Mary Morse Will Reign As Junior Queen

Labbe to Present Royal Scepter at All-campus Luncheon Friday

Returns Show Count Close Between Princesses

Queen Mary Morse will rule supreme when the Junior Weekend opens Friday, May 10. Balloting yesterday brought Miss Morse the royal honor when she received 371 votes, three more than her nearest competitor.

GOP Attacks New Deal

BOSTON — President Roosevelt's administration was assailed and his $4,800,000,000 work relief program was attacked as "an out and out attempt to buy votes" by Republican speakers at a New England party conference here today.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former governor general of the Philippines, president of the National Republican club, and himself a potential president candidate next year, led the attack with charges that the work relief appropriation will be used "for campaign purposes" and new deal policies are "definitely blocking early recovery."

Robles Case Solved

TUCSON, Ariz. — Evidence linking three persons with the June Robles kidnaping case, which was described in Washington by J. Edgar Hoover of the department of justice as "solved," will be presented to the grand jury here tomorrow.

Three days will be required to submit the findings of federal agents who have been at work on the case since the little girl disappeared April 25, 1934, to be found 19 days later imprisoned in a corrugated iron box sunk into the hot desert sands near here, government authorities said.

The refusal of government agents here to comment on Mr. Hoover's statement was interpreted as meaning the evidence to be laid before the grand jury will (Please turn to page 3)

Former Student Shows Art Work

The drawings and paintings of Carl Heibron, former Oregon student and artist, who exhibited his work here two years ago, will go on display in the Little Art gallery of the school of architecture and allied arts today.

Dry brush ink, grease crayon, conte crayon, and pen and ink drawings are included in the exhibit. Several are executed with carbon pencil with an application of water color.

Southern California scenes are depicted. Especially interesting are the drawings of the devastation wrought by the earthquake in California two years ago and the drawings of the hills around Hollywood.

The exhibit will remain a week. Hours are from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. on weekdays and from 2 to 5 p. m. on Sundays.

Yeomen Ballot For New Heads Tonight at 7:30

Robinson Announces Cast For Guild Play

Oregon's independent men will meet at the Y hut tonight at 7:30 to decide the most closely contested election race that organization has seen for several years. Donald Farr and Fred Gieseke and their supporting tickets have furnished a campaign that promises a colorful ending when the last ballots are in.

Virgil Esteb, retiring president of the Yeomen, last night called for the attendance of every enlisted independent to vote. "I think both men are capable and worthy of the office," Esteb said, "and I would like to see every Yeoman come out and express his conviction."

Treasurer Uncontested Gieseke, who has campaigned on a reform platform has for his running mate Brittain Ash seeking the vice-presidency, Charles Paddock, secretary and Alvin Overgard, treasurer.

The Farr ticket includes Ernest Savage for vice-president, and Ray Kropp for secretary. It is also backing Overgard for treasurer. Some independents were reported as confusing the YMCA and the Yeomen elections. The Y election was held last week and several men were named who are also running for Yeomen offices. The Yeomen organization is entirely separate from the Y.

Warrington Will Talk To New Organization

A new underclass organization, Westminster '37-'38, will hold its weekly meeting tonight at 7:30 at Westminster house, 1414 Kincaid street. An informal guidance talk for the discussion group will be given by Dr. E. W. Warrington, professor of religion.

A large number of extra curricular activities are being arranged for interested students, according to George Bikman, president of the club. Included are study groups in drama, philosophy, religion, music and athletics. Freshmen and sophomores are invited to attend the hour meeting.

University Psychology School Conducts Clinic

A clinic for mentally handicapped children was held by the University of Oregon psychology department in conjunction with the University medical school last Saturday in Eugene.

Dr. Dixon, psychiatrist from the University medical school, gave the psychiatric examination, while Dr. L. F. Beck, professor of psychology, performed the mental testing of the children. A clinic of this sort is held semi-annually in the interest of the people of Eugene and surrounding towns. The next examination for children will be given in Baker in June.

The purpose of the increasing number of such clinics is to acquaint parents with the condition of the handicaps of their children and to give recommendations for their retraining and treatment.

$400,000 for Constructions Is Possibility

PWA Loan, 30 Percent, Grant Necessary, Says Manager

$30,826.83 Now Available For Student Union

By Malcolm Bauer

A student union building on the University of Oregon campus is a financial possibility it was revealed from figures released yesterday from the business manager's office as the Oregon Daily Emerald continued its campaign for a new student activity center. A schedule, showing the estimated receipts and disbursements from the $5 student building fund, shows that, with the aid of a PWA loan and a 30 per cent grant from the federal government, buildings and improvements to the extent of approximately $400,000 can be constructed on the University campus, to be paid for by the student building fee.

With the possibility of financing such a building program, plans for a student union, either new or as the result of remodeling Gerlinger or Friendly halls, last night took on a more practicable aspect.

$5 Fee Pledged

J. O. Lindstrom, business manager of the University, called attention to the fact that at the present time, the $5 student building fee is pledged to finance the proposed new infirmary and the new library. The last payment on the infirmary is tentatively scheduled to be made on April 15, 1936; and the final payment on the library will be made March 1, 1964. An examination of the schedule of receipts from the fund and disbursements for the approved projects, shows that $457,809.96 will be accumulated in the building fund March 1, 1964, without regard to what might be earned in interest on this amount.

The Oregon law requires that the students' $5 building fees are (Please turn to page 3)

Rollie and Butch 'Heavy' Favorites In Queen Voting

When the sun had sunk into the West last yesterday afternoon, and the ballots for Junior weekend queen had been carefully counted, revealing the students' choice for the crown-wearer, two prominent males' names were found written upon the ballot.

It was very carefully folded, as if with dainty hands. Besides checking the five women's names for queen, the voter added in a scrawl at the bottom of the ballot the names of Roland Rourke, newly-elected vice-president of the associated students, and "Butch" Morse, last year's co-captain in football, who recently returned from an extensive trip in the Orient.

Appearing on the same ballot with our heroes were Marvel Twiss, Mary Morse, Dorothy Anne Clark, Margaret Jean Cooper, and Elma Giles. Officials for the Junior weekend were busy last night trying to arrive at some conclusion whereby the two men candidates could be made crown bearers, or fill some other "honorary" position.

Four Ancient Russian Icons Loaned for Museum Exhibit

A collection of four old Russian icons, which are the personal property of Mrs. Murray Warner, have been loaned to the museum for temporary exhibition purposes.

They were put on display in one of the rooms on the mezzanine floor last week for the pleasure of the Portland art class, and will be left up until junior weekend is over.

These icons, which are depictions of biblical scenes, were painted during the early part of the seventeenth century by monks for their monasteries. The monks painted the scenes in gold and

Second Spring Fee Installment Is Due Saturday at Noon

Saturday noon, May 4 is the deadline for the paying of second installment fees for spring term. Starting Monday, May 6, there will be a penalty of 25c incurring for each additional day that the fee isn't paid. Students should pay fees at window number four on the second floor of Johnson hall.

Gleemen Will Sing Request Songs May 2,3

Appearance Here to Be Last of George Bishop Before Departure

Concluding an active season of eight concerts, the Eugene Gleemen, men's choral group, will present an all-request program in the school of music auditorium, Thursday and Friday, May 2 and 3. John Stark Evans, professor of music and director of the Gleemen will direct the program.

The concert will also mark the final appearance with the Gleemen of George Bishop, always a favorite wherever the group has appeared during the past four years. He will leave soon for Chicago where he will study next winter. Bishop, with Cora Moore Frey, accompanist, and Don Eva, tenor, are to sing the incidental solo parts in the Liebestraum, one of the most popular numbers.

Mr. Evans announced last night that the demand for request numbers has been very great, between 25 and 40 being received. Appearing with the Gleemen in a special group of numbers, will be the Junior Gleemen, an organization of younger Eugene men who are interested in vocal work. Besides singing the special numbers, the group of 64 young men will join with the older group of 80 in singing the final numbers. Two University students, Thomas Miles and William Sutherland, are to sing incidental solos with the junior group.

Harbert Elected Freshman Editor

And so the freshmen came to the aid of their paper and elected Wayne Harbert to serve as editor for the freshman edition of the Emerald which will appear May 4. William Pease was elected managing editor.

The complete staff for the paper will be chosen today at 5 p. m. when all freshman students interested in combining their efforts for the "emerald green" edition will meet in room 105 journalism. The editor, upon being interviewed late yesterday said: "This will be a good chance for all freshmen to show what experience they have gained during their first year. Students interested in special positions on the paper should see William Pease or myself before the meeting tomorrow."

Harbert said that the freshman edition will follow the present Emerald policy, although a few minor changes may be made.

Library Has New Bibliography Set

The old library has recently purchased a valuable set of bibliography books compiled by the Bibliographical Society and published by the Chiswick publishers of London.

Many noted writers have contributed to the works, which cover an extensive and diverse range of subjects from a "Dictionary of Booksellers and Printers" to "An Iconography of Don Quixote."

The rough paper, large print, and numerous illustrations give the books a very interesting appearance which distinguishes them from usual books of bibliographical content.

This set is of especial value to students doing research work. They are at present downstairs in the shipping room of the old libe-

Revote on Military Drill May Be Called At Faculty Meeting

Still Composing

Song writers may come and go, but Irving Berlin, famed composer whose works have entertained a generation of Americans, seems to go on forever. In Hollywood, after completing a score for a new musical production, he is shown tapping out another, though the going doesn't seem so easy.

Matter Not to Be Brought Up in Regular Order Of Business

Outcome Uncertain

Deadlock Broken by Boyer At Last Session

With the discovery of irregularities in last month's vote on compulsory ROTC, Oregon's perennial military training controversy is due for further airing before members of the University faculty at their regular meeting today.

From authoritative sources the Emerald yesterday learned several faculty members were to call for reconsideration of the military question and demand a revote upon the grounds that the original action came as a result of at least one vote illegally cast.

Expects Call for Revote

President C. V. Boyer, who cast the deciding vote breaking the 42-42 tie at the previous session in favor of retaining compulsory training, said yesterday that he expected the irregularities would be thrashed out in today's meeting and that proponents of the optional feature would demand that the resolution submitted by students two months ago would once more be placed before the group.

One physical education instructor, who admittedly does not have a vote, balloted for maintenance of compulsory training at last month's meeting. Another faculty member, whose voting status was in doubt at the meeting, failed to vote. He said yesterday he desired to have his ballot counted.

Statue Still in Doubt

Although the statue of his vote is still in doubt, it is known that another faculty member of equal ranking did cast a vote. The vote which was not cast would have favored optional military and with the outlawing of the illegal vote would have put the faculty on record for optional drill.

Should a revote be called today the outcome would still be doubtful. Some optionists, who were not at last month's meeting, will attend today, but others favoring compulsory drill may also be present to nullify any new balance in favor of acceptance of the resolution.

The resolution was presented to the faculty two months ago with the signatures of more than 500 students and the backing of numerous Eugene civic groups. It would recommend to the state board of higher education that ROTC drill at Oregon be placed on an elective basis.

Amos Burg Dates Set Up One Day

Amos Burg, nationally famed explorer, and former student of the University, will be presented at the Colonial theater Friday and Saturday, instead of Thursday and Friday as previously announced.

The change was made in order to give people of Eugene a better opportunity to attend the performances, according to Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel.

There will be afternoon and evening showings each day. Members of the associated students will be admitted to the matinees at 3 o'clock upon presentation of their student body cards.

University Musicians Present Piano Recital

Four pianists of the school of music, Lucia Davis, Madelle Beidler, Phyllis Schatz, and Rosemary O'Donnell, are to appear in a student recital this afternoon in the music building at 5 o'clock.

Although the recitals are given merely for practice on the part of the musician, students are invited to attend. Selections from Mozart, Beethoven, Scriabin, and Reppe are to be included on the program.

Professors of Zoology Plan Trip to Coos Bay

H. B. Yocom and A. L. Alderman of the zoology department will leave tomorrow for a three-day stay at Coos Bay during which time they will collect marine animals.

Specimens will be secured for class use and for a personal collection upon which the two men are working.
