Webfoots To Battle UCLA Bruins Today

Oregon Team Awaiting Los Angeles Gun

Southerners Heavy Favorites to Crush Ducks; DePittard to Start at Left Half

By PAT FRIZZELL
 Oregon's determined Webfoot football team will attempt to halt the Rose Bowl rush of UCLA's rampaging Bruins in the latter's Westwood laid at Los Angeles this afternoon.

Time for the opening kick-off is 2:30 p. m. and at stake are Oregon's hopes for a share of the Pacific coast conference crown. Students here will live and breathe the ups and downs of their favorite gridiron warriors through the medium of radio.

Oregon Men Workout
 The Webfoots barged into the city of the Angels yesterday, frisked through a brief workout, and were pronounced ready to go places and do things against the Bruins, who also put on finishing touches with a final drill.

Their 7-6 upset win over mighty Stanford brought Bill Spaulding's Uclans into the limelight all over the land, and on the strength of that astounding triumph and an earlier 20-to-7 conquest of Oregon State, the wildmen of Westwood are top-heavy favorites to smother the Ducks today. A poll of United Press sports writers found eleven picking the Bruins to one lonely supporter of Oregon.

Webfoots Undismayed
 Such odds bother Prink Callison and his lads not the least bit, and the Webfoots can be counted upon to give Chuck Cheshire, Ted Key and the rest of the UCLA big guns all the battle they ask.

Oregon stock has risen rapidly since the recovery of Bud Goodin, for should the sprightly sophomore left halfback be able to play it will make all the difference in the world in the Webfoot offense. How much action Goodin will see is problematical, but the plucky lad is almost certain to get in for a while.

Lasselle Out
 With Dale Lasselle left behind due to a shoulder ailment and Goodin not expected to start, first string duties at the all-important left half post will fall to Romey DePittard, whose marked improvement the past two weeks has established him as one of the best men on the squad. DePittard is a first-class blocker and hits the line like the proverbial ton of lead.

Frank Michek, who has averaged close to four yards every time he has carried the ball this year; Bob Braddock, ball packing star of the Idaho game, and reliable Johnny Reischman will complete Oregon's backfield quartet.

Riordan to Captain Team

The right half of the Webfoot forward wall, almost as outstanding, will see Budd Jones at right end, Ken Skinner at right tackle, and Tony Amato at right guard. Callison has not yet definitely decided between Ed Farrar and Sophomore Vernon Moore at center, but both are sure to see service during the course of the struggle.

Cheshire Leads Bruins
 Cheshire, whose dynamic dashes put the Bruins in position to beat Stanford, and big Ted Key, whose 200-pound frame plunged over for the touchdown and then added the extra point, are the men the Ducks must watch. Cheshire plays left half with Key who is stationed at fullback. Fred Funk, right half, and Remington Olmstead, quarterback, are other Bruin backfield stars. Both are veterans.

Now about the participants themselves . . . The Uclans, judging from reports in southern papers, see the Oregon team as a barrier to the gates of the Rose Bowl. Sort of a low hurdle, think the players, if I am any judge of pigskin parlance . . . Coach Spaulding is really leery of the Webfoots. He compares the height of the climb over them unto the pole vault.

The opinions of the 32 footballers, who went south from here, give their team an even chance . . . Coach Callison and staff have an idea that the Bruins' physical strength is overrated.

I'll cast my unauthoritative, but enthusiastic, vote in favor of an Oregon victory, by at least a 13 point margin. I don't think UCLA is as strong as the win column shows. Yardage statistics, in the Stanford game, particularly, show that their victories must come from a powerful fighting spirit and the will to hold on with their backs to the goalposts . . . They are bound to run short on inroads one of these days. . . Also let us all pray that the L.A. Jinx is late for the party.

The outweighed Huskies, in meeting Stanford, face a team flooded with potential All-Americans who will be just barely good enough to drop them from the ranks of the undefeated. That is, if By Haines is chained to the goalpost . . . Upon second thought, Washington, sans chains, is 10 points weaker than the Cards. That's final!

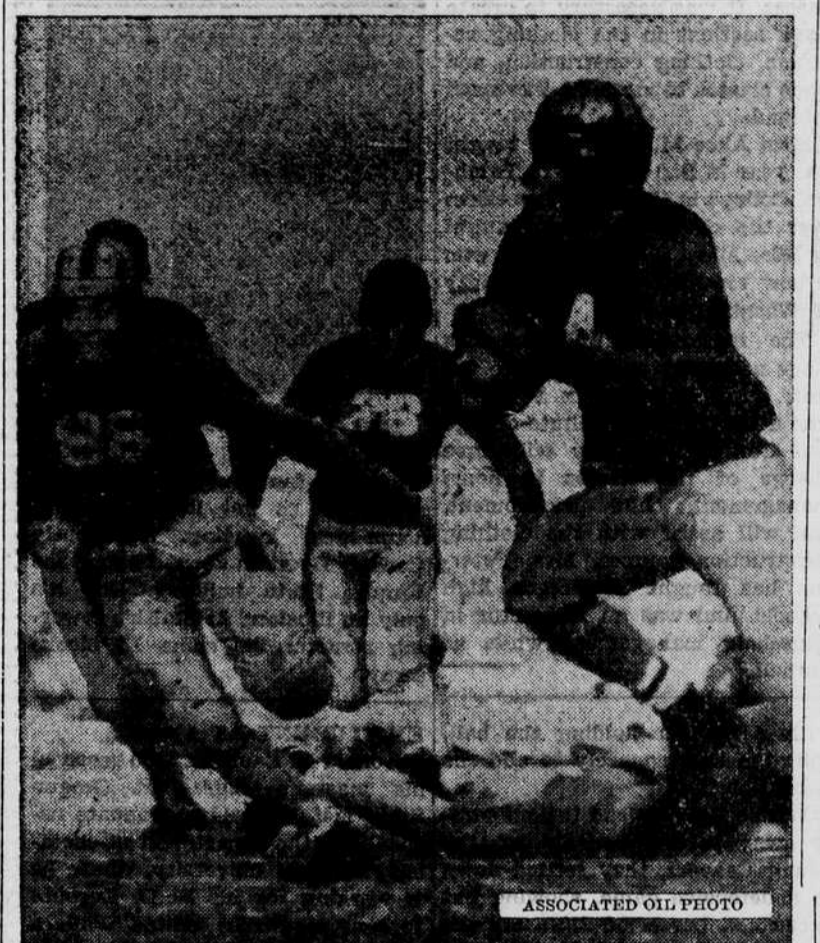

Elsewhere in the conference . . . Portland: The Beaver pelts the Cougar but really has to strain in doing it . . . Berkeley: California's powerful defensive and smooth offensive aren't enough in evidence to stave off a wild fighting Trojan machine which writes UPSET into Sunday's headlines . . . Moscow: The loss of Fullback Sundberg of Idaho gives the Grizzlies from Missoula too big a break not to capitalize on it.

Jumping the Rockies we find the following winners: Army over Yale, Rice over Texas, Texas Christian over Centenary, Dartmouth over Harvard, Notre Dame over Navy; Princeton over Cornell; Columbia over Michigan, Holy Cross over Colgate, Villanova over Detroit, Pittsburgh over Penn State, Chicago over Wisconsin, Ohio State over Indiana, Nebraska over Oklahoma, Georgetown over N.Y.U., and Marquette over Mississippi.

EX-'29 PASSES EXAM
 Adrian T. "Toby" Burris, ex-'29, has passed the examination of the state board of California for undertakers and embalmers with the highest grade in a class of 70. Mr. Burris now has a position with a Los Angeles mortuary and has moved to his new location.

DOROTHY PARKS TEACHES
 Dorothy M. Parks, ex-'35, is teaching English in the high school at Port Orford. She also has charge of the glee club and dramatics. Miss Parks was outstanding in dramatic productions here.

In Shadow of Goal Posts

 If you can't go through, you have to go around. That was the case last Saturday when Santa Clara was downed by California, 6 to 0. The Bear line was unyielding, so the Broncos skirted the ends for their long gains. Here Gomez, Santa Clara halfback, is off on a fourteen-yard run that put the ball on California's 17-yard line, the closest the Broncos came to a touchdown.

The plans have been completed and are now open for bids on construction.

UCLA Has 6-Game Streak
 Bill Spaulding's crew has won six consecutive games since its loss to Stanford a year ago. Two triumphs over Oregon State, and one each at the expense of St. Mary's, Stanford, Loyola and the Utah Aggies are included in the Bruins' list of conquests. Probable starting lineups for this afternoon's game follow:

 Bjork LT Stawisky
 Carter LG Hastings
 Farrar C Chavoort
 Amato RG Sargent
 Skinner RT Dickerson
 Jones RE Schroeder
 Reischman Q Olmstead

Hobson Calls Varsity Out

Initial Workouts Monday at 4 p. m.

Candidates for Oregon's 1935-36 varsity basketball team will swing into action of McArthur court's polished floor Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

"Five positions are wide open," Coach Howard Hobson said yesterday, which means that, despite the wealth of lettermen and transfers on hand, every man who turns out will have a chance.

The new Webfoot hoop tutor went on to point out that the transfers from Southern Oregon normal and other schools of junior college standing had not proved their worth in coast conference play and that there is no certainty that they will make the grade.

A man need not have varsity or freshman experience behind him to crash the Webfoot squad. Last year's intramural players will have every opportunity to make the team, Hobson believes. To put it in the ex-SONS and Benson tech mentor's own words, "The more that turn out the better."

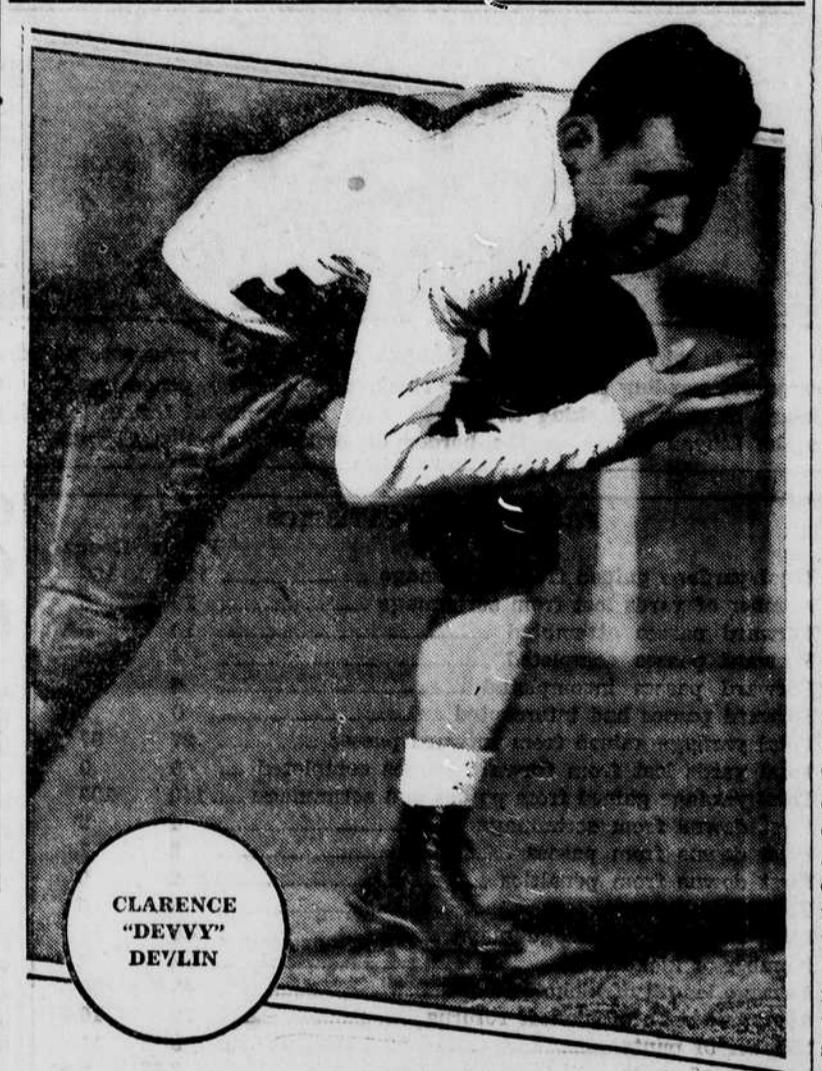

All aspirants for the team except lettermen must furnish their own equipment Monday. No equipment will be issued to any player until he positively demonstrates his worth.

The only statement Hobson has to make about Oregon's chances of capturing the northern division championship is that the Webfoots will be "dark horses." His system, he explains, will be new to most of the basketballers and may be hard to learn.

One thing is definite about Hobson's team and that is that it will play fast, colorful ball. Every crew "Hobbie" has ever coached has.

Included in a promising schedule of pre-season games being lined up for the Ducks will be several in California. Hobson plans to take the squad to San Francisco during the Christmas holidays.

Caswell Revises Physics Book

The revision of the book, "Outline of Physics" by A. E. Caswell, professor of physics, is nearly completed and will go to press sometime near the middle of November, the author said yesterday.

Reorganization of material and minor technical changes are introduced in the revision.

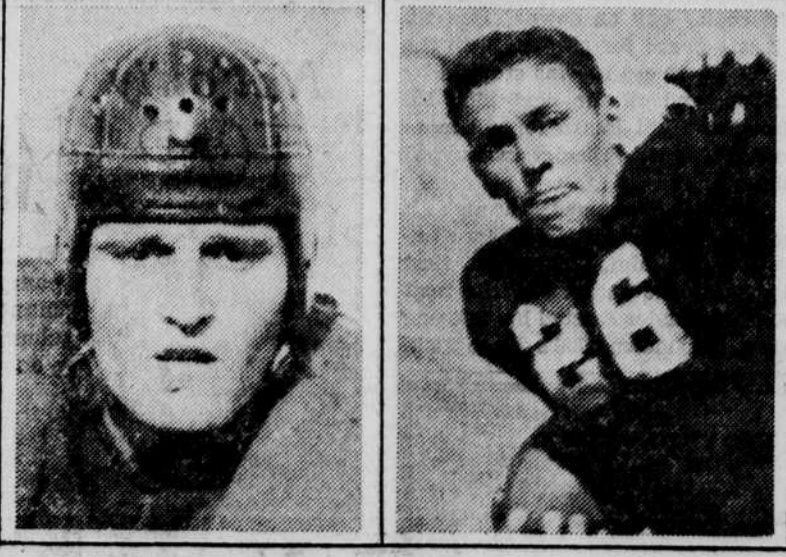

Later developments in the field have also added to the regular material in the book.

YWCA Fireside Group to Meet

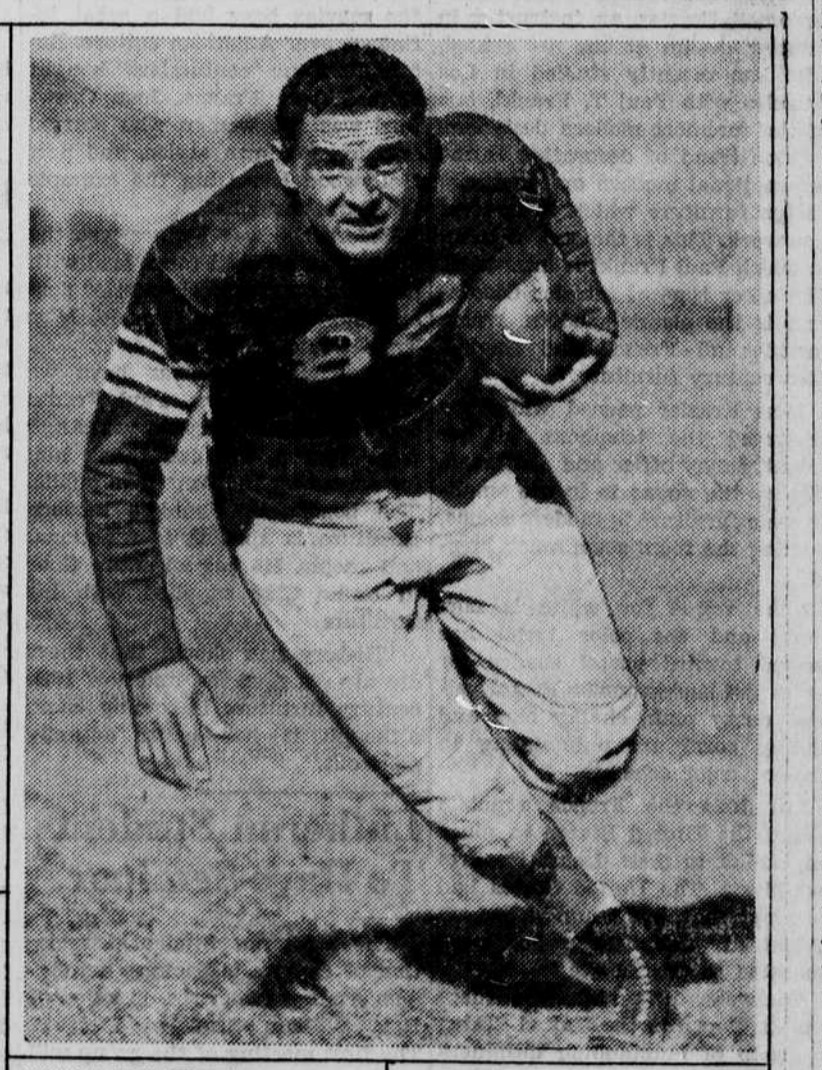

The fireside group of the YWCA will meet at the bungalow at 4 p. m. Sunday. Thelma Nelson, leader of the group, announced yesterday that the topic of discussion will be campus activities.

The informal discussion group is offered for those campus women who find their weekly schedule too filled to attend the discussion during the week. All campus women are invited to attend the fireside.

Chief Actors in Today's Grid Games

Trying to stop the Rice Owls, Charley Johnston, upper left, will catch signals for the University of Texas in the big game of the south-west at Austin. Right, Woody Huddleston, 160 pound Choctaw Indian, is a sophomore halfback of Oklahoma who promises to stir up trouble for Nebraska at Lincoln. Below, left to right, are Chris Dal Sassa, Indiana tackle, through whom Ohio State Employees are likely to find the going tough at Bloomington; John (Doodlebug) Bond, co-captain and halfback of Georgia, who threatens to show Alabama a little fancy running at Athens; Fred Funk, a UCLA halfback whom Oregon must watch in Los Angeles; and Louis B. Robertshaw, Navy's great center whom Notre Dame no doubt will know is present in Baltimore.

Sigma Nu Wins Water Polo Contest 4 to 1

Sigma Chi Unable to Score in Second Half After Playing Well in First Period

Today's Water Polo Schedule:
 Phi Gamma Delta vs. Gamma hall, 4:00 p. m.
 Beta Chi Pi vs. Zeta hall, 4:30 p. m.
 Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Sigma hall, 5:00 p. m.

Two water polo stars, Koskelo and Barclay, both members of the Sigma Nu team, last night combined efforts to defeat a strong Sigma Chi outfit by a 4 to 1 score. The millracers were held scoreless during the first half, but with the opening of the second their attack sparked to the extent of scoring of four sensational goals. Meanwhile, they limited the Sigma Chis to a single marker.

Gridley, Sigma Chi left guard, in the opening half broke through the Sigma Nu defense with a weird shot, that completely baffled Robinson, the Sigma Nu goalie. After that neither team could break through the other's defense in this half, until the rest period.

Sigma Nu Scores Four Times
 At the opening of the second half, Barclay slammed a vicious shot into the Sigma Chi net which Johnson, the goalie, missed by inches. Barclay's teammate, Koskelo, then shot another hard pass past the player it was intended for and it also went into the net by virtue of a fluke shot.

The next goal was scored by Koskelo who whizzed one into the Sweetheart net. To add to Johnson's evident discomfiture Barclay made matters safe by scoring the final goal of the evening.

Lineups:
 Sigma Nu
 Dungan RE Rooney
 Koskelo LF Edwards
 Barclay CF Eaton
 Knapp RG Nicholson
 Meyers LG Gridley
 Olsen CG Amato
 Robinson G Johnson

Swim Group

 Using the backstroke, Molly Cunningham qualified in the fast time of 31.3.

Other winners swimming the crawl stroke, were: Gretchen Smith, Elizabeth Onthank, Ruth Stanley, Betty Reich, Jean Taylor, Joella Myer, Alice Morris, Alice Rogers, and June Powell. Louise Pursley used the English overhand in her speed trials, the only girl to qualify as an Amphibian with that stroke.

Other Tryouts to Be Held
 Thursday's trials are the only ones which will be held this term. A large number of girls missed qualifying by a small margin and it has been decided to hold tryouts during both the winter and spring terms because of this.

The committee in charge of the tryouts was composed of Elaine Goodell, Eileen Moore, Olive Lewis, Jane Chapler, Jean Stevenson, Jean Favier, and Marion Smith.

FORMER STUDENTS WED
