NORTHWEST FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS DESERVE EMBLEMS OF VICTORY

CARTER, RIORDAN GET BIDS TO PLAY FOR BROOKLYN NEXT YEAR

Quacks

By TOM McCALL

Sport writers of the Pacific coast, almost to a man, saw fit to omit the names of Oregon's Ross Carter and Stan Riordan from their all star selections. In doing this they erred horribly. No lesser personages than Lou Stiner, mentor in chief for the Beaver football legion, and Coach Paul Schissler of the Brooklyn Dodgers of professional football circles proved that.

Stiner bucked the opinion of the scribes by placing Carter and Riordan on his all-coast first team and Del Bjork on the second string.

Here's what the Oregon State Barometer has to say about it:

"The two Webfoot linemen, Carter and Riordan, were responsible more than anyone else on the Oregon team for the downfall of the Staters. Especially potent medicine was Riordan with his uncanny kicking out of bounds in the coffin corners, Stiner said."

Coach Schissler of the Dodgers sent two nice, newsy letters to Carter and Riordan, earlier this week. In the missives was an invitation for each of the lads to join up with Brooklyn for the 1936 season.

The Dodgers are the richest club in big time football, and they are carrying on an intensive team building program in which the theory behind the recruiting is that the pen is flightier than the scout.

Harry McCallum Builds Oregon Geological Model

A typical portrayal of the topography of eastern Oregon during its geologic periods can be seen in the model of "Progress of Erosion" in Condon hall. The project was constructed by Harry McCallum, geography major, for use in the laboratories of both geology and geography. It is particularly of value to the class which is studying flood control of the Willamette river.

"It serves its purpose better than any other device I have ever seen," commented J. C. Stovall, professor of geography.

The model itself simulates all things found in nature. It was originally a flat bed of fire clay and gumbo, with patches of moss to indicate the differences in vegetation. Fine sprays of water have been kept going continually for about two weeks, with surprising developments.

A master stream has formed nearly in the center, which has developed out of several smaller streams. At the mouth of this larger stream is a delta which spreads out into the "bay." In the background, the gumbo, which is more resistant to erosion than the fire clay, has formed rim rock much like that in the eastern part of the state.

Stream "piracy" has taken place, leaving dry falls. The "piracy" is the act of the bed of a stream being caught up in another, leaving the dry bed and "falls" at the mouth of the original course of water. Examples of dry falls can be found near Bandon, Oregon, and in the Grand Coulee district.

The model for demonstration is in charge of Dr. Warren D. Smith and Professor Stovall.

Oregon Hoop Team to Play SONS Tonight

Ashland Normal Five Invades McArthur Court for Final Fray of Term Here

Oregon's Webfoot basketballers, victorious over Multnomah club in their initial pre-season game Wednesday, will face the Sons of Southern Oregon normal at McArthur court tonight. Opening tip-off is set for 7:30.

The SONS, coached for the past two years by Oregon's new mentor, Howard Hobson, are this year tutored by Jean Eberhart, Webfoot star center a few seasons ago. Eberhart performed and starred for the Riggs' Service Station quintet which edged out the Ducks in a practice tilt last Saturday, so he has a line on what to expect tonight.

SONS Boast Bvy of Stars
Southern Oregon normal always has a colorful crew of hoop luminaries, and this year's aggregation at the Ashland institution is no exception.

Two former Franklin high athletes, Arba Ager and Darrell Leavens, both of whom starred on the Quaker state tournament team two years ago, are working under Eb-erhart this winter. From the Ashland high team which placed fourth in last year's state tourney the Sons have Bob Hardy, beanpole center, and Bill Hoxie, tall and clever guard. Lyle Reeder, a regular for the Sons two years ago, is back this season at one of the forward posts.

Webfoots Shine Individually
The Webfoots looked good individually in the Multnomah club contest, but as a team their play was a bit ragged. Flaws which are only normal in early season competition were apparent, but, all in all, the lads made a good showing in crushing the vaunted Winged-M outfit.

Constantly the Ducks were sifting through the club's defense for close-in shots. Great scoring potentiality was shown as Hobson's assortment of fast-breaking plays were put to trial. Outstanding in Oregon's play was the consistency with which the team took the ball off the backboards.

Patterson, Jones to Start
Only two Webfoots are certain of starting tonight's tussle. "Pat" Patterson, Jones to start.

Betas Enter Finals With Sigma Hall

Phi Delta Theta Wins From ATO 'B' Team; Sigma Phi Epsilon Beats Sigma Hall

Only a great come-back saved the Beta "A" volleyball team from defeat at the hands of an outscored, but not outclassed ATO outfit in the feature attraction of last night's intramurals. Sensational playing on the part of both teams kept the scores fairly even but the Betas carried too much power in the pinches.

After winning the first game fairly easily by a 15-3 score, the ATO team came back with a rush to take the second game by a 15-7 score. In the play-off, or extra game, the Betas managed things easily to win by 15-6 score.

Through the winning of this game, the Betas went into the finals of the tournament with Sigma hall, who won their game from Sigma Chi.

All of the Betas played good ball but the outstanding man for ATO was Bob Avison, who time and time again started his team on their rallies.

Sigma Hall Beats Sigma Chi
In the other semi-finals game in the "A" league, Sigma hall kept up its sensational winning streak of not having lost a game, so far, in the tournament by beating Sigma Chi in two very tame affairs. The scores of the two games were 15-8 and 15-9. Bill Shepherd and Worth Chaney were the individual stars for the winners while Ralph Amato and Eddie Vail were good for the Sigma Chi team.

SPE Team in Finals
By taking two straight games from Sigma hall "B" aggregation, Sigma Phi Epsilon was enabled to enter into the finals.

Bill Hutchison Is Tennis Champ

Fiji Downs Vaughn In Straight Sets

Bill Hutchison, stubby racquet wielder of the Fiji house, was crowned champion of the all-campus singles tennis tournament yesterday. He downed Bob Vaughn, a pledge to Delta Upsilon in straight sets by scores of 6-3, 6-3, and 6-4.

In reviewing the tourney, Hutchison stated that his toughest match was played against Al Finke, who took the first set, and was rapidly talking the second, when "Hutch" rallied to win the second and third. Scores of this match were 3-6, 6-3, and 6-2.

A recent poll of Barnard college freshmen shows that a Phi Epsilon key is a 17-to-1 favorite ambition as against "siren of the stag line."

Alpha Delta Pi Defeats Thetas

27 to 26 Win Gives Girls Entrance to Semi-Finals

That Alpha Delta Pi will play in the girls' intramural volleyball semi-finals, was decided Thursday evening, when they defeated Kappa Alpha Theta.

After a hard and swift struggle Alpha Delta Pi scored 27 and Theta 26. The teams met to play off the tie made earlier in the season.

It was not until after a continuous struggle that Alpha Delta Pi was termed victor. Both sides played excellent team work, but especially outstanding for alertness and swift plays was Gretchen Smith, A D Pi.

Theta gave them a good fight, which kept the score close throughout the entire game. At the half A D Pi scored 12 and Theta 10, but during the last half, Theta stepped in the lead for a few plays, but not of sufficient strength to down their opponents.
