House Group Reconsiders Tax Proposal

Ways, Means Committee Assured of Martin's Concordance

Chancellor Kerr Presents Facts and Figures

The proposal providing for the diversion of millage taxes amounting to $75,000 from the higher education fund to the general state tax fund was again returned to the house ways and means committee yesterday, by Governor Charles H. Martin, with the announcement that he would agree with any further action of that committee.

Thursday and yesterday the committee listened to facts and figures given by Chancellor W. J. Kerr who went to Salem Thursday to provide information to aid the committee in making a decision on the proposal.

Changes Former Bill

Two years ago a bill was passed diverting $508,000 from the higher education fund to the general tax fund. Early this week a proposal was made to lower the diversion to $75,000 and the next day certain factions advanced the proposal to continue the diversion of the full $508,000.

Germany and the pending negotiations with her for an inclusive European security plan are shaping the course of the arms traffic conference, Geneva experts said, and Britain is treading cautiously lest action here ruin her chances of getting the Reich into the security plan.

Particularly apprehensive are the British, these sources said, at Franco-Russian pressure for strengthening the American draft plan so as to provide supervision even of "war potential," the industrial capacity of the great nations.

Parsons Attends PWA Conference

At a meeting of the state planning board at Portland Tuesday morning which Dr. Philip A. Parsons, professor of sociology, will attend, plans will be considered for the PWA program in Oregon. The 10-year program for the development of Oregon's natural resources will be carried through in collaboration with the PWA.

Among the projects to be undertaken by the state planning board is a survey of government administration in Oregon, including state, county, and municipal government which will necessitate the creation of an interim committee of the legislature to work with the planning board. Research facilities of the bureau of social research will also be utilized.

Singers, Novelty Dancers To Entertain at Phi Beta Affair

"Who'll buy my va-hi-olets?" is the cry that will come from the alluring lips of Virginia (Flower Girl) Mikulak, as she wends her way gaily among the tables of merrymakers at the Phi Beta supper dance this evening as one of the singing waitresses, alias vivacious vendors, who will tread, though ever so lightly, on the hearts of the diners and dancers.

The "Selling Songsters" have been chosen from among all the women of the campus no less because of their pulchritude than for their well known winning wiles.

Registered incognito, a Spanish gypsy of royal blood, whose singing has brought storms of applause from throngs in the concert halls of Europe, has been "discovered" disguised as a campus co-ed. This beautiful maiden has been persuaded to make her American debut at the Osburn hotel tomorrow night. She has promised to interpret one

Hayes Masters Four Languages In Vocal Concerts

Four different languages—English, French, German, and Italian—will figure in the program to be given in McArthur court here next Thursday evening by Roland Hayes, the Negro tenor, who is said to be the greatest interpretative artist of the colored peoples.

That Hayes, in addition to cultivating his extraordinarily beautiful voice to a point approaching perfection, could have at the same time acquired complete mastery of three languages in addition to his native English, is regarded as little short of miraculous by critics.

While the finest singers must of necessity be good linguists, these singers ordinarily learn languages by living for periods of time in other countries. Hayes learned French, German and Italian in Boston, and he slaved in hotels and restaurants so he could continue his vocal and linguistic studies.

Hayes' rise from the obscure son of ex-slaves to the status of a finished concert artist is said to outstrip the pure fiction of a Horatio Alger tale.

Hayes can sing the German lyrics of a Brahms song with the perfect intonation, enunciation and phrasing of the most accomplished lieder singer. Equally proficient is he in singing in French, Italian and Spanish. Among all the world's multi-lingual singers, however, Hayes is unique in his command of the southern negro dialect, the argot of the negro spiritual.

STUDENTS RACE 'FRAMS' Fraternities at the University of California held a baby buggy chariot race during the weekend. Five teams were entered and a prize was given for the best dressed teams. The main prize was a rubbery baby buggy bumper.

This is the third of a series of programs on the reorganization of secondary schools which are under the sponsorship of the fraternity.

The Philip Morris contests awarding prizes in the form of cigarettes to those most accurately forecasting basketball game scores will conclude with the Oregon-Washington series next Monday and Tuesday in Seattle. All ballots were due by 4 p. m. Friday.

A former story appearing in the Emerald stated that the contest did not end until the last Oregon-OSC game here on March 2 was incorrect.

Miner Building Is Saved From Tax By State Senate

Indefinite Postponement Kills House Bill

The house bill placing the Miner building on the state tax rolls was killed yesterday in the senate of the state legislature by indefinite postponement of any action on it.

The bill, drafted by Representative C. F. Hyde, Democrat from Lane county, had difficulty in passing the house, it being necessary to alter it twice to eliminate several objectionable sections.

Bill too Universal

The principal reason the senate rejected the proposed law was that it was too universal in scope. Foes of the bill maintained that even grange halls would be included in the provisions of the document. The original purpose of the proposal was to place the Miner building on the tax rolls but every attempt to pass it resulted in a vain attempt to draft the measure so it would apply only to the Miner building.

Saves $7000 Yearly

Officials of Lane county said that approximately $7,000 would be derived in taxes each year from the building. Opponents of the bill maintain that nobody would save any money by putting the building on the tax list because the state itself would have to pay the bill from the higher education fund. The state board of higher education would then be in need of that much more financing to conduct its duties, so in the long run, the tax payers would pay the bill anyway.

Phi Delta Kappa To Hear Moore

Phi Delta Kappa, educational honorary for men, will have as its guest speaker, R. U. Moore, principal of University high school, Monday, February 25 at 7:30 p. m. in the men's lounge, Gerlinger hall.

Mr. Moore will talk on the "Reorganization of Secondary Education in California." Considerable experimentation is being done in this field in California. Information concerning the question has been secured by Mr. Moore at Stanford university last summer and also through bulletins.

This is the third of a series of programs on the reorganization of secondary schools which are under the sponsorship of the fraternity.

The previous speakers were Dr. George Rebec, professor of philosophy, Dean John J. Landsbury, dean of the school of music, and Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University.

Gamma Alpha Chi To Initiate Seven

Gamma Alpha Chi, women's national advertising honorary, will hold formal initiation today at 10 o'clock in the women's lounge of Gerlinger hall. Following the initiation ceremonies, the members and new initiates will have a luncheon at the Anchorage.

Althea Peterson, president of the honorary, announces that the following girls are to be initiated: Betty Coon, Peggy Davidson, Joy Snead, Margery Kissling, Helen Bartrum, Elizabeth Anderson, and Kathleen Duffy.

Jewett Contest Will Be Monday

The annual W. F. Jewett oratorical contest will be held in room 13, Friendly hall, Monday evening at 8 o'clock, in competition for the $25 and $15 prizes.

Manuscripts of each speech have already been submitted to John L. Casteel, director of speech and supervisor of the contest.

McCall Picks Chairman for Senior Dance

Arne Lindgren Selected As Assistant for Ball March 9

Leaders Plan on Having Outside Orchestra

Complete committee appointments for the senior ball were announced late last night by Tom McCall, general chairman of the dance, scheduled for March 9 in Gerlinger hall.

Arne Lindgren will serve as assistant chairman. Decorations will be provided by Fred Knowland, and Will Davis is in charge of the music. Keith Powers is heading the finances for the affair.

Dagmar Haugen is in charge of patrons and invitations. Construction work will be supervised by George Schenk, and Keith Wilson will make necessary arrangements for features.

Thummel on Publicity

Publicity will be released through Grant Thummel and Bob Lucas. Tickets will be handled by Fred Fischer, and the reception committee is headed by Althea Peterson. Rosalind Grey will serve as secretary, and Foot Pray will be in charge of the programs.

"I just returned from Portland," stated McCall, "where I have been working unceasingly to obtain an orchestra of the finest caliber and decorations that will surpass any that have ever been seen on this campus."

Frosh Assembly Series Postponed

Because there are so many activities going on for the rest of the term, the freshman assembly for February has been postponed, announced Dean Onthank, head of the personnel department. The next assembly will be April 15, when Dr. C. V. Boyer, president of the University, will speak on "The Meaning of Culture."

So far there have been three assemblies given in this freshman series, which is offered to take the place of the lectures previously given during Freshman week. The purpose of the series is to familiarize the freshmen with the ideals of the University in respect to culture, scholarship, and personal development.

The previous speakers were Dr. George Rebec, professor of philosophy, Dean John J. Landsbury, dean of the school of music, and Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University.

Co-op Sells 'Penny-Review' Written by Criticism Class

Reach into the bottom of your bill fold or coin purse and see if you can find just one copper penny lurking in the musty folds of leather. If you have, pry it out and dash right down to the University Co-op and purchase yourself one "Penny Review."

Perhaps you may ask what the "Penny Review" is. Here is the definition of this little publication: a small mimeographed booklet of reviews of plays, books, movies, and art published by the criticism class of S. Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English. And they only cost one cent.

Students Delinquent In Fee Installments May Be Suspended

Today noon marks the deadline for the payment of third installment on registration fees. A fine of 25 cents is incurring for each additional day since last Saturday, February 16. If the fee is not paid by February 25, the student is subject to suspension. Fees are paid on the second floor of Johnson hall.

British Newsmen Will Be Speaker, Guest on March 11

Sigma Delta Chi to Give Bartlett Banquet

Vernon Bartlett, diplomatic correspondent of the London News Chronicle, will be on the campus March 11 when he will address students and townspeople at Villard hall, following a banquet which will be given for him by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity.

Mr. Bartlett has been since 1922 the London representative of the League of Nations Secretariat. After an apprenticeship on the Daily Mail, he covered the Paris Peace conference for Reuters.

He served successfully as Paris correspondent of the Daily Herald, and as special correspondent of the London Times in Switzerland and Rome.

Since January, 1928, he has given a weekly radio talk from all British stations on international affairs under the title of "The Ways of the World." These talks have, according to the British Broadcasting corporation, made him one of the most popular microphone personalities in the country.

Mr. Bartlett is author of a number of books among which is a book of short stories about after-war Europe called "Topsy Turvy." He also collaborated with R. C. Sheriff in turning the play "Journey's End," into a novel.

Council Remains Firm on Dry Zone

In spite of a vigorous battle to have the University beer ban ordinance repealed, it appeared evident yesterday that the city council would stand by its previous decisions to enforce the arid zone, when it meets next Monday night.

A number of petitions have been in circulation in the city, as well as in outside districts, to determine the sentiment of the majority of the citizens of this territory regarding the question.

Little change has been noted in the opinion of the councilmen, so it is thought that there will be an insufficient number of votes to pass the repeal amendment.

Alpha Kappa Delta Elects Stromberg As New President

Members Discuss Plans for Open Meeting

Eugene Stromberg was elected president of the Oregon chapter of Alpha Kappa Delta, national honorary in sociology, at a meeting of the society last night. Alma Herman was elected vice-president, Wanda Veach, secretary-treasurer; and S. H. Jameson, professor of sociology, was chosen as the faculty advisor.

Plans for the annual open meeting sponsored by the organization and for the initiation of new members into the group were also discussed at the meeting. The purpose of this open meeting is to give all interested students and townspeople some expert's view of a current social problem of general interest, Stromberg, newly elected president, said. Efforts are being made to secure a prominent Californian who is an active specialist in his line of social work as guest speaker. The open meeting will probably be held in Gerlinger hall during the early part of April according to Stromberg.

Such books as "The Iron Heel" by Jack London, Booth Tarkington's "Little Orvie," "Portraits of Prayers" by Gertrude Stein, "The Folks" by Ruth Suckow are only a few included in the sparkling reviews of the following criticism students: Bill Barker, Eda Hult, Mary Banks, Ruth McClain, Miriam Eichner, Audrey Williams, Margaret Cass, Betty Allen, Jean Burnet, Virginia Howard, Margaret Ann Smith, Virginia Endicott, George Root, Margaret Davidson, Velma McIntyre, and Barney Clark.

Moving Pictures, Slides Bring Crowd; Last Session Today

Geysers Is Popular

Indian Masks, Basketry Are Feature of Main Floor Display

By Leroy Mattingly

Between 500 and 700 people thronged to Condon hall yesterday to see the geology, geography, and anthropology exhibits. Estimates as to the exact number who came to view the displays varied, but with many grammar school children expected to take advantage of the three hour period from nine to twelve during which the "open house" will be continued today, a total of nearly a thousand visitors will probably have attended.

The motion pictures of the Kiluauea volcano and the commercial film "Grass," which has been shown throughout the United States, proved the greatest drawing cards, with standing room only available for the second showing yesterday evening.

Erosion Table Shown Of the model displays, the erosion table proved the most popular. Through the glass at the base of a miniature slope the way in which a delta is built up may be seen. The size of the particles in the delta's various layers are determined by the volume of water released at the head of the slope, the differences of the strata being clearly shown.

Rivals for the second position in the interest of the visitors are the small natural diamonds from Bahia, Brazil along with the collection of precious and semi-precious stones, the skeleton of the saber tooth tiger, and the miniature

Frank Reinhart Talks on Selling Mr. Frank Reinhart, sales manager of DeNeff's clothing store in Eugene, spoke at a meeting of Kappa Alpha Psi, men's business fraternity held Thursday night in Gerlinger hall.

Mr. Reinhart spoke on "Retail Store Management," stressing the importance of an adequate sales force.

"Above everything else, salespeople must have a good personality. They must be able to sell themselves before they can sell goods," he said.

The small retail store is under the management of a store superintendent, an advertising manager, a merchandise manager, and a record manager. The most important of these is the merchandise manager who does the buying and oversees the selling of the goods, Mr. Reinhart stated.

The members of the fraternity held a business meeting after the speech.
