid any of the fees going to athletics and further urged students be polled on the compulsory fees. No action was taken on his suggestion and no motion was made. All that remains now is for the governor to OK the measure and the education board to put the compulsory fees in effect.

Dick Neuberger, student leader in the fight for optional fees, made the following statement last night: "I still don't believe the legislators realize the full implications of this bill they have passed, nor are they aware of the hardship the $15 fee will place on hundreds of desperately-needy students. The Eugene Register-Guard is absolutely right in its statement that not once was a fair hearing held on the measure. It is quite apparent that the proponents of the bill do not want the facts brought into the open."

Hitler Decapitates Two Noblewomen

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Precisely because they were born of old, distinguished families famous in Prussian history, Reichfuhrer Hitler sent two noblewomen to the chopping block today and their heads were cut off for spying. Beautiful Benita von Falkenhayn, also known as Benita von Berg, and Renate von Natzmer, were denied clemency by the man who holds supreme power over life and death, and were executed at an unnamed hour this morning.

The man who induced them to sell the Reich's secrets, Baron George von Sosnowski of Poland, was spared from death through the intervention of the Polish ambassador. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. To the somewhat less implicated typist in the Reichswehr minister, Irene von Jena, was meted out a similar punishment.

Science Classes Get Oil Refining Displays

The chemistry department has received a display with samples and a chart explaining the various processes through which oil is put in the various stages of refining it for use as a lubricant and other uses.

The display was sent out by the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association. Sample included with the chart show the oil through its various stages from the crude to the finest motor lubricant, with gasoline, naphtha, kerosene, fuel oil, and wax samples among others.

Senior Eligible for Divinity Scholarships

Announcements of several fellowships which are offered by various theological schools have been received by Dean Onthank, head of the personnel department. These fellowships offer tuition and other expenses usually for only the first year and are limited to students of superior ability. Members of this year's graduating class and of two or three preceding classes who are interested in studying for the ministry, are invited to confer with Dean Onthank concerning these fellowships.

Business Ad Library Releases Many Books

There are from 30 to 40 books in the business ad library to be circulated for seven days instead of being held on reserve as formerly. These books are on economic problems, and are to be lent out to stimulate outside reading with the students.

Students Delinquent In Making Payment On Fees to Be Fined

A few students have not paid the third installment of their registration fee which was due last Saturday, February 16. A 25c fee is incurring for each day and if the fee is not paid by February 25 the student is subject to suspension.

Dean of Reed Will Give Last Talk on Love

Mrs. Richard F. Scholz Women's Education Authority

Mrs. Richard F. Scholz of Portland will deliver the concluding speech in the love and marriage series of lectures this evening at 7:15 in Villard hall. Her remarks, outlining the factors essential for a successful marriage, will summarize the other lectures, not through repetition of the other subjects but rather through a synthetic development of all the aspects of love and marriage.

Mrs. Scholz is at present dean of women at Reed college and is much in demand as a public speaker. She is outstanding as an authority on education for women and will speak on this topic at the Rotary luncheon this noon.

Mrs. Scholz has been connected with education and young people ever since her graduation from the University of California, where she was a student of history. Her husband was a professor of history at the University of Washington prior to his acceptance of the presidency of Reed college. Dr. Scholz held this position until his death in 1924.

On several occasions Mrs. Scholz has traveled throughout European countries and has lived in Vienna for more than two years.

A bibliography of books to supplement the remarks of the five speakers of this series of lectures has been arranged by Dean Karl Onthank. Books on this list may be secured at the old libe circulation desk where a special shelf on love and marriage has been arranged.

Casteel to Judge School Debates

John L. Casteel, director of speech at the University, is judging a number of high school debates for the State High School Debaters' league at their request. "I believe," Casteel said, "that our University symposium plan of discussion could, with modifications, be successfully used in high schools."

In some schools in Iowa discussion contests resembling the symposium discussion plan are being used very effectively, he said. Tentative plans have been made to introduce this new method into University high school, but considerable experimenting, he believes, may have to be done before it will be worked out to the best advantage.

Horace Robinson of the drama division will also judge several of the debates.

Cast in "Dangerous Corners" Reveals Its Thespian Ability

By Wayne Harbert Something entirely different from the ordinary type of play was Priestley's "Dangerous Corners," presented last Friday, Saturday, and Monday nights, in the University theater by a most capable cast of Guild hall players.

Intensely modern, in an appropriate modernistic set, the production held the attention of the appreciative audiences from the first act to the close of the final act, with only a few minutes elapsing between the first and second acts. The second and third acts were played as one continuous scene. In fact, the play could be given in one act, as the action in each scene begins immediately where the preceding one ended.

"Dangerous Corners" has little, or practically no reaction, such as most plays have. It belongs more in the class of a psychology study. The players, greatly handicapped by this lack of physical action, had to rely to a much greater extent upon their ability to hold the interest of the audience by their real Thespian abilities.

Neuberger Group Challenges ASUO Heads to Debate

Optional Committee Signs 190 on Petition

More than 190 signatures were obtained in several hours on the campus yesterday by members of the optional membership committee, supporting their challenge to the officers of the ASUO for a public debate on the respective merits of voluntary and enforced student corporation payments. The challenge insists that certain facts be brought into the open and says that ASUO officers should accept the offer.

Members of the optional membership committee, elected last night are Dick Neuberger, Howard Ohmart, Norris Porter, Verne Adams, Bert Adams, Graydon Anderson, and Eugene Allen. There are many other members, but the above group constitutes a steering committee.

A letter was sent to Senator Peter Zimmerman, thanking him for his support in the state senate, and also to W. M. Tugman, managing-editor of the Eugene Register-Guard, in appreciation of his courageous stand.

The committee will meet tonight at 7:30 in the "Y" hut, according to Howard Ohmart, secretary of the Y student group.

Medford Admirer Sends Huey Bomb

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—A crudely fashioned bomb sent by mail to the senate office of Huey P. Long failed to explode when opened today, but sent government agencies and the senator himself in search for a chemical.

Apparently a chemical affair, the bomb threw Long's office into confusion when opened by a secretary. But the bottle within had smashed in the mails and was almost empty. Investigators had for their clues these bits of evidence: the package was postmarked Medford, Oregon; a portion of a copy of the Medford Daily Tribune, dated February 3, was wrapped around the bomb; wrapped around match sticks—apparently a portion of the fuse device—were bits of paper on which were hieroglyphic markings.

Kleazer Wins Junior Canoe Motifs Award

Judges Choose 'Melody In Spring' Proposal For Float Theme

Floats to Depict Popular Songs in Parade

The winner! Miss Constance Kletzer, has been awarded the $15 prize offered by the Junior class for the best theme submitted for the 1935 canoe fete. Miss Kletzer's theme is called "Melody in Spring," and features modern popular songs as motifs for floats. Her suggestion, together with color sketches was chosen by an overwhelming majority vote from the judges.

May 11 Is Date The canoe fete is one of the major events of the Junior Weekend, and with Miss Kletzer's novel theme, the Weekend directorate believes that this year's fete will be one of the best ever staged on the mill race. The Junior Weekend is scheduled for May 10, 11, and 12 this year. The canoe fete will take place on Saturday, May 11.

The junior class of '36 is the first class to stage a contest of this kind, and its initial effort was met with much enthusiasm. The class reserves the right to ownership of the suggestions submitted for the contest, and wishes to extend thanks to Dean Virgil Earl, who is responsible for the originating of the contest, to the judges who devoted much time to the selection of the theme, and to all the contestants.

Labbe Is Pleased Ed Labbe, president of the junior class, expressed himself as being pleased with the results of the contest, and feels that the investment of $15 will go far in making for a successful and perhaps one of the best canoe fetes in the history of Oregon, as well as being a help to future junior classes, to whom the unused suggestions may be bequeathed.

Miss Kletzer is a freshman at the University, and majoring in architecture and arts. She is a graduate of Grant high school of Portland.

Fireside Forum Topics Out Today

Lists of subjects and leaders for the annual YMCA fireside forums have been prepared and will be sent out to the fraternities this afternoon, it was announced at a meeting of the YMCA council cabinet last night. Leaders who have been selected will be prepared to speak on 34 different subjects involving popular current problems. The forums are being held for a two-fold purpose: to stimulate discussion on important world topics and to facilitate better relations between students and faculty.

Speakers who will lead the discussions are: J. H. Bond, John L. Casteel, N. H. Comish, W. A. Dahlberg, Virgil D. Earl, H. V. Hoyt, S. H. Jamieson, J. R. Jewell, J. J. Landsbury, A. L. Lomax, K. W. Onthank, C. F. Ristow, Hazel P. Schwering, W. R. B. Wilcox, and N. B. Zane.

Seaback committee members appointed by President Bob Poley at the meeting were Reinhart Knudsen, chairman, Ed Hanson and Howard Ohmart. They will work with members of the YWCA.
