

Charms of Ten Women Make Choices Difficult In Junior Queen Contest

Royal purple and the golden crown awaits one of the ten aspiring women who are entered in the Junior Prom Queen's Reign contest which closes with the final balloting next Tuesday.

The final choice for the queen will also indicate her five co-ruling princesses, who will sit beside her on May 10, 11, and 12.

A parade of the contesting girls will be staged Monday at 12:15, according to an announcement made yesterday by Peggy Chessman, chairman of the Queen's reign committee. Cars will take the honored coeds through the campus and adjoining streets.

Participants in the contest are: Elma Giles, a petite brunette of Portland. Miss Giles is playing a minor role in "Small Miracle" to be presented in the Guild theatre in the near future. She is particularly interested in dramatics and dancing and enjoys a good game of golf. She is affiliated with the Sigma Kappa sorority.

A small blond Tri Delt, Dorothy Anne Clark, also hails from Portland, and has as her chief interest and hobbies dramatics and traveling. She has toured the middle west as well as many of the western states.

Dark and reserved Margaret Jean Cooper, is interested in English and music. She has toured Europe and the United States. Her home is in Portland.

Mary Morse, a dazzling blonde, tanned under California's skies is the offering of the Kappa Alpha Theta house. Miss Morse is very fond of horse back riding and craves such athletic ventures as golf and swimming.

Big brown eyes mark Marvel Twiss as being one of the outstanding ten. She is "inclined toward the dramatic arts" and has played in several college and high school productions. Pi Beta Phi claims this royal aspirant, as does the city of Portland.

'Tis rumored that gentlemen still prefer blondes and Anne Hounsell is no exception. An Alpha Chi Omega from Hood River, this young lady likes to spend her leisure time in the theatre or reading.

A candidate from Hendricks hall is the lovely, olive-skinned Reva Hems who aspires to stenography and law. Her home is in Portland. "Sweet and unaffected" has been the description of June Yates throughout her three years of college life. June is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta and hails from Salem.

Jane Vinnedge of Washington is not to be outdone by even the most beautiful of the candidates. She shines in a glory all her own, and is affiliated with the Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Dignity shall come last, so Frances Spence closes the "Big Ten." This blonde Chi Omega, who enjoys golf, tennis and dancing, bears herself in true royal manner even without a crown. She lives in McMinnville.

The girls receiving the most votes will rule the campus during the entire Junior weekend. The chosen queen will be crowned at the all campus luncheon by Ed Labbe, junior class president.

The queen will reign over the Junior Prom and her barge will float down the Mill Race to make the official opening of the annual canoe fete. Voting will be by ballot in the College Side Inn from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Tuesday.

Girls Do Odd Things Even In Far Japan

Speaking of women preparing for marriage, the Japanese rate the prize idea. The "Bride's School" of Dairen (more formally known as the "School of Life") prepares girls to be perfect brides. Nineteen young ladies have just completed the course, and are entering the marital market with full recommendations.

The school was originated by Japanese women's clubs to improve the conditions of family life.

And just to jump to the other end of the scale, Russian girls are receiving military training. This course, administered by full-fledged officers, is said to be as harsh as the ordinary male army.

One of the congressional highlights at present is Mrs. Caroline O'Day, the state representative whom Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt helped put in office.

It seems that congress takes note of "freshmen" quite as much as do colleges—and Caroline, being a newcomer to the house, was expected to sit back. Most of the freshmen members were easily suppressed, but not Mrs. O'Day. At the first meeting of the new members, she blithely took charge, and before the hundred-odd men could say a word, she arranged all their plans, and invited them to a "get-acquainted party" at her house.

The party was quite a success—a success which has more or less continued. Mrs. O'Day has astonishingly become the organizer of the freshmen congressmen.

Foreign Position Offered Graduate

Application blanks from the Armstrong Cork company of Lancaster, Pennsylvania have been received by Karl Onthank, dean of the personnel department. The company is looking for one or two young college graduates to become Huge Tahitian prints have captured the hearts of many young women who desire color and personality in their formal wear. The above frock illustrates just one of the many patterns which are in great demand this season. Short formal jackets are usually worn over the gowns.

The man, or men, selected will be sent abroad and put through a comprehensive course of training designed to prepare for responsible positions in the future in the company's organization. The salary connected with this sort of position will not be large at the start but will be ample for a comfortable living.

Recent college graduates or those who are about to graduate who are interested are asked to see Dean Onthank about the application blanks. Several University graduates are now working with this company.

ASUO Coed Candidates Prominent in Activities

It's almost a game of drawing straws. Just shut your eyes, and pick and you can't go far wrong when you vote for any of the coed aspirants to student body offices this year. For in few ASUO political campaigns have there been four girls who are so well qualified to hold student body offices.

Adele Sheehy of the Alpha Phi house and Virginia Proctor of the Delta Gamma house are both candidates for the position of ASUO secretary. Adele, whose sunny temper and calm composure belie her red hair, has been in demand for campus activities since her freshman year. She has been a Thespian, a Kwama, secretary of the junior class, and a member of Phi Theta Upsilon, as well as being an active member of AWS. In addition, Adele is president of her house and has served on numerous committees.

Although at present she has little spare time, Adele likes to knit, ride horses, and swim. When asked to comment on today's election she exclaimed: "If our ticket wins I will be more than happy, since all competent and deserving students will have the opportunity to participate in campus activities instead of a chosen few."

Virginia Proctor, whose cheerful smile has won many friends for her on the campus, has likewise been outstanding in activities. She is an active member of the YWCA and AWS, was secretary of her sophomore class, member of Kwama, and has been chairman of several dances and functions.

Although Virginia's major is journalism she has a passion for collecting penguins, ducks, and other china animals for her room. She is also an enthusiastic swimmer. Virginia is treasurer of her house.

The two candidates for the head of senior women are Eleanor Norblad of Pi Beta Phi and Roberta Moody of Gamma Phi Beta. Eleanor's ability to make a success of all that she undertakes and her charming personality have made her well known in the University. She has been a member of Thespian, Kwama, and Phi Theta Upsilon. Likewise she has worked in the YWCA and AWS and has been selected to serve on a number of committees.

As for hobbies Eleanor likes to knit, swim, and ride horseback. She is enthusiastic about the platform in her party's ticket that creates a position for an independent student, since in her opinion, the independent students have not had enough voice in campus activities.

A never-failing smile and a winning personality — these two characteristics have made and retained an ever increasing number of friends for Roberta Moody. This year she attained the honor of being selected as one of the University students to have her name put in the "Who's Who" for American colleges. She was a member of Kwama and Phi Theta Upsilon, has worked on both the Emerald and Oregana, and has been on many committees.

"In my opinion the greatest value of our ticket is that it would establish a precedent for elections on the merit of candidates," she declared. "Politics would be on a fair and clean basis instead of the present spoils system."

State Educators Confer Saturday At Normal School

Stetson, Holaday to Speak During Meeting

Educators and teachers of Oregon will again meet this weekend for an annual education conference at the Oregon Normal school in Monmouth, all day Saturday.

Section meetings and discussions, along with art and craft exhibits will make up the program for the day. Sessions for primary, intermediate and upper grade teachers as well as art, music, dramatic, and administrative meetings are scheduled.

The speakers for the various sections include President Rudolph Clemens of Whitman college; C. A. Howard, state superintendent of schools; Dr. W. W. Wait, of Greeley Teachers college, Greeley, Colorado; Frederick L. Stetson, pro-essor of education; and Joseph A. Holaday, instructor in education, both of the University.

Professor Stetson will speak on the reorganization of secondary school curriculum, and social science concepts for the upper grade levels will be discussed by Mr. Holaday.
