

Prep School Bands to Vie For 7 Awards

High school bands from 25 Oregon prep schools will compete for seven trophies in the twelfth annual state high school band contest to be held next Friday and Saturday on the University of Oregon campus. Seven more schools will enter soloists in the extra competition held with the band contest.

The bands will compete in four groups, based on the size of the aggregations. Each school entering will be allowed one contestant in each of nine solo groups, cornet, clarinet, saxophone, flute, slide trombone, baritone, French horn, oboe, bassoon, tuba and snare drum.

Cups to Be Given

Morning Oregonian and Seiberling-Lucas cups will be at stake in the Class A contests for bands of 50 members or more. The Oregonian cup will be the permanent possession of the winning band, while the other cup must be won three successive times. Jefferson high of Portland, winner of the Class A competition for the past three years, is automatically barred from entering this year. Bands entered include Albany, Corvallis, Eugene, Salem and Grant, Franklin and Hill Military academy of Portland.

Class B bands, of 40 members, include Gresham, LaGrande, Oregon City, The Dalles, Woodrow Wilson junior high of Eugene, Medford and West Linn. Oregon City is the defending champion in this class and the Journal cup is the winner's trophy.

Ineligibility of the Hill cadet band to compete in the Class C, due to winning the division three successive years, will make competition for the Register-Guard cup wide open. Entrants are Beaverton, Estacada, St. Helens, Tillamook, and University high of Eugene.

New Division Started

A new division for bands of 25 members or less will be inaugurated this year. Six bands, from Arlington, Moro, Heppner, Burns, Santa Clara and Drain, have entered to compete for the Eugene Morning News cup.

An added feature of this year's contest will be a marching contest for all bands desiring to enter. Entrants will march through downtown Eugene Saturday noon to compete for a trophy donated by the American Legion. The final trophy to be awarded is the Simmons Motor Car cup to the band coming from the greatest distance. Winners in each of the nine solo contests will be given medals.

John Stehn, director of the University of Oregon and, is in charge of the contest, which is sponsored by the Associated Students. Judges for the bands contests are Harry W. Evans of Tacoma, Walter Welke, director of the University of Washington band, and Jean Shanis, former cornetist in the San Francisco symphony orchestra.

Junior Daubers Assume Shining Duties Thursday

Robins sing, the church bells ring, and anything that rhymes with sing, school boys whistle, and this epistle divulges the news that shining of shoes is the major coming attraction.

Jim Blais, sedately polished yesterday announced to the wide waiting world that Thursday next, March 11, has been officially designed as the day when prominent campus apple polishers will leave the fruit and tackle the feet.

Having seen this article off to such a rollicking beginning, Blais suggested that a bit of a plug for the intensive drive to be launched Monday to sell Junior class tickets might be apropos. For, he logically pointed out, one of the privileges of junior class members will be a shine—free—on shine day.

Not only that, he went on before he could be stopped; purchasers of the fifty-cent pastebore will receive at no additional cost a repast by no means dainty to be dished out at the campus luncheon to be held as part of junior week-end festivities. And of course, he concluded, they get to vote.

Tickets go on sale Monday, and the drive will end Thursday morning.

Send the Emerald to your friends. Subscription rates $2.50 a year.

Campus Leaders

(Continued from Page One)

body card sale, in the last four days has brought in 225 members.

In the meantime, student body leaders at the University, eyeing the tremendous success of the OSC drive, rallied around and prepared to launch a vigorous drive of their own. Officials of the University declare that in event of failure in this campaign that the same activities placed in jeopardy at Oregon State by the miserable sale of cards, would likewise suffer at this institution.

ASUO Opens

(Continued from Page One)

state high school band and track contests to be held on the campus this term.

Athletic participation and the right to eat at the campus luncheon and to bring non-student guests, will be extended only to those who have membership cards, those who have membership cards, or junior class cards, Renner said.

All students who are at present out for athletics and who do not purchase student body cards by Wednesday will be dropped from the squads by the A.S.U.O.

Plans are being formulated, Renner added, to hold a gala all-campus picnic if sufficient funds are available, although this event is still tentative. Dancing, dining, swimming, and baseball games would be the principal attractions, in event the picnic is held.

Renner also stated that although band members would not be required to have student cards, only those owning them would be allowed to appear in the public appearances of the organization that were sponsored by the A.S.U.O.

The 10 scheduled baseball games promise to be most brilliant contests as the Duck's championship squad is rated at the top again this season. An outstanding year for track is also apparent, the team failing last year by only one and one-half points of winning the northern division championship.

Outstanding among the spring term attractions will be the grid contest between the members of the squad and the lums, led by All-American Mikulak and his pals. The game will probably be played under the lights and no admission can be charged, eliminating all persons who do not belong to the A.S.U.O. from attending the game. Several inter-squad contests are also planned for Hayward field. These likewise will be free to A. S. U. O. card holders.

The state high school track contest and the high school band contest also promise to be of interest to University students, free admission being given with membership cards to both these events.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

A Simple Equation—

$$\begin{array}{r}
 * 1,236 \\
  - 925 \\
 \hline
 311
 \end{array}$$

Difference in student support on the two campuses.

*Loyal supporters for the Associated Students Oregon State College. Students interested in carrying on, showing how they rallied to a move that strikes at the vitals of their student government.

Oregon's loyal supporters—The answer, ladies and gentlemen?