Optional Fee Men Call for Roundup Meet Thursday

Workers to Make Final Drive Over State

With nearly 9,000 names filed with Oregon county clerks, optional fee leaders have confidently called a "roundup" meeting for Thursday night at the Y hut. All student petitions will be called in at that time. Granges, Townsend clubs, and rural groups will turn in their petitions during this week.

About 3000 names have been filed in Lane county but leaders are seeking an additional thousand. A crew of petition pushers will be in Portland Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and another group will be at the strawberry festival in Lebanon. Downtown streets will be worked again for the last time.

As the June 9 deadline draws near, the optionalists are speeding their petition-pushing work in an endeavor to go over the top with a good margin. Although confidence reigns, there is still some doubt as to whether or not the referendum will succeed unless zealous work is done within the next two weeks.

All students who are members of the relief committee, or are interested in optional fees are requested to be at the meeting Thursday night, bringing with them all petitions, filled or not. The committee expects to file at least 500 more names Saturday.

A. C. Morse to Speak

W. L. Morse, dean of the law school, is to speak at the Lowell high school graduation today and at Elkton high, May 31.
