

Employment Service Open For Students

Assistance to Be Given Non-Specialized Seniors

Karl Onthank, dean of personnel, announces that the personnel division is opening this spring an employment service for students graduating from the University. The service is particularly for those who have not specialized in one of the fields of work covered by the professional schools of the University, and who are accordingly aided in finding a job by the school in which they are graduating.

The new service will be provided through the University employment office of which Miss Janet Smith has charge. Seniors who desire to register with the new service should see her and fill out an application form indicating their training, experience and fields of interest.

No guarantees are offered but there is assurance that very real help can be given. Connections have been made with employers and friends of the University and alumni have offered to be of assistance to graduates in finding suitable work.

Seniors who desire to teach, will continue to be placed through the teachers' appointment bureau operated in the school of education, and graduates in law, journalism, architecture, business, and so on, will continue to make contacts with employers in these fields through the dean of their school.

Help for Non-Professionals
The new office, which will cooperate with all existing agencies, is for those who wish to enter occupations not directly in line with that of the local professional schools.

Within the last few years, numerous new fields have been opened to university graduates. Many of these are in government service, national, state, and city. Special effort is being made to contact jobs for graduates in these new fields by means of the new employment service.

Although the service is primarily for seniors about to graduate, students compelled to drop out before graduation will be aided so far as possible, just as undergraduates are helped not only to employment while attending college but also to secure vacation jobs. Students uncertain as to occupations suitable for them or as to prospects in fields of possible employment, are advised to confer with Dean Onthank or Miss Smith.

Cuthbert Moves Office
The office of F. A. Cuthbert, campus landscape architect, has been moved from Friendly to room 8 in the basement of Deady. He can be reached by telephoning local 253.

Tribute Paid to Charter Members of Associated Press

Tribute was paid at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press to 27 surviving charter members of the association. Those present were introduced by Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, who praised the work of the 27 men who have been members continuously through the 35 years the association has been in existence. The above photograph, taken at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, shows 14 of the charter members.

Pease Takes

clared the board needed a full membership during its busy season.

Martin said his appointment of Pease "ought to answer the question as to whether I am going to revolutionize the board. I am perpetuating it," he said.

Placed under oath by the governor Byrne testified that Mrs. Pierce had attended only seven of the 23 meetings held by the board since April 1, 1933.

Of 17 meetings of committees of which she was a member, Mrs. Pierce attended only four, Byrne said. Mrs. Pierce was on the building, grounds and capital outlays, curricula and library committees.

"Was she on the committee to select a new chancellor?" asked Governor Martin.

"No," replied Byrne. In a letter which she made public yesterday but which the governor denies having received, Mrs. Pierce said she had been looking around in the national capitol for a new chancellor.

Callister's Attendance Good
Members of the chancellor committee, which has met only five times in the last nine months, are President Willard Maris, Albany; E. C. Sammons and B. F. Irvine, Portland, and Leif S. Finseth, Dallas, Byrne said.

Other members of the building committee with Mrs. Pierce were Callister and Finseth, according to Byrne.

Callister attended 17 of the last 23 board meetings and 15 of his 19 committee meetings, the record showed. Callister was absent from the last three board and committee meetings due to illness.

Lafky contended that the governor should be required to show cause why Mrs. Pierce should be removed from the board instead of having her show why she should not be ousted.

The governor said Mrs. Pierce had accepted a registered mail letter informing her of the hearing.

All correspondence between the governor and Mrs. Pierce was destroyed in the statehouse fire.

In a statement at the conclusion of the hearing, during which the governor and Attorney Lafky exchanged many a laugh, Martin said:

"In my desire to serve this state I hold no duty greater than the support and advancement of public education. It is my determination that education shall be held to the highest standard.

"The responsibilities imposed upon members of the board of higher education are second to none in this commonwealth, because they affect the future as well as the present. Regular attendance at meetings of the board and fairly continuous presence in the state I hold to be necessary to the full performance of duty.

"It is for that reason solely, and with every acknowledgement of her service as Oregon state librarian, her active public spirit and her keen intelligence, that I am replacing Mrs. Pierce as a member of the state board of higher education with Mr. Pease."

Landsbury Appointed Judge of Piano Contest

John Landsbury, dean of the school of music, has been appointed judge of the Portland division of the National Piano Playing contest which is to be held at Portland May 10 and 11.

Included on the general committee is Louis P. Artau, also on the University music faculty.

The tournament is held under the auspices of the Oregon chapter of the National Piano Teachers Guild, and will be played at the Sherman Clay recital hall.

Exam Exemption Move Launched By Senior Class

Meserve, Phipps Leaders of Movement

Seniors last night were unanimous in favoring a move to exempt all graduating students from their spring term final examinations. Pointing to the prevailing custom at Oregon State college, by which no graduating senior is required to take a final examination in his last term in school, the members of the class of 1935 were emphatic in their demands for the installation of a similar system at the University.

"Such a change would not be revolutionary," explained Ed Meserve, class president. "It would merely ease the strain in the prospective graduate, and enable him to enjoy his last few days in the University free from the worry occasioned by grades and grade point averages."

A committee, headed by Meserve and William Phipps, Emerald editor, was named to discuss the proposal with administrative officials.

A method of disposing of the class gift fund was decided upon, but the nature of the gift was not disclosed pending further investigation.

Former Student Plays With Weeks To Appear Here

Anson Weeks and his orchestra are scheduled for a one day engagement at the McDonald theater today.

Of interest to localities is the fact that numbered in the band is a former University student who has been an adjunct to Weeks' organization for the past three years as arranger and first pianist. Billy O'Bryant will be remembered as pianist in the local McMurry's College Knights campus band a few seasons ago. O'Bryant has had signal success with many "name" bands. Among them are: George Olsen, Slim Taft, Dorsey Brothers, and, finally, Anson Weeks.

Kay St. Germaine, songstress with the band, is an Oregon product, having started with Weeks a year and a half ago when the orchestra played in Portland.

British Continue Race

LONDON — Great Britain, an authoritative source revealed tonight, will spend an extra $25,000,000 this year to keep abreast of Germany in Europe's headlong air armaments race.

That amount will be expended in addition to the $105,000,000 already provided a year estimates for the current fiscal year, the informed source disclosed.

The proposal, regarded in informed quarters as an answer to Adolf Hitler's boast that the Reich

Laws of Nature Breaks Student's Spring Browsing

They say it isn't news when a light shade remains where it is supposed to stay. But when the light shade dashes itself around the heads of unsuspecting students — then, that's news.

It happened yesterday in Villard hall. The hour was dragging on, as hours have a habit of doing, especially during spring term. An intellectual lecture, as all lectures have a habit of being, was in the process of transferring itself from the professor's mind to the minds of his students assembled before him.

While, above the heads of unsuspecting students who were concentrating deeply on the educational points of literature, hung an opaque light shade, delicately fastened by brass screws. The shade was suspended from the ceiling by a series of links, one fastened within the other.

A lull had come in the class hour. Only the voice of the professor broke the silence of the room where several members nodded their heads in slumber. While up above the laws of gravity were going into effect.

Slowly, blithely, and seemingly with a sneer of sarcasm, if a light shade may have the so-called sensation, it slipped from its moorings. It paused not a moment in its earthward travel, but screeched around several heads, missed a dainty miss's ear and plunged earthward.

Thus ended the life of a light shade. The tiny fragments of glass lay quietly on the floor under human feet. Two human lives had been endangered but Fate had eagerly stepped in to save the souls for a more terrible end. And the lecture went on. They always do.

Send the Emerald to your friends.

Harry Hanson of Portland visited on the campus Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Hanson was a member of the '34 graduating class and is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

A man who visited a Chesterfield factory recently, said: "Now that I have seen Chesterfields made, I understand better than ever why people say Chesterfields are milder and have a better taste."

If you too could visit our factories you could see the clean, airy surroundings; the employees in their spotless uniforms, and the modern cigarette making machinery.

You could notice how carefully each Chesterfield cigarette is inspected and see also how Chesterfields are practically untouched by human hands.

Whenever you happen to be in Richmond, Va., Durham, N. C., or San Francisco, California, we invite you to stop at the Liggett & Myers plants and see how Chesterfields are made.
