

Reinhart Reverses Hurling Assignment For First Husky Tilt

While a general spirit of joy and carelessness will prevail over the campus starting today, Coach Bill Reinhart will be in an uneasy frame of mind oiling and placing new sparks in his nine cylinder 1935 model of Oregon's 1934 northern division baseball champions for his last drive for this year's title. At 3:30 today the streamlined Ducks buck up against the undefeated Washington Huskies on "Anonymous field."

Tired of the monotonous regularity of the Webfoots' winning the first and losing the final game of every series they've fought this season, Reinhart is sending another hurler besides Don McFadden to the slab in an effort to entice Dame Luck back to the Duck's pool.

Foulk May Twirl
The railbirds figure Herb Foulk, who has lost two conference games by one-run margins, for the call, although Jack Woodard, Cece Inman, or Earl Bucknum may open the contest.

Mickey Vail, diminutive Webfoot catcher, bruised by an unrelenting string of hit-by-pitched-balls, is favored to receive behind the bat because of his two-year experience.

Reinhart will start Harry McCall on first, Ray Koch on second, Joe Gordon on short, and Johnny Lewis on third. Outfield berths will be handled by Ralph Amato, Flit Van Vliet, and either Andy Hurney or Stump Clausen.

To date the Mallards have won three and lost three games and are stuck in third place, whereas the Washingtonians claim an uninterrupted chain of four wins and top the northwest.

Should the visitors win either of the games here at Eugene today and tomorrow, Reinhart's chance place his vehicle at the helm again are very slim. If Oregon should capture both victories, the light would shine in a different direction.

Daly for Huskies
For today's clash Coach Tubby Graves will pin his hopes on the flipper of Jack Daly or Rudy En-quist, his first-string hurlers. Barney Khols and Gil Erikson, right-handed reserve chuckers, will see action if Oregon's big guns can pound the starter from the hill.

Spotlight on the Graves squad has been hogged by Captain Wilber Hewson, shortstop, both at the bat and in the patch. The rest of the infield will be either Chuck Bond or Dick Baker on first, Len Rich on second, John Hunter on third. Roger Dawes will catch.

Pasture assignments will be given to Gil Leidecker, Ed Lovrich, and Dick Cook with Fred Galer, By Haines, and Bill Rockhill in reserve. Haines and Galer are the best fielders on the team, but they fall far behind in their hitting.

Game on Saturday
The second game will be played Saturday. McFadden will work on the mound for Oregon.

After the series with the Huskies the Mallards battle only once more at Eugene, pulling hair with the Beavers here in the last conference game on Saturday, June 1.

Washington, Washington State, and Idaho are on the slate for Oregon's six games on the road, starting May 17 at Seattle. All the games will be played over a seven-day period.

Webfoot Trackmen To Board Northern Train at Noon Today

Determined to return with several Husky pelts tucked in with their spiked shoes, Oregon's varsity track squad will leave at noon today for Seattle and the dual meet with the University of Washington Saturday. The same squad that made the trip to Pullman last week will board the train for the second northern jaunt of the year.

Col. William Hayward, Webfoot head man, has been polishing off on the training grind the last couple of days, and all the men are in the pink of condition, with the exception of "Short" Freeman, 440 flash, who is still suffering from the effects of a bad cold.

18 to Make Trip
Men who will probably make the trip are Bud Shoemaker and Walt Hopson, sprints; Howie Patterson and Freeman, quarter mile; George Scharf and Bob Ludington, half mile; Sam McGaughey and Al Johnson, milers; McGaughey and Capt. Bob Wagner, two-mile; Gardner Frye, Bob Parke, and Arne Lindgren, shot and discus; Parke and Warren Demaris, javelin; Lindgren, broad jump; Fred Nowland and Milo Lacey, hurdles; Marvin Janek, John Stolp, and Nowland, high jump; and Janek and Ken Wood, pole vault.

According to the wily Colonel Bill, the outcome of the meet is just as much of a toss-up as the Washington State heartbreaker was, only the dope in this case seems to favor the Huskies more strongly than it did the Cougars. The Duck squad is all the more determined, for this reason, to shove over a surprise on the Huskies—a bigger surprise than last year's smashing Webfoot victory here on Hayward field.

Parke, Lindgren in Weights
Oregon counts on winning a goodly number of firsts, mainly in the sprints, the half-mile, two-where they both have fair ability. Both men toss the heavy sphere out around 40 feet, and Parke has been known to sail the platter over the 130 foot mark. Parke will also try his hand—or feet—at broad jumping, an event which he specialized in before turning to the javelin.

The squad will entrain for Seattle at noon, arriving there early this evening. The meet will be run off Saturday afternoon.

Guest of Alpha Phi — June Porter and Barbara Henderson of Sacramento, California, visited last weekend at the Alpha Phi house with Miss Henderson's sister, Helen.
