

Anti-military Group Starts Petition Drive For Elective Course

Faculty Asked to Make Recommendation to State Board

Bruce Heads Work Request Is Similar to One Made Last Year

Anti-drill sentiment on the campus crystallized and swung into action yesterday as a dozen or more petition-pushers enlisted signatures for a document asking the faculty to recommend elective military training to the state board of higher education.

The drive opened Friday night with a meeting of the student committee on military education. William J. Bruce, graduate assistant in social science, was named chairman of the committee, which has as its aim enrolling a majority of the campus in a plea for optional drill.

State High School Newspaper Work Will Begin Again

Press Association Confab To Be Held Next Fall

The work of the Oregon State High School Press association for the improvement of high school papers in Oregon will be resumed at a convention to be held on the campus early next fall, according to Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism. Notices are going out today, inviting the high schools to send in their papers to the committee of judges.

This conference has not been held since 1931 when it was discontinued during the reorganization of the state system of higher education. May 22, 1933, emergency officers were appointed by the executive committee to arrange for a convention in the fall of that year, but this was not held.

The twelfth press convention will be restricted entirely to journalistic efforts this year. In the past it had been the custom to hold at the same time a conference for student body officers and girls' league officers. A sound and informative program is to be arranged.

Fireworks Missing

Fireworks which characterized similar action last year were lacking last night. The optionals reported a comparatively small number of students refusing to sign. With two more days to work they were optimistic.

Col. E. V. D. Murphy, head of the military department, had nothing to say. Upper division officers, contrary to action of a year ago, said they had no plan of redress in mind. They will probably meet unofficially today to talk over the situation.

Matter to Be Referred

The matter will probably be referred to a faculty committee, possibly the military exemptions committee, which now acts to hear pleas of conscientious objectors and students handicapped by too much work.

A similar petition, though with only 25 names, when laid before the faculty last year was rejected by the narrow margin of five votes, the count being 36-31. Anti-drill leaders believe that with a much larger number of petitioners demanding the change this year a favorable vote will be returned.

Sullivan Speaks To History Club

Charles F. Sullivan, Jr., graduate student in history, spoke at a meeting of the History club last night at the Phi Mu house at 8:15.

"The History of American Morals" was the title of his speech, wherein he described the progress of critical and ethical thought in this country. He imparted that the future of America will be intimately concerned with the creation of a new and more mature approach to matters cultural and moral.

The program committee of the club, consisting of Mr. Sullivan, John Caswell, Edgar Goodnough, and Elizabeth Bendstrup, has arranged a tentative list of speakers for next term. The speakers and the dates on which they will talk are: Professor John T. Gano, on April 1; Pearl Murphy, April 8; John Caswell, April 15; Lee Marland, April 22; Louise Clark, April 29; Harold J. Noble, associate professor of history, May 6; Everett Cole, May 13; Bruce Martin, May 20; and Samuel H. Jameson, professor of sociology, on May 27.

Priault, Schenk Win in Ad Contest

Edward Priault and George Schenk have been announced as the winners of the two prizes offered by the McMorrin and Washburne store in the recent advertising contest. Students in general advertising submitted entries for competition.

The $10 merchandise bond was won by Edward Priault, and George Schenk, winning second place was awarded the $5 bond. Honorable mention went to Eldon Haberman.

Professor W. F. G. Thacher, who has been in charge of the contest on the campus said that Mr. Karl Thunemann "found the work especially good. It was a difficult assignment and the judges were pleased with the ingenuity and the originality of the advertisements submitted."

Dean Hoyt Talks At Kiwanis Meet

H. V. Hoyt, dean of the school of business administration, lectured before the meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon at the Osborne hotel.

Dean Hoyt talked on business ideals and standards of conduct, not only as applied to business, but also to social, political, professional and educational situations. He emphasized gratitude as the major standard of business, alleging that there should be more of an incentive for giving than for keeping what we have.

Each member of the club brought his keenest competitor in business to the meeting as his guest.

This Was Not a Canoe Trip

Amos Burg, explorer, author, world-traveler, who appears today and tomorrow at the Colonial theater under the sponsorship of the ASUO. The picture shows the palatial yacht, Camargo, off one of the stern Margueas group of islands. The yacht belongs to Julius F. Fleischman, with whom Mr. Burg traveled around the world.

Full Schedule Changes Fee Debate Time

Burg Talk Necessitates Probable Two-Day Postponement

Amos Burg's appearance in Eugene today and tomorrow upsets the two-way appeal of the optional compulsory fee antagonists. The debate, says the principals, is off for at least two days. Thursday will be the earliest possible date on which all four debaters will be able to get together. Gerlinger hall is being held open Thursday evening in the hope that all details will have been arranged before then.

Professor Orlando J. Hollis of the law school will act as chairman. Joseph Renner and Marshall Harrison are defending compulsory fees, and Richard Neuberger and Howard Ohmart are standing out for optional fees. The debate will be held at 7:00 o'clock.

Student Body Cards Good on Afternoon Burg Performance

Students holding student body cards will be admitted free to hear Amos Burg lecture at the Colonial theater, only at the matinee performances today and tomorrow. Admission will be charged for the evening show.

The performance will start at 3:30 o'clock. There will be 40 minutes of regular short features, included among which will be animated cartoons and novelty shorts. Mr. Burg's lecture will start at 4:10 and will be concluded in time for the regular dinner hour. The evening show starts at 7:00 o'clock.

Speech Arts Group Holds Play Contest

Sponsors Solicit Student Endeavor in Field Of Dramatics

A national play writing contest, sponsored by Zeta Phi Eta, national professional speech arts fraternity, is offered to university and college students for the purpose of fostering creative work in this field.

Believing that writers value more than anything else production and publication of their plays, the prizes offered in this contest are to be of that nature. To the play ranked first, the Samuel French bronze medal will be awarded. To one of the first three ranking plays production will be given at the Zeta Phi Eta national convention.

Emerald Has Just One Week Before Cramming Starts

Dean Allen Talks At Emerald Meet

Just one more week in the life of the Emerald until it is revived again next term.

Once each term rolls around a week in which examinations seem to take too prominent a part. So the Emerald staff lets up their work of supplying the campus students with daily news one week before the final onslaught of questions and answers descend.

So, if the paper isn't on your front porch, don't scurry around the shrubs in your bare feet searching for the lost newspaper. Don't blame your next door neighbor for skillfully lifting your property while you overslept. Don't sulk and not drink your hurried cup of coffee just because the Emerald didn't appear in time for you to hastily digest the headlines before you dash for your 8 o'clock class.

So one and all, the news sleuths are given a rest caused by mental overwork.

Correctness of names and titles is the general theme of all news reporters on the Emerald staff following the talk given the Emerald news staff by Eric Allen, dean of the school of journalism, at the "shack" last night.

Through the cooperation of Dean Allen, Robert Lucas and Bill Phipps, a series of rules covering the correct usage of names and titles has been prepared. This sheet will be used not only in the journalism classes but on the Emerald desk. By this means a firm foundation for the future Emerald will be laid in that all students will have the same background in questions concerning the usage of names.

Dean Allen said that the staff must begin at the bottom with small, simple, yet difficult things in order to get a good foundation for its future work. He expressed his interest in the paper, and that it was improving in news values and editorials.

WAA to Elect Officers Today at Y Bungalow

Election of officers for 1935 will be held today by the woman's athletic association at the YWCA bungalow. Active members who are eligible to vote should have their membership cards for identification.

Names appearing on the ballot will be: Dorothy Bergstrom, president; Frances Watzek and Maxine Goetsch, vice president; Martha McCall and Helen Payne, secretary; Jennie Misley, Genevieve Chabot and Bertrude Brathover, treasurer; and Eileen Moore; Ursula Mosberger, custodian.

Italian School Offers Science Scholarship

The Galileo Galilei foundation is offering a one year scholarship for any student, either Italian or foreign, who has received his degree since 1930 and who intends to specialize in experimental science.

In the event that the winner is an Italian, he is to study at some university outside of Italy, while if he comes from outside Italy he will study at an Italian university.

The Royal University of Pisa is handling the applications for the scholarship.

Faculty Hears Barker

Burt Brown Barker, vice president of the University, addressed a faculty party given by the Women's Faculty club in Gerlinger hall Sunday afternoon.

More than 150 attended the party, following Mr. Barker's talk, tea was served.

Amos Burg Parades World Tour Scenes For Students Today

Bennett Contest Holds $30 Prize For Best Essay

Social Justice Subject Is Selected by Sponsors

To the student on the University of Oregon campus who submits the best essay to the Bennett essay contest goes a prize of $30.

Phio Sherman Bennett, of New Haven, Connecticut, 30 years ago became the originator of the contest. The awards are made to only 24 universities throughout the United States, the University of Oregon being among the group.

The topic selected this year by the committee is entitled "Individual Liberty or Social Justice." The general theme of the contest since the origination has been "Principles of Free Government."

Professor George Turnbull, who is in charge of the contest on the campus said "So far as I know interest has not been what we had hoped in the contest."

The closing date for submitting of entries is April 15. The length of the essay is not to exceed 5,000 words. Students who would like more information concerning the contest may see Professor Turnbull at the journalism building.

Famous Oregon Alumni Returns to Campus As Raconteur

Lecture at Colonial Thrilling Film Illustrates Talk by Explorer

Amos Burg, one of the outstanding young explorers in the nation, returns to his alma mater today to tell townspeople and students of his wanderings in distant parts of the world, and of the many exciting adventures he has encountered in his travels. His lecture will be illustrated by special sections of the miles of film he has taken during his travels over the globe. Mr. Burg will give his lectures at the Colonial theatre under the sponsorship of the ASUO and will give matinee and evening performances today and tomorrow.

Show Starts at 3:30

The matinee show will start at 3:30 p. m. Mr. Burg's lecture will be proceeded and followed by 40 minutes of short features, and will be concluded before the regular dinner hour. Evening performances will begin at 7 and 9 p. m.

A member of the most exclusive explorer's club in America, "The Explorers Club of New York," Mr. Burg is a friend and confidant of Frank Buck, of "Bring 'em Back Alive" fame, Admiral Byrd, Gould, the Roosevelt boys, and other members of the club.

Comes From Islands

Recently returned from the grey, storm-battered islands of Tierra Del Fuego, the jumping-off place of civilization, at the southernmost tip of South America, Mr. Burg has much film and thousands of photographs taken as he nosed about the forbidden isles where no one has ever been.

Burg Will Dine As Condon Guest

Amos Burg, noted explorer, will be the guest of the Condon club and a group of faculty members at a no-host dinner in the Anchorage Tuesday evening, it was announced yesterday by Warren D. Smith, head of geography and geology. Burg will be in Eugene Tuesday and Wednesday to present a motion picture and lecture on "Our Strange World."

Barristers Must Pay Fees Early

According to a letter received by Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school, from Earl M. Pallett, executive secretary, all law school students must complete their registration at the beginning of each term within the time specified for undergraduate students. This decision was made at a recent meeting of the law school faculty.

This does not mean that law students with academic degrees will be required to pay undergraduate fees, but they must complete their registration for all terms within undergraduate time and for spring term by April 1, 1935, and after that date, those who register late will be compelled to pay the $1.00 a day fine just as do undergraduates.

Formerly law students were given extra time after undergraduate registration to sign up.

Men Speakers Go On Southern Trip

An extended tour of southern Oregon during which the Townsend plan and other solutions to the old-age problem, is being taken by Frank Nash, Charles Heitzel, Fred Hammond, and Glenn Halladay, members of the men's public discussion squad, accompanied by their coach, W. A. Dahlberg, assistant professor of English.

In Ashland alone the three students will hold symposiums before six different audiences during March 4, 5, and 6.

They will appear before the Ashland activity club, an assembly of the Southern Oregon Normal school, a congressional church forum, a high school assembly, and a public mass meeting. They will also give a discussion of the pension question before the Bellevue grange in Kirby.
