STAGE of the WORLD

By Tex Thomason

Flub-Dub

Across the stage of the world from now on will scamper characters in many scenes other than political. Being confined to such is not to this column's taste.

Since the time you left to go home and sing carols, tenderly gave gifts to father purchased with his money, and grew misty-eyed over the tale of the poor Italians having to forego the pleasure of Christmas trees, many things have transpired.

F. D. R.

On these latter three events several observations are in order. The President made a great political speech. It was the Democratic call to arms for 1936.

Cunga Din

As for the Republican clamor. It is arising from a swamp infested with animals of particularly vicious nature. As maddened elephants hunt tobacco donors they are on the trail of that elusive Republican nomination.

U O Delegates to Student Convention in East Return

The University of Oregon was well represented with eight delegates at the student volunteer convention, held in Indianapolis, Indiana, December 28 to January 1.

Little Colonel Will Be Chosen By Vote Today

Winner Gets Trophy At Military Ball Saturday Night; Ballots in Emerald.

Seven fair candidates for the "Little Colonelship" of the Scabbard and Blade military ball will receive their final testing today when the campus votes to decide who will be queen of military men Saturday night at Gerlinger hall.

Voting will be done by means of Emerald ballots, to be turned in at the rear of the College Side any time from 9 to 5 today. Votes must be signed and will be checked upon being received.

The following candidates, selected out of a group of 17 by a semi-final campus vote December 6, are eligible to become the Little Colonel: Elaine Sorensen, Alpha Gamma Delta; Marjorie Gearhart, Kappa Alpha Theta; Kay Skalet, Hendricks hall; Betty Pownall, Pi Beta Phi; Rhoda Armstrong, Chi Omega; Hannah Crossley, Alpha Phi; Rosemary O'Donnell, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

To Award Trophy

The lucky winner will be presented with a handsome trophy, in the form of a victory figure, it was announced yesterday by Bill Paddock and Alan Wall, co-chairmen of the dance. This trophy will be the exclusive property of the Little Colonel chosen today.

Formals will be the correct dress for girls at this dance. Tuxedos, dark suits, or officers' uniforms are in order for the boys. Corsages are also in order.

"Everyone on the campus may come to this military ball," explained Bill Paddock, in commenting upon the fact that many of the students thought the dance was invitational or closed.

Fireside to Start New Term for YW

The freshman program for the new year to which all freshman women on the campus are invited, will be introduced by the YWCA at a fireside at Gerlinger hall, Wednesday, January 15 from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

Four groups are planned for this term: "Study of Personality Development as Seen in Current Biographies," "Vocations Open to College Women," "Community Service Projects," and "Race Relations."

Ted Shawn Hits at Modern Dancing As Stupid; Hands Praise to Old Fashioned Dance

Amoeba-Like Intelligence Sufficient To Perform in Present Nightspots, Claim of Nationally Famous Artist

Dancing as seen in most of the ballrooms and night spots of America today "is the most stupid and lowest form of dancing that we have ever had in the history of the world," said Ted Shawn, director of the Ted Shawn men dancers who performed in McArthur Court last night.

Mr. Shawn said that the so-called social dancing of today is "anti-social." He explained that a boy and a girl go to a dance together today and walk around the floor to a "time-beat" pounded out by a jazz band and don't say a word all evening.

Never More Stupid

"Dancing has never been more stupid in the history of the world, I know," said Mr. Shawn. He stated that dancing has degenerated to its lowest form, until now anyone can "dance," as it is called today.

Mr. Shawn said there is some excuse for this state of affairs, however. One of the main reasons for the condition of the ballroom dancing today is the lack of room. "Two of the most beautiful forms of social dancing ever known, the waltz and the tango, were literally crowded to death," said the famous dancer.

Old Fashioned Ones Praised

He said many of the old fashioned dances were really social dances. The boy went to the dance with a girl, but danced with every girl there during the course of the dance.

of the patterns of the dance then. Four or so couples danced together, not just one.

Mr. Shawn explained that one of the greatest reasons for Fred Astaire's success on stage and screen was his preliminary, sound training in the ballet. Astaire incorporated much that he learned in this training in his steps today and that is what makes them particularly interesting, said Mr. Shawn.

Shawn Enjoys Tappers

"Tap-dancing, as far as the sound is concerned, has an irreducible amount of rhythm," said Mr. Shawn. "It has only a pronounced time beat." He explained that he enjoys watching Bill Robinson and Fred Astaire dance, that they are masters in their field.

In his talk in the afternoon Mr. Shawn said that he was because

Work on New Libe Ahead of Schedule

Second Floor Forms Now Ready for Cement

During the vacation of two weeks the first floor of the new library building was poured and forms placed for the concrete of the second story.

In spite of adverse weather conditions remarkable progress has been made in the last three weeks. During this time all of the cement pouring has been done with the exception of the first floor west side slab, which was poured first to be used as a base.

The men at this time are about a week ahead of schedule and are steadily gaining time in spite of the fact that the new addition on the east side took three weeks from the scheduled time.

The forms that are in use will be left in place until all of the pouring is completed. When the forms are torn down, brick veneering work will begin.

The pouring of the walls and ceiling of the second floor will begin the latter part of this week.

Because the height of the building is increasing the workmen are now using a large power hoist to lift all building materials to the base of the third floor. One of the total of 75 men is kept busy all of the time at the controls of the crane and elevator for cement.

The tunnel that is being dug to Kincaid street from the construction site is now being piped for sewage disposal.

ASUO Drive Sales Reach 1380 for Week

Finley and Paddock Lead Membership Campaign; 1934 Ticket Mark Surpassed

With approximately 1380 ASUO tickets already sold in less than a week, Craig Finley and Bill Paddock, co-chairmen of the winter term ASUO ticket sales, opened the second part of their drive by appointment of a huge committee comprising members of every living organization on the campus.

The committee will meet today at 3:30 at the College Side. Finley and Paddock pointed out that the tickets sold so far represent 56.4 per cent of the students enrolled at the University this term compared with 53.7 per cent as the total sales for last winter term. This is due in part, they said, to the increasing interest in the fine showing Oregon's basketball team has made on its present road trip.

"We are not approaching ticket sales this year on the cry of school spirit or such," Finley said, "but as a business like proposition of selling students $11.15 worth of entertainment and value for $5.00. (Please turn to page four)"

YMCA Hits Vote On 'Little Colonel'

Election to Popularize Militarism, Group Says

Organized opposition to the Little Colonel election blossomed out yesterday when the YMCA council unanimously voted a resolution condemning such "activities which tend to popularize or increase militarism on the campus."

Lengthy discussion on Scabbard and Blade's dance publicity stunt brought no tangible result in the Young Women's council last week. No vote was taken and opinion seemed evenly divided.

The YMCA's resolution severely scored Scabbard and Blade's action. "The proposed Little Colonel election appears to us to be, however honorable, the motive prompting it, part of a general program of the war department to popularize militarism. We go on record as opposing any such plan," the resolution concluded.

Band Concert Set For January 19

The University of Oregon band will appear in concert in McArthur court Sunday afternoon, January 19, at 2 p. m.

The band has one of the finest concert series ever presented on this campus to offer. John Stehn has said of this year's band that it contains the finest assembly of talent ever gathered at the University of Oregon.

For this reason a greater than usual latitude is possible in the musical presentations.

Classes will be dismissed for the chancellor's speech which will be given at the first administration assembly of winter term.

Dr. Hunter's address will develop a second phase of his theory of education. "The Practical Value of Education" was his topic of his first student talk after his selection as chancellor of the Oregon state system of higher education. President C. Valentine Boyer will preside at today's meeting.

AWS Meeting Set For Wednesday

The AWS meeting scheduled for yesterday afternoon has been postponed until Wednesday, January 15, at 4 o'clock in Gerlinger hall. The Thespians are freshman women chosen each year by the living organizations on the campus to represent that organization in the freshman service honorary.

Students Enjoy Ted Shawn Dancers in Series Opener

Ted Shawn and his company of eight dancers held their audience with a remarkable power of sheer strength, grace, and beauty in interpretation of their mastery of Terpsichorean art last night in McArthur court, when they opened the winter artist series of concerts of the Associated Students.

Composed of beautiful numbers and solos by Shawn himself, the program consisted of dances derived from purely masculine sources, rhythms of labor and sports, primitive dances, religious themes, humorous numbers, and "music visualizations" of great classic composers.

Opening with Music Visualizations, interpretations of Brahms, Bach and other composers, the troupe conditioned the audience for the superb program which followed by a prelude of the modern dance intertwined with ballet technique.

Smith's Book Well Received

Professor S. Stephenson Smith has received word from his publishers that his book, "The Command of Words," brought out late last fall will be put into the second printing soon.

The first printing of the first edition contained 2000 copies, practically all of which have been sold. His book has been the subject for favorable comment throughout the country, including a review in the book section of the New York Times.

Professor Smith says that the only changes in this printing will be a few minor corrections in typographical errors.

Perhaps the most popular group was "Primitive and Folk Themes", a rich collection of character numbers. Three Japanese Ricksaw Coolies pleased the audience with their quaint humor. The pure strength of Shawn's "Invocation to the Thunderbird" to the music of Sousa's "Redman" seemed to catch the audience's fancy. A wild burst of applause followed its dramatic climax. "Turkey in the Straw," danced by Wilbur McCormack, The French Soldier, danced by Barton Mumaw were easily and gracefully performed as Shawn's Spear Dance, Messrs. Hearn and Fitzsimons "Camel Boys" were wild and terrible. (Please turn to page three)
